2/C

Covering many facets of Japanese culture, this course will focus on the various periods of Japanese history (Jomon, Yayoi, Kofun, and Heian – to name a few) and uncover how many aspects of Japanese culture were shaped. From the influence from nearby countries – most notably China – to its isolationist periods, its mythology, the evolution of its art, the deep-seated love of nature shared by many Japanese, and the co-existence of multiple belief systems, Japan is a truly unique country whose culture continues to gain in popularity within the United States. Taught entirely in English.

While this is a two-part course, Japanese Culture Before 1600 (JPN 25100) will not act as a prerequisite for Japanese Culture Since 1600 (JPN 25200).

2/C

It has been contended that religious beliefs about the natural and moral order, as well those concerning human nature, lie at the foundation of the idea of human rights. Some histories of human rights even begin with a survey of the teachings of various major religious traditions. And, as the idea of, and movements for, international human rights swept the globe in the latter parts of the 20th century, scholars and religious thinkers examined and assessed the confluence of the world's religious systems of thought, conscience, and belief with the norms and standards of the human rights project. Yet, even as religious thinkers and leaders contribute significantly to human rights movements around the world, some human rights norms—for example, those prohibiting gender- or religion-based discrimination, prohibitions on certain forms of punishment—seem to conflict head on with the strictures of various religions. This course will examine these various intersections.

BIOL 10500 - Introduction to Genome Biology

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)

A genome is the total genetic content of an organism. Driven by breakthroughs such as the decoding of the first human genome and rapid DNA-sequencing technologies, biomedical sciences are undergoing a rapid and profound transformation into a highly data-intensive field, which requires familiarity with concepts in both biology and computer science. Genome information is revolutionizing virtually all aspects of biology and medicine and will lead to major advances such as more efficient production of renewable energy, better cures for cancers, and longer and healthier life expectancy. This course will introduce genome-sequencing technologies, explore hundreds of genome projects online, and discuss both the benefits and challenges (e.g., ethical and legal) of the genomic revolution to society.

GER
GER 2/E with lab

An introductory laboratory course for non-biology majors. This lecture/laboratory course will cover the techniques used by forensic scientists to analyze a crime scene, and the biological concepts behind them. Through the topics that are covered, students will learn how biological evidence like fingerprints, hair, blood, and DNA are collected, analyzed, and presented as evidence to solve crimes.

Required for this course is a 10 minutes PowerPoint presentation in groups in four students. In order to prepare for the presentation, a two page outline from each student is expected. In addition, a group assignment of less than 5 pages long will be assigned as preparation of the presentation. This assignment helps students prepare for a "crime scene" that will be designed by the group using the topics and materials provided in class. Further research for this project is encouraged using library materials or the WWW to provide supplemental information, ideas and images. The laboratory component of the course requires that students record their data, observations, and answer discussion questions (in a short answer format). The completion of their laboratory manual will constitute part of the laboratory grade.

PGEOG 13000 (STEM) - Weather and Climate

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

Offers a basic understanding of how weather systems form, why certain regions have particular types of weather patterns, and what is known about climatic fluctuations across the globe. This includes an understanding of the basic physical principals that determine: how hot or cold a particular location is; how seasonal cycles vary in different parts of the world; and the types and amounts of precipitation. Students learn to analyze several types of weather maps and acquire a basic understanding of central issues related to global climate change, one of the most significant environmental issues of our time.

MATH 10400 (STEM) - Mathematics for Elementary Education I

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Fundamental and relevant mathematics as recommended by the NCTM for prospective elementary school teachers, including problem solving, sets, logic, numeration, computation, integers and number theory. Required of students planning to teach in elementary schools. Not open to other students.

prereq: grade of C or better in MATH 10100 or MATH 101EN or appropriate score on the placement exam
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 12500 (STEM) - Precalculus

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Functions and their graphs: polynomial, rational, exponential, logarithmic and trigonometric functions; conic sections; topics in trigonometry; graphical and analytical solutions to systems of equations and inequalities. Not credited to students who have completed MATH 15000 or its equivalent.

prereq: grade of C or better in MATH 10100 or appropriate score on placement exam
4 hrs
4 cr.

MATH 15000 (STEM) - Calculus I

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Limits, continuity, differentiation and integration of elementary functions and trigonometric functions, applications.

MATH 15500 (STEM) - Calculus II

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Differentiation and integration of transcendental functions, integration techniques, infinite sequences and series, improper integrals, polar coordinates.

prereq: grade of C or better in MATH 15000

STAT 11300 - Elementary Probability and Statistics

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Not open to students who have completed STAT 21300 (STEM) or PSYCH 24800. Not credited for majors in statistics or mathematics unless minor is elementary education. An introduction to applied statistics and statistical computing. Hands-on data analysis. Graphical inference. The five number summary, box plots, scatterplots, normal probability plots. Elementary probability. Statistical estimation and hypothesis testing. Linear regression. Students are expected to analyze real data sets and write reports. Students who have taken calculus or place into calculus by the placement exam should take STAT 21300 instead of STAT 11300.

prereq: A grade of C or better in MATH 10100 or MATH 101EN or appropriate score on placement exam

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000

STAT 21200 - Discrete Probability

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Combinations, permutations, discrete probability. Characteristics of probability distributions. Model building. Additional topics like sampling, random walks or game theory will be introduced from time to time.

prereq: MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or STAT 11300 or appropriate score on placement exam.

STAT 21300 (STEM) - Introduction to Applied Statistics

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
Sampling, estimation, tests of hypotheses, including one-and two-sample tests, two- and three-way tables for nominal and ordinal data, linear regression, analysis of variance through two-way with interaction, appropriate statistical software.

prereq: MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or appropriate score on placement exam

BIOL 12500 (STEM) - Human Biology

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E w/ lab

An introductory lecture/laboratory course for non-biology majors. BIOL 12500 explores the biology that underlies current health and disease topics (including diabetes, cancer, heart disease, sexually transmitted diseases, and nutrition). Using this topics approach, the course provides a survey of human anatomy and physiological function, along with the biological principles of genetics and cellular interactions that comprise our current understanding of the human organism. Laboratory exercises will introduce students to a scientific approach in studying human disease and physiology.

BIOL 15000 (STEM) - CSI: HUNTER (Forensic Biology)

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
GER
GER 2/E with lab

An introductory laboratory course for non-biology majors. This lecture/laboratory course will cover the techniques used by forensic scientists to analyze a crime scene, and the biological concepts behind them. Through the topics that are covered, students will learn how biological evidence like fingerprints, hair, blood, and DNA are collected, analyzed, and presented as evidence to solve crimes. Required for this course is a 10 minutes PowerPoint presentation in groups in four students. In order to prepare for the presentation, a two page outline from each student is expected. In addition, a group assignment of less than 5 pages long will be assigned as preparation of the presentation. This assignment helps students prepare for a "crime scene" that will be designed by the group using the topics and materials provided in class. Further research for this project is encouraged using library materials or the WWW to provide supplemental information, ideas and images. The laboratory component of this course requires that students record their data, observations, and answer discussion questions (in a short answer format). The completion of their laboratory manual will constitute part of the laboratory grade.

6 hrs
4.5 cr.
spring only

BIOL 17500 - Choreographing Genomics

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)

This course uses postmodern dance to model biological processes. It is an introductory biology course for non-majors studies in the biological science of molecular genome information through readings, quantitative assignments, movement exercises and artistic lenses. Students explore a detailed examination of heredity and cancer with a focus on contributions of DNA. Students are expected to articulate gene information flow through problem solving, written assignments, oral contributions, and movement forms. Topics covered include the definition of a gene, recombination of genes, the central dogma of genetic flow in a biological system, the 1:1 Pair Rule (Chargaff's rules), DNA sequencing, functional genomics and the relationships of genes to cancer and heredity, as well as ethical issues in medicine.
Each student is in charge of their own body and must recognize that they will have to use their body for assignments and in class participation work.
Students will be required to talk and move in class (comfortable clothes, flat shoes or bare feet, and a yoga mat are required).
Students will have reflective assignments that include written work.
Students will be required to develop visual and movement-based models.

Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

This is an introductory, one-semester physics course designed for non-science majors. It minimizes the use of mathematics, beyond simple addition, multiplication, subtraction and division. The course will meet three hours per week in lecture. The contents are the lecture material of the existing PHYS 101 LC course. Topics include: Newton's laws of motion, linear motion and falling objects, momentum, energy, rotational motion, gravity, atomic structure, liquids, gases, heat, vibrations and waves, sound, electrostatics, electric current, magnetism, electromagnetic induction, light, color, reflection and refraction, an introduction to quantum mechanics, and radioactivity. This course is a co-requisite or pre-requisite of PHYS 10100, which consists of traditional lab experiments and guided problem-solving sessions, that are closely correlated with the lecture material covered in this course.

This course draws on and explores the concept of the geographic region as a way to organize and understand our fast-changing and interconnected world. Geographic concepts (e.g., space, place, distance, scale, borders, and regions) are used to study environmental, economic, social, and political conditions and identify key concerns in the culturally diverse world. The course will examine geographic world regions (e.g., South America, Europe, the Middle East, Sub-Saharan Africa, and others), connections in and between these regions, and how these regions and their populations interact as parts of a global system. For each world region, you will learn major historical events, specific interactions between natural environment and social systems, and their potential for and challenges to sustainable development.

Astrology is a belief system that exists cross-culturally because the sky is an omnipresent cultural resource, and while different civilizations have varied beliefs about the meaning of celestial activity, those beliefs share a common thread: the sky is sacred, and celestial activity is an expression of that sacrality. The names of the planets and the stars, as well as their myths and stories may differ from tradition to tradition, but ancient astronomers of every culture studied celestial motion, detected patterns, understood those patterns to be cyclical, and believed they formed the basis of an orderly and precise cosmology.

Hunter Core Requirement

Introduction

(Effective Fall 2013, if you are a current Hunter student who started before fall 2013, see www.hunter.cuny.edu/academics/hunter-core-requirement for information concerning whether to "opt in" to the Hunter Core or continue with Hunter's General Education Requirements - Fall 2001 to Spring 2013 - GER)

All students who matriculate at Hunter College must fulfill the Hunter Core Requirement (Hunter Core, HCR). This is a set of courses Hunter College considers essential to the intellectual development of its undergraduates. The Hunter Core requirements and expectations are meant to support the professional and personal development of Hunter students, prepare them for advanced study, and enable them to become active participants in the world of ideas.

The Hunter Core provides students with opportunities to sharpen their essential academic skills in writing, mathematics, scientific reasoning, and critical thinking. The Hunter Core also introduces students to a spectrum of distinctive perspectives with which various academic disciplines view our world, its past, and its future.
The Hunter Core is distinguished by its emphasis on foreign language study and its encouragement of concentrated student achievement in a subject outside the student's first major. Hunter encourages all students to take an active role in planning their education, and to pursue and develop subjects of interest beyond what is required for their major.

Hunter Core

The Hunter Core includes:

1. The CUNY Common Core, comprising 30 credits;
2. The Hunter Focus comprising 12 credits.

CUNY Common Core Requirement consists of designated courses in:

A. English Composition (6 credits=2 courses)* EC
   1. English Composition 1 - ENGL 12000 (3 credits)
   2. English Composition 2 - (3 credits)
      CUNY Common Core English Composition (EC) 2 courses

B. Math and Quantitative Reasoning MQR (3 credits) **
   CUNY Common Core Math/Quantitative Reasoning (MQR) 1 Course

C. Life and Physical Sciences (3 credits) LPS **
   CUNY Common Core Life and Physical Sciences (LPS) 1 Course

D. Scientific World SW (3 credits) **
   CUNY Common Core Scientific World (SW) 1 Course

E. Creative Expression (3 credits)

   CUNY Common Core US Experience in Its Diversity (USED) 1 Course

G. World Cultures and Global Issues (3 credits)
   CUNY Common Core World Cultures & Global Issues (WCGI) 1 Course

H. Individual & Society (6 credits - one course from each)
   CUNY Common Core Individual and Society (Humanities) I&S H 1 Course
   CUNY Common Core Individual and Society (Social Sciences) I&S SS 1 Course

Note: Students may take no more than two courses from one department or program to fulfill categories a.2 (English Composition 2) through h. See CUNY Common Core by Department

*Students who receive an "exemption" for ENGL 12000 or for a course in English Comp 2 are deemed to have fulfilled English Composition 1 or 2, respectively.

There are some courses in these categories that carry more than 3 credits (the "STEM variant" courses). Students who elect to take these courses may apply only three credits towards fulfilling the CUNY Common Core Requirement. — These courses, labeled STEM, may be found in three areas of the Common Core: 00000000000000, CUNY Common Core Math/Quantitative Reasoning (MQR) 1 Course, and CUNY Common Core Scientific World (SW) 1 Course. A particular STEM variant course may appear in more than one area of the Common Core. When this occurs, students may choose which area of the Common Core they want the course to fulfill. STEM variant courses may be more than three credits. In such cases, three credits will apply to fulfilling the Common Core; all of the course's credits will apply to the major.
The Hunter Focus

Beyond the CUNY Common Core, Hunter requires students to complete 12 credits for the Hunter Focus. These credits are part of the CUNY College Option – an additional set of requirements in the baccalaureate programs that encourage students to delve more deeply in the specialties of the colleges. The Hunter focus emphasizes foreign language and concentrated study – two areas of study that highlight Hunter's current and historic focus on the liberal arts.

Hunter students are expected to attain fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language, regardless of where the learning took place. After this goal has been met, students should begin concentrated study in an area outside of their first major. The composition of the Hunter Focus will vary depending on students' language proficiency at the time of matriculation. Students who have to take a beginning language course must apply all their language credits to the Hunter Focus. Students in the Hunter College School of Nursing may fulfill their entire 12 credits of Hunter Focus by taking three "STEM variant" science courses in addition to the STEM courses used to fulfill the CUNY Common Core.

Hunter Focus in Foreign Language. The goal of the foreign language competency requirement is to help students attain cross-cultural knowledge and communicate in a language other than English. In studying foreign languages, their literatures and cultures, students acquire new perspectives on how people think, view the world, express themselves, and communicate with one another. Language study sensitizes students to the differences between their own culture and that of others, an important factor in an interconnected and interdependent world. Foreign Language Requirement

Students are required to complete up to 12 credits in a foreign language depending upon the student's language knowledge at the time of matriculation and a student's matriculation status. (See Considerations for Transfer Students below.) Students may apply only one course at each level (Elementary levels 1 and 2, Intermediate levels 3 and 4) toward the CUNY College Option. Intensive courses can be used to satisfy two levels.

It is strongly recommended that students complete their foreign language study as early as possible so they can benefit from it in their college career. Foreign Language courses should be taken in consecutive semesters because gaps in language study are undesirable.

Hunter Focus: Concentrated Study. This requirement encourages students to begin concentrated study outside of their major. Students who have gained fourth semester language proficiency should make progress toward a minor, second major, or certificate (they will not complete such a program within Concentrated Study, but take first steps towards it). The number of credit hours that must be completed in the Concentrated Study requirement depends on a student's entry status and achievements prior to entering Hunter and ranges from 0 to 12. (See Considerations for Transfer Students below.) It is necessary for a student to indicate a minor, second major or certificate program. Credit for Concentrated Study is granted only for courses completed within that same declared course of study.

CONCURRENT COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Hunter College requires students to take some courses that are writing intensive and some that deal with issues of Pluralism and Diversity. These courses can be part of the Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) or any major or minor requirements, or electives.

List of Approved Courses for the Writing Requirement

Courses for Pluralism and Diversity. This group of courses addresses topics that help students broaden their horizons and gain new perspectives. The Pluralism and Diversity courses are grouped into four categories (A, B, C and D) that focus on scholarship about major practical or theoretical issues that emerge from, are reflected in, or are principally derived from the historical conditions, perspectives, and/or intellectual traditions of:

A. Non-European societies, particularly those of Africa, Asia, Latin America, or those indigenous to the Americas

B. One or more of the following groups in the US: African Americans, Asian Americans, Latino Americans, and Native Americans,
C. Women and/or issues of gender or sexual orientation,

D. Europe, including ways in which pluralism and diversity have been addressed.

CONSIDERATIONS FOR TRANSFER STUDENTS

2nd Degree Students. Students who have earned a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution are exempt from the Hunter Core Requirement and all concurrent requirements.

CUNY Common Core. All CUNY transfer students retain completion of the CUNY Common Core requirements when transferring to Hunter College. Transfer students who have earned an AA/AS degree from an accredited institution and who matriculate in fall 2013 and after will have fulfilled the CUNY Common Core requirements by obtaining the AA/AS degree.

Hunter Focus

All transfer students, including CUNY transfers, must complete the Hunter Focus. The number of credits required to complete the Hunter Focus varies with the number of credits transferred as indicated below:

- 12 credits of Hunter Focus for fewer than 30 credits transferred
- 9 credits of Hunter Focus for 30 or more credits transferred without an AA/AS degree*
- 6 credits of Hunter Focus for students with an AA/AS degree

*A transfer student who first matriculates in a baccalaureate program must complete 12 credits of Hunter Focus. The student can apply any "College Option" credits completed at a CUNY senior college toward the Hunter Focus.

Foreign Language. Hunter encourages all students to reach fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language. Transfer students who have not attained fourth-semester proficiency in a foreign language at the time of transfer must apply the foreign language requirement towards the Hunter Focus. Students must either continue a language they have studied previously or begin the study of a different language at Hunter for the number of credits required by their transfer status.

Concentrated Study. Hunter encourages all students to delve deeply into another area in addition to their major by completing a minor, a second major, or a certificate program. Transfer students who have fulfilled the foreign language requirement should apply Hunter Focus courses towards a minor, second major or certificate program.

Writing Intensive. All students must take at least one course with a "W" designation from Hunter College. The number of "W" designated courses required are:

- 3 for students who transfer fewer than 31 credits
- 2 for students who transfer between 31-59 credits
- 1 for students who transfer 60 or more credits

Pluralism and Diversity. Transfer students must take courses in Pluralism and Diversity according to the schedule below:

- 4 courses for students who transfer fewer than 31 credits – one from each Group (A, B, C, and D).
- 2 courses for students who transfer 31 or more credits. These two courses must come from Groups A, B, or C and the two courses cannot come from the same Group.

List of Approved Courses for the Writing Requirement

Writing Requirement
Students matriculating with fewer than 31 credits must take three courses in significant writing W-designated courses at Hunter College. Transfer students matriculating with 31 to 59 credits must take at least two W-designated courses at Hunter College. Transfer students matriculating with 60 to 90 credits must take at least one W-designated course at Hunter College. (ENGL 120 does not count as W-designated course.)

Note: Specific sections of courses containing significant writing are listed with a W designation in the Schedule of Classes. Please note that not all sections of a course are necessarily offered with significant writing. To satisfy the Writing Requirement a section designated as W in the Schedule of Classes must be taken.

REL 20900 - Religion and Human Rights (W)

Hunter Core
Individual and Society - Humanities
GER
2/C

It has been contended that religious beliefs about the natural and moral order, as well those concerning human nature, lie at the foundation of the idea of human rights. Some histories of human rights even begin with a survey of the teachings of various major religious traditions. And, as the idea of, and movements for, international human rights swept the globe in the latter parts of the 20th century, scholars and religious thinkers examined and assessed the confluence of the world's religious systems of thought, conscience, and belief with the norms and standards of the human rights project. Yet, even as religious thinkers and leaders contribute significantly to human rights movements around the world, some human rights norms—for example, those prohibiting gender- or religion-based discrimination, prohibitions on certain forms of punishment—seem to conflict head on with the strictures of various religions. This course will examine these various intersections.

REL 21100 - The Sacred Sky: Astrology in World Religions (W)

Hunter Core
World Cultures and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER
2/C

Astrology is a belief system that exists cross-culturally because the sky is an omnipresent cultural resource, and while different civilizations have varied beliefs about the meaning of celestial activity, those beliefs share a common thread: the sky is sacred, and celestial activity is an expression of that sacrality. The names of the planets and the stars, as well as their myths and stories may differ from tradition to tradition, but ancient astronomers of every culture studied celestial motion, detected patterns, understood those patterns to be cyclical, and believed they formed the basis of an orderly and precise cosmology.

REL 32600 - Religious Meanings of the Qur'ān (W)

GER
3/A

This course introduces students to the study of the Qur'ān based on the traditional Islamic "sciences of the Qur'ān" ('_Ulūm al-Qur'ān_). Using an introductory text on the Qur'ānic sciences, the course will introduce the traditional areas of concern in the Qur'ānic sciences: the revelation, transmission, form, language and style, hermeneutics, and principles and types of exegesis. The course will continue by introducing students to representative examples of the types of material referred to in the textbook. This material is chosen on the basis of (1) interest, (2) accessibility (especially the availability of English translations) and (3) the ability to give students some exposure to the variety of styles and approaches to the material available in the literature, introducing the students to representative examples of the types of material referred to in the introductory text. This material provides students with illustrative exposure to both classical and modern Muslim approaches to the Qur'ān and its exegesis.

Undergraduate Certificate and Minor

The Africana & Puerto Rican/Latino Studies Minor

The Minor concentration consists of 12 credits chosen from Africana and Puerto Rican/Latino sequence courses as follows: 2 at the 100/200 and 2 at the 300/400 levels.

Associate in Applied Science/Bachelor of Science

Nursing Dual Degree: Hunter/Queensborough Community College

This is an early entry into the RN-to-BS program for students at Queensborough Community College. They are granted acceptance to Hunter after their freshman year if they satisfy certain GPA and course requirements. See the Queensborough website for further information about this phase of the dual degree.

The Hunter portion of the curriculum follows the Nursing RN-to-BS curriculum with one exception. NURS 37900 Nursing and Societal Forces in the Health Care Delivery System is taken at QCC as NU-204.

Bachelor of Science/Master of Science (BS/MS)

Accelerated BS/MS in Nutrition (DPD)

This pathway is for third year NFS majors who are interested in completing their degree and then continuing at Hunter to obtain a master's degree and verification statement (students will be provisionally accepted into the program in their junior year but must maintain grade requirements to matriculate into the MS-DPD program).

This accelerated pathway provides the opportunity for undergraduate students to remain at Hunter for their graduate coursework providing students the opportunity for academic acceleration to a graduate degree.

Since the MS-Nutrition curriculum meets the didactic program in dietetics (DPD) requirements established by the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND), the credentialing arm of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (AND), it will qualify students from this BS/MS accelerated track to apply for Dietetic Internships and continue their professional preparation for the Registered Dietitian (RD) credential.

To become an RD, students must have:

- Completed a minimum of a bachelor's degree at a US regionally accredited university or college
- Completed the DPD coursework (didactic program in dietetics) approved by the the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND) of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (AND),
- Completed an ACEND-accredited supervised practice program such as a dietetic internship (DI). The Hunter DI is described in the graduate catalog and online at www.hunter.cuny.edu/schoolhp/nfs. For further information on the Hunter DI, contact Prof. Ann Gaba at agaba@hunter.cuny.edu.
- Passed a national examination administered by the Commission on Dietetic Registration (CDR).

Career Opportunities for students graduating with this accelerated BS/MS:

Dietetics is an allied health profession which focuses on the food and nutrition intake of individuals and its relationship to health. Registered dietitians are trained in the sciences and are able to translate scientific findings and help people live healthy lives. Major areas of practice include clinical, community, management, and consultant dietetics. More than half of all dietitians and nutritionists are found to work in hospitals, nursing homes, and physician's offices and clinics. More information about career opportunities may be found on the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics's website at http://www.eatright.org

Academic Requirements for Entry into the BS-MS

Students must be able to complete the NFS major and graduation requirements in about 96-102 credits, must have an overall GPA of 3.5 and prerequisite GPA of 3.2 or better to be considered.

Prerequisite courses

CHEM 10000 (STEM) - Essentials of General Chemistry Lecture

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW); Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)
GER
GER 2/E

Essential facts, laws, and theories of general chemistry. Primarily for nursing, nutrition and food science and community health education students. Core credit only if both lecture and the corresponding lab are completed.
prereq or coreq: MATH 10100 or 101EN or MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or MATH 15000 or MATH 15200 or MATH 15500
4 hrs (3 lec, 1 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 10100 - Inquiries into the Nature of Matter

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
GER
GER 2/E

A laboratory-based introduction to chemistry for non-science and health science majors that focuses on the basic principles of matter, energy and the environment. CHEM 10100 satisfies the laboratory requirements for a one-semester general chemistry course for health science students. Primarily for nursing, nutrition and food science and public health students.
CHEM 12000 (STEM) - Essentials of Organic Chemistry Lecture

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS): Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
GER 2/E
Course presents essential facts, laws and theories of organic chemistry.
Core credit awarded only if CHEM 12000 and CHEM 12100 are completed. Primarily for nursing, nutrition and food science and community health education students.

prereq: CHEM 10000
4 hrs (3 lec, 1 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 12100 (STEM) - Essentials of Organic Chemistry Laboratory

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
GER 2/E
Experiments designed to illustrate fundamental laws and techniques of organic chemistry.
Core credit awarded only if CHEM 12000 and CHEM 12100 are completed. Primarily for nursing, nutrition and food science and public health students.

prereq: CHEM 10100
prereq or coreq: CHEM 12000
3 hrs (3 lab)
1.5 cr.

BIOL 12000 - Anatomy and Physiology I

Cell structure and function; histology; nervous, muscular and skeletal systems; integument. Required for admission to the nursing program.
Not accepted for credit toward the biology major.
prereq: CHEM 10000, 10100
coreq: CHEM 12000, 12100
7hrs (3hr Lecture, 1hr Recitation, 3hr Lab)
4.5 cr.
fall only

BIOL 12200 - Anatomy and Physiology II

Structure and function of circulatory, digestive, excretory, endocrine and reproductive systems. Basic concepts of metabolism, embryology. Required for admission to the nursing program.
Not accepted for credit toward the biology major.
prereq: BIOL 12000 or equiv.
7hrs (3hr Lecture, 1hr Recitation, 3hr Lab)
4.5 cr.
spring only

BIOL 23000 - Fundamentals of Microbiology

GER
3/B

Topics include scope, historical aspects, taxonomy, survey of the microbial world, viruses, infectious diseases, control of microorganisms and immunology. Required for admission to the nursing program. Not accepted for credit toward the biology Major I.

prereq: CHEM 10000, 10100 or equiv; BIOL 12000 or BIOL 10200

5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)

3 cr.
spring only

NFS 14100 - Nutrition

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
Fundamentals of the science of nutrition as they apply to individuals and society.
Open to all students.

3 hrs

3 cr.

NFS 13100 - Food Science I

Basic principles of the chemical and physical nature of foods, food sanitation and safety; the nutritional value of food in relation to storage, processing and preparation.
Open to all students.

3 hrs

3 cr.

STAT 11300 - Elementary Probability and Statistics

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning

GER

1/B

Not open to students who have completed STAT 21300 (STEM) or PSYCH 24800. Not credited for majors in statistics or mathematics unless minor is elementary education. An introduction to applied statistics and statistical computing. Hands-on data analysis. Graphical inference. The five number summary, box plots, scatterplots, normal probability plots. Elementary probability. Statistical estimation and hypothesis testing. Linear regression. Students are expected to analyze real data sets and write reports. Students who have taken calculus or place into calculus by the placement exam should take STAT 21300 instead of STAT 11300.

prereq: A grade of C or better in MATH 10100 or MATH 101EN or appropriate score on placement exam

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000

3 hrs

3 cr.
Students take graduate courses after completing 96 credits

Students must have completed the NFS major and academic requirements for their undergraduate degree in about 96 credits, must have an overall GPA of 3.5 and pre-requisite GPA of 3.2 or better to be considered. However, a 3.5 GPA in and of itself does not guarantee admission.

Undergraduates admitted to the program take graduate courses during their senior year and will be able to complete the MS-DPD degree one year after they complete the requirements for the BS (NFS) degree. These students will be admitted directly into the MS-DPD program without having to take the GRE exam. Upon completion of the requirements for the MS degree, both the BS and MS degrees will be awarded. These students will pay undergraduate tuition rates up to the number of credits required to earn a baccalaureate degree (120 cr) and credits taken after that number toward the combined dual degree will be paid at the graduate level. Students interested in this accelerated program should speak to the adviser in the Nutrition track during their sophomore year to review the curriculum path for the five-year program.

Students who have been provisionally accepted into the BS-MS program but who do not maintain the required GPA will not be allowed to continue but will be eligible to receive a BS (NFS) degree from Hunter provided that they fulfill all other academic requirements for their undergraduate degree.

Curriculum Requirements

The accelerated BS/MS is a 137-credit program.

For a list of the graduate courses, please visit the graduate catalog.

Undergraduate Minor

Minor in Accounting

A minor in accounting is available. These courses may be used for CPLicensure in New York State, but represent only 15 of the 69 credits required.

The Minor consists of 15 credits with the following required courses:

- ACC 27100 - Accounting I
- ACC 27200 - Accounting II and Three of the following courses for the Financial Accounting Track 1

- ACCP 37100 - Intermediate Accounting I
- ACCP 37200 - Intermediate Accounting II
- ACCP 37400 - Managerial Accounting (Cost Accounting)
- ACCP 47100 - Advanced Accounting I or Three of the following courses for the Law and Taxation Track 2 (ACCP 37300 strongly recommended)

- ACC 28000 - Business Law I
- ACCP 37300 - Federal Income Taxation
- ACCP 38000 - Business Law II
- ACCP 47300 - Business Taxes
- ACCP 48000 - Business Law III

Minor in Africana & Puerto Rican/Latino Studies

The Minor concentration consists of 12 credits chosen from Africana and Puerto Rican/Latino sequence courses as follows: 2 at the 100/200 and 2 at the 300/400 levels.

Minor in Anthropological Archaeology

The Anthropological Archaeology Minor introduces students to the study of past human societies and cultural diversity from an anthropological perspective. The minor consists of a minimum of 12 credits from the courses listed below, or other courses with the approval of the departmental undergraduate advisor. Only one non-AN-C course from the following list may count towards the minor. In order to graduate with an Anthropological Archaeology Minor, students must earn a C grade or better in all the courses counted towards the minor.

Courses for the Minor

ANTHC 12600 - Introduction to Prehistoric Archaeology

Hunter Core
World Culture and Global Issues (WCGI)

GER
2/B

Human social and cultural evolution from the earliest humans to the rise of the first civilizations.

3 hrs

3 cr.

offered every sem.

ANTHC 12700 - Methods In Archaeological Science

Hunter Core
SW
Introduction to theory and method of scientific research in archaeology.

prereq: ANTHC 12600 or perm instr.

3 hrs

3 cr.

ANTHC 22600 - Archaeology of Africa

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A

GER
3/B
Prehistory; origins, adaptations, cultural evolution of early hominids; origins of agriculture, early complex societies.
prereq: ANTHC 12600 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHC 23200 - Archaeology of South America and the Caribbean

GER
3/B
Sociocultural development from early hunter-gatherers to first pre-Hispanic states and empires.
prereq: ANTHC 12600 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHC 32000 - Problems in Anthropology

GER
3/B
Topics TBA. Recent courses have looked at globalization, social movements and civil society, energy policy, women and economic development, international migration. Depending on topic, may meet PD/A, B, or C.
prereq: perm instr.
3 hrs

offered every sem.

ANTHC 32600 - Rise of Old and New World Civilizations

GER
3/B
Theoretical and empirical examination of development of urbanism and state, in the Old and New Worlds.
prereq: ANTHC 12600 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHC 32700 - Prehistoric Cultural Ecology

GER
3/B
Survey of selected problems in human evolution and adaptation from an ecological perspective.
prereq: ANTHC 12600 or perm instr
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHC 34600 - Analytic Methods in Archaeology
GER
3/B

Theory and methods of analysis of materials recovered from archaeological excavations and surveys.
prereq: ANTHC 12600 or perm instr.
5 hrs (3 hrs lec, 2 lab)
4 cr.

ANTHC 42600 - Seminar in Archaeological Field Methods

Pluralism and Diversity
See note below
Introduction to field methods and techniques in survey and excavation; involves weekend fieldwork on nearby sites.

The only ANTHC 42600 courses that currently meet Pluralism and Diversity Requirement are:

ANTHC 42659 Archaeology of North America meets PD/B
ANTHC 42660 Archaeology of Colonialism meets PD/D
prereq: ANTHC 12600 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

Non ANTHC Courses:

ANTHP 10100 (STEM) - Human Evolution

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS) Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

The study of human origins and adaptation, through an understanding of evolutionary mechanisms, genetics, comparative primate biology, the fossil record, and modern human variation.
6 hrs (3 hrs lec, 3 hrs lab)
4 cr.
offered every sem.

CLARC 20400 - Introduction to Classical, Near Eastern, and Egyptian Archaeology (W)

Hunter Core
World Culture and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER

Introduction to ancient archaeology, including Greece and Rome, Mesopotamia, Egypt, Anatolia, and the Levant.
prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.

GEOG 10100 - People and Their Environment
A broad overview of subjects and ideas in geography, possibly the most internally diverse of the social sciences. Covers the geographical aspects of topics including weather and climate, landforms, religions, food, cities, economics, culture, politics and much more. While students will be expected to understand the basics of each of the topics covered, the overarching emphasis will be on understanding the relationships among them. As such, the course builds from one topic to the next, ultimately stressing the sheer geographical complexity and wonder of modern life. Contemporary economic, political and social patterns and problems are discussed.

3 hrs
3 cr.
offered fall and spring.

GEOL 10000 - Introduction to Geology

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

Introduction to Geology is the study of the physical aspects of our planet. The goal of this course is to provide students with a basic understanding of the forces continuously shaping the surface of our planet and the influence they have on our environment, so that their appreciation and interest in our planet is heightened. At the same time, this course provides a strong fundamental background for students who want to pursue more advanced geological and environmental studies courses.

3 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.
Offered fall and spring.

Minor in Anthropology

The Anthropology Minor provides students an overview of the discipline through survey courses in each of the four primary subfields of anthropology. It is designed to help students appreciate the significance of, and relations between, language, biology, and culture, for human beings past and present. The minor consists of four courses for a total of 13 credits. In order to graduate with an Anthropology Minor, students must earn a C grade or better in all the courses counted towards the minor.

The minor includes the following three required courses:

ANTHC 10100 - Introduction to Cultural Anthropology

Hunter Core
Individual and Society (Social Sciences) -I&S SS

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A
GER
Comparative and historical examination of the human condition through a focus on diverse responses to universal problems, such as making a living, resolving conflict, organizing family/kin relations and finding meaning in the world.

ANTHP 10200 (STEM) - Human Variation

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW) STEM; Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)
GER
2/E

Description and analysis of biological variation in living human populations. Both genetic and phenotypic variation will be examined. Lab experiments and demonstrations.

6 hrs (3 hrs lec, 3 hrs lab)
4 cr.
offered every sem.

Minor in Arabic and Minor in Arabic Studies

Return to Classical and Oriental Studies

Two 12-credit minors are offered by the Arabic Language, Literature, and Culture Division of the Department of Classical and Oriental Studies: Arabic and Arabic Studies.

Minor in Arabic

The minor in Arabic requires the successful completion of

ARB 20100 - Intermediate Arabic I

Emphasis placed on reading materials from Arabic media, and expanding vocabulary and grammar skills.

prereq: ARB 10200 or equiv.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ARB 20200 - Intermediate Arabic II

Continuation of ARB 20100.

prereq: ARB 20100 or equiv.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ARB 30100 - Advanced Arabic I

Emphasis on increased proficiency in reading, speaking and writing Arabic prereq: ARB 20200 or equiv.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ARB 30200 - Advanced Arabic II

Continuation of ARB 30100

prereq: ARB 30100 or equiv.

or their equivalent as determined by the Arabic Program Head.
ARB 24900 - Special Topics in Arabic Dialects

The goal of this course is to teach students oral communication in spoken Arabic, as well as to impart cultural knowledge relevant to a student living in or visiting the Arab World. This course is closed to native speakers and heritage learners of Arabic. The dialect taught in this course will depend on student demand and the instructor.

prereq: ARB 20200

3 hrs

3 cr.

ARB 40100 - Focused Arabic Study for Advanced Students

Pluralism and Diversity

P/D A

A 4th-year Arabic course in which we continue ARB 30200's focus on advanced reading, writing, listening, and speaking in Modern Standard Arabic while incorporating more advanced authentic texts and grammatical structures. The vocabulary in this course continues the trajectory of that in ARB 30100 and ARB 30200 of being less subjective and more academic.

can count toward the minor

Arabic Studies Minor

At least 2 Arabic language classes taken at Hunter

- ARB 10100 Beginning Arabic I
- ARB 10200 Beginning Arabic II
- ARB 24900 Special Topics in Arabic Dialects
- ARB 20100 Intermediate Arabic I
- ARB 20200 Intermediate Arabic II
- ARB 30100 Advanced Arabic I
- ARB 30200 Advanced Arabic II

or at a program approved by the Arabic Program Head and at least two ARB courses taught in English.

For students who test out of ARB 30200 without having taken any Arabic courses at the university level, the Arabic Studies Minor can be achieved by taking at least 4 courses from the ARB courses taught in English.

Total credits for the minor: 12

Arabic Courses

ARB 10100 - Beginning Arabic I

The goal of this course is to begin developing reading, speaking, listening, writing, and cultural skills in Arabic. The course stresses communication using both formal and informal Arabic. Emphasis is also placed on reading authentic texts from Arabic media, listening to and watching audio and video materials, and developing students' understanding of Arab culture. Preparation for class is an essential component of course, allowing us to devote in-class time to communicating in the language rather than talking "about" the language. Students will be evaluated on attendance and class participation, daily homework assignments, quizzes, skits, a final oral interview and a final examination.

This class is not for native speakers. ARB 10100 usually not credited without ARB 10200. For details about credit policy look here: Foreign Language Requirement

Minor in Art History

The Art History minor requires students to take 12 credits in Art History as follows: ARTH 11100 - Introduction to History of Art, followed by 9 credits selected from the other department offerings. No more than 6 credits transferred from another institution may be applied to the minor.

Minor in Asian American Studies

The interdisciplinary Asian American Studies Minor provides students with focused competence in the histories and contemporary experiences of diverse Asian diasporic communities, including but not limited to those of North America. As one of only a few Asian American Studies programs in the tri-state area, the AASP offers its Minors a unique opportunity to gain the knowledge and skills necessary to make meaningful contributions to the city and nation's growing APA communities.

A Minor consists of a minimum of 12 credits and can be made up of any courses offered by—or cross-listed with—the Asian American Studies Program, excluding ASIAN 360.02 (East Asia to 1600) and ASIAN 360.03 (China since 1800). No more than 6 Minor credits may be transferred from another institution. Please note that a number of 300-level courses in Asian American Studies may be used to satisfy requirements in the ENGL, POLSC, and WGS majors: see individual courses for details.

Minor in Biological Sciences
The minor in Biological Sciences gives students a basic understanding of biology from the molecular and cellular to the organismal and population level. This includes both theoretical aspects presented in lecture as well as practical aspects presented in lab. Flexibility is built into the minor to allow students to select courses corresponding to their interests. In order to minor in Biological Sciences a student must pass four courses resulting in a minor GPA of 2.0 or higher. All students who want a Minor in Biological Sciences must take:

- BIOL 10000 (STEM) - Principles of Biology I and BIOL 10200 (STEM) - Principles of Biology II or BIOL 10000 (STEM) - Principles of Biology I and BIOL 16000 - Honors Principles of Biology II or the equivalent
- two additional courses in Biological Sciences, one of which must be at the 200 level or higher

Number of Credits: A minimum of 12 credits. Transfer credits may be applied. At least 2 courses must be taken at Hunter College.

Minor in Chemistry

A minor in Chemistry consists of 27 – 27.5 credits as follow:

1. Before declaring the minor

Students must complete 11 cr of foundational courses

CHEM 10200 (STEM) General Chemistry I
CHEM 10400 (STEM) General Chemistry II
CHEM 10600 (STEM) General Chemistry Laboratory

-or-

CHEM 10200 (STEM) General Chemistry I
CHEM 10300 (STEM) General Chemistry Laboratory I
CHEM 10400 (STEM) General Chemistry II
CHEM 10500 (STEM) General Chemistry Laboratory II

2. An additional 13-13.5 credits of course work, including the required courses below

3. One 3-credit elective from Chemistry offerings numbered 300

Required courses for the Minor:

WGSS 26600 - Our Bodies, Our Politics

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C

Sex and sexuality are commonly understood as an innate drive, but as science has recently begun to show, the way we experience sexuality is better understood as a series of connected cultural practices. It is the constructed meaning attached to the act of sex that make up the foundation of our sexuality. This meaning changes across cultures and communities and has historically been a subject of political and legal struggle. From the battle for reproductive rights to laws limiting dildo ownership in Texas, our own bodies and the way we experience them are legislated and controlled.

Introduction to Geology is the study of the physical aspects of our planet. The goal of this course is to provide students with a basic understanding of the forces continuously shaping the surface of our planet and the influence they have on our environment, so that their appreciation and interest in our planet is heightened. At the same time, this course provides a strong fundamental background for students who want to pursue more advanced geological and environmental studies courses.
3 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.
Offered fall and spring.

GEOL 10100 - Introductory Geology Lab

Hunter Core
Life & Physical Sciences
GER
Hands-on study of science, scientific method, scientific language and thought, regarding the earth, earth materials and the major geologic processes that continuously shape and reshape our dynamic planet surface. Guided study of minerals and rocks, geological structures, and the sequence of geologic events.

3 hrs.
3 cr.

GEOL 10200 - Plate Tectonics and the Earth's Evolution

GER
2/E

The second course in geology offered to non-geology majors. It is designed to familiarize students with the main concepts used in deciphering and interpreting earth's evolution from the spatial and temporal perspective. Topics to be covered include: geologic time; geological principles; earth materials as recorders of past geologic processes; depositional environments and sedimentary rock record; igneous and metamorphic geologic environments and their rock records; evolution of the solar system; plate tectonics and life on earth; origin of the universe; life on earth and the fossil record; Precambrian, Paleozoic, Mesozoic, and Cenozoic life, history and tectonics. Field trips may be required; transportation fee.

prereq: GEOL 10100
5 hrs (3 lec, 2 lab)
4 cr.
Offered fall.

GEOL 10500 - Introduction to Environmental Studies

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E (Non lab course)

An introduction to environmental science focusing on aspects of global change and the interrelationships of earth systems, environmental problems and issues.

prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs.
3 cr.

GEOL 18000 - Introduction to Oceanography

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

An introduction to the subject of oceanography. We will discuss the physical, chemical, biological and geological aspects of the oceans; learn about the structure and motion of the atmosphere and how they all influence ocean circulation; and we will learn about waves, tides and tsunamis, the carbon cycle and how the ocean influences the Earth's climate system. In addition to providing a good introduction to aspects of the scientific world, it is a foundational course for Environmental Studies, Geography and BA/MA Earth Science Education majors.

prereq: Prerequisite: Math Proficient and Reading Proficient/Non degree students
at least one course (minimum of 3 credits) selected from

GEOL 20500 - Environmental Geology

GER
3/B

As human populations continue to grow, resource depletion and hazards will become more severe. Many decisions concerning the use of resources, such as water, soil, minerals, energy and space to live, will determine our standard of living and the quality of the environment. Scientific knowledge, combined with human values, will dictate these decisions. This course examines not only the way geological processes operate and impact society, but also how the earth system responds to human activity. The difficult problems associated with extracting enormous quantities of resources needed to sustain modern societies will be discussed. The course will also address ways humans can minimize the risks associated with hazardous earth processes. Quantitative analysis of selected topics will be introduced to provide a deeper understanding of the complexity of today's environmental issues.

prereq: GEOL 10100

GEOL 23100 - Principles ofGeomorphology

GER
2/E or 3/B

Investigates the geologic forces that shape the surface of the Earth. In the laboratory students will learn to analyze features of the landscape and deduce the processes that produced them. Students will use traditional laboratories as well as Google Earth to learn about a variety of surficial processes.

prereq: PGEO 13000 or GEOL 10100

GEOL 28000 - Marine Geology

GER
3/B

Marine Geology is the study of the seafloor. This course attempts to answer the questions "what?", "where?", "when?" and more importantly "how?" in order to better understand the processes that shape the ocean basins and determine the structure and composition of the oceanic crust. The main patterns of sediment distribution in the ocean basins and how sediments preserve a record of past climatic and sea-level changes will be explored. In addition, the role of fluids in ocean sediments and the oceanic crust will be examined. The seafloor sediments will be studied with a focus on their role in marine biogeochemical cycles.

or other approved course, and at least one course (minimum of 3 credits) from the following list of 300-level courses

GEOL 33400 - Geomorphology: The Study of Beaches and Coasts

GER
3/B

A study of the basic processes shaping the coast and the resulting form; surficial morphology and internal geometry of such forms as cliffs, dunes, beaches and near shore bars. Map exercise and a one-day field trip.

prereq: GEOL 23100 or PGEO 23100 or equiv. or perm dept.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GEOL 38000 - Advanced Oceanography: Physics of the Oceans

GER
3/B

The oceans play a significant role in how the climate system responds to anthropogenic perturbations. To understand past, present and future climate, students need to know and understand the world ocean. Oceanography is multidisciplinary. It offers an opportunity to review and to apply many of the concepts taught in the major traditional disciplines of physics, chemistry, biology and mathematics. This course will offer an in-depth tour of the complex study of oceanography and an introduction to quantitative methods in oceanography using Matlab. This science-based course requires students to learn and understand, and be willing to work with, physical and quantitative concepts. Students must be prepared to learn the basics of computer scripting/programming syntax and logic, one of the major skills to be acquired in this course.

prereq: one sem CHEM or PHYS, MATH 15000 or equiv.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GEOL 38300 - Special Topics in Geology and Oceanography

GER
3/B

Intensive courses in various aspects of geology or oceanography. Topics to be announced.

prereq: 200-level course of which special topic is logical outgrowth; perm instr.

1-4 hrs (lec or lec/lab)
1-3 cr.

GEOL 39300 - Individual Study in Geology

Individual studies and readings, with lab or fieldwork where appropriate, carried out under faculty guidance.

prereq: 2 sems of geology, perm dept.

1-3 cr.

GTECH 35100 - Field Techniques in Geography
Observation and analysis of physical geography, biogeography and geomorphology of selected areas. Field geographic techniques such as ground-truthing of remotely sensed images, the use of maps, compasses and GPS to navigate. Fee for transportation, lodging and food allowance required.

Material Fee: $300-400

prereq: GTEC 20100, any two additional geography or geology courses, perm dept.

90 hrs field/lab work (3 days lab, 7 days field)

3 cr.

Offered summer intersession (check with dept. in April).

PGEOG 36100 - Global Climatic Change

GER

3/B

Open to Jr/Sr only. An intensive introduction to the study of climate change with emphasis on modern climate change, anthropogenic forcing and measured and predicted consequences of this forcing. Students will develop an understanding of natural climate forcing, natural variability and feedbacks in the climate system while concurrently studying the Earth's climate history, and modern climate change.

prereq: PGEO 13000 or GEOL 10100 or 10500

3 hrs

3 cr.

PGEOG 36300 - Environmental Hazards

GER

3/B

The course, in response to actual and potential hazards, either natural or anthropogenic in origin, will investigate the processes that link fundamental social development to environmental processes that are influenced by human activities. Natural hazards, in many cases, augment the environmental fragility of our society and the consideration of environmental hazards needs to be incorporated into management of climate variability, storms, droughts, floods, earthquakes, etc. An aim is to seek preventive measures and find solutions to act on environmental hazards on national and international levels.

Minor in German

Courses Required for the German Minor
Students with appropriate background may be exempted from some or all Elementary and Intermediate Courses. See department for proper placement.

Elementary and Intermediate German Language Courses (12 credits)

GERMN 10100 - Elementary German I

Practice in 4 basic skills of speaking, reading, writing and comprehending German. For beginners. GERMN 10100 not usually credited without GERMN 10200. For details about credit policy, please see Foreign Language Requirement.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GERMN 10200 - Elementary German II

Continued practice in speaking, reading, writing and comprehending German.

Prereq: GERMN 10100 or equiv.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GERMN 20100 - Intermediate German I

Practice in comprehending and communicating in German at the intermediate level. Review of basic structures and study of advanced grammar topics.

Prereq: GERMN 10200 or equiv.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GERMN 20200 - Intermediate German II

Grammar review and composition. Reading and discussion of selected literary texts.

Prereq: GERMN 20100 or equiv.

3 hrs
3 cr.

Note:

GERMN 10300 - Intensive Elementary German

Intensive practice in 4 basic skills of German. Covers material of GERMN 10100 and 10200 in one semester.

6 hrs
6 cr.

GERMN 20000 - Intensive German 2 and 3

Prereq: GERMN 10100
6 hrs
6 cr.

GERMN 20300 - Intensive Intermediate German

Covers material of GRMN 201 and 202 in one semester.
prereq: GRMN 10200, 10300 or equiv.

6 hrs
6 cr.

12 credits in language and literature taught in German at the 300-level or higher are required for the minor.

GERMN 30100 - Advanced German Comprehension and Conversation

GER
3/A

Intensive practice in reading and listening to German texts and in conversational German; some essay writing.
(Conducted in German)
prereq: GERMN 20200 or 20300 or equiv.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GERMN 38500 - Advanced Topics in German Language Study

Advanced study of a linguistic phenomenon or of German language for a particular purpose. May be repeated with a different topic or level.
A varying selection of 38500 courses will be offered in alternate years in accordance with student needs. Please consult the chair of the department or a departmental adviser for specific details.
prereq or coreq: Will vary with topic

3 hrs
3 cr.

Note:

At least 3 of the credits for a German minor must be earned by taking a literature class numbered between GERMN 32000 and GERMN 35900. Students who begin their study of German in college may count 6 credits of Intermediate German instruction towards the minor and will need to take two courses at the 300-level.

Minor in Hebraic Studies

Minor: 12 credits

The Hebraic Studies minor requires the successful completion of four HEBR literature and/or culture courses on the 200-level or above, taught in English or in Hebrew. Two Hebrew language courses on 300-level or above may be used toward the minor requirement in lieu of two literature or culture courses.
Minor in Hebrew

The Hebrew minor requires the successful completion of 12 credits at the 200-level or above. Courses counted toward the Hebrew minor must be either language courses or have Hebrew as their language of instruction.

Minor in History

Students majoring in disciplines other than history may elect a minor in history. The history minor consists of 12 credits. The minor in History is flexible and thus it can provide depth to a variety of majors; students can tailor the minor to suit best their individual interests.

Requirements

1. Four history courses of 3 credits each (or 12 credits total) taken for a letter grade (C or better. Courses taken for a grade of Credit/No Credit will not count toward the minor.)
2. Courses must be distributed in at least two geographic fields, i.e. at least one course (3 credits) must be taken in a geographic area different from the other three. (Currently, the geographic areas are defined as U.S., European and World/Non-Western.)
3. At least two courses (6 credits) must be at the 300-level or above. Internships do not count toward completion of the minor, although students completing the minor may elect to include an internship as an additional course. Independent studies (tutorials) and HIST300 are available only to History Majors and, thus, do not count toward the minor.
4. At least two of the courses (or 6 credits) must be taken in the History Department at Hunter College. Courses taken in other disciplines will not count toward the minor unless cross-listed and taken under the appropriate HIST course code. Transfer courses must be approved by the History Undergraduate Advisor. There are no prerequisites for the minor, although certain courses may have their own prerequisites.

Declaring a Minor in History

Students are advised to declare their minor by the beginning of the upper junior semester, but must do it prior to their final semester (that of graduation). Declaration requires a planning session with the History Undergraduate Advisor and completion of the Major/Minor Declaration Form (to be obtained from the One Stop).

Minor in Human Rights

The 15 credit minor in Human Rights consists of five 3 credit courses:

1. 2 Core Required Courses
   - Introduction to Human Rights (HR 20000)
   - Internship in Human Rights (HR 25000)
2. Elective Cognate Courses from an approved list
   - The approved list of cognates comprises courses drawn from 16 academic departments and programs, giving students a wide range of traditional disciplinary perspectives to examine claims about the universal nature of human rights, their historical origins, social and cultural contexts that affect the understanding and status of human rights, and the relation of human rights to political conflicts and the presence or absence of economic well-being. Students should work with the Human Rights Program adviser to put together an intellectually meaningful set of cognate courses. Complementing these elective courses offered by regular Hunter departments, the Human Rights Program itself offers special elective courses taught at Roosevelt House each semester by distinguished human rights practitioners. To be accepted into the Minor program, a student must have completed HR 20000 with a B and have a cumulative GPA of 3.0.

Minor in International Relations

The International Relations (IR) minor is an inter-disciplinary course of study that allows students to examine international relations from different perspectives within a liberal arts curriculum. The International Relations minor introduces students to the major themes in IR: IR theories and approaches, peace and security, international political economy, foreign policy, and international norms and institutions.

Requirements

- 15 credit minor—Students are required to complete at least one course from Group A and at least one course from two of the other four categories (Groups B-E).
- Students can take no more than three courses from one department.
- Students may not use more than one 100-level course towards completion of the IR minor.
- Students must complete at least one 300-level course to fulfill the requirements of the IR minor.
- No more than two courses from the student's major can be applied toward the IR minor.

A. IR Theories and Approaches

These courses teach students the skills necessary to think and write clearly about IR.

ECO 20000 - Principles of Microeconomics

GER

2/B

Covers the fundamental principles and analytical tools of microeconomics. The course develops models of consumer and firm behavior and uses them to study foundational topics such as taxation, labor and trade. The course builds tools for welfare analysis in perfectly competitive and imperfectly competitive markets.

GEOG 24400 - Political Geography

GER
3/B

Political geography concerns the nature and consequences of human efforts to divide and control Earth. Major topics to be covered by this course include the origin and evolution of countries and their constituent political units; the defining and drawing of political boundaries; territorial conflicts and disputes; the impact of boundaries on personal and cultural identity; centripetal and centrifugal forces that encourage the success or failure of political units; jurisprudence, crime and punishment; electoral geography; war, piracy and terrorism; ownership of ocean floors and outer space; the environmental impacts of political power (zoning, incorporation, height restrictions, land tenure); and symbols of power in the landscape. Lectures and assignments will stress the relevancy of political geography to issues that affect our everyday life.

POLSC 11500 - Introduction to International Politics (W)

Hunter Core
World Cultures and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER
2/B

Diplomacy, power, war, peace, terrorism, nationalism, imperialism, the UN, structures and processes of world politics.
prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 27000 - International Relations: Conceptual Foundations and Current Issues (W)

Hunter Core
World Culture and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER
3/B

Examines the conceptual foundations of international relations and their application to current issues. Topics include: anarchy, power, war and peace, international cooperation, the role of the state and non-state actors, international institutions, norms and human rights, and the global economy.

Students may not take both POLSC 11500 and POLSC 27000 at Hunter College for credit. (Transfer students may receive only 100-level credit for a course equivalent for POLSC 11500 after spring 2010, when POLSC 27000 becomes the prerequisite for most advanced courses in international relations.)

POLSC 38300 - Rising Powers, China, the U.S. and World Order (W)
An examination of global power shifts and their consequences for international competition and order. Draws on theoretical insights to explain patterns in historical and contemporary cases, including the current rise of China and other "BRICS" countries.

GEOG 33500 - International Pollution Issues

A study of international trans-boundary pollution and the science, source terms, transport pathways and international impacts of contamination events. The regional focus will change yearly pending current global environmental events.

PGEOG 36100 - Global Climatic Change

Open to Jr/Sr only. An intensive introduction to the study of climate change with emphasis on modern climate change, anthropogenic forcing and measured and predicted consequences of this forcing. Students will develop an understanding of natural climate forcing, natural variability and feedbacks in the climate system while concurrently studying the Earth's climate history, and modern climate change.

D. International Political Economy

These courses emphasize international trade, finance, and development.

POLSC 27500 - Politics of the Global Economy (W)

Introduction to International Political Economy (IPE). Examines the dynamic interaction between politics and economics across national borders, including the politics of trade, development, finance, varieties of capitalism, globalization and environmental protection. Not open to students who have taken POLSC 37600.
POLSC 37600 - International Political Economy (W)

GER

Examination of the intersection of politics and economics at the international level through a careful reading and analysis of dominant theoretical approaches and their application to central debates concerning the politics of trade, money and finance, development and globalization.

prereq: POLSC 11500 or 27000 or 27500; minimum of 45 credits and 9 credits in political science or permission of the instructor

GEOG 37000 - Geography of Sustainable Development in Developing Countries

Pluralism and Diversity

PD/A

GER

Reviews the theories and approaches of international development. Themes include development theory, availability and distribution of resources, population growth, food production, water supply and forestry. The course will also highlight the development and environmental problems that challenge the achievement of sustainable development such as population growth, food and world economic crises, increasing number of the poor and climate change. The course will provide students with theory, methods, problems and analysis of factors that influence sustainable development in developing countries.

prereq: one of the following: GEOG 10100, 15000, 27000, 27100, 27500, 27700 or perm instr.

3 hrs

3 cr.

ECO 33000 - Economic Development

Pluralism and Diversity

PD/A

GER

Critical variables explaining the diversity of growth and economic and development outcomes across developing countries. Theories, case studies, measurement and policies.

prereq: ECO 20000

3 hrs

3 cr.

ECO 34000 - International Trade

GER

Theories of international trade and international trade policies.

prereq: ECO 20000
ECO 34100 - International Finance

GER
3/B

Theories of exchange-rate determination and open-economy macroeconomic theory and policy.
prereq: ECO 20100
3 hrs
3 cr.

SOC 36100 - Development and Globalization (W)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A
GER
3/B

This course will examine the effort of poor countries to achieve economic and social development, and the possible outcomes of that effort. Effects on social relations and the living standards of the poor majority; the purposes of development, the strategies for development that have been adopted, and the theories which attempt to explain why countries do or do not grow economically.

prereq: SOC 10100
3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 38600 - Politics of Finance

Examines the ways in which the global financial system operates and intersects world politics. Topics include: financial firms as political actors, income inequality, financial regulation, financial crises, the politics of foreign direct investment, the politics of monetary policy, and the politics of exchange rates.

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000 and any POLSC course

E. International Peace and Security

These courses focus on peace, security, conflict, violence, war, and terrorism.

POLSC 28200 - International Security (W)

GER
3/B

An introduction to basic concepts and problems in the area of international security, this course will explore explanations for some of the central causes of security/insecurity and peace/war, as well as examine select contemporary security issues.

 prereq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent
3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 28300 - Terrorism (W)

GER
3/B

The course will explore the types, causes, and strategies of terrorism as well as the effectiveness and civil liberty implications of counterterrorism strategies. Both contemporary and historical terrorist groups will be considered.

Not open to students who have completed POLSC 27353.

 prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000 or the equivalent
3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 37900 - War and Strategy (W)

GER
3/B

An examination of strategy and wars between states, within states, and between states and transnational groups. Focuses on how strategy affects the avoidance, outbreak, conduct, and consequences of war and the difficulty of devising strategies that successfully link political ends and military means.

 prereq: POLSC 11500 or 27000 or 28200; minimum of 45 credits and 9 credits in political science or permission of the instructor
 coreq: ENGL 12000 or the equivalent
POLSC 38000 - European Security (W)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/D
GER
3/B

A theoretically informed examination of current and historical security problems in Europe, with a focus on the sources of war and peace, strategic calculations, alliances, institutions, democratization, norms, and ideological and identity conflicts. A principal aim is to establish a foundation for analyzing the prospects for a secure order in Europe in the first part of the 21st century.

prereq: POLSC 11500 or 27000 or 28200; minimum of 45 credits and 9 credits in political science or permission of the instructor
coreq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent

4 hrs
4 cr.

POLSC 38200 - Causes of War (W)

GER

Minor in Japanese Language

Fall 2019

The Japanese Language Minor seeks to develop students' understanding of the Japanese language at an advanced level. With higher-level language courses, students will be exposed to more complex oral and written Japanese that will lead to a greater fluency in the language. To this end, the Japanese Language Minor requires completion of a minimum of 12 credits (4 courses). By completing the Japanese Language Minor, students will also have fulfilled the Hunter College language requirement. No grade below B- shall be considered to fulfill the requirements for this minor.

Student must complete the following course

• JPN 20200 Intermediate Japanese II

Students must take at least three of the following courses or an elective course approved by the department head (9 credit hours total)

• JPN 27100 Japanese Reading: Recitation and Comprehension
• JPN 30100 Advanced Japanese I
• JPN 30200 Advanced Japanese II
• JPN 35100 Advanced Japanese Conversation
• JPN 42103 Independent Study in Japanese

Effective Spring 2020

The Japanese Language Minor

To this end, the Japanese Language Minor requires completion of a minimum of 12 credits (4 courses). By completing the Japanese Language Minor, students will also have fulfilled the Hunter College language requirement. No grade below B- shall be considered to fulfill the requirements for this minor.

Students must complete the following course:

• JPN 20200 Intermediate Japanese II

Students must take at least three of the following courses or an elective course approved by the department head (9 credit hours total):

Minor in Japanese Studies

The Japanese Studies Minor seeks to develop students' understanding of Japanese culture, while also fostering a broader understanding of Japan's influence in the world. The required culture classes (JPN 25100 and JPN 25200) will give students a foundation specifically in Japanese culture and society, and the additional elective courses offer students the option to customize the aspects of Japan they want to research. This minor is designed to be flexible and accommodate students who do not take Japanese language classes, but rather have an interest purely in Japanese culture. The majority of classes that satisfy this minor are taught in English, however some Japanese language classes can be used to fulfill it. Students who complete the minor will have a well-rounded perspective on Japanese history and contemporary issues that will give insight into Japan. No grade below B- shall be considered to fulfill these requirements.

Students must complete the following courses (6 credit hours)

- JPN 25100 Japanese Culture Before 1600
- JPN 25200 Japanese Culture Since 1600

Students must take at least two of the following elective courses or an elective course approved by the department head (6 credit hours total)

- JPN 27100 Japanese Reading: Recitation and Comprehension
- JPN 35100 Advanced Japanese Conversation
- JPN 42103 Independent Study in Japanese
- ASIAN 21000 Asians in the U.S.
- ASIAN 22001 Asian American Women Writers
- ASIAN 32001 Nation, Self, and Asian Identity
- ASIAN 35152 Asian American Literature and Pop Culture
- FILM 21355 National Cinema: Asian Cinema
- HIST 27700 East Asia to 1600 (W)
- HIST 27800 East Asia, 1600 to the Present (W)

Note: Students may petition for other courses to fulfill the elective requirement. No more than one class from other campuses or universities may be used to fulfill requirements.

Minor in Jewish Studies

The minor in Jewish Studies consists of 12 credits in courses in Jewish studies of which at least 3 credits must be on topics in the history of the Jews or Judaism and at least 3 credits in Jewish literature, thought, religion, or one of the social sciences (sociology, anthropology, or political science). Students can apply to the minor up to 6 credits in Independent Studies (JS 30000 or JS 40000) or fieldwork (JS 31000). Up to six credits in Jewish studies taken at other institutions of higher learning may be applied to the minor. Jewish Studies minors cannot apply any 100-level courses to the minor.

Minor in Journalism
Training future journalists to report the news accurately and ethically is essential to the future of the news industry. While a major or minor in journalism is not a prerequisite to work in the news industry, many news organizations do prefer to hire students that have this credential because these employers are familiar with journalism curricula. This minor offers students the opportunity to pursue an 18-credit minor in Journalism, affording them a potentially beneficial credential when seeking internships, fellowships, or jobs with news organizations. The Journalism minor will attract students from other disciplines like Political Science, Urban Studies, and Public Policy that require a foundation in journalism for their expertise. Media Studies majors may earn the Journalism minor and in that event, will be able to count MEDIA 18000 for both the major and the minor.

Minor in Legal Studies

The Legal Studies minor is an interdisciplinary course of study that allows students to examine the role and development of law from different perspectives within a liberal arts curriculum. Legal studies students will be introduced to the study of judicial opinions, theories of law and legal interpretation, the structure and role of legal institutions, and the operation of law in history and everyday life. Law is a central feature of political, social, and economic life. The legal studies minor will prepare students embarking on careers in government, business, or the non-profit sector to think broadly and critically about the nature of law. It will also be extremely helpful for any students planning to pursue graduate study focusing on law or legal institutions, in a wide variety of disciplines. The legal studies program places an emphasis on developing students’ communication skills, interdisciplinary scholarship and a commitment to connect undergraduate education to advanced career opportunities. The core of the legal studies minor, though, is a commitment to the study of law within the liberal arts tradition. While there are many ways for students to prepare successfully for law school, an advantage of the legal studies minor is its ability to help the college identify students planning to apply to law school, to ensure that these students receive guidance on the application process as early as possible, and to give them a solid foundation when they enter law school.

Program Requirements (15 credits)

Students are required to complete at least one course from within each of the three categories below. Students can take no more than three courses from one department. No more than two courses from the student's major can be applied toward the Legal Studies minor. Courses used to fulfill the Legal Studies minor may be used to meet any other degree requirements, including the political science major. Students should be aware that courses listed for this minor may have prerequisites within their home departments.

Foundations of Legal Studies

These courses teach students foundational knowledge and skills that are important for thinking and writing clearly about law.

Minor in Logic

Currently, logic is studied by three distinct disciplines—Computer Science, Mathematics, and Philosophy. This minor is interdisciplinary and will introduce students to the questions about logic that these disciplines raise, their methods for investigating these questions, and applications these disciplines may find for logic. Symbolic Logic is the foundational course, prerequisite for the current three advanced-level courses. Students must take this course prior to declaring the Minor in Logic. Each of the three disciplines is represented by an advanced-level course:

Foundational Course

This course must be taken before students are able to sign up for the Minor

CSCI 27500 - Symbolic Logic

Sentential logic including symbolizations, truth-value tables, formal derivations. Predicate logic including symbolizations, interpretations, and formal derivations.

cross-listed MATH 27500, PHILO 27500

3 hrs
3 cr.

Logic in the disciplines of Mathematics, Philosophy, & Computer Science

CSCI 37100 - Advanced Symbolic Logic

A survey of the central results and techniques of meta-logic, principally mathematical induction, the soundness and completeness of theorems for first-order logic, the Skolem theorem and Church's theorem on undecidability.

cross-listed PHILO 37500

prereq: PHILO 27500 or CSCI 27500 or MATH 27500

3 hrs
3 cr.

CSCI 37700 - Non-classical Logic
Logic is the systematic and precise study of reasoning—a topic of particular interest to mathematicians and computer scientists as well as philosophers. Philosophers have often functioned as the research and development wing of this collaboration, thinking up and formalizing new logical techniques and systems designed to solve problems that can't be solved by traditional (a.k.a. "classical") logic. This course will be an introduction to some of these non-classical logics, their philosophical motivations, and some of their applications.

cross-listed PHILO 37700, MATH 37700
prereq: PHILO 27500 or MATH 27500 or CSCI 27500
3 hrs
3 cr.

CSCI 37200 - Logic and Computers

This course introduces students to logic and its applications to modeling both computer and real-world systems. Topics include various logics and their applications to modeling systems and reasoning for artificial intelligence, along with proof systems and tools for automated or semi-automated reasoning in these logics.

prereq: CSCI 15000 -or- PHILO/CSCI/MATH 27500
3 hrs
3 cr.

No more than 6 crs. that count towards the minor may be used to fulfill the major in Philosophy.

Total credits required 12

Minor in Mathematics

A minor in mathematics consists of a minimum of 12 credits selected from any of the following courses offered by the Department:

- MATH courses numbered 15000 or above
- STAT 31100
- STAT 31200

Students should consult the catalog to determine prerequisites necessary for them to enroll in courses that count toward the minor. It is recommended that prospective mathematics minors consult with an undergraduate mathematics adviser concerning course selection.

Minor in Media Studies

The Minor in Media Studies consists of five courses for a total of 15 credits. At least one 200-level course and at least one 300-level course are required. The other three courses can be at any level. Course prerequisites must be satisfied. Internships and independent studies do not count towards the minor.

Minor in Middle East Studies

The Minor in Middle East Studies seeks to develop students' understanding of the complex and interconnected political, economic, cultural, environmental, linguistic, historical, and religious issues in the region by fostering critical, interdisciplinary and global approaches to the study of the Middle East and its diasporas. To this end, the Minor in Middle East Studies (MMES) requires completion of a minimum of 12 credits (4 courses). In addition, students are encouraged to fulfill the college language requirement through study of a regional language. However, there is no language requirement for the MMES. No grade below B- shall be considered to fulfill these requirements.

Admission to the Minor

Students who have completed at least 3 credits of relevant coursework in Middle East Studies (including regional languages) with an average GPA of 3.0 may apply for admission to the Minor. To declare the Minor, students will complete the Minor Declaration form and meet with the Director. For advising purposes students are encouraged to apply early in their academic careers. Any Middle East Studies related courses taken prior to declaring the Minor shall count toward the 12 credit minimum for the Minor in Middle East Studies. Credits earned toward the Minor in Middle East Studies shall not also count toward the fulfillment of Major or other Minor requirements.

Introductory survey course: 3 cr

All students will take one survey course in Middle East Studies chosen from among the following, or another general survey course subject to approval by the Director:

ANTHC 20100 - The Middle East: Societies and Cultures

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A
GER
3/B

Peasant, nomadic and urban society; kinship, ethnic, religious and ecological diversity; colonialism and modernization.

Electives: 9 cr

In addition, students will take a minimum of 9 credits in electives, and must choose at least one class focusing on the Middle East from each of the following three areas of concentration:

I) Historical Formations

II) Society and Politics

III) Arts, Literatures, and Cultures

Students may petition for other courses to fulfill the elective requirement. See list below for currently offered courses that meet these requirements:

- List of Selected Approved Courses for the Minor in Middle East Studies

Students may fulfill 3 of the 9 credit hour elective requirement with advanced language and literature classes (3rd year and beyond), for Area of Concentration III) Arts, Literatures and Cultures. With the approval of the Director, students may take an independent study and one course from outside Hunter College to satisfy the requirements for the Minor.

Minor in Music

The music minor consists of 15 credits in music: MUSTH 10100; MUSHL 10100 or MUSHL 10700; one course with an MUSHL prefix at the 200-level; and 6 credits of music electives, 3 of which must be at the 200-level or higher. Prospective minors who have already mastered the material taught in the required 100-level courses (MUSTH 10100 and/or MUSHL 10100 or 10700) may be exempted from these courses by passing the same entrance examination that is required of prospective music majors (see Music 25-Credit Major - BA). Music minors must substitute more advanced courses in any area of music study, which may include private lessons and ensembles, for the courses from which they are exempt. PLEASE NOTE: Music minors who wish to take private lessons for credit (MUSPF 40100) must first pass both the performance audition and music theory portions of the entrance examination.
Minor in Philosophy (the Standard concentration)

Standard Philosophy Minor

The philosophy minor requires 12 credits at the 200-level and above with no fewer than 3 credits at the 300-level. Exceptions: PHILO 17000 may count toward the minor at the 200-level and PHILO 20400 shall not count.

Minimum GPA for the minor

A student must pass a minor in philosophy with a minimum GPA of 3.00.

Note:

Students should always consult with a philosophy department adviser when constructing their minor. Some suggested tracks may be found on the philosophy department website http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/philosophy.

Minor in Philosophy, Politics and Society

A student must take, as a prerequisite to the minor, PHILO 10600. This course does not count toward the PPS minor. The PPS minor consists in taking 4 courses or 12 credits from the philosophy courses listed in the PPS major, at least one of which must be at the 300-level. Non-philosophy courses counting toward the PPS major concentration may not count toward the PPS minor. A student must pass the PPS minor with a minimum GPA of 3.00. Note: When constructing a minor in the PPS concentration, a student should always consult with a philosophy department advisor beforehand.

Minor in Physical Anthropology

The Physical Anthropology Minor introduces students to the study of human evolution, including human variation, paleontology, genetics, and primatology. The Minor consists of a minimum of 12 credits. These must include ANTHP 101 Human Evolution (4 Cr). The remaining credits can be filled by any AN-P courses. Also, one (and only one) non-ANTHP course from the following list may count towards the minor. In order to graduate with a Physical Anthropology Minor, students must earn a C grade or better in all the courses counted towards the minor.

Required course for the Minor:

ANTHP 10100 (STEM) - Human Evolution
Hunter Core

Life and Physical Sciences (LPS) Scientific World (SW)

GER

2/E

The study of human origins and adaptation, through an understanding of evolutionary mechanisms, genetics, comparative primate biology, the fossil record, and modern human variation.

offered every sem.

8 or more credits from any of the following courses:

Note: Only one non-ANTHP may be used for the Physical Anthropology Minor.

ANTHP 10200 (STEM) - Human Variation

Hunter Core

Scientific World (SW) STEM; Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)

GER

2/E

Description and analysis of biological variation in living human populations. Both genetic and phenotypic variation will be examined. Lab experiments and demonstrations.

6 hrs (3 hrs lec, 3 hrs lab)

offered every sem.

ANTHP 30100 - Human Fossil Record

Pluralism and Diversity

PD/C

GER

3/B

The hominid fossil record of Africa, Asia and Europe. Human evolution as evidenced in fossil record.

prereq: ANTHP 10100, 10200, or equiv.

3 hrs

3 cr.

ANTHP 30200 - Human Genetics

Analysis of distribution of contemporary human populations and microevolutionary processes that underlie human variability.

prereq: ANTHP 10100 or ANTHP 10200 or BIOL 10200 or ANTHP 10500

3 hrs

3 cr.

ANTHP 31000 - Primate Ecology and Behavior
Examination of ecological factors responsible for the distribution and behavior of living primate species.

prereq: ANTHP 10100 or 10200 or BIOL 10000 or 10200
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHP 31100 - Primate Evolution

65 million years of evolution covering the appearance and radiation of our own mammalian Order. A detailed look at the primate fossil record and the evolution of primate anatomy, behavior, and ecology.

prereq: ANTHP 10100 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHP 31200 - Primate Evolutionary Genetics

Examines evolutionary relationships, social behavior, natural selection, disease, population history, demography, medicine and genomics. This course draws on readings from the primary literature.

prereq: ANTHP 10100 OR ANTHP 10200 OR BIOL 10200 OR ANTHP 10500
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHP 31600 - Human Evolutionary Adaptations

How does the human body work, and how did it get that way? This course investigates the workings and evolution of all aspects of human biology. Human physiology is considered in an evolutionary framework.

prereq: ANTHP 10100 or ANTHP 10500
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHP 40100 - Seminars in Selected Topics

Course provides in-depth study of specific topics in field of physical anthropology.

Introduction to Geology is the study of the physical aspects of our planet. The goal of this course is to provide students with a basic understanding of the forces continuously shaping the surface of our planet and the influence they have on our environment, so that their appreciation and interest in our planet is heightened. At the same time, this course provides a strong fundamental background for students who want to pursue more advanced geological and environmental studies courses.

3 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.
Offered fall and spring.

PSYCH 16000 - Evolution and Behavior

Minor in Physics

A minor in Physics consists of a minimum of 12 credits of PHYS courses, including two courses numbered above 200 or one course numbered above 300. Students who wish to enroll in the Physics Minor must have completed:

- MATH 15000 and/or MATH 15500.

The prerequisites for the 300-level courses include MATH 25000 and/or MATH 25400.

Minor in Political Science

Students minoring in political science must complete 12 credits in political science. No more than three credits can be at the 100-level. No more than three credits in independent study (POLSC 29001-29003) can be used to satisfy the minor. Internship credits may not be applied toward the minor. The minor in Political Science is designed to provide students with solid grounding in political science and to encourage them to develop depth in the discipline in an area that will complement their major or develop expertise in an area of particular interest to them. The minor in Political Science allows students considerable flexibility in designing a minor that will best serve their academic goals. Students may, for instance, wish to focus on courses dealing with European politics and foreign policy to complement a major in a European language and culture. Students may concentrate their courses in one field of political science, or spread them across several fields. Students may consult an advisor in the Department of Political Science about their goals as they choose courses to satisfy the minor.

Minor in Political Theory

The Political Theory Minor provides a concentration of study for students interested in political, social, and legal philosophy or thought, often related to public discourses, practices, and laws. It recognizes the interdisciplinary character of political theory, which operates at the intersection of the humanities and social sciences. It focuses on critical issues of ethics and power in history and the present, along with major authors in the traditions of political philosophy and thought.

The minor program consists of at least 15 credits taken from the courses listed below, or others as approved by the minor program advisor. Students must take at least 6 credits in philosophy and 6 credits in political science, including PHILO 10600 (or another 100-level PHILO course, with permission of the Advisor) and POLSC 20000. At least 3 credits must be taken at the 300-level, and one course must be taken from each of the three Minor categories (listed below). No more than six credits that count towards the student's major may be used to fulfill this Minor.

Minor in Psychology

The minor in psychology is designed to expose students to a variety of content areas in the field of psychology and to provide the student with the ability to evaluate psychology research as a consumer. To declare a psychology minor, the student must have completed any 100-level psychology course with a minimum grade of C and a required mathematics course with a minimum grade of C or CR. The mathematics requirement may be satisfied by STAT 11300 or MATH 12500 or by an appropriate score on the mathematics placement test. The minor in Psychology consists of 15 credits in Psychology, as follows: PSYCH 10000 and any other 3 cr. PSYC course; PSYCH 21500; and any 2 200-level PSYC courses below PSYCH 24800. The total number of credits to fulfill all minor requirements, including credits for all prerequisites, is 18: 15 credits in PSYC course and 3 credits in STAT 11300 or MATH 12500.

Minor in Public Health

A new 12-credit minor concentration in Public Health is designed to provide a basic acquaintance with the activities and aims of Community and Public Health. This will be especially useful for students who are majoring in Statistics - BA and aim to seek employment and/or a graduate degree in Biostatistics, students majoring in Social Sciences who are contemplating careers in the medical-care sector, or students interested in public service or social service in the health arena.

Students take a programmed sequence of four courses, offering a basic grounding in public-health thinking and some skills that will be valuable in further study and employment.

Minor in Statistics

A minor in statistics consists of at least 12 credits selected from STAT courses offered by the Department. Students should consult the catalog to determine prerequisites necessary for them to enroll in courses that count toward the minor. It is recommended that prospective statistics minors consult with an undergraduate statistics adviser concerning course selection.

Minor in Theatre

A Minor in Theatre requires a minimum of 12 credits in the Department of Theatre at the 200-level or higher of which at least 3 credits must be at the 300-level (these are usually at least 3 credits). Minors are required to take all necessary prerequisites for these courses. Minors have access to all courses offered by the Department of Theatre. Minors are encouraged to participate in departmental and student productions. Interested students must meet with the undergraduate advisor in the Department of Theatre to declare a minor and to define their course of study.

Minor in Women and Gender Studies

The Minor in Women and Gender Studies requires students to take 12 credits: Introduction to Gender and Sexuality Studies (WGS 10000), Classics in Feminist Thought (WGS 20100), Transnational Feminisms (WGS 24400) and one elective course from one of the six areas of concentration.

WGS 10000 - Introduction to Gender and Sexuality Studies, must be completed before WGS 20100 - Classics in Feminist Thought (W) and WGS 24400 - Transnational Feminisms.

Minors for Geography Majors

A minor course of study is no longer required at Hunter College. However, geography majors can elect to minor in any field of their choice. It is recommended, but not required, that the chosen field be related to the student's principal interest(s) in geography, and that the student consult with the Geography Undergraduate Adviser prior to selection of a minor course of study.

Minor in Geography

A minor in geography consists of a minimum of 12 credits chosen from undergraduate courses that have a GEOG, PGEOG or GTECH prefix. Prerequisites may apply. Thoughtful selection of courses may result in a minor program of study that will enhance the student's major. It is recommended that prospective geography minors consult with the geography undergraduate adviser concerning course selection.

Minor in Geology
A minor in geology consists of a minimum of 12 credits selected from courses with a GEOL prefix, or PGEOG 23100, or PGEOG 33400, or GTECH 35000. Prerequisites may apply. It is recommended that prospective geology minors consult with an undergraduate adviser from the Department of Geography.

Minor in Environmental Studies

A minor in environmental studies consists of a minimum of 12 credits as follows:

- one course selected from PGEOG 13000 (STEM), GEOL 10000, GEOL 10500, GEOL 18000; and
- at least one course (minimum of 3 credits) selected from PGEOG 25000, PGEOG 25100*, GEOG 22600, GEOL 28000, or GTECH 20100; and
- at least one course (minimum of 3 credits) from the 300-level approved electives listed in the college catalog under either the environmental studies program's Concentration A (Environmental Earth Science) or Concentration B (Environmental Management and Policy).

*PGEOG 25000 is a prerequisite for PGEOG 25100

Minors in Philosophy

- Minor in Philosophy (the Standard concentration)
- Minor in Philosophy, Politics and Society
- Minor in Political Theory
- Minor in Logic

Undergraduate Certificate

Arts Management and Leadership Certificate

The new Arts Management and Leadership (AML) certificate draws on current strengths within existing departments and utilizes existing courses, relying on the research and creative interests of associated faculty to provide a compelling basis for study of the burgeoning field of arts management and leadership. The program serves students interested in careers in both the visual and the performing arts, and focuses on entrepreneurial, for-profit and non-profit arts organizations as well as on established cultural institutions. This new certificate program is designed to make undergraduate students at Hunter aware of employment opportunities offered by the arts organizations of New York and to help them prepare for both entry-level jobs and satisfying long-term careers in arts management. This plan focuses on the skills and knowledge needed to make arts organizations effective. Students will learn how artists and other professionals in cultural organizations face and solve problems of marketing, regulation, audience development and sustainability, as well as many other complex difficulties faced by arts leaders and managers.

Program Description

The AML certificate is a 15-credit program. It is taken in concurrence with any undergraduate major at Hunter College. This is a new program. It begins spring 2019.

Courses Required for the Certificate
Prerequisites of required courses will be waived by the department offering the course for students pursuing the certificate. Students may apply 6 credits from the certificate program towards other programs. Students who are majoring in Accounting may replace the ACC 22500 and ACC 23000 requirements with ACC 28000 and ACCP 37400. ACC 28000 and ACCP 37400 can be used for both the Accounting-BS and the Arts Management certificate.

The certificate program in Arts Management and Leadership includes four 3-credit courses, plus a 3-credit internship with a mentored capstone project, for a total of 15 credits. Students must maintain a 2.5 GPA in required courses to receive this certificate.

URBS 20300 - Introduction to Arts Management

In this course, we will explore the state of the art communities in the contemporary United States, discover how we arrived at the kinds of organizations in which much art is typically produced today, and learn the basic principles of arts management. We will also take advantage our location in New York City—a world capital for careers in the arts—to learn about arts management from leaders who have built careers at some of the nation's most respected arts and cultural organizations.

_prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr._

ACC 22500 - Survey of Accounting

An introductory accounting survey course designed specifically for non-majors to gain understanding of business terminology and the role of accounting in business environment. It will specifically focus on providing students with the ability to understand and effectively analyze financial information using the financial statements of a company (as an external user), as well as internal company information that will enhance business decision-making process such as budgeting (as an internal user), combining both financial and managerial accounting areas. It will also briefly introduce the basics of non-profit accounting while highlighting differences between for-profit and non-profit accounting information needs and presentations (See attached sample syllabus).
For non-accounting majors only.
_prereq: none (cannot be used towards Accounting major)
3 hrs
3 cr._

MEDP 39900 - Special Topics in Advanced Media Production

Taught periodically, with topic listed in Schedule of Classes.
_prereq: MEDIA 18000, others variable
3 hrs
3 cr._

(MEDP 39991 Strategic Communication and Marketing for the Arts)
Theory and practice of effective strategic communications and marketing for non-profit arts organizations and art and media businesses. Students learn techniques for formal and creative industry-leading techniques for maximizing exposure for a cause or brand through public relations, social media and digital media storytelling tools. Students will create a fictional organization around which they will build a cohesive media strategy, utilizing cutting-edge tools and best practices to develop long-term media strategy, breaking news, crisis communications and brand elevation. Students will be positioned to become a one-stop shop for leading strategic media engagement and staying above the fray in a quickly evolving landscape.

ACC 23000 - Essentials of Business Law
An introductory business law survey course designed specifically for non-majors to allow them to gain an understanding of basic legal concepts and terminology and the role of law in the business environment. It will specifically focus on the legal issues often encountered in business, including contract law, property law, negotiable instruments, secured transactions and bankruptcy, business entities.
For non-accounting majors only.

prereq: none (cannot be used towards Accounting Major)
3 hrs
3 cr.

URBS 40900 - Urban Studies Internship

GER
3/B

Students gain first-hand experience by working in urban-related public, private, or non-profit agencies. The internships provide knowledge about urban planning or policy issues.

Open only to declared urban studies majors within 45 credits of graduation.

3 hrs
3 cr.

Program Outcome

By the end of this program, students will be able to demonstrate understanding of:

- how creators, entrepreneurs, advocates, policy makers, and others fit into a broad system of financing, management, marketing, and regulation
- how new opportunities for artist and audience connections are forged
- the workings of non-profit organizations, such as museums, orchestras, and community theaters
- the likely long-term success of an arts organization in terms of its artistic qualities, its managerial strength, the depth of its support, and the likely strength of its market position
- the financing of arts and media projects, including entrepreneurial endeavors that students might create or on which they might collaborate.

Business Studies Certificate
The Certificate in Business Studies, a 15-credit program housed in the Economics department, consists of courses drawn from several departments. While the best foundation for any career is a liberal arts education, many students want to supplement their liberal arts education with business-specific skills and a credential signaling those skills to potential employers. We rely on businesses in New York City for work opportunities for students, and on the Cooperman Pre-Business Center for coordination of internships and workshops in business skills.

Eligibility

1. Full-time students currently enrolled at Hunter College who have earned 25-95 credits. A minimum of 1/3 of these credits must have been earned at Hunter College. Graduate students and individuals with advanced degrees are not eligible to apply. Successful applicants will show evidence of the following:
   o Academic excellence and a minimum 3.2 cumulative GPA
   o Demonstrated interest in business o Required prerequisite course ECO 10000 o Students selected for the Program must maintain a minimum overall GPA of 3.0.

Note: BA/MA candidates are in fact undergraduates, and therefore eligible.

Application

1. An electronic copy of their resumé, highlighting extra-curricular activities and interests
2. An electronic copy of their official transcript
3. One essay of 650 words or fewer, answering the following three questions:
   o What are you doing today that demonstrates your interest in business?
   o What are your professional aspirations upon graduating Hunter?
   o How will participating in the Business Studies Certificate help you achieve these goals?
4. Based on written applications, select students may be invited to interview with the Business Certificate Admissions Committee. The Admissions Committee will select applicants subject to available resources. We expect to limit enrollment to 30 students per year, at least initially.

Curriculum

The certificate program will include three required 3-credit courses, plus one elective drawn from existing courses at the college and a 3-credit internship with an associated capstone course.

24-credit Certificate in Human Rights

- 4 Core Required Courses from an approved list
  - HR 20000 Introduction to Human Rights: History, Discourse, Practice (W)
  - HR 25000 Human Rights Internship
  - HR 26000 Human Rights Internship Seminar (W)
  - HR 35000 Human Rights Capstone Seminar (W)
- 4 Elective Cognate Courses from an approved list
  - The approved list of cognates comprises courses drawn from 18 academic departments and programs, giving students a wide range of traditional disciplinary perspectives to examine claims about the universal nature of human rights, their historical origins, social and cultural contexts that affect the understanding and status of human rights, and the relation of human rights to political conflicts and the presence or absence of economic well-being. Students should work with the Human Rights Program adviser to put together an intellectually meaningful set of cognate courses. Complementing these elective courses offered by regular Hunter departments, the Human Rights Program itself offers special elective courses taught at Roosevelt House each semester by distinguished human rights practitioners. To be accepted into the Certificate program, a student must have at least completed HR 20000 with a B and have a cumulative GPA of 3.0.

Public Policy Certificate

Public Policy is an 18-credit undergraduate minor open to students in all disciplines. Students also have an option to receive a Certificate in Public Policy by taking 9 additional credits (for a total of 27 credits).

The Roosevelt House public policy program is based on the understanding that the preparation of informed individuals is the key to a vibrant participatory democracy. The program prepares students by providing essential research and analytical skills that are important goals of a strong liberal arts education. Our graduates are unique: they span many majors from Anthropology to Political Science, Women & Gender Studies to Biology. Students have an opportunity to interact first-hand with policy experts and practitioners, both in the classroom and outside, and learn how policies are created, how communities come together to demand change, who benefits from specific policies, and how public policy impacts can be best measured. These are important skills that enable students to enter competitive graduate school programs, or to embark on careers in public affairs and the nonprofit sector at the local, national or global level.

Core Requirements

An 18-credit undergraduate minor in public policy is open to students in all disciplines. In addition to the Core Requirements, students need to take one course in each of the four basic skill areas (political, economic, quantitative and normative analysis).

PUPOL 10000 - Introduction to Public Policy

An interdisciplinary introduction to public policy utilizing the literature and tools of a variety of social science disciplines. This course introduces students to basic concepts and approaches in public policy. It will acquaint students with public policy as a field of study, the basic elements of the policy making process, and distinct modes for analyzing public policy and its outcomes. It will be team-taught by faculty from at least two related social science disciplines.

Writing Requirements: This course will require 20 to 25 pages of writing in the form of two take home essay examinations (4-5 pages each), a proposal for a final paper (3-5), and a final paper (8-10 pages).

Open only to students enrolled in the program. Cannot be used to fulfill any other requirements. This course is taken at the state of the art Roosevelt House.

prereq: declaration of a minor/certificate in Public Policy and a minimum GPA requirement of 3.0

3 hrs
3 cr.

PUPOL 40000 - Capstone Seminar

This writing intensive course is the culminating experience in the Public Policy minor/certificate. It provides students with an opportunity to apply the knowledge and skills acquired in their other courses to a specific policy problem. An interdisciplinary course, it will require students to make an inquiry into a specific policy problem. The project will be overseen jointly by a faculty adviser who specializes in the substantive area of public policy chosen and another faculty adviser in the program by writing a formal paper. Each student will write an appropriately revised 5-7 page research proposal and a 20-25 page research paper involving primary research. These courses are only open to students enrolled in the program. They cannot be used to fulfill any other requirements. This course is taken at the state of the art Roosevelt House.

prereq: Students must have completed 45 credits, have a declared major, and a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher.

POLSC 11000 - American Government: A Historical Introduction (W)

Hunter Core

US Experience in its Diversity (USED)

GER

1/C or 2/B

Overview of the American political system from a historical perspective, with emphasis on the Constitution and its enduring influence, development of party systems and citizen participation and evolving role of Congress, presidency and courts.

Not open to students who have passed CLEP or the AP American Government exam or who have taken or received transfer credit for POLSC 11100. Please note that all versions of Introduction to American Government taken at other colleges and universities or credited by examination (e.g., CLEP, AP American Government) are the equivalent of POLSC 11100. Students cannot use credit for both POLSC 11000 and POLSC 11100 to fulfill graduation requirements or major requirements.

ECO 20000 - Principles of Microeconomics

GER

2/B

Covers the fundamental principles and analytical tools of microeconomics. The course develops models of consumer and firm behavior and uses them to study foundational topics such as taxation, labor and trade. The course builds tools for welfare analysis in perfectly competitive and imperfectly competitive markets.

May be taken prior to or concurrently with ECO 20100.

prereq: Math and Writing Proficient AND MATH 10100 or 101EN or 12400 or 12500 or 12550 or 15000 or 15200 or 15500 and ECO 10000

Certificate in Public Policy: Substantive Policy Specialization

For the Public Policy Certificate each student will take the 6 core courses (18 credits) for the Minor and will be required to declare a substantive area of specialization comprised of 3 courses (9 credits) of additional course work. These may be grounded in a particular discipline or disciplines and should be at the 300-level or by permission of the program director. Or a student may use the substantive specialization to take advantage of clusters of expertise that exist across several Hunter departments. Examples of the latter include (but are not limited to) immigration, health, aging, gender studies, macroeconomics, public finance, economic development, social welfare, public law, human rights, ethics, international relations, international trade, education, urban affairs, environmental studies, and labor. Courses designated for the substantive specialization need approval by the director of the program.

Additional Opportunities

The Public Policy Program offers other unique opportunities to its students in the form of conferences, lectures, brown bag seminars, internships and travel. These options are designed to enrich and supplement the students’ experiences at the Roosevelt House Public Policy Institute.

Generic Policy Courses

Advanced courses which build on the knowledge and skills acquired in the core courses and are applicable to students in a wide range of substantive specializations.

Internships

While internships are not a formal requirement to complete the program, it is a highly recommended option. Undergraduate internship programs are designed to give students a chance to work in a policy-related institutional setting outside the university, either in a government agency, nonprofit, think tank, or advocacy group. Additionally,
Roosevelt House has entered into a partnership with the prestigious Brookings Institution in Washington, DC to place a few undergraduates enrolled in the Public Policy Program to work with their scholars in the summer.

Policy Colloquia

A colloquium series will be launched at Roosevelt House that will allow students and faculty to come together several times a semester to discuss public policy issues. Guest speakers, including scholars and practitioners, with relevant expertise will be invited to discuss topics of the day either individually or in panels.

Other Degrees

Area of Concentration 1: Feminist Thought and Theory (WGST)

Return to Women and Gender Studies - BA

Courses with the prefix WGST denote courses that can be taken under the area of concentration Feminist Thought and Theory.

- WGST 400.53 Body Politics: Sexuality and Reproduction
- WGST 20900 Women and Gender in Western Political Thought (W)
- WGST 23000 Feminism: Philosophical Theory and Practice (W)
- WGST 29000 Special Topics in Feminist Thought and Theory
- WGST 30900 Feminist Political Theory

In addition selected courses offered in other departments do meet the departmental requirement for this area of concentration. Such courses include but are not limited to:

- POLSC 486.57 - Body Politics: Sexuality and Reproduction
- POLSC 20900 Women and Gender in Western Political Thought (W)
- PHILO 23000 Feminism: Philosophical Theory and Practice (W)
- POLSC 20900 Women and Gender in Western Political Thought (W)
- POLSC 30900 Feminist Political Theory (W)

Check the Women and Gender Studies Department to see the complete list of courses that meet the area of concentration requirement for the major. Also on the department website, check the Schedule of Classes to see which of these courses are offered each semester.

Area of Concentration 2: Sexualities (WGSS)

Return to Women and Gender Studies - BA

Courses with the prefix WGSS denote courses that can be taken under the area of concentration Sexualities.

- WGSS 15000 - Introduction to LGBTQI Studies
- WGSS 17000 - Psychology of Human Sexuality
- WGSS 19000 - Development of Gender Roles
- WGSS 21900 - Women and the Law (W)
In addition selected courses offered in other departments do meet the departmental requirement for this area of concentration. Such courses include but are not limited to:

- PSYCH 17000 Psychology of Human Sexuality
- PSYCH 19000 Development of Gender Roles
- SOC 25700 Sex and Gender Roles
- NURS 35100 Gender, Science and Technology

Check the Women and Gender Studies Department to see the complete list of courses that meet the area of concentration requirement for the major. Also on the department website, check the Schedule of Classes to see which of these courses are offered each semester.

Area of Concentration 3: Gender & Public Policy (WGSP)

Return to Women and Gender Studies - BA

Courses with the prefix WGSP denote courses that can be taken under the area of concentration Gender and Public Policy

- WGSP 21900 - Women and the Law
- WGSP 22300 - Sociology of the Family
- WGSP 23500 - The Psychology of Women
- WGSP 23900 - Child Welfare
- WGSP 25100 - Women and Health
- WGSP 26100 - Women and Politics
- WGSP 26200 - Women, War and Peace
- WGSP 29000 Special Topics in Gender and Public Policy
- WGSP 32000 - Internship Seminar: Feminist Activism and Advocacy
- WGSP 39800 - Community Leadership Seminar
- WGSP 49000 Leadership Field Work Internship

In addition selected courses offered in other departments do meet the departmental requirement for this area of concentration. Such courses include but are not limited to:

- POLSC 21900 - Women and the Law
- SOC 20100 The Family
- PSYCH 23500 The Psychology of Women
- SOC 23900 - Child Welfare
- HED 20100 Women and Health
- ANTHC 400.54 – Ethnicity, Gender and Disease
- COMHE 40008 - Women, Health and Society

Check the Women and Gender Studies Department to see the complete list of courses that meet the area of concentration requirement for the major. Also on the department website, check the Schedule of Classes to see which of these courses are offered each semester.
Area of Concentration 5: Women and Gender across Cultures (WGSC)

- Return to Women and Gender Studies - BA

Courses with the prefix WGSC denote courses that can be taken under the area of concentration Women and Gender Across Cultures.

- WGSC 15600 Culture of Imperial Russia: The Age of Empresses
- WGSC 29000 Special Topics in Women and Gender Across Cultures
- WGSC 30100 Gender in Anthropological Perspective
- WGSC 30500 Women and Slaves in Classical Antiquity (W)
- WGSC 31800 Women in Africa (W)
- WGSC 32900 Women in the African Diaspora (W)

In addition selected courses offered in other departments do meet the departmental requirement for this area of concentration. Such courses include but are not limited to:

- ANTHC 30100 Gender in Anthropological Perspective
- CLA 30500 Women and Slaves in Classical Antiquity (W)
- CLA 240.70/ENLG 258.61 – Women in Ancient Greece
- RUSS 256.12 – Women in Russian Culture
- ASIAN 241.00 – Asian American Family
- AFPRL 290.94 – Gender Dynamics in Africa
- AFPRL 290.17 – Latina Women
- AFPRL 290.32 – Black Feminism
- ASIAN 390.06 – Gender and Sexuality in Asian American Literature
- GEOG 383.89 – Geography and Gender

Check the Women and Gender Studies Department to see the complete list of courses that meet the area of concentration requirement for the major. Also on the department website, check the Schedule of Classes to see which of these courses are offered each semester.

Area of Concentration 6: Gender, Literature and the Arts (WGSA)

Return to Women and Gender Studies - BA

Courses with the prefix WGSA denote courses that can be taken under the area of concentration Gender, Literature and The Arts

- WSGA 22252 - Topics in Genre Studies: The Woman's Film of the 1940s
- WSGA 25000 - Women and Music (W)
- WSGA 26000 - Russian Women Writers in English Translation (W)
- WSGA 26900 - Spanish American Women's Literature and Cinema (W)
- WSGA 29000 Special Topics in Gender, Literature and the Arts
- WSGA 31900 - Advanced Topics in Literature by Women (W)
• WGSA 33700 - Caribbean Women Writers (W)
• WGSA 36100 - Russian Women Writers
• WGSA 38400 - Women and Media (W)

In addition selected courses offered in other departments do meet the departmental requirement for this area of concentration. Such courses include but are not limited to:

• MUSHL 25000 Women and Music (W)
• RUSS 26000 Russian Women Writers in English Translation (W)
• SPAN 26900 Spanish American Women's Literature and Cinema (W)
• ENGL 258.58 - Caribbean Women Writers (W)
• FILM 21500 Women and Film
• FREN 26200 Perspectives on Women in French Literature
• ASIAN 22001 Asian American Women Writers
• ANTHC 32076 Language, Sex and Gender
• MEDIA 38400 Women and Media

Degree Map for Chemistry Major II Option 3 Bioinfomatics BA

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Chemistry major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

Students who wish to select this major may need additional courses to fulfill the requirements in Mathematics and Statistics. See program details for more information.

- CHEM 33300 Computational Drug Discovery

Notes:

Students who place below MATH 15000, please note the following Math sequence:

MATH 10100 – MATH 12400, MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 – MATH 150. If you start with MATH 12500 Precalculus or MATH 12550 or MATH 12400, the degree map is shifted by one semester and still allows for completion of the major in 4 years.

*CHEM 11100 and CHEM 11200 are sequence options in place of CHEM 10200, CHEM 10400 and CHEM 10600

If taking CHEM 11100, this is a special honors course and is a prerequisite for CHEM 11200.

List of Approved Courses for GER Core Stage 1: Academic Foundations

Stage 1A English Composition: 3 credits

This requirement introduces expository writing and academic discourse. Through reading, writing and rewriting, students learn to generate, explore and refine their own ideas, analyze and evaluate intellectual arguments, take positions and support them persuasively and write with sound grammar, varied sentence structure, logic and coherence.

Geography

GEOG 15000 - World Regions in Global Context

Hunter Core
World Cultures and Global Issues (WCGI)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A or D

GER
2/B

This course draws on and explores the concept of the geographic region as a way to organize and understand our fast-changing and interconnected world. Geographic concepts (e.g., space, place, distance, scale, borders, and regions) are used to study environmental, economic, social, and political conditions and identify key concerns in the culturally diverse world. The course will examine geographic world regions (e.g., South America, Europe, the Middle East, Sub-Saharan Africa, and others), connections in and between these regions, and how these regions and their populations interact as parts of a global system. For each world region, you will learn major historical events, specific interactions between natural environment and social systems, and their potential for and challenges to sustainable development.

Human Geography

GEOG 10100 - People and Their Environment

Hunter Core
Individual and Society - Social Science
GER
2/B

A broad overview of subjects and ideas in geography, possibly the most internally diverse of the social sciences. Covers the geographical aspects of topics including weather and climate, landforms, religions, food, cities, economics, culture, politics and much more. While students will be expected to understand the basics of each of the topics covered, the overarching emphasis will be on understanding the relationships among them. As such, the course builds from one topic to the next, ultimately stressing the sheer geographical complexity and wonder of modern life. Contemporary economic, political and social patterns and problems are discussed.

offered fall and spring.

GEOG 22100 - Economic Geography and Globalization

GER
2/B

An introduction to the sub-discipline of economic geography, which will include an exploration of the history of both economics and geography, and a rigorous global approach to the subjects. Students will come to understand the history of the development of economic thought, leading up to, and transformed, by today's crisis, as well as the particularly geographical nature of economic phenomena and processes, and the immense contributions geographers have made to the understanding of economics. Course focus is on the dominant form of global economic activity today, which is capitalistic, and the way this economic structure plays out through different geographies at different historical moments in time.

Not open to freshmen

Offered fall and spring

GEOG 22600 - Environmental Conservation: Resource Management
Introduces students to environmental studies with a focus on policy and management of resources. The course will examine issues pertaining to sustaining our resource base (biodiversity, food, soil, water and energy), a review of factors influencing sustainable use, and how humans have impacted these key elements of the natural system.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GEOG 25100 - Geography of the United States and Canada

Seeks to familiarize students with the regional geography of the United States and Canada. More specifically, the goals are to acquaint students with the dynamic nature of human and physical features that characterize the study area; the ways in which human and natural phenomena interact to create unique place characteristics and sub-regions; the key environmental issues that characterize the study area and its constituent parts; major trends that are affecting the geography of the two countries; and the locations of principal features. The course begins with general overview material, and then examines the various sub-regions of the study area in much greater detail, focusing on key characteristics and environmental challenges

Individual and Society - Humanities (I&S H)
Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A
GER
2/C

Covering many facets of Japanese culture, this course will focus on the various periods of Japanese history (Jomon, Yayoi, Kofun, and Heian – to name a few) and uncover how many aspects of Japanese culture were shaped. From the influence from nearby countries – most notably China – to its isolationist periods, its mythology, the evolution of its art, the deep-seated love of nature shared by many Japanese, and the co-existence of multiple belief systems, Japan is a truly unique country whose culture continues to gain in popularity within the United States. Taught entirely in English.

While this is a two-part course, Japanese Culture Before 1600 (JPN 25100) will not act as a prerequisite for Japanese Culture Since 1600 (JPN 25200).

It has been contended that religious beliefs about the natural and moral order, as well those concerning human nature, lie at the foundation of the idea of human rights. Some histories of human rights even begin with a survey of the teachings of various major religious traditions. And, as the idea of, and movements for, international human rights swept the globe in the latter parts of the 20th century, scholars and religious thinkers examined and assessed the confluence of the world's religious systems of thought, conscience, and belief with the norms and standards of the human rights project. Yet, even as religious thinkers and leaders contribute significantly to human rights movements around the world, some human rights norms—for example, those prohibiting gender- or religion-based discrimination, prohibitions on certain forms of punishment—seem to conflict head on with the strictures of various religions. This course will examine these various intersections.

Astrology is a belief system that exists cross-culturally because the sky is an omnipresent cultural resource, and while different civilizations have varied beliefs about the meaning of celestial activity, those beliefs share a common thread: the sky is sacred, and celestial activity is an expression of that sacrality. The names of the planets and the stars, as well as their myths and stories may differ from tradition to tradition, but ancient astronomers of every culture studied celestial motion, detected patterns, understood those patterns to be cyclical, and believed they formed the basis of an orderly and precise cosmology.

GER
2/E w/ lab

An introductory lecture/laboratory course for non-biology majors. BIOL 12500 explores the biology that underlies current health and disease topics (including diabetes, cancer, heart disease, sexually transmitted diseases, and nutrition). Using this topics approach, the course provides a survey of human anatomy and physiological function, along with the biological principles of genetics and cellular interactions that comprise our current understanding of the human organism. Laboratory exercises will introduce students to a scientific approach in studying human disease and physiology.

BIOL 15000 (STEM) - CSI: HUNTER (Forensic Biology)

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
GER
GER 2/E with lab

An introductory laboratory course for non-biology majors. This lecture/laboratory course will cover the techniques used by forensic scientists to analyze a crime scene, and the biological concepts behind them. Through the topics that are covered, students will learn how biological evidence like fingerprints, hair, blood, and DNA are collected, analyzed, and presented as evidence to solve crimes.

Required for this course is a 10 minutes PowerPoint presentation in groups in four students. In order to prepare for the presentation, a two page outline from each student is expected. In addition, a group assignment of less than 5 pages long will be assigned as preparation of the presentation. This assignment helps students prepare for a "crime scene" that will be designed by the group using the topics and materials provided in class. Further research for this project is encouraged using library materials or the WWW to provide supplemental information, ideas and images. The laboratory component of the course requires that students record their data, observations, and answer discussion questions (in a short answer format). The completion of their laboratory manual will constitute part of the laboratory grade.

Geography

PGEOG 13000 (STEM) - Weather and Climate

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E
Offers a basic understanding of how weather systems form, why certain regions have particular types of weather patterns, and what is known about climatic fluctuations across the globe. This includes an understanding of the basic physical principals that determine: how hot or cold a particular location is; how seasonal cycles vary in different parts of the world; and the types and amounts of precipitation. Students learn to analyze several types of weather maps and acquire a basic understanding of central issues related to global climate change, one of the most significant environmental issues of our time.
Material Fee: $5

Offered in the Fall and Spring

Geology

GEOL 10000 - Introduction to Geology
Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

Introduction to Geology is the study of the physical aspects of our planet. The goal of this course is to provide students with a basic understanding of the forces continuously shaping the surface of our planet and the influence they have on our environment, so that their appreciation and interest in our planet is heightened. At the same time, this course provides a strong fundamental background for students who want to pursue more advanced geological and environmental studies courses.

3 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.
Offered fall and spring.

GEOL 10100 - Introductory Geology Lab

Hunter Core
Life & Physical Sciences
GER
2/E

Hands-on study of science, scientific method, scientific language and thought, regarding the earth, earth materials and the major geologic processes that continuously shape and reshape our dynamic planet surface. Guided study of minerals and rocks, geological structures, and the sequence of geologic events.

3 hrs.
3 cr.

GEOL 10200 - Plate Tectonics and the Earth's Evolution

GER
2/E

The second course in geology offered to non-geology majors. It is designed to familiarize students with the main concepts used in deciphering and interpreting earth's evolution from the spatial and temporal perspective. Topics to be covered include: geologic time; geological principles; earth materials as recorders of past geologic processes; depositional environments and sedimentary rock record; igneous and metamorphic geologic environments and their rock records; evolution of the solar system; plate tectonics and life on earth; origin of the universe; life on earth and the fossil record; Precambrian, Paleozoic, Mesozoic, and Cenozoic life, history and tectonics. Field trips may be required; transportation fee.

prereq: GEOL 10100
5 hrs (3 lec, 2 lab)
4 cr.
Offered fall.

GEOL 23100 - Principles of Geomorphology

GER
2/E or 3/B

Investigates the geologic forces that shape the surface of the Earth. In the laboratory students will learn to analyze features of the landscape and deduce the processes that produced them. Students will use traditional laboratories as well as Google Earth to learn about a variety of surficial processes.
prereq: PGE 13000 or GEOL 10100
4 hrs (2 lec, 2 lab)
3 cr.

Physics and Astronomy

ASTRO 10000 - Basic Concepts in Astronomy

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)

ASTRO 10100 - Basic Concepts of Astronomy with Laboratory Exercises

GER
2/E with lab

An introductory, one-semester astronomy course designed for non-science majors. Topics include: basic observational features of the night sky, and their explanations; Kepler's laws of planetary motion; Newton's laws of motion and gravitation. Properties of light, and how it reveals the nature of its source. Origin, properties, and evolution of our solar system. The origin and evolution of stars, including giants, dwarfs, supernovae, neutron stars, and black holes.
Structure of The Milky Way and other type of galaxies. Cosmology, Hubble's Law and the expanding universe, from the Big Bang to the present; future scenarios.
The lab consists of traditional hardware experiments and virtual online experiments. Students taking this course will be required to submit online and hard-copy laboratory reports.

GER
3/A
A study of sport using the methods and concerns of scholarship in religion, considering sports as a form of religious expression; and reflexively, an introduction to the concerns and methods of the academic study of religion by means of a concentration on sport. Course foci: a) the meaning of sport forms derivative of its religious setting in a sampling of traditional cultures; b) the values expressed in sport forms considered as rituals; c) the rise of team sports against the background of the reconsideration of the importance of the body in 19th century Western religion, and the emergence of the modern Olympic movement as part of a search for a religious alternative; and d) an arguable implicit spirituality of sport.

REL 32600 - Religious Meanings of the Qurʾān (W)

GER
3/A

This course introduces students to the study of the Qurʾān based on the traditional Islamic "sciences of the Qurʾān" (ʿUlūm al-Qurʾān). Using an introductory text on the Qurʾānic sciences, the course will introduce the traditional areas of concern in the Qurʾānic sciences: the revelation, transmission, form, language and style, hermeneutics, and principles and types of exegesis. The course will continue by introducing students to representative examples of the types of material referred to in the textbook. This material is chosen on the basis of (1) interest, (2) accessibility (especially the availability of English translations) and (3) the ability to give students some exposure to the variety of styles and approaches to the material available in the literature, introducing the students to representative examples of the types of material referred to in the introductory text. This material provides students with illustrative exposure to both classical and modern Muslim approaches to the Qurʾān and its exegesis.

WGS 20100 - Classics in Feminist Thought (W)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C
GER
The course covers the historical debates within the 'women's movement' in the United States by examining some of the 'classical' texts by Mary Wollstonecraft, John Adams, and Sojourner Truth. The course also covers the political and intellectual contribution by women of color to the discipline by reading Gloria Anzuldua, bell hooks, Audre Lorde, Patricia Williams, Kimberley Crenshaw among others. 'Foundational' texts by Gayle Rubin, Judith Butler, and Adrienne Rich offer a deeper understanding of queer theory's influence to the discipline. Even as the course reads 'classic' texts of the discipline, we will critically examine the formation of a cannon.

JPN 25100 - Japanese Culture Before 1600

Hunter Core
Individual and Society - Humanities (I&S H)
Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A
GER
2/C

Covering many facets of Japanese culture, this course will focus on the various periods of Japanese history (Jomon, Yayoi, Kofun, and Heian – to name a few) and uncover how many aspects of Japanese culture were shaped. From the influence from nearby countries – most notably China – to its isolationist periods, its mythology, the evolution of its art, the deep-seated love of nature shared by many Japanese, and the co-existence of multiple belief systems, Japan is a truly unique country whose culture continues to gain in popularity within the United States. Taught entirely in English.

While this is a two-part course, Japanese Culture Before 1600 (JPN 25100) will not act as a prerequisite for Japanese Culture Since 1600 (JPN 25200).

prereq: ENGL 120
3 hrs
3 cr
This course will focus on Japanese culture after roughly 1600. During this time, Japan was largely isolated from the rest of the world, but specific events led to a mixture of vastly different cultures – that of the Japanese and the Western world, which led to many changes within Japan. Additional major topics include the impact of both World Wars, contemporary Japanese lifestyle, and the various holidays and traditions that are celebrated today. Art, literature, and social reform will also play important roles throughout the semester.

JPN 26100 - Special Topics in Japanese Culture

Examination of specific areas of classical or contemporary Japanese culture, such as film or literature, and the economic, political, and social conditions that shaped them.

This course draws on and explores the concept of the geographic region as a way to organize and understand our fast-changing and interconnected world. Geographic concepts (e.g., space, place, distance, scale, borders, and regions) are used to study environmental, economic, social, and political conditions and identify key concerns in the culturally diverse world. The course will examine geographic world regions (e.g., South America, Europe, the Middle East, Sub-Saharan Africa, and others), connections in and between these regions, and how these regions and their populations interact as parts of a global system. For each world region, you will learn major historical events, specific interactions between natural environment and social systems, and their potential for and challenges to sustainable development.

REL 31100 - Women and Religion (W)

An examination of the role of women and the concept of the feminine in world religions.

prereq: ENGL 12000

REL 31600 - Men and Religion (W)

Some years ago, it was deemed axiomatic that all talk of the generic human was really framed by the experience of men, and women's issues were thereby suppressed and overlooked. It has become increasingly recognized by scholars that the generic human is neither male nor female, and such scholars—both male and female—have begun to address issues specific to men. This course is intended to explore some of the concerns that come to expression in this emerging scholarship. Specifically, it focuses on the content of the masculinity within the religious imaginary, the way in which religion has historically promoted the masculinity of males, and on the way in which religion used the rhetoric of masculinity to promote itself.

prereq: ENGL 12000

3/A or B

The course covers the historical debates within the 'women's movement' in the United States by examining some of the 'classical' texts by Mary Wollstonecraft, John Adams, and Sojourner Truth. The course also covers the political and intellectual contribution by women of color to the discipline by reading Gloria Anzuldua, bell hooks, Audre Lorde, Patricia Williams, Kimberley Crenshaw among others. 'Foundational' texts by Gayle Rubin, Judith Butler, and Adrienne Rich offer a deeper understanding of queer theory's influence to the discipline. Even as the course reads 'classic' texts of the discipline, we will critically examine the formation of a cannon.

WGSS 26600 - Our Bodies, Our Politics

Sex and sexuality are commonly understood as an innate drive, but as science has recently begun to show, the way we experience sexuality is better understood as a series of connected cultural practices. It is the constructed meaning attached to the act of sex that make up the foundation of our sexuality. This meaning changes across cultures and communities and has historically been a subject of political and legal struggle. From the battle for reproductive rights to laws limiting dildo ownership in Texas, our own bodies and the way we experience them are legislated and controlled.

This course draws on and explores the concept of the geographic region as a way to organize and understand our fast-changing and interconnected world. Geographic concepts (e.g., space, place, distance, scale, borders, and regions) are used to study environmental, economic, social, and political conditions and identify key concerns in the culturally diverse world. The course will examine geographic world regions (e.g., South America, Europe, the Middle East, Sub-Saharan Africa, and others), connections in and between these regions, and how these regions and their populations interact as parts of a global system. For each world region, you will learn major historical events, specific interactions between natural environment and social systems, and their potential for and challenges to sustainable development.

HIST 36300 - American Cultural History

PD/D
GER
3/B

An exploration of several significant themes in American cultural history from the late nineteenth through the late twentieth centuries. Through close readings of selected primary and secondary works (both written and visual) we will consider the meanings of popular, proto-mass, and mass culture as well as the nature of different levels of cultural tastes and styles in modern American history. Reflecting on the broader social and political context of these developments we will study a range of topics, including the myth of the self-made man, the role of the frontier and the cowboy, and critiques of mass consumer culture. Central to our historical examination of American culture will be an effort to appraise and describe: how American writers, artists, orators, cultural critics and everyday people constructed narratives (written, spoken, musical, visual) of identity for themselves along ethnic, racial, gendered, class-based and national lines; how the construction of those narratives were related to each other; and, how those narratives changed over time depending on specific political and social contexts.

An introduction to the study of human rights. It explores the historical, philosophical, and legal roots of human rights as a political idea and institutionalized practice. It also addressed the contested nature of human rights as an idea and practice in contemporary societies. In addition to providing an introduction to the subject, the course is a requirement for students minoring in Human Rights or pursuing a Human Rights Certificate.

In order to pursue a Human Rights minor or Certificate, a student must receive at least a B (3.0) in this course. Students should take this introductory course in their sophomore year but must take it no later than the first semester of their junior year. This is a writing intensive course.

Some years ago, it was deemed axiomatic that all talk of the generic human was really framed by the experience of men, and women's issues were thereby suppressed and overlooked. It has become increasingly recognized by scholars that the generic human is neither male nor female, and such scholars—both male and female—have begun to address issues specific to men. This course is intended to explore some of the concerns that come to expression in this emerging scholarship. Specifically, it focuses on the content of the masculinity within the religious imaginary, the way in which religion has historically promoted the masculinity of males, and on the way in which religion used the rhetoric of masculinity to promote itself.

Arabic

ARB 10100 - Beginning Arabic I

The goal of this course is to begin developing reading, speaking, listening, writing, and cultural skills in Arabic. The course stresses communication using both formal and informal Arabic. Emphasis is also placed on reading authentic texts from Arabic media, listening to and watching audio and video materials, and developing students' understanding of Arab culture. Preparation for class is an essential component of course, allowing us to devote in-class time to communicating in the language rather than talking "about" the language. Students will be evaluated on attendance and class participation, daily homework assignments, quizzes, skits, a final oral interview and a final examination.

This class is not for native speakers. ARB 10100 usually not credited without ARB 10200. For details about credit policy look here: Foreign Language Requirement

Students may petition for other courses to fulfill the elective requirement. No more than two classes from other campuses or universities may be used to fulfill MMES requirements.

Course Descriptions

Numbering System Each course in the curriculum is defined by an alphabetical prefix and a 3-digit number. The 3-digit number indicates the level of study: 100- and 200-level courses are lower division; 300- and 400-level courses are upper division; 500-, 600- and 700- level courses are graduate courses.

When a W is added to the end of the course number, this means that the course will satisfy the Writing Requirement. However, not all sections of courses with a W meet the writing requirement. Refer to the schedule of classes to see which sections of the course are designated as W.

000-level course designation Developmental courses for ESL students; placement determined by testing of entering students.

100-level course designation Courses with no prerequisites, survey courses or courses defining basic concepts and presenting the terminology of a discipline.

200-level course designation Courses of intermediate college-level difficulty, courses with 100-level course(s) as prerequisite(s) or survey courses devoted to particular areas or fields within a discipline.

300-level course designation Courses of advanced college-level difficulty taken by majors and upper-division students; these are often considered to be courses in the major, offered for students clearly interested in and qualified in the subject.
400-level course designation Advanced upper-division courses and/or seminars, tutorials and honors courses for majors and upperdivision students.

Alphabetical Prefixes The following prefixes are used, preceding the 3-digit number, to designate the field of study. They are listed here alphabetically, with the department or program and field to which they pertain. Specific departments and programs appear alphabetically in the table of contents, the index and the HEGIS Code section.

ANTHP 10500 - The Human Species

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)
GER
2/E

In this course we examine human biology and behavior from an evolutionary perspective, comparing our anatomy, physiology, and behavior to those of living primates and other mammals. We will discuss the relative roles of genes ("nature") and environment ("nurture"), the biological basis of behavior, local biological adaptations evident in modern human populations, growth and development, and diet and disease. Students will actively engage in the development of scientific hypotheses, data collection, and data synthesis analysis, as part of laboratory research experiences throughout the semester. Material covered will help prepare students to understand and evaluate recent advances in genetics, behavioral studies, medicine, and evolution
3 hrs
3 cr.

ANTHP 21000 - Biology of the Living Primates

This survey-based course will examine the diversity of the Order: Primates. The course will focus on the habitats, life history, ecology, behavior, and conservation of the living primates from an evolutionary perspective.

ANTHP 30100 - Human Fossil Record

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C
GER
3/B

The hominid fossil record of Africa, Asia and Europe. Human evolution as evidenced in fossil record.

prereq: ANTHP 10100, 10200, or equiv.
ANTHP 30200 - Human Genetics

Analysis of distribution of contemporary human populations and microevolutionary processes that underlie human variability.

prereq: ANTHP 10100 or ANTHP 10200 or BIOL 10200 or ANTHP 10500

ANTHP 30500 - Evolution of the Human Skeleton

The goal of this course is to understand the biology of the human skeleton: know all of the bones of the human body, how they work, and how they evolved. This course will cover basic bone and muscle biology, bone and bone landmark identification, basic dental anatomy, basic functional interpretation, and discuss the evolution of the human skeleton with comparisons to great ape and fossil material. Typically, there will be two class periods spent on a given topic: the first class meeting will be a lecture and the second class meeting on a given topic will provide a laboratory-type setting where students can handle and work with real osteological specimens and/or fossil casts. Occasionally, the first half of a class period will be a lecture, and the second half will be a lab. Worksheets/Study Guides will be provided and are expected to be completed by the end of the lab. In order to become skilled in bone identification and do well in the course, additional study time with the bones will most likely be necessary. We will set up a system to encourage and facilitate study time outside of class.

ANTHP 30600 - Human Anatomy

The goal of this course is to understand basic human anatomy: know all of the bones, muscles, major nerves and vessels in the human body, how they are organized, and how they function. Typically, there will be two class periods spent on a given topic: the first class meeting will be a lecture and the second class meeting on a given topic will provide a laboratory setting where students can handle and work with real osteological specimens and/or anatomical models. A given lecture will provide a synthesis of a particular anatomical region and the hands-on details of regional anatomy will then be learned in the associated laboratory session. To gain the most from each lecture and laboratory session, you must do the assigned readings and relevant exercises in the lab workbook beforehand. The laboratory workbook is a required acquisition. Any anatomy textbook will provide you with the necessary reading for lectures, and the purchase of an anatomy atlas is highly recommended as well. In order to do well in the course, additional study time with the anatomical models may be necessary. We will set up a system to encourage and facilitate study time outside of class.

prereq: ANTHP 10100 (Intro. to Physical Anthropology: Human Evolution) or ANTHP 10200 (Intro. to Physical Anthropology: Human Variation) or ANTHP 10500 (The Human Species) or BIOL 102 (Principles of Biology 2) or BIOL 12200 (Anatomy & Physiology 2).

Arabic

ARB 10100 - Beginning Arabic I
The goal of this course is to begin developing reading, speaking, listening, writing, and cultural skills in Arabic. The course stresses communication using both formal and informal Arabic. Emphasis is also placed on reading authentic texts from Arabic media, listening to and watching audio and video materials, and developing students' understanding of Arab culture. Preparation for class is an essential component of course, allowing us to devote in-class time to communicating in the language rather than talking "about" the language. Students will be evaluated on attendance and class participation, daily homework assignments, quizzes, skits, a final oral interview and a final examination.

This class is not for native speakers. ARB 10100 usually not credited without ARB 10200. For details about credit policy look here: Foreign Language Requirement

ARTH 28000 - History of Photography

GER
3A

An historical survey of photography between 1839 and the present day with a focus on the visual revolution provoked by this new medium of representation and on photography's creative expression. The course is organized chronologically from the beginnings of photography, in 1839, to our time. It gives full exposure to the main technologies of photography in the nineteenth-century, as they became accessible to a large public and introduced new aesthetics in portraiture, urban landscapes, and the representation of distant geographies. This history continues in the twentieth-century, when photography became more experimental and sought its own artistic autonomy. The course surveys chronologically the key moments at which photography reached the status of art, was used as social document, and fulfilled a wide social need. The dialogue between contemporary art and photography is brought to the present, exploring the strategies by which digital art is challenging the idea of photography as truthful representation of the world.

ARTLA 10100 - Introduction to Study of Visual Experience

Introduction to conceiving and formulating ideas for visual experience. Students work in 3 different areas in day session, 2 in evening session.
Material Fee: $25
6 hrs
3 cr. + 3 cr. hrs open studio

ARTLA 20100 - Art Foundations: Seeing, Thinking, Making

This course is the prerequisite for all courses in all concentrations in the studio art major. In preparation for subsequent 20000-level and advanced studio courses, ARTLA 20100 provides students with a fundamental crossdisciplinary vocabulary and introduces them to a variety of different media, concepts, and methodologies. In addition to studio assignments, reading and writing on art will be an integral component of the course.
Material fee: $25.00
3 hrs.

ARTLA 20200 - Art Foundations: Methods and Techniques

ARTLA 20200 is the second part of the foundation-year course requirement for 42-credit BA and BFA art majors. This class is open to any student who has taken ARTLA 20100 or the equivalent. The class will be taught by one instructor who will introduce the student to the fundamental skills of drawing, sculptural methods, new genres technologies. Museum/gallery visits, and written analysis of exhibitions will be assigned to help build an understanding of how skill and technique are implemented in the conceptual creation of art. This is a baseline course, and will facilitate learning as the student progresses to one of our study areas of Painting, Sculpture, New Genres, Ceramics, Drawing or Printmaking.
prereq: ARTLA 20100
3 (+ 5 hrs independent studio)
3 cr.

ARTLA 36018 - 2-D, 3-D,4-D Seminar

prereq: ARTLA 20100
3 hrs.

ARTLA 40600 - 2D/3D/4D Capstone Seminar

This advanced seminar is intended to offer students a frame of reference for making and thinking about art beyond the specific concerns of any given medium or the specific assignments that structure most undergraduate studio courses. The main purpose of this seminar is to help students develop their creative interests beyond assignment-based instruction to their own, entirely self-defined and motivated creative work. For this purpose, students choose to work in the medium or mediums that best further their ideas.
prereq or coreq: 30 ARTCR credits and 6 ARTH credits
ARTLA 49800 - Internship in the Visual Arts

Qualified undergraduates work for academic credit in professional and community art institutions.

ASIAN 21000 - Asians in the U.S.

Hunter Core
I&S H
Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
Critical interdisciplinary examination of Asian American experiences of discrimination and exclusion in the context of domestic and foreign U.S. policies regarding immigration, labor, and national identity. Through an examination of historical, theoretical and cultural texts, the course also looks at the impact of the current expansion of Asian American communities on America's social, cultural, and political order.
Recommended for but not required of AASP Minors.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 22001 - Asian American Women Writers

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B or C
Critical examination of Asian American women's identity formations in relation to factors such as racial ideology, global migrations of labor and capital, class status, sexuality, military conflict, constructions of family, and language.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 22012 - Asian American Literature

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B or C
Critical examination of literary texts by Asians in the U.S. and western diaspora, tracing Asian American literary production in order to understand how these literatures are a formative site to engage in intersectional analyses of constructions of history, citizenship, and identity.
3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 22004 - Arab American Literature

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
Critical examination of a cross-section of literature and film/video/performance by Arab American writers and artists in an interdisciplinary investigation of the historical and contemporary experiences of Arab Americans in the United States and western diaspora.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 22005 - South Asian Women's Literature

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B or C
Close examination of literary, historical, and theoretical texts with a focus on the cultural production and social movements of South Asian women, with particular attention to how issues of race and nationalism are shaped and how they have overlapped with gender, class, sexuality, religion, and language.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 22006 - Filipino American Literature

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
Close examination of the historical and social contexts in which Philippine-American literature has evolved, the diverse aesthetics and themes of individual writers, and analysis of how issues of Philippine-American cultural production takes up issues of gender, class, sexuality, religion, language, and national identity.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 22009 - Gender and Genre in Asian American Literature and Film

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B, PD/C
Critical exploration of the social construction of Asian American identity in various genres: video art, prose, poetry, memoir, performance, and film. The emphasis of the course is on intersectional analyses that critically examine how race, gender, class, and sexuality inform Asian American artists' decisions regarding form and genre.

ASIAN 22500 - Asian American Art (W)

Hunter Core

Creative Expression (CE)

Pluralism and Diversity

P&D B

Introduction to Asian American artistic production through a survey of Asian American art and theory, including critical examinations of Asian American identity formation; transnationalism; constructions of race, gender, sexuality, class; and alternative artistic strategies.

*prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 32001 - Nation, Self, and Asian Identity

Pluralism and Diversity

PD/B

Critical examination of literary constructions of Asian American identity in relation to the U.S. nation-state, with particular emphasis placed upon juridical constructions of citizenship, community, and belonging.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 32005 - Asian American Memoir

Pluralism and Diversity

PD/B

Close examination of memory as an imagined and contested site that complicates and challenges how we constitute self and other. Students will analyze constructions of identity through Asian American narratives, and their relation to language, form and experience, including immigration and gendered narratives to transnational categories of homeland and belonging.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 32100 - Asian American Social Protest Literature

Pluralism and Diversity

PD/B

Deconstruction and examination of historical and contemporary Asian American literatures of social protest and resistance. Students utilize readings as a framework for initiating, planning, and executing semester-long community-
ASIAN 33008 - Muslim Diasporas

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
Interdisciplinary course moving through the history of Islam and its expressions in many areas of the world (including Sufism), to the cultural identity, art, and literature of the Muslim Diaspora in the United States, their misrepresentations in the media, and fetishization by popular culture.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 34001 - Asian Pacific American Media

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
Addresses Asian Pacific American experiences of assimilation, displacement, marginalization, multiculturalism, and resistance to the cultural 'norm' within Asian Pacific communities through screening a wide range of films and videos and reviewing critical and fictional writing. Guest artists may also lecture.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 34003 - West Asian American Literature and Film

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
Interdisciplinary course that first examines the cultural, linguistic, and religious diversity of West Asia, sometimes called Central Asia and/or the Middle East, to then focus on the literature and film of their diasporic communities in the U.S.

ASIAN 35100 - Asian American History of Labor and Politics

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
This seminar explores the interconnected issues of race, class, and nationality through the study of the history of Asian immigrant labor in the U.S. in the context of American economic needs and political environment.

3 hrs
3 cr.

ASIAN 39001 - International Migration

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
This interdisciplinary course examines the origins and processes of migration and settlement, past and present. Includes a series of lectures by leading scholars from a variety of academic fields and immigrant communities. Topics include: immigration and labor, race and gender, social and cultural identity, immigration policy and political action, and the trans-nationalization of education and family life.

3 hrs

ASTRO 10100 - Basic Concepts of Astronomy with Laboratory Exercises

GER
2/E with lab

An introductory, one-semester astronomy course designed for non-science majors. Topics include: basic observational features of the night sky, and their explanations; Kepler's laws of planetary motion; Newton's laws of motion and gravitation. Properties of light, and how it reveals the nature of its source. Origin, properties, and evolution of our solar system. The origin and evolution of stars, including giants, dwarfs, supernovae, neutron stars, and black holes. Structure of The Milky Way and other type of galaxies. Cosmology, Hubble's Law and the expanding universe, from the Big Bang to the present; future scenarios.
The lab consists of traditional hardware experiments and virtual online experiments. Students taking this course will be required to submit online and hard-copy laboratory reports.

BIOL 10500 - Introduction to Genome Biology

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)

A genome is the total genetic content of an organism. Driven by breakthroughs such as the decoding of the first human genome and rapid DNA-sequencing technologies, biomedical sciences are undergoing a rapid and profound transformation into a highly data-intensive field, which requires familiarity with concepts in both biology and computer science. Genome information is revolutionizing virtually all aspects of biology and medicine and will lead to major advances such as more efficient production of renewable energy, better cures for cancers, and longer and healthier life expectancy. This course will introduce genome-sequencing technologies, explore hundreds of genome projects online, and discuss both the benefits and challenges (e.g., ethical and legal) of the genomic revolution to society.

BIOL 10700 - The Human Barcode: Biology and Genetics of Personal Identification

Hunter Core
LPS
An introductory lecture/laboratory course for non-biology majors. This lecture/laboratory course will cover the techniques used by scientists to analyze how DNA or skin can uniquely lead to a person's identification, and the biological concepts behind them. For example, through the topics that are covered, students will learn how biological evidence like fingerprints and DNA is collected, analyzed, and presented as evidence to solve crimes. Students will learn important biological concepts such as DNA, development, and characteristics of body tissues.

GER
2/E w/ lab

An introductory lecture/laboratory course for non-biology majors. BIOL 12500 explores the biology that underlies current health and disease topics (including diabetes, cancer, heart disease, sexually transmitted diseases, and nutrition). Using this topics approach, the course provides a survey of human anatomy and physiological function, along with the biological principles of genetics and cellular interactions that comprise our current understanding of the human organism. Laboratory exercises will introduce students to a scientific approach in studying human disease and physiology.

GER 2/E with lab
An introductory laboratory course for non-biology majors. This lecture/laboratory course will cover the techniques used by forensic scientists to analyze a crime scene, and the biological concepts behind them. Through the topics that are covered, students will learn how biological evidence like fingerprints, hair, blood, and DNA are collected, analyzed, and presented as evidence to solve crimes.

Required for this course is a 10 minutes PowerPoint presentation in groups in four students. In order to prepare for the presentation, a two page outline from each student is expected. In addition, a group assignment of less than 5 pages long will be assigned as preparation of the presentation. This assignment helps students prepare for a "crime scene" that will be designed by the group using the topics and materials provided in class. Further research for this project is encouraged using library materials or the WWW to provide supplemental information, ideas and images. The laboratory component of the course requires that students record their data, observations, and answer discussion questions (in a short answer format). The completion of their laboratory manual will constitute part of the laboratory grade.

BIOL 17500 - Choreographing Genomics

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)

This course uses postmodern dance to model biological processes. It is an introductory biology course for non-majors studies in the biological science of molecular genome information through readings, quantitative assignments, movement exercises and artistic lenses. Students explore a detailed examination of heredity and cancer with a focus on contributions of DNA. Students are expected to articulate gene information flow through problem solving, written assignments, oral contributions, and movement forms. Topics covered include the definition of a gene, recombination of genes, the central dogma of genetic flow in a biological system, the 1:1 Pair Rule (Chargaff's rules), DNA sequencing, functional genomics and the relationships of genes to cancer and heredity, as well as ethical issues in medicine.

Each student is in charge of their own body and must recognize that they will have to use their body for assignments and in class participation work.

Students will be required to talk and move in class (comfortable clothes, flat shoes or bare feet, and a yoga mat are required).
Students will have reflective assignments that include written work. Students will be required to develop visual and movement-based models.

prereq: MATH 10100 or MATH 101EN

BIOL 20300 - Molecular Biology and Genetics

This course includes a detailed examination of the fundamental principles of gene expression. The processes of DNA replication, transcription, mRNA processing, micro RNA function, and translation will be extensively covered. Prokaryotic and eukaryotic systems will be described. Classical Mendelian as well as molecular genetics principles will be covered in the lecture through a discussion of several model systems. Important genetic processes such as recombination, transposition and DNA repair will be discussed in-depth. The course will provide a modern view of the concept of the gene, and introduce basic bioinformatics analysis. Hands-on laboratory experiments will reinforce bacterial and eukaryotic genetic concepts as well as provide basics in recombinant DNA technology.

BIOL 27000 - Introduction to Neuroscience

This is a one-term introductory lecture course. The main focus is to provide an understanding of the principles underlying the function of the nervous system while comprehending certain experimental procedures that have led to this knowledge. In the first part of the course, the cellular and molecular mechanisms that regulate the activity of individual neurons will be discussed. Then, based on model systems, we will examine how neurons are assembled in networks to give rise to sensation and function. Finally, topics related to the development, maintenance, and plasticity of these networks will be covered. Accepted for credit toward the Biology Major.

BIOL 30300 - Cell Biology

This Biology major capstone course builds upon what has been learned in molecular biology & genetics and biochemistry providing and integrated look at the molecular biology of the cell. Separated into 5 units, the lecture and laboratory components are coordinated. The course includes integrated components in the following eukaryotic cell biology areas through the following 5 units: 1. Introduction: Cell morphology and commonly used techniques for examining the cell. An introduction to cell proliferation, cell motility, and cell communication (comparing prokaryotic and eukaryotic systems). 2. Cell Cycle Regulation: Cell cycle regulation, cellular signal transduction, regulation of cell proliferation and cell growth, cell death mechanisms, and de-regulation of cell growth the process of tumorigenesis. 3. Membranes and Cytoskeleton: Membranes, cytoskeleton, and signaling, are including mechanisms for transport and cellular channels for intracellular and intercellular communication. Human biology and disease as it pertains to membrane biology. 4. Organelles: Intracellular organelles are examined in detail for their structures and functions. This includes, but is not limited to, mitochondrial function and energy production, protein degradation pathways and intracellular trafficking. 5. Cell Communication: Cellular differentiation, cell-cell communication, and an introduction to development.

An overview of the various methods and kinds of data used in systematics, the study of organism diversity and biological relationships. Emphasis is on modern molecular and genetic approaches to identification of individual species and strains and full phylogenetic analyses of suites of species to determine their evolutionary history. The knowledge base is provided for experimental investigation of questions of current interest in phylogeny and population biology.

BIOL 37600 - Endocrinology

Cellular organization of the endocrine system; molecular mechanisms of hormone action; hormonal physiology of metabolism and reproduction; integration of endocrine responses by the central nervous system.

prereq: BIOL 20200 or perm instr.

3 hrs (lec)

3 cr.

spring only

BIOL 38000 - Molecular Neurobiology
Molecular components and molecular mechanisms involved in the cell biology of neurons and glia, neuronal signaling, neuronal development, learning, memory and diseases of the nervous system.
prereq: BIOL 30000 or perm instr.
3 lec hrs
3 cr.
fall only

BIOL 39000 - Laboratory in Cell Structure

Applications of light and confocal microscopy, using fluorescence and multidimensional imaging to study cell structures. Lab projects involve immunofluorescence: fixation methods and immunocytochemistry. Illumination methods including multi-channel 3D rendering, image processing and visualization software.
prereq or coreq: BIOL 30000 or BIOL 20200 and perm instr.
7 hrs (2 lecture, 5 lab)
4.5 cr.
fall only

BIOL 39100 - Laboratory in Cell Structure -- Biological Electron Microscopy

The students will learn basic concepts of transmission electron microscope, principles of biological sample preparation for transmission electron microscopy, various electron microscopy applications, to be familiar with the morphology of different organelles inside the mammalian cell, and understand the functions of each organelle. Lab projects involve: (1) perfusion fixation of mouse tissues; (2) routine transmission electron microscopy sample preparation; (3) techniques and tools used for microtomy; (4) transmission electron microscope alignment; and (5) imaging various cellular ultra-structures using a transmission electron microscope.
prereq or coreq: Instructor Permission
7 hrs.
4 cr.

BIOL 40000 - Special Topics in Advanced Laboratory Techniques

Advanced laboratory techniques used in contemporary biological research, including areas such as immunology, microbiology and molecular neurobiology. Topics change from term to term.
prereq: BIOL 30000 or perm instr.
4 hrs (lab)
2 cr

BIOL 42500 - Computational Molecular Biology

GER
3/B
An introduction to the interdisciplinary field of computational molecular biology. Students are taught the scope and methods of in silico biology, i.e., the application of computational and statistical methods to solving problems in molecular biology. Topics will include homology searching, sequence alignment, molecular phylogenetics, comparative genomics, analysis of gene expression, and predication of macromolecular structures. The course will be taught using a mixed format of lectures and hands-on workshops in a UNIX computer laboratory setting. Knowledge and skills in molecular biology, UNIX programming, and statistics are essential for success in this core course required for bioinformatics-concentration students from all majors.

prereq: BIOL 30000 or BIOL 30200 or CHEM 37600; STAT 21300; CSCI 13200 or CSCI 23500 or UNIX proficiency permitted by instructor.

BIOL 45000 - Individual Tutorial in Biology

GER
3/B

May be taken only once. Research paper written under the direction of a full-time faculty member in department of biological sciences.

prereq: 18 credits in biology, approval of adviser in addition to the sponsor
1-2 cr.

BIOL 46000 - Introduction to Planning and Teaching of Laboratory Work in Biology

GER
3/B

Participation in discussions and assisting in the teaching of laboratories in an introductory course, or peer mentoring in the undergraduate biological sciences research techniques facility.

prereq: 16 credits in BIOL, 12 credits in CHEM, 2 letters from faculty
5 hrs (2 planning, 3 lab)
2 cr.

BIOL 47000 - Special Topics in Biology

GER
3/B

Specific area of contemporary interest in biology. Topics change from term to term. An oral presentation and a written paper are required.

BIOL 48000 - Introduction to Experimental Biology

GER
3/B

Laboratory research under guidance of faculty member. Work at another institution may be permitted under auspices and supervision of a faculty member. Written report or presentation of work required for completion of course. A minimum of 2 credits satisfies the research requirement for graduation with departmental honors and a maximum of 4 credits can count towards the Biology major. Since student research projects can take more than one semester, and students can develop and expand their research into continuing and related projects, this course may be repeated an unlimited number of times.

prereq: BIOL 10000 and 10200, Departmental permission prior to registration.

BIOL 37100 - Special Topics in Experimental Biology

This course is designed to further the understanding of a broad range of topics in biology. This is an interactive lecture course where students are initially taught tools used in any area of experimental biology. Students are then taught how to use these tools to study any subject matter (e.g.: cancer, neurobiology, molecular biology). Undergraduate students are required to design experiments during discussion periods and critically assess the negative and positive outcomes of an experimental design. Undergraduate-degree students seeking to pursue further graduate studies will greatly benefit and are highly encouraged to enroll.

Accepted for credit toward the Biology Major.
prereq: BIOL 20300
3 hrs
3 cr.

BIOL 38500 - Fundamentals of Developmental Neurobiology

GER
3/B

The course teaches the basic molecular processes underlying neural tissue specification, brain region-specific maturation, proper circuits formation and synapse assembly during the development of eukaryotic organisms.
3 hrs
3 cr.

BIOL 48300 - Introduction to Experimental Biology

GER
3/B

Laboratory research under guidance of faculty member. Work at another institution may be permitted in some cases, under auspices of a faculty member. Written report required upon completion of research. A minimum of 2 credits satisfies the research requirement for graduation with departmental honors.

4 cr.

CHEM 10500 (STEM) - General Chemistry Laboratory II

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS) Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
GER 2/E
Laboratory experiments illustrating and applying theory of solutions to qualitative analysis. Offered for transfer students who have completed only one semester of General Chemistry Laboratory.
prereq: One semester of General Chemistry Laboratory.
prereq or coreq: CHEM 10400
3 hrs
1.5 cr.

CHEM 10600 (STEM) - General Chemistry Laboratory
Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
GER 2/E

Experiments designed to illustrate the fundamental laws of chemistry. The course is equivalent one year of general chemistry laboratory.

Primarily for pre-med, medical laboratory sciences and science majors.

prereq: CHEM 10200
coreq: CHEM 10400
6 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 11100 (STEM) - Chemical Principles

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
GER 2/E

In-depth introduction to chemical principles including measurement, stoichiometric calculations, inorganic nomenclature, gas laws, equilibrium, acids, bases and buffers. Emphasis is placed on problem-solving, oral presentations, and collaborative work. Laboratory and coursework emphasize analysis and evaluation of data.

Primarily for pre-med, medical laboratory sciences and science majors.

CHEM 11500 - Introductory Chemistry

An introduction to the fundamental concepts in chemistry including atomic and molecular structure, chemical bonding, stoichiometry, and solution chemistry.

This course is appropriate for students who have had no prior coursework in chemistry.

prereq or coreq: MATH 12400 or 12500 or 12550
4 hrs (3 lec, 1 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 12000 (STEM) - Essentials of Organic Chemistry Lecture
Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
GER 2/E

Course presents essential facts, laws and theories of organic chemistry. Core credit awarded only if CHEM 12000 and CHEM 12100 are completed. Primarily for nursing, nutrition and food science and community health education students.

prereq: CHEM 10000

4 hrs (3 lec. 1 rec)

CHEM 24900 - Quantitative Analysis

GER

GER 3/B

A set of laboratory experiments, performed by individual students, covering important areas of quantitative analysis such as pH and metal ion titrations, spectroscopic analysis including gas chromatography, electronic absorption, and fluorescence.

*prereq: CHEM 10400 with grade of C or better, 10500
5 hrs (3 lab, 2 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 29101 - Chemical Investigations

*Pluralism and Diversity
*GER 3/B
Original chemical investigations under supervision of faculty member. Written report required. Enrollment for maximum of two semesters.

*prereq: CHEM 22400, perm chair
4 hrs
1 cr.

CHEM 29102 - Chemical Investigations

*Pluralism and Diversity
*GER 3/B
Original chemical investigations under supervision of faculty member. Written report required. Enrollment for maximum of two semesters.

*prereq: CHEM 22400, perm chair
8 hrs
2 cr.

CHEM 29500 - Introduction to Planning and Teaching of Laboratory Work in Chemistry

Participate in supervised teaching experiments that demonstrate important principles of chemistry.

*prereq: CHEM 10400, CHEM 10500, two letters from faculty who have taught the student
5 hrs (2 planning, 3 lab)
2 cr.

CHEM 32200 - Organic Chemistry Lecture III

*GER
3/B
Selected topics such as advanced synthesis, reaction mechanisms, MO theory, natural products, NMR spectroscopy.

*prereq: Chem 22404 with a grade of C or better OR Chem 22406 with a grade of C or better
3 hrs
3 cr.
*offered fall
CHEM 33300 - Computational Drug Discovery

Computational exercises and literature analyses of drug-macromolecule interactions, computer-assisted drug design, metabolic engineering, and personalized medicine.

*prereq: CHEM 37600 or BIOL 30000 or permission of the instructor

3 hrs
3 cr.
offered spring

CHEM 34900 - Instrumental Analysis

Pluralism and Diversity
GER 3/B
Principles of modern instrumental techniques; emphasis on spectroscopic and electrometric methods.

CHEM 35000 - Biophysical Chemistry

Pluralism and Diversity
GER 3/B
Essential physical chemical principles as applied to biological problems. Emphasis on kinetics, thermodynamics, and equilibria.

*prereq: CHEM 22404 OR CHEM 22406 AND CHEM 37600 AND BIOL 10200 AND MATH 15000 AND PHYS 12000, all with a grade of C or better

5 hrs (4 lec, 1 rec)
4 cr

CHEM 35100 - Biophysics Laboratory

Basic theory and application of a variety of spectroscopic techniques used to determine structure, function and other properties of biological molecules.

*prereq: CHEM 37600 and CHEM 22500
coreq: CHEM 35000
4 hrs (3 lab, 1 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 35100 - Biophysics Laboratory

Basic theory and application of a variety of spectroscopic techniques used to determine structure, function and other properties of biological molecules

*prereq: CHEM 37600 and CHEM 22500
coreq: CHEM 35000
4 hrs (3 lab, 1 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 35200 - Physical Chemistry I
Ideal and real gases. Laws of thermodynamics with applications to properties of solutions and phase equilibria in general.

prereq: CHEM 24900 and MATH 25000 and PHYS 12100 all with a grade of C or better
3 hrs
3 cr.
offered fall

CHEM 35400 - Physical Chemistry II - F

Pluralism and Diversity
GER 3/B
Selected topics from statistical thermodynamics, electrochemistry, kinetic theory and rate processes.

prereq: CHEM 35200, MATH 25000
3 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 35600 - Physical Chemistry II

GER
GER 3/B
Selected topics from quantum chemistry, molecular structure, and spectroscopy.

prereq: PHYS 12100, CHEM 24900, MATH 25000 all with grade of C or better
3 hrs
3 cr.
offered spring

CHEM 35700 - Physical Chemistry Laboratory II

Pluralism and Diversity
GER 3/B
Laboratory course involving experiments based on topics covered in CHEM 35600 on chemical systems.
CHEM 36000 - Introduction to Nanotechnology

This course introduces students to the underlying principles and applications of the emerging fields of nanotechnology and nanoscience. Intended for a multidisciplinary audience with a variety of backgrounds, the course introduces tools and principles relevant at the nano scale dimension. The course discusses current and future nanotechnology applications in engineering, materials, physics, chemistry, biology, electronics, and energy.

prereq: CHEM 35000 or CHEM 35200
coreq: CHEM 35600
3 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 36600 - Inorganic Chemistry

GER
GER 3/B

Treatment of structure, bonding and reactivity of inorganic compounds.

prereq: CHEM 35200 with grade of C or better
3 hrs
3 cr.
offered fall

CHEM 36700 - Inorganic Chemistry Laboratory (W) (Spring 2020)

Inorganic Chemistry laboratory will provide an introduction to the fundamental principles of inorganic chemistry, synthesis and characterization of a variety of inorganic and organometallic compounds using analytical techniques including FTIR, NMR, UV-Visible spectroscopy, electrochemistry, and some simple methods such as melting and/or boiling points.

prereq: CHEM 36600 and CHEM 22500 all with C or better, ENGL 12000
4 hrs. (4 lab)
2 cr.

CHEM 36800 - Structural Biology (W) (Spring 2020)

This course introduces students to the applications of molecular spectroscopy and other emerging techniques used to study the structure, the molecular interactions and the self-assembly of biomolecules. The course will be taught in a mixed format including lectures, computer laboratory projects, student led discussions on journal papers, and a final writing/oral presentation project.

prereq: Department Permission Required, CHEM 37600 and either CHEM 35000 or CHEM 35200 all with C or better, ENGL 12000
prereq or coreq: CHEM 37700 with C or better
CHEM 36900 - Introduction to Polymer Chemistry

This course will cover mechanisms of polymerization reactions of monomers and molecular weight distributions of products; principles, limitations and advantages of important reactions; relationship of physical properties to structure and composition; correlations of applications with chemical structure.

prereq: CHEM 22400 with C or better, Department Permission Required

3 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 37000 - Medicinal Chemistry

The course will cover principles of drug discovery, drug design and drug action.

prereq: CHEM 37600 with C or better -or- BIO 30000 with C or better; Department Permission Required

3 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 37100 - Biological Spectroscopy

Covers basic theory and application of a variety of spectroscopic techniques used to determine structure, function and other properties of biological molecules.

prereq: CHEM 37600 with C or better -or- BIO 30000 with C or better

3 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 37600 - Biochemistry I

GER
3/B

Chemical aspects of protein structure and function, fundamentals of bioenergetics, biochemical mechanisms of gene replication and expression.

prereq: CHEM 22404 with a grade of C or better OR CHEM 22406 with a grade of C or better

4 hrs (3 lec, 1 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 37700 - Biochemistry II

GER
3/B

Biosynthesis of lipids, amino acids, carbohydrates. Muscle contraction, hormones, immune response, DNA sequencing.

prereq: CHEM 37600 with grade of C or better OR BIOL 30000 with grade of C or better

3 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 37800 - Biochemistry Laboratory (W)
A set of laboratory experiments, performed by individual students, covering important areas of biochemistry such as protein analysis, enzyme purification, enzymatic assays, recombinant DNA and the polymerase chain reaction.

prereq: ENGL 12000, CHEM 22500 with grade of C or better
prereq or coreq: CHEM 37700 or CHEM 64100
5 hrs (4 lab, 1 rec)
3 cr.

CHEM 38800 - Topics of Current Interest in Chemistry

Pluralism and Diversity

GER 3/B

Offered subject to adequate student interest and enrollment. Taught by specialists from department faculty. The specific topic will be listed in the schedule of classes for a given semester.

prereq or coreq: CHEM 35200 and CHEM 35600 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

CHEM 39000 - Current Laboratory Methods in Chemistry

Pluralism and Diversity

GER 3/B

Offered subject to adequate student interest and enrollment. Taught by specialists from department faculty. The specific topic will be listed in the schedule of classes for a given semester.

prereq or coreq: CHEM 35700 or perm instr.
4 hrs
2 cr. offered spring

CHEM 39200 - Introduction to Radiochemistry

Introduction to Radiochemistry is a lecture course with a laboratory component. The course will provide an introduction to the fundamental principles of radiochemistry, radioactive counting instrumentation, radioisotope production and applications of radiochemistry.

prereq: CHEM 22400 and CHEM 22500
coreq: CHEM 35000 or CHEM 35200
5 hrs (2 lecture, 3 lab)
3 cr.

CHEM 39200 - Introduction to Radiochemistry

Introduction to Radiochemistry is a lecture course with a laboratory component. The course will provide an introduction to the fundamental principles of radiochemistry, radioactive counting instrumentation, radioisotope production and applications of radiochemistry.

prereq: CHEM 22400 and CHEM 22500
coreq: CHEM 35000 or CHEM 35200
5 hrs (2 lecture, 3 lab)

CHIN 31600 - Introduction to Business Translation (Chinese – English)

This course introduces a broad scope of language support services pertaining to the business environment, specifically, to a variety of written documents and face-to-face verbal situations that call for translation between Chinese and English—from official stationery, daily correspondences, and meetings to press releases, press conferences, advertising copies, product manuals, and trade events. Students will learn to analyze source documents in real world indicators of the project in question: the client (commissioner of the work), targeted audience, purpose of document, and context of use; students will practice handling documents as an in-house language support staff, providing sight or summary translation, or general interpreting between Chinese and English in the context of business meetings. Through class discussions and practice, principles and approaches will emerge from a survey of key industry drivers of Chinese/English translation in real estate development, tourism, entertainment, digital gaming, and the art market. Students will complete a minimum of 6 short translation projects (300-400 words each) and 3 interpreting scenarios (performed in role-play with a written post analysis) based on written texts that they have translated. As a final project, students will orally present a study of a China- or Taiwan-based commercial website, identifying how and what parts of the site could be improved for the global market.

prereq: CHIN 20200
3 hrs
3 cr.

CHIN 31700 - Community Interpreting and Sight Translation, Chinese – English

This course provides a foundational skill-based grounding for the community interpreter who orally translates between English and Mandarin Chinese in both directions. This course will facilitate interpreting practice in a wide array of public, community, and commercial settings—from the adoption interview, real-estate closing, and arbitration proceedings to the pre-trial deposition and parent-teacher conference; the course will also emphasize sight translation, the oral translation of written texts, as a fundamental skill in community interpreting. As part of an experiential learning approach, students will role play and constitute their own "scenarios," practice self- and peer-assessment, and learn the multi-faceted process of interpreting, including note-taking, listening, voice production, the use of verbal and non-verbal cues, memory training, and paralinguistic applications. The course will survey the role of community interpreting in the US context addressing key sectors including healthcare, public education, social services, and the criminal justice and court system.

Students will practice weekly interpreting using online or improvised role-play materials. Through the course students will produce a minimum of six peer/self-assessments of recorded in-class interpreting exercises based on role-played scenarios; as a mid-term project, students will produce a high-level demonstration of formal interpreting (as in an official meeting) and submit this work to peer assessment; as a final project, students will make an analytical case study of a simulated interpreting assignment illustrating the multi-faceted role of the community interpreter.

CHIN 31800 - Intercultural and Interlingual Discourse in Chinese & English

This course addresses the structural and cultural aspects of language use with focus on dual-language communication involving Chinese and English. Interlingually, the course will explore given structural differences between Chinese and English, including aspects of speech habits (phonology), word-formation (morphology), vocabulary (lexicon), phraseology, and sentence structure (syntax); interculturally, the course will examine how dual-language speakers (and translators) negotiate and shape Chinese and English in the dynamic of time-and-place communication, including the navigation of different discourse styles, conventions governing idiom, coherence, or logic, and assumptions about gender relations, and power and status that determine who speaks when, who gets interrupted, and how rhetoric and voice are expressed in code switching and mixing between Chinese and English. In identifying rule-governed variance and strategies used to mediate differences in communication, students will also develop an articulate understanding of how the two languages function in their separate and yet intertwined evolution.

Students will constitute through role play a range of dual-language "scenarios" for oral practice and analysis; for close textual study and translation practice, students will work with a variety of English and Chinese text types—speech (script) and prose of different genres from the technical, and journalistic to modern literary writing. Students will produce a minimum of 4 oral scenario evaluations and 4 comparative analyses of written texts. These written papers will be 600-800 words based on analysis of 5-10 min oral materials or 800-1200 word written texts.

CSCI 17200 - Topics in Creative Problem Solving

CSCI 172 is a pass/fail (CR/NC) faculty-supervised workshop that meets ten times per semester. Each workshop explores a different applied topic in computer science. An undergraduate peer leader presents slides, guides discussions, and engages the participants in activities that emphasize collaborative problem solving. This course explores the role of teamwork and in-class activities to improve student retention, with particular interest in underrepresented populations in computer science.

Special conditions: The course meets 10 times for 1 hour 15 minutes (75 minutes). Adjusted for credit hours, the semester total is the 15 hours required for a 1-credit course. The class meets on the bell schedule for ten 75-minute sessions per semester. The special conditions are that CSCI 172 meets once rather than twice a week and meets during only ten of the 15 weeks of the semester.

CSCI 37700 - Non-classical Logic

Logic is the systematic and precise study of reasoning—a topic of particular interest to mathematicians and computer scientists as well as philosophers. Philosophers have often functioned as the research and development wing of this collaboration, thinking up and formalizing new logical techniques and systems designed to solve problems that can't be solved by traditional (a.k.a. "classical") logic. This course will be an introduction to some of these non-classical logics, their philosophical motivations, and some of their applications.

ECO 33900 - Strategies and Games in Economics

A critical introduction to applications of game theory in economics. Applications include the analysis of conflict, trust and cooperation, firms' strategic behavior in concentrated markets, and herd behavior and panics in financial markets. We extend basic game-theoretic models to incorporate asymmetric information and mechanism-design, studying how the rules of a game or the initial distribution of information might affect equilibrium outcomes and therefore how to select optimal rules that govern interactions. Questions addressed include the design of compensation and incentive contracts; voting models and political-economic equilibria; how firms choose their financial structure; and how and why laws and constitutions are chosen to be what they are.

ENGL 34700 - Language and Ethnicity

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B
GER
3/A

This course explores the relationship between language and ethnicity with a primary focus on the United States. It examines how language is used in the construction of ethnic identities, and how ideologies about ethnicity influence the ways in which people use language. It is centered on class discussion of social scientific research that closely analyzes how ethnicity is performed in discursive interaction. The course investigates language use in relation to African American, Native American, U.S. Latino/a, Asian American, and European American identities, and covers topics, such as codeswitching, crossing, mocking, passing, interethnic communication, and language prejudice.

ENGL 34800 - English Across the World
This course will examine the spread of English across the world in terms of two major processes: linguistic imperialism, or the imposition of the language from a colonial center on a colonized periphery, and macroacquisition, or the adoption and adaptation of English by speech communities themselves. The main geographical focus will be the former colonial territories of Britain and the United States in Asia and Africa. Class discussions will be guided by two texts that present opposing views of the historical processes in question and will be further illuminated by students' own research on individual countries.

MEDIA 36300 - Concepts in Gaming

This analytical seminar examines gaming through the study of the history of games, the role of narrative and language in games, game structures, interaction paradigms, rule-creation, and theories of play. It familiarizes students with important approaches to games and play developed by both the art world and popular culture during the 19th and 20th centuries. Students will be encouraged to play with these approaches in their written assignments. Each week we read, discuss, and study games to explore possibilities of gaming elements within media arts, artistic practice, and performance. A game is itself a language, and it is this language we seek to understand. This course explores all kinds of games, from artists' games to common children's games. Students examine historical and contemporary artist's projects, including dance, installation, computer games, and performance, as well as look at the game as a tool for abstraction, storytelling, and activism.

coreq: MEDP/FILMP 16000 (or MEDIA/FILM 15100)

3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 28500 - Web Production I

An exploration of the production of Internet distributed media, primarily words and images distributed as Web pages, using HTML, CSS, and image manipulation software.

prereq: MEDP/FILMP 15000
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 28600 - Location Sound

Basic sound theory and production sound recording techniques, concentrating on microphones, field mixers and recording equipment, boom operation and on-set procedures.
cross-listed FILMP 28600
prereq: FILMP 25100 or MEDP 28100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 31000 - Advanced TV Studio Production

An advanced multi-camera television studio workshop and a continuation of Studio Television Production.
prereq: MEDP 28100, 28200
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 31100 - Documentary Video Production 2

Exploration of the aesthetics and practice of documentary form that provides students with an in-depth and hands-on understanding of preproduction and production of documentary video.
Material Fee: $20
prereq: MEDP 28100 or FILMP 35200
prereq or coreq: MEDIA 18000 is a prerequisite for all 200-, 300-, and 400-level MEDIA and MEDP courses.
4 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 31200 - Advanced Documentary Digital Editing

The aesthetic and technical considerations in editing the documentary video using digital equipment.

Material Fee: $20
prereq: MEDP 31100 or perm instr.
4 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 33100 - Web Production II
An exploration of the production of Internet-distributed media, especially animation, sound, and video, using GIF Animation, Flash, and sound tools.

prereq: MEDP 28500
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 34100 - Web Programming

Advanced programming skills for website design. Dynamic content development explored through state of the art programming languages for the creation of interactive web sites. Students will create web pages that utilize the most current techniques in web development. The curriculum in this class emphasizes an integrated and creative approach to web programming, including detailed instruction and practice in the technical aspects. It is designed to give students a basic introduction to the tools and techniques used by web programmers.

prereq: MEDP 23400 and MEDP 33100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 34500 - Web Design Projects

A project-based class designed to give students the experience of solving practical problems in web production and to add to the advanced student's web design portfolio with a comprehensive project. Students will work independently and in teams on a large-scale collaborative project.

prereq: MEDP 33100 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 34900 - Introduction to Physical Computing

This course is intended to introduce students to programming and off-screen media. Some time will be spent producing screen based visual and interactive art, but most of our semester will be dedicated to hardware hacking and the Arduino. Theoretical readings will be assigned throughout and students are expected to respond thoughtfully in text and media.

prereq: MEDP 16000 and MEDP 23400
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 35500 - Physical Computing: Interactive Installation

A hands-on course focusing on the current state of interactive media in a collaborative environment. Students will create projects integrating video, sound and text exploring design concepts and using sensors for real-time interactivity. Material Fee: $20

prereq: MEDIA 18000, MEDP 15000 and 16000, MEDP 28500
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 36000 - 3D Animation and Modeling
This hands-on production course will examine concepts and practices that form the basis of 3D animation for video, graphic novels, filmmaking, and net based art.

prereq: MEDP 25000, MEDP 26000
3 hrs.
3 cr.

MEDP 36500 - 3D Virtual Environments

This course is an introduction to skills and creative approaches for the development of computer-generated 3D interactive virtual environments. Students will develop 3D virtual environments using standard 3D game design techniques and technologies. This class approaches the subject from both a technical and creative perspective. It gives students an introduction to the tools and techniques used to design 3D computer games and how those processes may be applied to create artistically focused work.

prereq: MEDP 36000
3 hrs.
3 cr.

MEDP 38300 - Sound Design

Aesthetics of sound design with practical instruction in audio post-production technology.

prereq: FILMP 25100 or MEDP 28100 or perm. instr.
3 hours
3 credits

MEDP 38700 - Mobile Journalism

This course covers the fundamentals of reporting and visual storytelling on current and emerging mobile platforms using a smartphone.

prereq: MEDP 20200
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 39909 - Game Design and Programming

This class is an introduction to the practical and conceptual aspects of electronic game creation. Students learn a variety of game development tools and approaches while exploring a variety of theoretical, social, and other aspects of modern game culture.

prereq: MEDP 23400 and MEDP 25000
prereq or coreq: MEDIA 36300
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDP 39950 - Motion Graphics

This course examines the design and use of computer animation and effects for digital video. The course emphasizes the use of motion graphics to animate and render typography, effects and the compositing of distinct visual assets as well as its function within a greater narrative.

prereq: MEDP/FILMP 15000 and MEDP/FILMP 16000 and MEDP 25000

3 hrs

MEDPL 20100 - Reporting and Writing I (W)

This course is an intensive writing workshop designed to teach the basic elements of multimedia reporting and writing. It also introduces students to the ethical and legal issues confronting today's journalists.

prereq or coreq: MEDIA 18000

3 hrs

3 cr.

MEDPL 20200 - Reporting and Writing 2(W)

This course is an intensive writing workshop that introduces students to advanced multimedia reporting and writing including longer form online journalism, data visualization, broadcast style writing, podcast production and visual storytelling using a smartphone.

prereq: MEDPL 20100

3 hrs

3 cr.

MEDPL 23900 - Entertainment Journalism (W)

Development of practical, theoretical, and rhetorical skills for writing reviews and feature stories about entertainment and the arts.

prereq: MEDPL 20100

3 hrs

3 cr.

MEDPL 28300 - News Video Reporting

This course teaches students how to report and produce news video stories, including: hard news, features, formal interviews, and live shots.

prereq: MEDPL 16000 and MEDPL 20200

3 hrs

3 cr.

MEDPL 28400 - Radio Reporting and Podcasting
This course teaches students how to report and write a variety of audio news stories and podcasts for a live radio newscast.

prereq: MEDPL 20200
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 29000 - Developing the Documentary (W)

This workshop guides students through the research, writing and production planning essential for creating a video or film documentary.

prereq: MEDIA 18000 and MEDP 16000
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 29400 - Magazine Writing (W)

This course prepares students for publishing articles in magazines, feature sections of newspapers and online Internet publications by developing writing portfolios and studying the workings of the publishing industry.

prereq: MEDPL 20100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 29500 - Online Journalism (W)

This class teaches students to research, pitch, report and write web based stories that include some type of data visualization as well as multimedia elements. Students will also learn how to create a video that includes text and photos to tell a story and use social media to research news stories.

prereq: MEDPL 20100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 29600 - Feature Writing (W)

A course on advanced feature writing media taught periodically, with topic listed in Schedule of Classes.

prereq: MEDPL 20100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 29700 - Data Journalism: Telling Stories with Numbers

This course covers the fundamentals of data journalism reporting and visual storytelling using emerging techniques and tools. Students will learn to work with data and basic design to uncover and illustrate news trends and tell interactive data-driven news stories.

prereq: MEDPL 20100
3 hrs
3 cr.
MEDPL 31600 - Experimental Production

Experimental methods of film and video production, emphasizing innovative and non-traditional formal and conceptual practice.

prereq: FILM 25100 or MEDP 28100 or perm. instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 37200 - Investigative Reporting (W)

Understanding and practicing journalism that explores significant social issues and injustices, using diverse sources developed through the enterprise of the reporter.

prereq: MEDPL 20100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 37700 - Neighborhood News (W)

An advanced reporting and writing class that will produce an online news outlet and mobile app site covering community stories. This class may be repeated once for credit.

prereq: MEDIA 18000 and MEDPL 20100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 38700 - Mobile Journalism

This course covers the fundamentals of reporting and visual storytelling on current and emerging mobile platforms using a smartphone.

prereq: MEDPL 20200
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDPL 38800 - Studio News Production

This course teaches students how to collectively produce and present a live newscast on deadline and how to create news content relevant to a Hunter College audience. Students may take this course twice for credit.

prereq or coreq: MEDPL 28300
3 hrs
3 cr.

Film and Media: Media—Special Topics, Honors and Advanced Studies
MEDIA 40100 - Independent Research

Directed research or creative endeavor.
Material Fee: $20
prereq: 2 advanced level courses, perm dept.
1-6 hrs
1 cr. per hr.

MEDIA 40200 - Honors Project

Open to Jr/Sr only. Students must present a proposal for an individual project to be completed under faculty supervision. Successful completion qualifies student for departmental honors at graduation.
prereq: 3 advanced-level courses; 3.0 GPA and 3.5 major GPA; perm dept.
3 hrs
3 cr.

MEDIA 49800 - Internship

Opportunity to gain professional experience.
prereq: MEDIA 18000 and 2 other MEDIA or MEDP courses or equiv; perm dept and host institution

Geography

GEOG 10100 - People and Their Environment

Hunter Core
Individual and Society - Social Science
GER
2/B

A broad overview of subjects and ideas in geography, possibly the most internally diverse of the social sciences. Covers the geographical aspects of topics including weather and climate, landforms, religions, food, cities, economics, culture, politics and much more. While students will be expected to understand the basics of each of the topics covered, the overarching emphasis will be on understanding the relationships among them. As such, the course builds from one topic to the next, ultimately stressing the sheer geographical complexity and wonder of modern life. interact with it. Contemporary economic, political and social patterns and problems are discussed.

offered fall and spring.
GEOG 15000 - World Regions in Global Context

Hunter Core
World Cultures and Global Issues (WCGI)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A or D

GER
2/B

This course draws on and explores the concept of the geographic region as a way to organize and understand our fast-changing and interconnected world. Geographic concepts (e.g., space, place, distance, scale, borders, and regions) are used to study environmental, economic, social, and political conditions and identify key concerns in the culturally diverse world. The course will examine geographic world regions (e.g., South America, Europe, the Middle East, Sub-Saharan Africa, and others), connections in and between these regions, and how these regions and their populations interact as parts of a global system. For each world region, you will learn major historical events, specific interactions between natural environment and social systems, and their potential for and challenges to sustainable development.

prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.
Offered fall and spring

GEOG 18300 - Special Topics: Introductory Geosciences

Introductory special topics in geography, environmental geosciences, or spatial sciences.
3 hrs
3 cr.

GEOG 22100 - Economic Geography and Globalization

GER
2/B

An introduction to the sub-discipline of economic geography, which will include an exploration of the history of both economics and geography, and a rigorous global approach to the subjects. Students will come to understand the history of the development of economic thought, leading up to, and transformed, by today's crisis, as well as the particularly geographical nature of economic phenomena and processes, and the immense contributions geographers have made to the understanding of economics. Course focus is on the dominant form of global economic activity today, which is capitalistic, and the way this economic structure plays out through different geographies at different historical moments in time.

Not open to freshmen

prereq: GEOG 10100 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 cr.
Offered fall and spring

GEOG 22600 - Environmental Conservation: Resource Management

GER
2/B
Introduces students to environmental studies with a focus on policy and management of resources. The course will examine issues pertaining to sustaining our resource base (biodiversity, food, soil, water and energy), a review of factors influencing sustainable use, and how humans have impacted these key elements of the natural system.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GEOG 22700 - Environmental Conservation: Urban Problems

GER
3/B

Covers topics related to environmental problems and their connection to urban areas. The course will begin with a survey of urban systems (transport, water, food, waste and energy) followed by investigating how these systems contribute to environmental problems and their solutions. This investigation will also include a discussion about the connections between rural and urban areas and urban planning that attempts to minimize environmental hazards.

3 hrs
3 cr.

GEOG 24100 - Population Geography (W)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/B or C
GER
3/B

Course will explore several critical issues such as the relationship between population growth and development; immigration and internal migration; how age, race and gender affect other demographic processes; and how and why these processes vary around the world. Additionally, students will examine the "mechanics" of computing population growth and change as well as different ways to visually display measures of population. Offered fall and spring.

prereq: GEOG 10100 or GEOG 15000 and ENGL 12000
3 hrs

GEOG 25100 - Geography of the United States and Canada

GER
2/B

Seeks to familiarize students with the regional geography of the United States and Canada. More specifically, the goals are to acquaint students with the dynamic nature of human and physical features that characterize the study area; the ways in which human and natural phenomena interact to create unique place characteristics and sub-regions; the key environmental issues that characterize the study area and its constituent parts; major trends that are affecting the geography of the two countries; and the locations of principal features. The course begins with general overview material, and then examines the various sub-regions of the study area in much greater detail, focusing on key characteristics and environmental challenges.

PGEOG 14000 - Introduction to Weather, Climate and Climate Change

Offers a basic understanding of how weather systems form, why certain regions have particular types of weather patterns, and what is known about climatic fluctuations across the globe. This includes an understanding of the basic physical principals that determine: how hot or cold a particular location is; how seasonal cycles vary in different parts of the world; and the types and amounts of precipitation. Students learn to analyze several types of weather maps and acquire a basic understanding of central issues related to global climate change, one of the most significant environmental issues of our time.

GTECH 10100 - Digital Earth

Digital Earth introduces students to the new suite of geospatial technologies and how they are being used to capture, store, process and display the vast amount of geospatial information about our planet, a wide variety of environmental and cultural phenomena, and how this information helps us to better understand natural and cultural characteristics of the world, address world problems, and make sound decisions. Students will learn how satellites take complete photographs of the entire planet, Geographic Information Systems (GIS) display geospatial data, Global Positioning Systems (GPS) track the location of environmental and cultural phenomena, Geovisualization tools map our 3-D planet, and how these technologies are applied to solve problems in diverse fields and phenomena in the physical and social sciences in exciting ways. The knowledge and skills learned in Digital Earth open the door toward a geotechnology-oriented career.

GTECH 30100 - Quantitative Methods in Geography

Open to Jr/Sr only. Process of spatial analysis. Application of scientific methods to geographic research; sampling; distribution measurement; statistical analysis of spatial data.

prereq: GTEC 201, STAT 113 or 213 or perm instr.

3 hrs

3 cr.

GTECH 32100 - Remote Sensing of the Environment

Focuses on use of satellite images to study the environment and the physical processes involved in remote sensing to better understand the nature and properties of electromagnetic radiation and how it interacts with the atmosphere and the Earth's surface and a wide variety of satellite sensors. These sensors make measurements in the optical, thermal and microwave electromagnetic spectrums and are used to study issues related to global environmental science and natural resource management. The course includes heavy lab components which will include practical assignments, field exercises, computer-based analysis of remotely-sensed images and the use of image processing software (ENVI) to analyze satellite images. Field measurements will be made in Central Park to facilitate better understanding satellite measurements.

Material Fee: $15

prereq: GTEC 32000 or perm instr.

4 hrs (2 lec, 2 lab)

3 cr.

GTECH 32200 - Digital Image Processing

Course emphasizes the acquisition and nature of digital image data and the tools required to process and analyze remotely sensed data. Topics include: image preprocessing, spectral mixture analysis, image transformation, image classification and accuracy assessment, change detection, information extraction from LIDAR and radar. At least one application for each image processing method will be introduced. This is an advanced remote sensing course. The course includes lab exercises through which students will obtain hands-on experience in digital image processing. The labs include practical assignments and computer-based analysis of remotely-sensed images, and also field work to evaluate the results. The lab will use ENVI, an image processing software, together with the comprehensive data analysis tool IDL.

Material fee: $15.00

prereq: GTEC 32100, and multivariate statistics, elementary linear algebra or perm instr.

4 hrs (2 lec, 2 lab)

3 cr.

GTECH 35000 - Field Topographic Surveying
Field use of surveying equipment. Notebook and computer data collection relating to horizontal and vertical location on the landscape, including the use of global positioning systems. Field record-keeping and preliminary analysis of results. Fee for transportation, accommodations and food allowance required.

GTECH 35100 - Field Techniques in Geography

Observation and analysis of physical geography, biogeography and geomorphology of selected areas. Field geographic techniques such as ground-truthing of remotely sensed images, the use of maps, compasses and GPS to navigate. Fee for transportation, lodging and food allowance required.

Material Fee: $300-400

prereq: GTEC 20100, any two additional geography or geology courses, perm dept.

90 hrs field/lab work (3 days lab, 7 days field)

3 cr.

Offered summer intersession (check with dept. in April).

GTECH 36100 - GIS Analysis

Advanced principles and operation of GIS, including 3-D, network and field representations and their respective analysis functions. Development of geoprocessing workflows. Geographic information science approaches to geospatially relevant methods, including geophysical, landscape ecological, econometric, epidemiological, and regional science.

Material Fee: $15

prereq: GTECH 20100

4 hrs (2 lec, 2 lab)

3 cr.

GTECH 38000 - Introduction to Cartographic Design and Geovisualization

This course explores fundamental design concepts and considerations in map production and presentation in the context of GIS. Students will combine computer graphics and cartographic design principles to develop visual representations and analysis of geospatial information.

Material Fee: $15

prereq: GTECH 20100

4 hrs (2 lec, 2 lab)

3 cr.

GTECH 38500 - GIS Applications

Selected topics in GIS applications to human and physical geographic problems. See department for topics offered. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

Material Fee: $15

prereq: GTEC 20100 or equiv.

Physical Geography

PGEOG 13000 (STEM) - Weather and Climate

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

Offers a basic understanding of how weather systems form, why certain regions have particular types of weather patterns, and what is known about climatic fluctuations across the globe. This includes an understanding of the basic physical principals that determine: how hot or cold a particular location is; how seasonal cycles vary in different parts of the world; and the types and amounts of precipitation. Students learn to analyze several types of weather maps and acquire a basic understanding of central issues related to global climate change, one of the most significant environmental issues of our time.

Material Fee: $5
5 hrs (3 lec, 2 lab)

Offered in the Fall and Spring

PGEOG 23100 - Physical Geography II: Principles of Geomorphology

See GEOL 23100
PGEOG 25000 - Earth System Science I (W)

GER
3/B

In this course students learn to think of Earth as a system of several components that interact with each other, sometimes in very complicated ways. The components of the Earth system that will be considered include the atmosphere, the hydrosphere, the lithosphere, and the biosphere. While each of these components can, and should, be studied in more detail in separate courses, here the focus is on interactions between them.

prereq: ENGL 12000
prereq or coreq: GEOL 10100 or PGEOG 13000 or GEOG 22600 or perm instr.
4 hrs
3.5 cr.

PGEOG 25100 - Earth System Science II

GER
3/B

The second part of a two-course sequence, students continue the objectives of PGEOG 25000, and learn about our planet as a system of interacting components, including the atmosphere, hydrosphere, lithosphere, and biosphere. This course focuses primarily on the biosphere, paleoclimates, and the Arctic climate system.

prereq: PGEO 25000 or perm instr.
4 hrs
3.5 cr.

PGEOG 31100 - Introduction to Fluid Mechanics

GER
3/B

Covers the basic principles of fluid mechanics including statics, kinematics of fluid motion, integral and differential representation of conservation of mass, linear momentum, the first Law of Thermodynamics, Bernoulli's equation, dimensional analysis, and elementary viscous flow.

cross-listed PHYS 31100
prereq: PHYS 12100 or 12000 and MATH 15500 or perm instr.
3 hrs
3 credits

PGEOG 31300 - Biogeography

GER
3/B

Provides an understanding of the geographic distribution and temporal variability of biological diversity over the face of the Earth and the biotic and abiotic factors and processes underlying these patterns and dynamics. Completion of PGEOG 25000/25100 and GTECH 37300 prior to enrollment is strongly recommended.

prereq: PGEOG 13000, GEOG 10100 or BIOL 10000/10200
PGEOG 3200 - Introduction to Hydrology

GER
3/B

Designed to provide the basic understanding of how water on the Earth moves, distributes, circulates and interacts with the environment. Focus will be on hydrological processes including precipitation, evapotranspiration (evaporation and transpiration), soil water, ground water, and runoff, which form the complete water cycle at global, regional and watershed scales. The course will also cover some topics on how water responds to environmental changes and strategies of integrated water resources.

Prereq: GEOL 10100, PGEO 13000 or perm instr.

PGEOG 3400 - Coastal Geomorphology See GEOL 3400

See GEOL 3400

PGEOG 3500 - Urban and Metropolitan Coasts

GER
3/B

A systematic study of the natural and anthropogenic processes on urban coastal environments. Special emphasis on the coastline of the NY metropolitan area, with examples from coastal cities worldwide.

Prereq or coreq: Prereq: GEOL 10100 or GEOG 10100

3 hrs
3 cr.

PGEOG 36100 - Global Climatic Change

GER
3/B

Open to Jr/Sr only. An intensive introduction to the study of climate change with emphasis on modern climate change, anthropogenic forcing and measured and predicted consequences of this forcing. Students will develop an understanding of natural climate forcing, natural variability and feedbacks in the climate system while concurrently studying the Earth's climate history, and modern climate change.

Prereq: PGEO 13000 or GEOL 10100 or 10500

3 hrs
3 cr.

PGEOG 36300 - Environmental Hazards

GER
3/B
The course, in response to actual and potential hazards, either natural or anthropogenic in origin, will investigate the processes that link fundamental social development to environmental processes that are influenced by human activities. Natural hazards, in many cases, augment the environmental fragility of our society and the consideration of environmental hazards needs to be incorporated into management of climate variability, storms, droughts, floods, earthquakes, etc. An aim is to seek preventive measures and find solutions to act on environmental hazards on national and international levels.

2/E

Introduction to Geology is the study of the physical aspects of our planet. The goal of this course is to provide students with a basic understanding of the forces continuously shaping the surface of our planet and the influence they have on our environment, so that their appreciation and interest in our planet is heightened. At the same time, this course provides a strong fundamental background for students who want to pursue more advanced geological and environmental studies courses.

GEOL 10200 - Plate Tectonics and the Earth's Evolution

GER
2/E

The second course in geology offered to non-geology majors. It is designed to familiarize students with the main concepts used in deciphering and interpreting earth's evolution from the spatial and temporal perspective. Topics to be covered include: geologic time; geological principles; earth materials as recorders of past geologic processes; depositional environments and sedimentary rock record; igneous and metamorphic geologic environments and their rock records; evolution of the solar system; plate tectonics and life on earth; origin of the universe; life on earth and the fossil record; Precambrian, Paleozoic, Mesozoic, and Cenozoic life, history and tectonics. Field trips may be required; transportation fee.

GEOL 18000 - Introduction to Oceanography

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

An introduction to the subject of oceanography. We will discuss the physical, chemical, biological and geological aspects of the oceans; learn about the structure and motion of the atmosphere and how they all influence ocean circulation; and we will learn about waves, tides and tsunamis, the carbon cycle and how the ocean influences the Earth's climate system. In addition to providing a good introduction to aspects of the scientific world, it is a foundational course for Environmental Studies, Geography and BA/MA Earth Science Education majors.

prereq: Prerequisite: Math Proficient and Reading Proficient/Non degree students
3 hrs
3 cr.
Offered fall and spring
As human populations continue to grow, resource depletion and hazards will become more severe. Many decisions concerning the use of resources, such as water, soil, minerals, energy and space to live, will determine our standard of living and the quality of the environment. Scientific knowledge, combined with human values, will dictate these decisions. This course examines not only the way geological processes operate and impact society, but also how the earth system responds to human activity. The difficult problems associated with extracting enormous quantities of resources needed to sustain modern societies will be discussed. The course will also address ways humans can minimize the risks associated with hazardous earth processes. Quantitative analysis of selected topics will be introduced to provide a deeper understanding of the complexity of today's environmental issues.

prereq: GEOL 10100
3 hrs
3 cr.

Investigates the geologic forces that shape the surface of the Earth. In the laboratory students will learn to analyze features of the landscape and deduce the processes that produced them. Students will use traditional laboratories as well as Google Earth to learn about a variety of surficial processes.

prereq: PGEO 13000 or GEOL 10100
4 hrs (2 lec, 2 lab)
3 cr.

Marine Geology is the study of the seafloor. This course attempts to answer the questions "what?", "where?", "when?" and more importantly "how?" in order to better understand the processes that shape the ocean basins and determine the structure and composition of the oceanic crust. The main patterns of sediment distribution in the ocean basins and how sediments preserve a record of past climatic and sea-level changes will be explored. In addition, the role of fluids in ocean sediments and the oceanic crust will be examined. The seafloor sediments will be studied with a focus on their role in marine biogeochemical cycles.

GEOL 38000 - Advanced Oceanography: Physics of the Oceans

The oceans play a significant role in how the climate system responds to anthropogenic perturbations. To understand past, present and future climate, students need to know and understand the world ocean. Oceanography is multidisciplinary. It offers an opportunity to review and to apply many of the concepts taught in the major traditional disciplines of physics, chemistry, biology and mathematics. This course will offer an in-depth tour of the complex study of oceanography and an introduction to quantitative methods in oceanography using Matlab. This science-based course requires students to learn and understand, and be willing to work with, physical and quantitative concepts. Students must be prepared to learn the basics of computer scripting/programming syntax and logic, one of the major skills to be acquired in this course.

HIST 36300 - American Cultural History

PD/D
GER
3/B

An exploration of several significant themes in American cultural history from the late nineteenth through the late twentieth centuries. Through close readings of selected primary and secondary works (both written and visual) we will consider the meanings of popular, proto-mass, and mass culture as well as the nature of different levels of cultural tastes and styles in modern American history. Reflecting on the broader social and political context of these developments we will study a range of topics, including the myth of the self-made man, the role of the frontier and the cowboy, and critiques of mass consumer culture. Central to our historical examination of American culture will be an effort to appraise and describe: how American writers, artists, orators, cultural critics and everyday people constructed narratives (written, spoken, musical, visual) of identity for themselves along ethnic, racial, gendered, class-based and national lines; how the construction of those narratives were related to each other; and, how those narratives changed over time depending on specific political and social contexts.

Human Rights

HR 20000 - Introduction to Human Rights: History, Discourse, Practice (W)
An introduction to the study of human rights. It explores the historical, philosophical, and legal roots of human rights as a political idea and institutionalized practice. It also addressed the contested nature of human rights as an idea and practice in contemporary societies. In addition to providing an introduction to the subject, the course is a requirement for students minoring in Human Rights or pursuing a Human Rights Certificate.

In order to pursue a Human Rights minor or Certificate, a student must receive at least a B (3.0) in this course. Students should take this introductory course in their sophomore year but must take it no later than the first semester of their junior year. This is a writing intensive course.

HR 22000 - Special Topics in Human Rights

This course covers special topics in human rights. Topics vary from semester to semester, and will often include topics related to human rights in particular countries or regions of the world, or themes within the field of human rights. Some examples of themes would include: theoretical foundations of human rights; human rights and international justice; international organizations and human rights; and, domestic and international politics of human rights. This course will generally be offered every semester, and certainly at least every two years. The course may be repeated four times for credit with different topics.

prereq: ENGL 12000 or equivalent; one course in ethics, political philosophy, political theory, sociological theory, or permission from the instructors.

HR 25000 - Human Rights Internship

This is a practicum course. It involves students participating in an organization that identifies its mission as the promotion of human rights. The aim of the course is to educate students in the practical dimension of translating human rights discourse and law into practice. The course is required for students seeking a Human Rights Certificate or a minor in Human Rights.

prereq: ENGL 12000 or equivalent; HR 20000 or equivalent

HR 32000 - Special Topics in Human Rights

This course covers special topics in human rights on an advanced undergraduate level. Topics vary from semester to semester, and will often include topics related to human rights in particular countries or regions of the world, or themes within the field of human rights. Some examples of themes would include: theoretical foundations of human rights; human rights and international justice; international organizations and human rights; and, domestic and international politics of human rights. This course will generally be offered every semester, and certainly at least every two years. May be repeated four times for credit with different topics.

JPN 25100 - Japanese Culture Before 1600

Hunter Core
Individual and Society - Humanities (I&S H)
Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A
GER
2/C

Covering many facets of Japanese culture, this course will focus on the various periods of Japanese history (Jomon, Yayoi, Kofun, and Heian – to name a few) and uncover how many aspects of Japanese culture were shaped. From the influence from nearby countries – most notably China – to its isolationist periods, its mythology, the evolution of its art, the deep-seated love of nature shared by many Japanese, and the co-existence of multiple belief systems, Japan is a truly unique country whose culture continues to gain in popularity within the United States. Taught entirely in English.

While this is a two-part course, Japanese Culture Before 1600 (JPN 25100) will not act as a prerequisite for Japanese Culture Since 1600 (JPN 25200).

This course will focus on Japanese culture after roughly 1600. During this time, Japan was largely isolated from the rest of the world, but specific events led to a mixture of vastly different cultures – that of the Japanese and the Western world, which led to many changes within Japan. Additional major topics include the impact of both World Wars, contemporary Japanese lifestyle, and the various holidays and traditions that are celebrated today. Art, literature, and social reform will also play important roles throughout the semester.

Mathematics and Statistics: Mathematics

In planning their schedules, prospective majors should note that some advanced required courses are offered only once each year and several advanced elective courses are offered only once every other year. A rotation schedule for course offerings is available in the department office and on the departmental web site.

Prerequisites: Because of the nature of mathematics, the department recommends that students refrain from enrolling in any course that carries prerequisites unless these prerequisites have been completed with a grade of C or better.
MATH 101EN - Algebra for College Students - Enhanced

Topics in algebra, graphing and functions including: algebraic and graphical solutions to systems of equations and inequalities; absolute value, polynomial, rational, and radical expressions and equations; complex numbers; the function concept; introduction to polynomial, rational, and exponential functions and their graphs. Also includes elementary algebra material which is necessary background material to be successful in college algebra. Not open to students who have taken MATH 10100.

MATH 15200 (STEM) - Calculus for Life and Social Sciences

Limits, continuity and the derivative. The power rule, product and quotient rules, the chain rule, and implicit differentiation. The Mean Value Theorem and the Intermediate Value Theorem. curve sketching and optimization, and linear approximation. Riemann integral and the Fundamental Theorem of Calculus. Various applications to economics, life sciences, and physical sciences. Students will not be allowed to obtain credit for both MATH 15200 and MATH 15000 (STEM) . Students planning on taking more than one semester of calculus should take MATH 15000 (STEM) instead.

prereq: MATH 12550 with a grade of B- or better; or MATH 12400, MATH 12500, or MATH 12550, with a grade of C or better, and coreq MATH 14000; or appropriate score on placement exam.
Not open to students who have taken MATH 15000.

4 cr.

MATH 15400 - An Introduction to Symbolic Computation
Laboratory introduction to machine-aided computation with an emphasis on examples related to calculus. Students use a symbolic computation package to investigate and solve problems numerically, analytically and graphically. The same package is used to create reports of their results.

prereq: MATH 15000
2 hrs
1 cr.

MATH 15500 (STEM) - Calculus II

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Differentiation and integration of transcendental functions, integration techniques, infinite sequences and series, improper integrals, polar coordinates.

prereq: grade of C or better in MATH 15000
4 hrs
4 cr.

MATH 15600 - Introduction to Mathematical Proof Workshop

Techniques of proof will be introduced, among them the direct and indirect methods of proof, epsilon-delta arguments and induction. These will be applied to theorems in number theory, set theory and in differential and integral calculus.

prereq: MATH 15000
prereq or coreq: MATH 15500
2 hrs
1 cr.

MATH 16000 - Matrix Algebra

GER
1/B

Systems of linear equations, matrices, determinants, introduction to vector spaces and linear transformations, applications.

prereq: MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or appropriate score on placement exam
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 25000 - Calculus III

GER
3/B

Vector geometry, dot and cross products, partial derivatives, matrices, determinants, Jacobians, multiple integration.

prereq: MATH 15500, MATH 15600
4 hrs
4 cr.

MATH 25400 - Ordinary Differential Equations
First-order equations, second-order linear equations and linear systems, power series solutions, transform and numerical methods, introduction to qualitative theory.
_prereq: MATH 25000_
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 25500 - Vector Analysis

Line and surface integrals, Green's Theorem, divergence theorem, Stokes' Theorem, generalized coordinates.
_prereq: MATH 25000_
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 26000 - Linear Algebra

Vector spaces, linear transformations, canonical forms, inner product spaces, bilinear forms, applications.

MATH 30100 - Mathematical Methods for the Physical Sciences

GER
3/B

The solution of linear partial differential equations and boundary value problems. Solution techniques such as separation of variables, Fourier series, Green's functions and Laplace transforms are covered. These are applied to several equations which occur in physical applications such as the heat equation, the Laplace equation and the wave equation. Crosslisted as PHYS 30100.

prereq: MATH 25400
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 31100 - Abstract Algebra I

GER
3/B

Introduction to the theory of groups and rings.

prereq: MATH 26000
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 31200 - Abstract Algebra II

GER
3/B

Elements of Galois theory, construction with ruler and compass, advanced topics in ring theory and linear algebra.

prereq: MATH 31100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 31300 - Theory of Numbers

GER
3/B

Congruences, quadratic residues, elementary Diophantine analysis, continued fractions, sums of squares.

prereq: MATH 26000
3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 33100 - Geometries

GER
3/B

Topics in affine and projective geometry and/or topics in differential geometry.

prereq: MATH 26000
MATH 34000 - Topology

GER
3/B

Metric and topological spaces, continuity, homeomorphisms, compactness, connectedness, homotopy, fundamental group.

prereq: MATH 35100

3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 35100 - Mathematical Analysis I

GER
3/B

Rigorous treatment of foundations of calculus, including topology of real line and higher dimensional spaces. Basic results on continuous functions.

prereq: MATH 25000, 26000

3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 35200 - Mathematical Analysis II

GER
3/B

Integration, sequences and series, uniform convergence, differentiation of functions of several variables, inverse and implicit function theorems, formula for change of variables.

prereq: MATH 35100

3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 35300 - Introduction To Complex Variables

GER
3/B

Complex numbers, analytic functions, elementary functions, contour integrals, Cauchy integral theory, series.

prereq: MATH 15600, 25500

3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 35400 - Dynamical Systems and Chaos

GER
3/B
Linear flows, qualitative theory of low-dimensional nonlinear systems, introduction to chaos in discrete one-dimensional dynamical systems.

prereq: MATH 25000, 26000

3 hrs

3 cr.

MATH 37000 - Mathematical Logic

GER

3/B

A survey of the central results and techniques of metalogic, principally mathematical induction, the soundness and completeness of theorems for first-order logic, the Skolem Theorem and Church's Theorem on undecidability. Cross-listed as PHILO 37500 and CSCI 37100.

prereq: MATH 26000 or permission of the instructor

3 hrs

3 cr.

MATH 37100 - Fundamental Concepts of Modern Mathematics

GER

3/B

Axiomatic approach to set theory: axiom of choice, Zorn's Lemma, transfinite arithmetic.

prereq: two of the following: MATH 26000, 31100, 35100, 35200

3 hrs

3 cr.

MATH 37200 - Logic and Computers

This course introduces students to logic and its applications to modeling both computer and real-world systems. Topics include various logics and their applications to modeling systems and reasoning for artificial intelligence, along with proof systems and tools for automated or semi-automated reasoning in these logics.

cross-listed CSCI 37200/PHILO 37200

prereq: CSCI 15000 OR PHILO/CSCI/MATH 27500

3 hrs

3 cr.

MATH 37600 - Philosophy of Mathematics (W)

GER

3/B

Study of such issues as the nature of demonstration or proof and the nature of mathematical knowledge and mathematical objects such as numbers and sets. Cross-listed as PHIL 37600.

prereq: ENGL 12000; PHIL 10100, MATH 27500

MATH 37700 - Non-classical Logic
Logic is the systematic and precise study of reasoning—a topic of particular interest to mathematicians and computer scientists as well as philosophers. Philosophers have often functioned as the research and development wing of this collaboration, thinking up and formalizing new logical techniques and systems designed to solve problems that can't be solved by traditional (a.k.a. "classical") logic. This course will be an introduction to some of these non-classical logics, their philosophical motivations, and some of their applications.

Mathematics and Statistics: Statistics

In planning their schedules, prospective majors should note that some advanced required courses are offered only once each year and several advanced elective courses are offered only once every other year. A rotation schedule for course offerings is available in the department office and on the departmental web site.

Prerequisites: Because of the nature of mathematics, the department recommends that students refrain from enrolling in any course that carries prerequisites unless these prerequisites have been completed with a grade of C or better.
STAT 11000 - Selected Topics in Elementary Probability and Statistics as Applied to Popular Science and Current Events

GER
1/B

Topics to be studied in any given term will be announced prior to registration. This course does not serve as a prerequisite for any other mathematics or statistics course. This course is a topics course that serves as an introduction to selected topics in probability and statistics with applications to the real world.

prereq: CUNY Math Proficiency

STAT 11300 - Elementary Probability and Statistics

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning

GER
1/B

Not open to students who have completed STAT 21300 (STEM) or PSYCH 24800. Not credited for majors in statistics or mathematics unless minor is elementary education. An introduction to applied statistics and statistical computing. Hands-on data analysis. Graphical inference. The five number summary, box plots, scatterplots, normal probability plots. Elementary probability. Statistical estimation and hypothesis testing. Linear regression. Students are expected to analyze real data sets and write reports. Students who have taken calculus or place into calculus by the placement exam should take STAT 21300 instead of STAT 11300.

prereq: A grade of C or better in MATH 10100 or MATH 101EN or appropriate score on placement exam

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000

3 hrs

3 cr.

STAT 21200 - Discrete Probability

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning

GER
1/B

Combinations, permutations, discrete probability. Characteristics of probability distributions. Model building. Additional topics like sampling, random walks or game theory will be introduced from time to time.

prereq: MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or STAT 11300 or appropriate score on placement exam.

3 hrs

3 cr.

STAT 21300 (STEM) - Introduction to Applied Statistics

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning

GER
1/B

Sampling, estimation, tests of hypotheses, including one-and two-sample tests, two- and three-way tables for nominal and ordinal data, linear regression, analysis of variance through two-way with interaction, appropriate statistical software.

prereq: MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or appropriate score on placement exam

3 hrs
3 cr.

STAT 21400 - Data Analysis Using Statistical Software

GER 3/B

Analysis of variance, simple and multiple regression, nonparametric statistics, statistical model building

prereq: STAT 21300 or MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 and STAT 11300 with grade of C or better in each course.

3 hrs
3 cr.

STAT 22000 - Statistical Analysis in Forensics

GER 3/B

A second course in probability and statistics and the evaluation of evidence in the forensic sciences.

prereq: STAT 21200 and either STAT 21300 or 11300 by permission of instructor. One of the above, i.e., STAT 21200 or STAT 21300 or STAT 11300 by permission of instructor may be taken as a coreq.

STAT 31100 - Probability Theory

GER 3/B

Combinatorics, distribution theory for discrete and continuous random variables, central limit theorems.

prereq: MATH 25000.

3 hrs
3 cr.

STAT 31200 - Stochastic Processes
Discrete and continuous stochastic processes including Markov chains, birth processes, queues and Brownian motion.
prereq: STAT 31100
3 hrs
3 cr.

STAT 31300 - Introduction to Mathematical Statistics

Estimation, hypothesis testing, confidence limits for normal, binomial, Poisson and exponential random variables.
prereq: STAT 31100
3 hrs
3 cr.

STAT 31900 - Bayesian Statistical Inference in the Sciences

prereq: MATH 15500; at least one of STAT 21200, STAT 21300 or STAT 21400 (or permission of instructor). Prerequisites waived for students who have passed STAT 311.
Familiarity with matrix algebra (at the level of MATH 160) and with the Windows computing environment are encouraged.
3 hrs
3 cr.

STAT 35100 - Advanced Biometrics

A second course in statistics covering quantitative methods applicable in the life sciences. Topics include experimental design, life table analysis, ethical issues, survival analysis, logistic regression and Cox regression. Linear algebra recommended but not required.
prereq: math at level of MATH 12400, MATH 12500, MATH 12550, STAT 11300, 21300
3 hrs
3 cr.

STAT 39100 - Independent Study

Medical Laboratory Science

MLS 31200 - Human Physiology: Integration and Control

Study of function at the cellular and systemic level, with emphasis on the integrated organism and associated control systems. Electronic resources are used extensively in this course.

prereq: BIOL 10000 and 10200, CHEM 10400, 10500 or equiv.

3 hrs

3 cr.

MLS 34700 - Human Histology

Structure and function of normal human tissues and cells, including systematic study of microscopic morphology.

coreq: MLS 31200

5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)

3 cr.

MLS 40066 - Topics: Biohazards and Emergency Response

This cross-listed undergraduate/masters class covers the biology of microorganisms and toxins most frequently considered in perpetrated attacks. It also considers technology for detection and control for first responders, lab practitioners and other healthcare professionals, emergency communication, and prevention. In addition to classroom activities, students participate in group projects to simulate bioterrorism events and responses; government regulation, chain of evidence, and related topics are covered.

cross-listed MLS 77025

3 hours

3 credits

MLS 40067 - Topics: Medical Technology

A review of various disciplines in clinical laboratory technology with a particular focus on clinical chemistry. Recommended for students intending to take the NYSED licensure exam for clinical laboratory technologists.

prereq: MLS 35400 and MLS 35500

3 hrs

3 cr.

MLS 45000 - Cell and Tissue Culture

Cell and tissue culture theory and techniques, including starting primary cultures, passing and preservation of cells, cell cycle and growth factor assays and monoclonal antibody techniques. Several informal hours are required each week in the lab in addition to the scheduled class.

prereq: MLS 35100

coreq: MLS 34700, 35200

5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)

4 cr.

MLS 46000 - Immunology
Cellular reactions in immunology, structure of antibodies and antigens, and laboratory determination of immune functions.

prereq: MLS 34900, 35100

coreq: MLS 35200, 35400

5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)

3 cr.

MLSP 30000 - Fundamental Concepts and Techniques in the Medical Laboratory

Function of the medical laboratory, data analysis and operation of basic laboratory equipment. Approximately 1-2 informal laboratory hours are required to practice the use of equipment.

MLS 60000 is the graduate component of this course

prereq: BIOL 10000, 10200, CHEM 10200, 10300, 10400, 10500 or equiv.

3 hrs (2 lec, 1 lab)

3 cr.

MLSP 34900 - Hematology

Study of normal and pathological conditions of blood. Use of current diagnostic techniques to analyze peripheral blood and bone marrow, differential counting and blood banking.

prereq or coreq: MLSP 30000

5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)

3 cr.

MLSP 35100 - Clinical Microbiology I

Properties and mechanisms of pathogenesis of microorganisms associated with disease and the antimicrobial agents used to control them.

prereq or coreq: MLSP 30000

5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)

3 cr.

MLSP 35200 - Clinical Microbiology II

Continuation of MLSP 35100 with particular emphasis on anaerobic bacteria, fungi, and viruses, diagnostic strategies using classical, serological and molecular techniques.

prereq: MLSP 30000, 35100 or equiv.

5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)

4 cr.
MLSP 35400 - Clinical Biochemistry I: Biomolecules & Metabolism

Basic macromolecules of life, including amino acids, lipids, nucleic acids, and carbohydrates; membrane biochemistry and signal transduction; cellular metabolism and bioenergetics; clinical and biochemical laboratory methods.

prereq: CHEM 22200
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3.5 cr.

MLSP 35500 - Clinical Biochemistry II: Genes to Proteins

Structure and function of nucleic acids and proteins and the genetic basis of human disease. Laboratory methodologies include analysis of proteins, including enzymes in clinical samples, and manipulation of microbial nucleic acids.

prereq: MLSP 35400
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3.5 cr.

MLSP 36100 - Computers and Data Processing in the Medical Laboratory

Study of computer integration in the medical and research lab, data compilation and medical information systems. Approximately 3 additional informal lab hours are required weekly.

prereq: MATH 15000 or STAT 11300
3 hrs (1 lec, 2 lab)
3 cr.

MLSP 40000 - Topics in Biomedical Sciences

Topics vary from semester to semester and are announced before registration.
1-3 hrs
1-3 cr.

MLSP 41000 - Professional Practice

Directed full-time experience in clinical, research, public health or other biomedical laboratories. Arranged on an individual basis.

prereq: departmental permission
8 weeks
3 cr.

MLSP 43000 - Immunohematology

Study of the immunologic properties of blood associated with blood group systems, donor screening, transfusion reactions and hemolytic disease and laboratory techniques used to characterize antigen-antibody reactions.

prereq: MLSP 34900
3 hrs (2 lec, 1 lab)
3 cr.

MLSP 45700 - Senior Seminar
Oral presentations and written exercises (including research proposal) introduce students to the use and proper citation of the biomedical literature, research design, effective scientific communication and regulatory oversight of science.

Nursing

Note: Students who fail a core prerequisite course in a nursing sequence may not proceed to the next course in the sequence without repeating the failed course. In order to continue in the Nursing major, students must receive minimum grades of “C” in all required nursing courses. Only one failed required nursing course is repeatable only once by students who have received a “D” or less. Students who fail a second required nursing course in the sequence may not repeat that course and may not continue in the major. This policy applies even though a grade appeal is in progress.

NURS 20000 - Introduction to Nursing

Introduction to essential theories, concepts, and values of the nursing profession. Emphasis on understanding the practice and principles of nursing. The principles of service-learning are introduced.

Survey of such movements as pragmatism, process philosophy, analytic philosophy, existentialism, phenomenology, feminism and post modernism through consideration of such representative figures as Dewey, Moore, Whitehead, Russell, Husserl, Heidegger, Wittgenstein, Ayer, Sartre, De Beauvoir, Quine, Rorty and Rawls.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.

3 hrs
3 cr.

Philosophy Courses: Logic

PHILO 27500 - Symbolic Logic

GER
3/B

Sentential logic including symbolizations, truth-value tables, formal derivations, Predicate logic including symbolizations, interpretations and formal derivations.

cross-listed MATH 27500

3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 37200 - Logic and Computers

This course introduces students to logic and its applications to modeling both computer and real-world systems. Topics include various logics and their applications to modeling systems and reasoning for artificial intelligence, along with proof systems and tools for automated or semi-automated reasoning in these logics.

cross-listed CSCI 37200/MATH 37200

prereq: CSCI 15000 OR PHILO/CSCI/MATH 27500

3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 37500 - Advanced Symbolic Logic

GER
3/B

A survey of the central results and techniques of meta-logic, principally mathematical induction, the soundness and completeness of theorems for first-order logic, the Skolem theorem and Church's theorem on undecidability.

prereq: PHIL 27500 or equiv.

3 hrs
3 cr.
PHILO 37700 - Non-classical Logic

Logic is the systematic and precise study of reasoning—a topic of particular interest to mathematicians and computer scientists as well as philosophers. Philosophers have often functioned as the research and development wing of this collaboration, thinking up and formalizing new logical techniques and systems designed to solve problems that can't be solved by traditional (a.k.a. "classical") logic. This course will be an introduction to some of these non-classical logics, their philosophical motivations, and some of their applications.

cross-listed MATH 37700, CSCI 37700

prereq: PHILO 27500 or MATH 27500 or CSCI 27500
3 hrs
3 cr.

Philosophy Courses: Major Philosophers

PHILO 37300 - Philosophy of History

This course is designed to introduce students to what philosophers have had to say about history—both in terms of its meaning, if any, and of how to explain and narrate historical events. We will survey the major theories about the philosophy of history, the problems with the concept of historical explanation and interpretation, as well as a variety of major philosophers' attempts to solve these problems. We will also consider how history relates to cognate disciplines in the sciences, social sciences, and humanities.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38000 - Major Figures in Philosophy (W)

GER
3/A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of a major philosopher. The course may be repeated as different figures are offered. Figures include:
PHILO 38010 Plato (W)
PHILO 38011 Aristotle (W)
PHILO 38020 Plotinus (W)
PHILO 38063 Hume (W)
PHILO 38068 Kant (W)
PHILO 38070 Hegel (W)
PHILO 38076 Marx (W)
PHILO 38078 Nietzsche (W)
PHILO 38080 Wittgenstein (W)
PHILO 38083 Heidegger (W)
PHILO 38086 Foucault (W)

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr
PHILO 38010 - Plato (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Plato.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38011 - Aristotle (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Aristotle.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38020 - Plotinus (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Plotinus.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38063 - Hume (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Hume.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38068 - Kant (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Kant.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.
PHILO 38070 - Hegel (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works of Hegel.
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38076 - Marx (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Marx (W)
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38078 - Nietzsche (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Nietzsche.
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38080 - Wittgenstein (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Wittgenstein.
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 38083 - Heidegger (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Heidegger.
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.
PHILO 38086 - Foucault (W)

GER
3A

Intensive study of the works and legacy of Foucault.
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

Philosophy Courses: Metaphysics and Epistemology

PHILO 26200 - Philosophy of Religion (W)

GER
3/A

Philosophical examination of some religious questions and beliefs.
prereq: one course in philosophy or religion (see statement under Program Prerequisites)
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 26600 - Knowledge and Reality (W)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/D
GER
3/A

An introduction to central concepts and issues in 20th Century and contemporary metaphysics and epistemology.
prereq: ENGL 12000 and one previous course in philosophy.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 26800 - Mind, Language and Cognition (W)

GER
3/B

An introduction to central concepts and issues in contemporary philosophies of mind, language, psychology, and cognitive science.
prereq: ENGL 12000 and one previous course in philosophy.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 27000 - Philosophy, Science and Culture (W)
Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
GER
3/B

Issues relating to the impact of modern science on philosophy, religion and culture.
prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 36000 - Metaphysics (W)

GER
3/A

Study of major metaphysical views, such as materialism, idealism, nominalism and realism. The major question is:
What is reality and how may it be known?
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 36200 - Theory of Knowledge (W)

GER
3/A

Study of origin, structure, methods and foundations of human knowledge.
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 36300 - Feminist and Social Epistemologies (W)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C
Recent work in feminist epistemology and social epistemology including philosophy of science.
prereq: ENGL 12000 plus two courses in philosophy, one of which must be at the 200-level
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 36400 - Philosophy of Language (W)

GER
3/A

Inquiry into the philosophical significance of language, its structure, meaning, reference and use.
prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 36600 - Philosophy of Mind (W)
Examination of the concept of mind and the person. Topics include thinking, intention, consciousness, supervenience, emotion, self-knowledge.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.

3 hrs

3 cr.

PHILO 37600 - Philosophy of Mathematics (W)

Study of such issues as the nature of demonstration or proof and the nature of mathematical knowledge and mathematical objects such as numbers and sets. cross-listed with MATH 376.

prereq: ENGL 12000; one PHIL course and one PHIL or MATH course (precalculus or beyond)

3 hrs

3 cr.

PHILO 37800 - Philosophy of Biology (W)

Philosophical problems of biology, including evolutionary biology, molecular biology and genetics, and neuroscience.

prereq: ENGL 12000 and 2 courses in philosophy, at least one at the 200-level

3 hrs

3 cr.

PHILO 37900 - Philosophy of Science (W)

Study of foundations of knowledge in natural and social sciences.

prereq: Two courses in philosophy, at least one of which is at the 200 level.

3 hrs

3 cr.

Philosophy: Special Courses

PHILO 20000 - Topics in Philosophy

Topics discussed vary from semester to semester.

prereq: variable (see Program Prerequisites)

3 hrs

3 cr.
PHILO 39300 - Philosophical Systems

GER
3/A

Study of writings of one or two major philosophers.
prereq: variable (see Program Prerequisites)
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 39400 - Philosophical Problems

GER
3/A

Study of one or more major philosophical problems.
prereq: variable (see Program Prerequisites)
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 49200 - Independent Study in Philosophy

Independent study of philosophical works under faculty supervision.
prereq: one PHILO course at 300-level, perm instr. (see Program Prerequisites)
1-6 cr.

PHILO 49400 - Honors Tutorial in Philosophy

Open to Jr/Sr only. Students must present a proposal for an individual project to be completed under faculty supervision. Successful completion is one requirement for departmental honors at graduation.
prereq: 3.0 cum GPA and 3.50 major GPA; philosophy majors only, minor with perm instr; two 300-level PHIL courses, one of which may be taken concurrently; perm dept.
3 or 6 cr.

PHILO 49800 - Internship

Open to Jr/Sr only. Philosophically relevant internship.
prereq: philosophy major, minor with perm dept adviser; 2.5 cum GPA and 3.0 major GPA (see Program Prerequisites)
1-6 cr.

Physics

PHYS 10000 - Basic Concepts of Physics

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW)
GER
This is an introductory, one-semester physics course designed for non-science majors. It minimizes the use of mathematics, beyond simple addition, multiplication, subtraction and division. The course will meet three hours per week in lecture. The contents are the lecture material of the existing PHYS 101 LC course. Topics include: Newton's laws of motion, linear motion and falling objects, momentum, energy, rotational motion, gravity, atomic structure, liquids, gases, heat, vibrations and waves, sound, electrostatics, electric current, magnetism, electromagnetic induction, light, color, reflection and refraction, an introduction to quantum mechanics, and radioactivity. This course is a co-requisite or pre-requisite of PHYS 10100, which consists of traditional lab experiments and guided problem-solving sessions, that are closely correlated with the lecture material covered in this course.

3 hrs
3 cr.

PHYS 10100 - Basic Concepts of Physics with Laboratory Exercises

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)

GER
2/E

Introductory one-semester physics lab-based course designed for non-science majors. The course emphasizes the basic concepts of physics, and a qualitative understanding of physics in everyday life.

prereq or coreq: PHYS 10000

3 hrs
3 cr.

PHYS 11000 (STEM) - General Physics: Introductory Course in Mechanics, Heat, and Sound

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)

GER
2/E

First semester of two-semester introductory physics course using algebra.

prereq: MATH 12400 or 12500 or 12550 or 15000 or 15500

7 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab, 1 rec)
4.5 cr.

PHYS 11100 (STEM) - General Physics: Introductory Course in Mechanics, Heat, and Sound

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW) Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)

GER
2/E

For physics and other science majors. First semester of a two-semester introductory physics course using calculus.

prereq or coreq: coreq (with perm dept.): MATH 15000

8 hrs (4 lec, 3 lab, 1 rec)
5.5 cr.
PHYS 12000 (STEM) - General Physics: Introductory Course in Electricity and Magnetism, Light, and Atomic Physics

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW); Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)
GER
2/E

Second semester of PHYS 11000 (STEM), a two-semester introductory physics course using algebra.
prereq: PHYS 11000 or 11100
7 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab, 1 rec)
4.5 cr.

PHYS 12100 (STEM) - General Physics: Introductory Course in Electricity and Magnetism, Light, and Atomic Physics

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW); Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)
GER
2/E

Second semester of PHYS 11100 (STEM), a two-semester introductory physics course using calculus.
prereq: PHYS 11000 or 11100
prereq or coreq: (with perm dept.): MATH 15500
8 hrs (4 lec, 3 lab, 1 rec)
5.5 cr.

PHYS 19000 - Tutorial in Mathematical Physics

Applications of differential and integral calculus to selected topics chosen from the major subfields of physics. Completion of this course and its prerequisites is equivalent to completion of the calculus-based general physics sequence, PHYS 11100 and 12100.
prereq: MATH 15500, PHYS 12000
3 hrs (2 lec, 1 rec)
2 cr.

PHYS 20400 - Electrical Circuits and Laboratory

GER
3/B

Passive electrical circuits and computer-based data acquisition and analysis, including basic circuit laws, methods of circuit analysis, circuit theorems, operational amplifiers, capacitors and inductors, sinusoids and phasors, sinusoidal steady state analysis, frequency response, and test and measurement instruments, virtual instruments, and data acquisition software.
prereq: PHYS 12100
prereq or coreq: MATH 25400
5 hrs (3 lec, 2 lab)
4 cr.

PHYS 22100 - Electronics

prereq: PHYS 12000 or PHYS 12100

4 hrs

4 cr.

PHYS 22000 - Electronics Laboratory

Experiments are performed with passive devices (capacitors, inductors, resistors) and active devices (diodes, transistors). A variety of transistor amplifier and oscillator circuits are studied as well as integrated circuit applications.

prereq: PHYS 22100

4 hrs

2 cr.

PHYS 23000 - Classical Physics Laboratory

Selected experiments of mechanics, electricity/magnetism, and thermodynamics. Experiments may include driven oscillator resonance, coupled oscillators, liquid nitrogen heat of vaporization, Fourier analysis/filtering, ferromagnetic hysteresis, and the nonlinear pendulum period. Elementary error analysis techniques and computer software for data analysis/graphing.

prereq: PHYS 12000 or 12100

4 hrs

2 cr.

PHYS 23500 - Modern Physics Laboratory

Selected experiments of quantum physics and optics. Experiments may include nuclear half-life, microwave diffraction, Bragg scattering of x-rays, nuclear multichannel scintillation, Franck-Hertz quantum levels, Millikan oil drop. Error analysis techniques including Gauss and Poisson distributions and correlation of data. Programming for data analysis.

prereq: PHYS 12000 or 12100

4 hrs

2 cr.

PHYS 30100 - Theoretical Physics

Analysis of mathematical techniques for solving partial differential equations occurring in physics. Cross-listed as MATH 301.

prereq: MATH 25400

4 hrs

4 cr.
PHYS 31100 - Introduction to Fluid Mechanics

This course covers the basic principles of fluid mechanics include statics, forces on plane and curve surfaces, kinematics of fluid motion, integral and differential representation of conservation of mass, linear momentum, the first Law of Thermodynamics, Bernoulli's equation, dimensional analysis, and elementary viscous flow. Frictional losses in laminar flow and simple pipe flow analysis are covered. Understanding of the physical phenomena is stressed and vector notation is introduced and used whenever suitable.

cross-listed PGEOG 31100

prereq: PHYS 12100 or PHYS 12000 and MATH 15500

3 hrs
3 cr.

PHYS 33000 - Atomic and Nuclear Physics

Examines experimental evidence and develops modern view of structure of atom and nucleus.

prereq: PHYS 12000 or 12100

prereq or coreq: MATH 25000

4 hrs
4 cr.

PHYS 33400 - Intermediate Electricity and Magnetism

Electrostatics, currents, magnetism, and introduction to electromagnetic theory of light.

prereq: PHYS 12000 or 12100

prereq or coreq: MATH 25000

4 hrs
4 cr.

PHYS 33500 - Intermediate Mechanics

Study of laws of motion and coordinate systems; introduction to powerful analytical techniques.

prereq: PHYS 12000 or 12100

prereq or coreq: MATH 25000

4 hrs
4 cr.

PHYS 33600 - Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics

Study of fundamental ideas of heat, reversibility, and entropy. Introduction to statistical nature of some physical laws.

prereq: PHYS 12000 or 12100; MATH 25000

4 hrs
4 cr.

PHYS 34200 - Optics

Study of lenses, mirrors, interference, diffraction, and polarization, as well as lasers, holography, and Fourier optics.

prereq: PHYS 12000 or 12100; MATH 25000

3 hrs
3 cr.
PHYS 38500 - Numerical Methods I

Accuracy and precision, convergence, iterative and direct methods. Topics selected from: solution of polynomial equations and linear systems of equations, curve fitting and function approximation, interpolation, differentiation and integration, differential equations. Cross-listed as MATH 38500 and CSCI 38500 so that students in the mathematics and computer science departments can use the course toward the completion of their major requirements.

*prereq: MATH 25400
3 hrs
3 cr.*

PHYS 39900 - Senior Thesis (W)

This course is to prepare the students for graduate research. Each student will undertake a research experience, experimental, theoretical, and/or computational, under the supervision of a department faculty member. A final oral as well as written report will be required. The goals are that the student learns research skills in physics, written and oral communication skills, while furthering their knowledge in a topical area in physics.

*prereq: PHYS 11100, 12100
prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000, and at least four 200-, 300-, or 400-level physics courses
3 cr.*

PHYS 41100 - Theoretical Mechanics

Classical mechanics of particles and rigid bodies; special relativity; Hamilton's formulation; Liouville's theorem.

*prereq: PHYS 33500
prereq or coreq: MATH 25400
3 hrs
3 cr.*

PHYS 41500 - Electromagnetic Theory

Electrostatics; vector analysis, electrostatics, electric fields in matter, magnetostatics, magnetic fields in matter, electrodynamics based on Maxwell equations, and conservation laws.

*prereq: PHYS 33400 or PHYS 12100 with permission
prereq or coreq: MATH 25400
3 hrs
3 cr.*

PHYS 41600 - Electromagnetic Theory II

Electromagnetic waves, guided waves, potential and fields, radiation, electrodynamics and relativity.

*prereq: PHYS 41500
3 hrs
3 cr.*

PHYS 42000 - Introduction to Biophysics

A comprehensive introduction to the interface between physics and biology and the application of the techniques of physics to understanding biological systems, focusing on developing an understanding of the thermodynamics of living systems, on the physical kinematics of macromolecules and other biological structures and on the theory of physical techniques that are used in the study of biological systems.

prereq or coreq: PHYS 33000, PHYS 33600, BIOL 30000, CHEM 37600.

4 hrs

4 cr.

PHYS 42400 - Plasma Physics

Motion of charged particles in external magnetic and electrical field; fusion using tokamaks, mirrors, and lasers.

prereq: PHYS 33400

3 hrs

3 cr.

PHYS 42500 - Quantum Theory

From Bohr model and DeBroglie waves to Schrodinger wave equation; solutions for simple cases; transformations.

prereq: PHYS 33000.

prereq or coreq: MATH 25400

3 hrs

3 cr.

PHYS 42700 - Intermediate Physics Laboratory

Study of modern experimental techniques in variety of fields.

prereq: PHYS 23500

4 hrs

2 cr.

PHYS 42800 - Photonics and Laboratory

Theoretical principles and practical training of selected subjects of modern optics and lasers.

prereq: PHYS 33000, PHYS 22200 or 22400

coreq: PHYS 41600 or PHYS 33400

4 hrs

2 cr.

PHYS 44500 - Solid State Physics

Energy levels in atoms, molecules, and solids; crystal structure; properties of solids; semiconducting devices.

prereq: PHYS 33000

3 hrs

3 cr.

PHYS 45300 - Introduction to Research

Independent theoretical or experimental research or independent study of approved topic.

prereq: PHYS 33000, 33400, 33500, and 42700 or perm chair

1-3 cr.

PHYS 45400 - Introduction to Research
Independent theoretical or experimental research or independent study of approved topic.

*prereq: PHYS 45300 or perm chair
1 to 3 cr.

PHYS 48500 - Numerical Methods II

Topics in numerical methods selected from solutions of linear equations, interpolating functions, root finding methods, nonlinear equations, Fourier series and the fast Fourier transform, partial differential equations. A major term project will be assigned. Cross-listed as MATH 48500 and CSCI 48500 so that students in the mathematics and computer science departments can use the course toward the completion of their major requirements.

*cross-listed CSCI 48500 and MATH 48500
*prereq: PHYS 38500
3 hrs
3 cr.

Physics: Courses Less Frequently Offered

Political Science: Introductory and Introductory to the Subfields Courses

The introductory courses acquaint the student with a particular segment of political science: American Government and Politics; Political Theory; Comparative Politics; and International Politics. Each will fulfill three credits of the Broad Exposure/Stage 2, Group B requirement in the social sciences. (POLSC 11000 can be used to fulfill GER 1/C or 2/B), although only one of these courses may be used for that purpose. Only two introductory courses can be applied toward the major. Students who have taken POLSC 11100 may not receive credit for POLSC 11000.

POLSC 10000 - Introduction to Politics: Democracy, Anarchy and the State (W)

Hunter Core
World Culture and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER
2/B

Introduction to some of the major questions, approaches, and texts of political science. Students will explore questions of power, coercion, virtue, democracy, conflict, and cooperation and read Plato, Aristotle, Weber, Lipset, Waltz, and Jervis, among others. Does not satisfy the major's four subfield distribution requirement.

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent
3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 11000 - American Government: A Historical Introduction (W)

Hunter Core
Flexible Core: US Experience in its Diversity
GER
1/C or 2/B

Overview of the American political system from a historical perspective, with emphasis on the Constitution and its enduring influence, development of party systems and citizen participation and evolving role of Congress, presidency and courts.

Not open to students who have passed CLEP or the AP American Government exam or who have taken or received transfer credit for POLSC 11100. Please note that all versions of Introduction to American Government taken at other colleges and universities or credited by examination (e.g., CLEP, AP American Government) are the equivalent of POLSC 11100. Students cannot use credit for both POLSC 11000 and POLSC 11100 to fulfill graduation requirements or major requirements.

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent
3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 11500 - Introduction to International Politics (W)

Hunter Core
World Cultures and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER
2/B

Diplomacy, power, war, peace, terrorism, nationalism, imperialism, the UN, structures and processes of world politics.

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.
Political Science: 200 Level Core Courses

These core courses are foundational courses for their respective fields and the International Relations course is a prerequisite for many 300-level courses in international relations.

POLSC 20000 - Interpreting Politics: An Introduction to Political Ideas (W)

GER
2/B or 3/B

An introduction to interpreting major political ideas and their significance in the contemporary world. Competing understandings of concepts such as freedom, equality, justice, citizenship, and legitimacy will be explored, in part by applying them to concrete political issues such as multiculturalism, economic distribution, and the death penalty.

prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent

3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 25000 - Comparing Countries (W)

Hunter Core
Flexible Core: World Culture and Global Issues

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/A
GER
3/B

Examination of the core concepts, theories, and issues in the field of comparative relations. Topics include:
Comparative analysis of democracies and democratization, revolution, and ethnicity and ethnic conflict. Cases will be drawn from Africa, Asia, Western Europe, the Americas, Eastern Europe, and the Middle East.

prereq: ENGL 12000 or equivalent

3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 27000 - International Relations: Conceptual Foundations and Current Issues (W)

Hunter Core
World Culture and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER
3/B

Examines the conceptual foundations of international relations and their application to current issues. Topics include: anarchy, power, war and peace, international cooperation, the role of the state and non-state actors, international institutions, norms and human rights, and the global economy.

Students may not take both POLSC 11500 and POLSC 27000 at Hunter College for credit. (Transfer students may receive only 100-level credit for a course equivalent for POLSC 11500 after spring 2010, when POLSC 27000 becomes the prerequisite for most advanced courses in international relations.)

prereq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent
Political Science: American Government and Politics

POLSC 11000 - American Government: A Historical Introduction (W)

Hunter Core
US Experience in its Diversity (USED)

GER
1/C or 2/B

Overview of the American political system from a historical perspective, with emphasis on the Constitution and its enduring influence, development of party systems and citizen participation and evolving role of Congress, presidency and courts.

Not open to students who have passed CLEP or the AP American Government exam or who have taken or received transfer credit for POLSC 11100. Please note that all versions of Introduction to American Government taken at other colleges and universities or credited by examination (e.g., CLEP, AP American Government) are the equivalent of POLSC 11100. prereq: ENGL 12000 (or equivalent)
prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent

3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 21100 - State Government and Politics (W)

GER
3/B

Comparative analysis of state governments. Power and role of governors, state legislatures, parties, lobbies.

prereq: ENGL 12000 or its equivalent

3 hrs
3 cr.

POLSC 21200 - Urban Politics (W)

REL 20900 - Religion and Human Rights (W)
It has been contended that religious beliefs about the natural and moral order, as well those concerning human nature, lie at the foundation of the idea of human rights. Some histories of human rights even begin with a survey of the teachings of various major religious traditions. And, as the idea of, and movements for, international human rights swept the globe in the latter parts of the 20th century, scholars and religious thinkers examined and assessed the confluence of the world's religious systems of thought, conscience, and belief with the norms and standards of the human rights project. Yet, even as religious thinkers and leaders contribute significantly to human rights movements around the world, some human rights norms—for example, those prohibiting gender- or religion-based discrimination, prohibitions on certain forms of punishment—seem to conflict head on with the strictures of various religions. This course will examine these various intersections.

When a person, group, or idea is called 'atheist,' is that only a statement about theology or metaphysics, or do those who use that label intend to invoke the cultural power of God and, if so, to what end? How is the concept, 'atheism,' put into action in the world, and what does what we say about atheism say about what we think of God? At the end of the semester, we will even consider the possibility of atheism as not merely a religious but a devotional stance.

Some years ago, it was deemed axiomatic that all talk of the generic human was really framed by the experience of men, and women's issues were thereby suppressed and overlooked. It has become increasingly recognized by scholars that the generic human is neither male nor female, and such scholars—both male and female—have begun to address issues specific to men. This course is intended to explore some of the concerns that come to expression in this emerging scholarship. Specifically, it focuses on the content of the masculinity within the religious imaginary, the way in which religion has historically promoted the masculinity of males, and on the way in which religion used the rhetoric of masculinity to promote itself.

REL 31800 - Religion and Science (W)

A critical reflection upon the interrelation of religion and science, a fundamental issue within historical and contemporary culture. Analysis of key definitions, of the roles of each endeavor in human inquiry, of the presumptions underlying the self-understandings of people pursuing each approach to reality deploying the tools and insights of the modern academic study of religion as well as those of the philosophy of science.
REL 31900 - Religion and the Body (W)

This course will explore the various representations of the body in world religious traditions. Through an assortment of primary sources and secondary literature, the course will examine what these traditions suggest about how the human body exists, perceives, engages with the world, creates, and participates in the moral and visceral fabric of life. The topic of the body and religion will be approached from philosophical, sociological, anthropological, and historical perspectives as the course considers the relationship between the body and society, nature and culture, and the sacred and the profane. Themes such as gender, disability, food, sex, and death will be treated in the effort to understand what it means to be a body and to have a body in a variety of religious contexts.

REL 21100 - The Sacred Sky: Astrology in World Religions (W)

Hunter Core
World Cultures and Global Issues (WCGI)
GER
2/C

Astrology is a belief system that exists cross-culturally because the sky is an omnipresent cultural resource, and while different civilizations have varied beliefs about the meaning of celestial activity, those beliefs share a common thread: the sky is sacred, and celestial activity is an expression of that sacrality. The names of the planets and the stars, as well as their myths and stories may differ from tradition to tradition, but ancient astronomers of every culture studied celestial motion, detected patterns, understood those patterns to be cyclical, and believed they formed the basis of an orderly and precise cosmology.

REL 32600 - Religious Meanings of the Qur'ān (W)

GER
3/A

This course introduces students to the study of the Qur'ān based on the traditional Islamic “sciences of the Qur'ān” (‘Ulūm al-Qur'ān). Using an introductory text on the Qur'ānic sciences, the course will introduce the traditional areas of concern in the Qur'ānic sciences: the revelation, transmission, form, language and style, hermeneutics, and principles and types of exegesis. The course will continue by introducing students to representative examples of the types of material referred to in the textbook. This material is chosen on the basis of (1) interest, (2) accessibility (especially the availability of English translations) and (3) the ability to give students some exposure to the variety of styles and approaches to the material available in the literature, introducing the students to representative examples of the types of material referred to in the introductory text. This material provides students with illustrative exposure to both classical and modern Muslim approaches to the Qur'ān and its exegesis.

By the end of the course students will have acquired critical tools to provide an informed verbal and written analysis of the films and discuss how various aesthetic and ideological approaches to filmmaking inform the cinema practice over time. The course will combine screening of East European films and class discussion of issues raised in these films. All students are expected to complete the assigned readings of chapters in history books and other material prior to each class and print out questionnaires for class discussions posted on the course blackboard after the film screenings. Informed class participation is strongly encouraged and will positively affect your final term grade.

WGS 20100 - Classics in Feminist Thought (W)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C
GER
3/A or B

The course covers the historical debates within the 'women's movement' in the United States by examining some of the 'classical' texts by Mary Wollstonecraft, John Adams, and Sojourner Truth. The course also covers the political and intellectual contribution by women of color to the discipline by reading Gloria Anzuldua, bell hooks, Audre Lorde, Patricia Williams, Kimberley Crenshaw among others. 'Foundational' texts by Gayle Rubin, Judith Butler, and Adrienne Rich offer a deeper understanding of queer theory's influence to the discipline. Even as the course reads 'classic' texts of the discipline, we will critically examine the formation of a cannon.

Women and Gender Studies: Sexualities

WGSS 26600 - Our Bodies, Our Politics

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C

Sex and sexuality are commonly understood as an innate drive, but as science has recently begun to show, the way we experience sexuality is better understood as a series of connected cultural practices. It is the constructed meaning attached to the act of sex that make up the foundation of our sexuality. This meaning changes across cultures and communities and has historically been a subject of political and legal struggle. From the battle for reproductive rights to laws limiting dildo ownership in Texas, our own bodies and the way we experience them are legislated and controlled.

School of Arts and Sciences
School of Arts and Sciences

About the School of Arts and Sciences

Hunter College's School of Arts and Sciences provides students with opportunities to pursue undergraduate and graduate degrees in the arts, humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. In the classroom, the laboratory, or the studio, students work with accomplished faculty members who have gained recognition for their cutting-edge research, their creative activity, and their dedication to the city. An increasing number of undergraduates in the arts and sciences undertake their own research under faculty supervision. Besides stimulating and challenging courses, the School encourages students to study abroad, participate in internship programs, and more. Advising resources (including pre-professional advising in business, health, and law) help students plan and prepare for their careers after graduation.

As the largest academic unit within Hunter College, the School consists of more than 450 full-time faculty members in 26 departments and several interdisciplinary programs, and enrolls more than 15,000 undergraduate and more than 1,500 graduate students. All the major academic disciplines in the arts and sciences are represented in the school. Students also participate in interdisciplinary programs such as Asian American Studies, Comparative Literature, Human Biology, Jewish Studies, and Religion. In cooperation with Hunter College's Roosevelt House, the School vigorously supports interdisciplinary programs in in Human Rights and Public Policy.

Degree Map for Accounting

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Chinese major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

Notes:

- Students placing into MATH 101 or 101EN should speak with an advisor to discuss completion of major in four years.
- MATH 150 Calculus with Analytic Geometry I or ECO 220 Techniques of Economic Analysis may also be used to fulfill the calculus requirement for the major. Students who wish to take higher levels of calculus are advised to take MATH 150.
- Majors are advised to complete MATH 150 or MATH 152 or ECO 220 and ECO 221 within their first 75 credits of college work. For students already at or beyond these points when they become majors, such courses should be taken within the first 12 credits following declaration of the major.
- An overall average of at least "C+" (2.3 Grade Point Average) must be maintained in the 35 ACC/ACCP credits (except Business Law and ACCP 376). Students who receive a grade of "D" or lower in any of the eleven required accounting courses in the Professional Studies Requirement will be allowed to repeat the course only once. In total, students may repeat no more than three Accounting courses for which they received a grade of "D" or lower. Students who exceed this allowed number of course repeats will be dismissed from the BS program in Accounting. The Academic Adviser for the BS program in Accounting may, under extraordinary circumstances, make exceptions to this rule.
- An overall average of at least "C+" (2.3 Grade Point Average) must be maintained in the 36 credits of Other Professional Studies (Business Law, Statistics, Finance, Business Core, and Business Elective). This requirement is separate and measured independently of the required 2.3 GPA for the 35 Accounting credits.
- Note: There is no minimum required Grade Point Average for the four to eleven Non-professional Studies credits.
- Students enrolled in the BS (accounting) curriculum may not use a CR/NC grade in any of the eleven required Accounting classes. Students enrolled in the BS (accounting) curriculum may use a CR/NC grade only one time toward the 36 credits in the Other Professional Studies requirement. If a student exceeds this limit, any additional CR grades in these 36 credits will be converted to a grade of C and any additional NC grades in these 36 credits will be converted to a grade of F.
- Business electives (12 cr) Choose from the following:
  - ECO 35900 Economics of Business Organization and Management
  - Any 300- or 400-level ACCP or ECO course (excluding ACCP 47600 and ECO 49800) Note: ACCP 48000 is strongly recommended.
  - NOTE: Students may not use any course to fulfill the business elective requirement that is also being used to satisfy any other requirement of the Accounting major.

Degree Map for Classical Archaeology

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Classical Archaeology major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

CSCI 49900 - Advanced Applications: A Capstone for Majors

A chance for computer science majors to test their mettle on major projects. Working in small groups they will implement systems that involve at least two platforms running programs written in at least three languages.

prereq: All non-elective courses in Computer Science required for graduation or permission of instructor.
Degree Map for Computer Science: Bioinformatics

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Computer Science major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your adviser about the best path for you.

Students who wish to select this major may need additional courses to fulfill the requirements in Mathematics and Statistics. See program details for more information.

BIOL 20300 - Molecular Biology and Genetics

This course includes a detailed examination of the fundamental principles of gene expression. The processes of DNA replication, transcription, mRNA processing, micro RNA function, and translation will be extensively covered. Prokaryotic and eukaryotic systems will be described. Classical Mendelian as well as molecular genetics principles will be covered in the lecture through a discussion of several model systems. Important genetic processes such as recombination, transposition and DNA repair will be discussed in-depth. The course will provide a modern view of the concept of the gene, and introduce basic bioinformatics analysis. Hands-on laboratory experiments will reinforce bacterial and eukaryotic genetic concepts as well as provide basics in recombinant DNA technology.

GEOG 22600 - Environmental Conservation: Resource Management

GER
2/B

Introduces students to environmental studies with a focus on policy and management of resources. The course will examine issues pertaining to sustaining our resource base (biodiversity, food, soil, water and energy), a review of factors influencing sustainable use, and how humans have impacted these key elements of the natural system.

PGEOG 14000 - Introduction to Weather, Climate and Climate Change

Offers a basic understanding of how weather systems form, why certain regions have particular types of weather patterns, and what is known about climatic fluctuations across the globe. This includes an understanding of the basic physical principals that determine: how hot or cold a particular location is; how seasonal cycles vary in different parts of the world; and the types and amounts of precipitation. Students learn to analyze several types of weather maps and acquire a basic understanding of central issues related to global climate change, one of the most significant environmental issues of our time.

PGEOG 14100 - Introduction to Weather, Climate and Climate Change Laboratory

A hands-on laboratory science course. PGEOG 14100 will explain how weather and climate affect people and the natural environment through hands-on laboratory and field experiences. The course explores the science of the atmosphere starting with weather and weather forecasting including severe storms such as hurricanes and tornadoes. World climates and global climate change is included. This course will serve as an introduction to atmospheric science and will prepare students for further work in geography and Earth sciences.

Degree Map for Greek

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Greek major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

In this course we examine human biology and behavior from an evolutionary perspective, comparing our anatomy, physiology, and behavior to those of living primates and other mammals. We will discuss the relative roles of genes ("nature") and environment ("nurture"), the biological basis of behavior, local biological adaptations evident in modern human populations, growth and development, and diet and disease. Students will actively engage in the development of scientific hypotheses, data collection, and data synthesis analysis, as part of laboratory research experiences throughout the semester. Material covered will help prepare students to understand and evaluate recent advances in genetics, behavioral studies, medicine, and evolution.

- Optional Courses:
  - Independent Study (HMBIO 402) (1-3 Credits)
  - Internship (HMBIO 403) (1-3 Credits)(These do not count towards the major credits.)
- Honors Requirements: Complete Independent Study or Internship AND Overall GPA 3.0 or higher AND Human Biology Major GPA 3.5 or higher.
- Students will be required to have C- or Credit grades or better in the Core Sequence to continue in the major.
- Transfer students will be required to take ANTHP 10500 and receive a C or better to continue in the major.
- Students will choose between three Tracks I: Track I: Body, Mind, & Health, Track II: Human Evolution and Variation, or Track III: Human Organizations. Within each Track, 9 of the 18 credits must be at the 300+ level. The 18 credits must come from more than one department.
Degree Map for Italian Language and Civilization

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with an Italian Language and Civilization major. The degree map is a tool to assist you and your adviser in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your adviser. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your adviser about the best path for you.

CHEM 22200 - Organic Chemistry Lecture I

GER

GER 3/B

Structure, bonding, and reactions of organic molecules. Synthesis, stereochemistry, spectroscopy, reaction mechanisms.

prereq: CHEM 10400 with a grade of C or better

5-6 hrs (4 lec, 1-2 recitation/workshop)

4 cr.

CSCI 13200 - Practical UNIX and Programming, with Lab

Hunter Core

Scientific World (SW)

GER

2/E

An introduction to computer programming and the UNIX operating system using Perl. Conceptual overview of the UNIX operating system and programming environment, a practical introduction to shell programming, and the use of UNIX filters and utilities. A pragmatic course with an emphasis on skills acquisition.

This course cannot be counted towards the CSCI major.

prereq: none

3 hrs

3 cr.

MATH 25000 - Calculus III

GER

3/B

Vector geometry, dot and cross products, partial derivatives, matrices, determinants, Jacobians, multiple integration.

prereq: MATH 15500, MATH 15600
4 hrs
4 cr.

STAT 21300 (STEM) - Introduction to Applied Statistics

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Sampling, estimation, tests of hypotheses, including one- and two-sample tests, two- and three-way tables for nominal and ordinal data, linear regression, analysis of variance through two-way with interaction, appropriate statistical software.

prereq: MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or appropriate score on placement exam

3/B

First-order equations, second-order linear equations and linear systems, power series solutions, transform and numerical methods, introduction to qualitative theory.

prereq: MATH 25000

3 hrs
3 cr.

MATH 26000 - Linear Algebra

GER
3/B

Vector spaces, linear transformations, canonical forms, inner product spaces, bilinear forms, applications.

prereq: MATH 15600

prereq or coreq: MATH 25000

4 hrs
4 cr.

MATH 15600 - Introduction to Mathematical Proof Workshop

Techniques of proof will be introduced, among them the direct and indirect methods of proof, epsilon-delta arguments and induction. These will be applied to theorems in number theory, set theory and in differential and integral calculus.

prereq: MATH 15000

prereq or coreq: MATH 15500
2 hrs
1 cr.

BIOL 30000 - Biological Chemistry

GER
3/B

Molecular aspects of cellular function; properties of biomolecules, their biosynthesis and breakdown; structure and function of proteins and enzymes, metabolites, membranes and nucleic acids; cellular mechanisms of energy transduction; integration and control of cell metabolism. Experiments cover a variety of modern techniques in biological chemistry. The following pre/co-requisites apply: prereq: BIOL 20300 and coreq: CHEM 22200.

Material Fee: $10
prereq: Open only for majors.

3 hrs

3 cr.

STAT 31900 - Bayesian Statistical Inference in the Sciences

GER

3/B

prereq: MATH 15500; at least one of STAT 21200, STAT 21300 or STAT 21400 (or permission of instructor).

Prerequisites waived for students who have passed STAT 311.

Familiarity with matrix algebra (at the level of MATH 160) and with the Windows computing environment are encouraged.

3 hrs

3 cr

BIOL 42500 - Computational Molecular Biology

GER

3/B

An introduction to the interdisciplinary field of computational molecular biology. Students are taught the scope and methods of in silico biology, i.e., the application of computational and statistical methods to solving problems in molecular biology. Topics will include homology searching, sequence alignment, molecular phylogenetics, comparative genomics, analysis of gene expression, and predication of macromolecular structures. The course will be taught using a mixed format of lectures and hands-on workshops in a UNIX computer laboratory setting. Knowledge and skills in molecular biology, UNIX programming, and statistics are essential for success in this core course required for bioinformatics-concentration students from all majors.

prereq: BIOL 30000 or BIOL 30200 or CHEM 37600; STAT 21300; CSCI 13200 or CSCI 23500 or UNIX proficiency permitted by instructor.

Degree Map for Media Studies BA (General Media Studies)

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Media Studies major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

Oral presentations and written exercises (including research proposal) introduce students to the use and proper citation of the biomedical literature, research design, effective scientific communication and regulatory oversight of science.
2 hrs
3 cr.

MLS 46000 - Immunology

Cellular reactions in immunology, structure of antibodies and antigens, and laboratory determination of immune functions.
prereq: MLS 34900, 35100
coreq: MLS 35200, 35400
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.

PH 33000 - Principles of Epidemiology

Methods of study of disease; risk factors; distribution, causes, prevention, and control of selected diseases. Minimum GPA to enroll - 2.75
prereq: Any intro statistics course plus SOC 10100 or equivalent plus either PSYCH 10000 or PSYCH 15000 or ANTHC 10100 or equivalent.
3 hrs
3 cr.
• Electives (3-4 cr.)

Notes:

• Students who do not place into MATH 12500 (STEM) should begin with MATH 10100 Algebra. The sequence is as follows – MATH 10100 – MATH 12500 (STEM) – MATH 15000 (STEM) – MATH 15500 (STEM). If you begin with MATH 10100, the Degree Map is shifted by one semester and still allows for completion of the major in 4 years.
• BIOL 10000 (STEM) is offered during the spring and summer semesters only. To complete the degree in four years, students who are unable to complete the course in the spring semester of freshman year should enroll in the summer course.
• BIOL 10000 (STEM) and BIOL 10200 (STEM) may satisfy Pluralism & Diversity - either Group C or Group D, only if both courses are taken at Hunter.
• MLSP 41000 requires departmental permission
• MLSP 45700 requires permission from an instructor

Degree Map for Medical Lab Sciences: Clinical Science BS

Freshman Year

Fall

CHEM 10200 (STEM) - General Chemistry I
Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW); Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)
GER
2/E

In-depth introduction to stoichiometric calculations, atomic and molecular structure and chemical bonding. Primarily for pre-med, medical laboratory sciences and science majors.

*prereq or coreq: MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or 15000 or MATH 15200 or MATH 15500
5 hrs (4 lec, 1 rec)
4 cr.*

MATH 12500 (STEM) - Precalculus

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Functions and their graphs: polynomial, rational, exponential, logarithmic and trigonometric functions; conic sections; topics in trigonometry; graphical and analytical solutions to systems of equations and inequalities. Not credited to students who have completed MATH 15000 or its equivalent.

*prereq: grade of C or better in MATH 10100 or appropriate score on placement exam
4 hrs
4 cr.*

ENGL 12000 - Expository Writing

Hunter Core
English Comp (EC)
GER
1/A

Required of all students unless exempt This course trains students to analyze, develop and evaluate ideas and to express themselves clearly and effectively. Introduction to documented research.

*prereq: successful completion of developmental courses, if required
3 hrs + conf
3 cr.*

- Foreign Language Elementary Level 1
- Individual and Society/ Social Sciences

Spring

BIOL 10000 (STEM) - Principles of Biology I

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C or D
GER
2/E
The chemical basis of life; basic structure and function of pro- and eucaryotic cells; bioenergetics; Mendelian and molecular genetics; development and mechanisms of control of gene expression at all levels; population genetics and evolution. Material Fee: $5
PD credit awarded only upon completion of BIOL 10000 and 10200.

prereq: CHEM 10200 and MATH 12400 or MATH 12500 or MATH 12550 or MATH 15000 or MATH 15200 or MATH 15500
7 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab, 1 disc)
4.5 cr.
spring only

CHEM 10400 (STEM) - General Chemistry II

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS) Scientific World (SW)
GER
2/E

In-depth introduction to thermodynamics, redox reactions, electrochemistry and chemical equilibrium.

Primarily for premed, medical laboratory sciences and science majors.
prereq: CHEM 10200 with grade of C or better
5 hrs (4 lec, 1 rec)
4 cr.

CHEM 10600 (STEM) - General Chemistry Laboratory

Hunter Core
Life and Physical Sciences (LPS); Scientific World (SW)
Pluralism and Diversity
GER 2/E

Experiments designed to illustrate the fundamental laws of chemistry. The course is equivalent one year of general chemistry laboratory.
Primarily for pre-med, medical laboratory sciences and science majors.
prereq: CHEM 10200
coreq: CHEM 10400
6 hrs
3 cr.

ENGL 22000 - Introduction to Writing about Literature (W)

Hunter Core
English Comp (EC)
GER
2/A

Analytical writing and close reading in British and American fiction, drama, poetry, and literary criticism, with an emphasis on further development of critical writing and research skills. Students gain a deeper understanding and appreciation of literature as well as more extensive experience with academic writing.
prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs + one additional conference hour
3 cr.

Sophomore Year

Fall

BIOL 10200 (STEM) - Principles of Biology II

Hunter Core
Scientific World (SW); Life and Physical Sciences (LPS)

Pluralism and Diversity
PD/C or D

GER
2/E

Taxonomy; homeostasis; internal transport and gas exchange in plants and animals; plant hormones; osmoregulation; mechanisms of action in the muscular, nervous and neuroendocrine systems; the senses, behavior; ecology.

Material fee: $5
PD credit awarded only upon completion of BIOL 10000 and 10200.

prereq: BIOL 10000 or perm instr, MATH 10100 or MATH 101EN
7 hrs (3 lec, 3 lab, 1 disc)
4.5 cr.
fall only

CHEM 22200 - Organic Chemistry Lecture I

GER
GER 3/B

Structure, bonding, and reactions of organic molecules. Synthesis, stereochemistry, spectroscopy, reaction mechanisms.

prereq: CHEM 10400 with a grade of C or better
5- 6 hrs (4 lec, 1-2 recitation/workshop)
4 cr.

CHEM 22300 - Organic Chemistry Laboratory I

GER
3/B

Various organic syntheses, Distillation, extraction, chromatography, qualitative analysis, spectroscopy.

Note: Students must register for CHEM 22300 and CHEM 22301 simultaneously.

Note: Students must register

prereq: CHEM 10500 OR CHEM 10600 OR CHEM 11200
coreq: CHEM 22301
prereq or coreq: CHEM 22204 OR CHEM 22206
3 hrs
2.5 cr.
FOREIGN LANGUAGE Elementary Level 3

STAT 11300 - Elementary Probability and Statistics

Hunter Core
Math/Quantitative Reasoning
GER
1/B

Not open to students who have completed STAT 21300 (STEM) or PSYCH 24800. Not credited for majors in statistics or mathematics unless minor is elementary education. An introduction to applied statistics and statistical computing. Hands-on data analysis. Graphical inference. The five number summary, box plots, scatterplots, normal probability plots. Elementary probability. Statistical estimation and hypothesis testing. Linear regression. Students are expected to analyze real data sets and write reports. Students who have taken calculus or place into calculus by the placement exam should take STAT 21300 instead of STAT 11300.

prereq: A grade of C or better in MATH 10100 or MATH 101EN or appropriate score on placement exam
prereq or coreq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.

Junior Year

Fall

MLSP 30000 - Fundamental Concepts and Techniques in the Medical Laboratory

Function of the medical laboratory, data analysis and operation of basic laboratory equipment. Approximately 1-2 informal laboratory hours are required to practice the use of equipment. MLS 60000 is the graduate component of this course prereq: BIOL 10000, 10200, CHEM 10200, 10300, 10400, 10500 or equiv.

3 hrs (2 lec, 1 lab)
3 cr.

MLSP 34900 - Hematology

Study of normal and pathological conditions of blood. Use of current diagnostic techniques to analyze peripheral blood and bone marrow, differential counting and blood banking.

prereq or coreq: MLSP 30000
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.
MLSP 35100 - Clinical Microbiology I

Properties and mechanisms of pathogenesis of microorganisms associated with disease and the antimicrobial agents used to control them.

prereq or coreq: MLSP 30000
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.

MLSP 36100 - Computers and Data Processing in the Medical Laboratory

Study of computer integration in the medical and research lab, data compilation and medical information systems. Approximately 3 additional informal lab hours are required weekly.

prereq: MATH 15000 or STAT 11300
3 hrs (1 lec, 2 lab)
3 cr.
  • Individual and Society (Social Sciences) I&S SS

Spring

MLS 31200 - Human Physiology: Integration and Control

Study of function at the cellular and systemic level, with emphasis on the integrated organism and associated control systems. Electronic resources are used extensively in this course.

prereq: BIOL 10000 and 10200, CHEM 10400, 10500 or equiv.
3 hrs
3 cr.

MLS 34700 - Human Histology

Structure and function of normal human tissues and cells, including systematic study of microscopic morphology.

coreq: MLS 31200
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.

MLSP 35200 - Clinical Microbiology II

Continuation of MLSP 35100 with particular emphasis on anaerobic bacteria, fungi, and viruses, diagnostic strategies using classical, serological and molecular techniques.

prereq: MLSP 30000, 35100 or equiv.
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
4 cr.

MLSP 35400 - Clinical Biochemistry I: Biomolecules & Metabolism

Basic macromolecules of life, including amino acids, lipids, nucleic acids, and carbohydrates; membrane biochemistry and signal transduction; cellular metabolism and bioenergetics; clinical and biochemical laboratory methods.

prereq: CHEM 22200
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3.5 cr.
Senior Year

Fall

MLSP 35500 - Clinical Biochemistry II: Genes to Proteins

Structure and function of nucleic acids and proteins and the genetic basis of human disease. Laboratory methodologies include analysis of proteins, including enzymes in clinical samples, and manipulation of microbial nucleic acids.

prereq: MLSP 35400
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3.5 cr.

MLSP 41000 - Professional Practice

Directed full-time experience in clinical, research, public health or other biomedical laboratories. Arranged on an individual basis.

prereq: departmental permission
8 weeks
3 cr.

MLS 45000 - Cell and Tissue Culture

Cell and tissue culture theory and techniques, including starting primary cultures, passing and preservation of cells, cell cycle and growth factor assays and monoclonal antibody techniques. Several informal hours are required each week in the lab in addition to the scheduled class.

prereq: MLS 35100
coreq: MLS 34700, 35200
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
4 cr.

- World Cultures & Global Issues (WCGI)

Spring

MLSP 45700 - Senior Seminar

Oral presentations and written exercises (including research proposal) introduce students to the use and proper citation of the biomedical literature, research design, effective scientific communication and regulatory oversight of science.

prereq: perm instr.
2 hrs
3 cr.

MLS 46000 - Immunology

Cellular reactions in immunology, structure of antibodies and antigens, and laboratory determination of immune functions.

prereq: MLS 34900, 35100
coreq: MLS 35200, 35400
5 hrs (2 lec, 3 lab)
3 cr.
MLSP 43000 - Immunohematology

Study of the immunologic properties of blood associated with blood group systems, donor screening, transfusion reactions and hemolytic disease and laboratory techniques used to characterize antigen-antibody reactions.

_prereq: MLSP 34900
3 hrs (2 lec, 1 lab)
3 cr.

PH 33000 - Principles of Epidemiology

Methods of study of disease; risk factors; distribution, causes, prevention, and control of selected diseases.
Minimum GPA to enroll - 2.75
_prereq: Any intro statistics course plus SOC 10100 or equivalent plus either PSYCH 10000 or PSYCH 15000 or ANTHC 10100 or equivalent.
3 hrs
3 cr.

PHILO 25400 - Ethical Issues in Biology and Medical Care (W)

GER
3/B
Treats issues such as abortion, euthanasia, extraordinary means, confidentiality, human experimentation, genetic control and allocation of limited life-saving therapy.
_prereq: ENGL 12000
3 hrs
3 cr.

SOC 30100 - Medical Sociology

GER
3/B
Social and cultural factors related to health. Organization of health care services, social structure of the hospital.
_prereq: SOC 10100
3 hrs
3 cr.

MLSP 40000 - Topics in Biomedical Sciences

Topics vary from semester to semester and are announced before registration.
1-3 hrs
1-3 cr.

Notes:

- Students who do not place into MATH 125 should begin with MATH 101 Algebra. The sequence is as follows – MATH 101 – MATH 125 – MATH 150 -MATH 155. If you begin with MATH 101, the Degree Map is shifted by one semester and still allows for completion of the major in 4 years.

Degree Map for Music 25 Credit

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Music major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

Degree Map for Music 60 cr. BMus

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Music major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

Degree Map for Nursing-Accelerated 2nd Degree BS

This program is designed for students who have a baccalaureate degree in another field and wish to transition into a career in nursing. The program is intensive; students receive a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Nursing in 18 months provided they have met all general education requirements. The Accelerated 2nd Degree Program is a full-time program that includes weekends, daytime and evening classes.

First Year of Program

Fall

NURS 20000 - Introduction to Nursing
Introduction to essential theories, concepts, and values of the nursing profession. Emphasis on understanding the practice and principles of nursing. The principles of service-learning are introduced.

NURS 46000 - Mental and Behavioral Health Nursing

This course introduces the learner to assessment and common interventions for care of patients across the lifespan who require mental and behavioral health care, including biological, psychological, social, cultural and spiritual dimensions of individuals. Disease/illness trajectories and their translation into clinical practice guidelines and standard procedures are considered in relation to their impact on providing culturally sensitive, person-centered care. Classroom, laboratory and clinical learning experiences in a variety of settings provide an opportunity for the student to practice delivering high quality and safe client care in collaboration with other members of the health team.
Material fee: $25.00
prereq: (generic & A2D) NURS 35200; NURS 36000
coreq: (generic) NURS 34900, NURS 45500
(A2D) NURS 45500
NURS 42000 - Nursing Leadership and Ethics

In this course, students will examine the roles of the professional leadership in leading and managing health care services and ensuring ethical nursing practice. The course examines trends in health care delivery and health policy, as well as registered nurses' accountability for delivering and overseeing the provision of safe, quality health care services consistent with the ethical principles of the nursing profession. Students will be introduced to principles of coordinating care, including delegation and assignment of nursing tasks and functions. The course addresses nurses' roles in advocating on behalf of patients, themselves and the profession.

NURS 49000 - Gerontological Nursing

This course provides a knowledge and skill base for effective nursing care of older adults. Evidence-based practice and theories guide the student in assisting the older adult and his/her family in understanding and managing health related issues in the aging process. The course includes an in-depth study of the biological, psychological, social, cultural and spiritual dimensions of the older adult client as a member of families and community systems within a changing society. The students learn to do a comprehensive assessment of the older adult using valid and reliable assessment tools. The nursing process is used as the foundation to assist the older adult to attain an optimal level of health. Concepts from related disciplines are explored as they impact on the promotion, maintenance and/or restoration of health. Experiential learning in a variety of settings provides the opportunity for the student to collaborate with inter-disciplinary health teams.

prereq: NURS 45500, NURS 46000
coreq: (Generic) NURS 42200, NURS 47000, NURS 49200

Degree Map for Philosophy BA

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with an Religion major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

Degree Map for Russian Language & Culture

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Russian major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

- Students interested in Study Abroad should speak with Professor Schinaider about the Spanish Department's summer program in Madrid, Spain, and the January program in Argentina. This program carries a minimum of 6 credit hours that may be applied to the major and 3 that will count as elective credits.
- This roadmap reflects the path of a student with no previous background in Spanish. Students with prior knowledge of Spanish may be able to begin with more advanced courses and should see the department for appropriate placement prior to the beginning of their first semester. Students with no previous background in Spanish are advised to take the intensive sequence of SPAN 10300 (6 credits) and SPAN 20300 (6 credits) in their first year in order to enable the start of the major as soon as possible. As an alternative, such students might take the regular sequence of SPAN 10100 and SPAN 10200 in their first year, and then complete SPAN 20100 and SPAN 20200 in summer session. Finally, for students entering the major at the Elementary Spanish level, Study Abroad is highly recommended.

- Students who do not place into STAT 213 will begin with MATH 101 Algebra or MATH 125 Pre-calculus: The sequence is as follows – MATH 101 or MATH 101EN. [If you make a C you also take MATH 10150] – MATH 12550 [If you make a C, you must take MATH 140] or MATH 124 and MATH 140 or MATH 125 and MATH 140 – STAT 213. If you begin with MATH 101, the Degree Map is shifted by two semesters and still allow for completion of the degree in 4 years; in this case, the MATH or STAT elective will be taken in the last semester.
- STAT 212 and 214 could be taken either fall or spring and in any order or at the same time
- At Math 260, students who do well should consider our BA/MA program. See the Statistics advisor.
- Required STAT or MATH elective must be approved by Statistics advisor
- Please see Statistics advisor for Actuarial sequence
- STAT 311 is taught fall and spring but STAT 312 and 313 are spring and summer only.

Degree Map for Studio Art (24 cr.) BA

The degree map is a term-by-term sample course schedule to make it easier for you to understand how to graduate in four years with a Studio Art major. The Degree Map is a tool to assist you and your advisor in planning your academic path to graduation. Use it along with the program of study information for your major (found in the Hunter Catalog) and Degree Works (student degree audit system) to discuss your academic plan with your advisor. Courses required for the major, Hunter Core Requirement (HCR) courses, and elective classes must be selected to concurrently satisfy all Pluralism & Diversity and writing intensive requirements. Students are encouraged to consider pursuing a minor through the selection of electives. Your specific program of study could, and probably will, look different. You need to customize the Degree Map to fit your situation. Consult with your advisor about the best path for you.

Africana and Puerto Rican/Latino Studies

Overview

Africana Studies as a "discipline" seeks to study, interpret, explain, and articulate the cultural, historical, political, economic, and spiritual experience of people of African descent throughout the world. Africana Studies is "Pan-Africanist" in approach and focus, seeking to emphasize the connections between African peoples and their cultures throughout the world, while acknowledging the differences that have evolved because of historical realities, geographical location, specific forms of colonial oppression, and cultural interaction. The African-centered perspective of the sequence implies an approach to reality which begins with the African and African-Diasporic experience. Its presupposition is that the meaning of that experience cannot be determined without reference to Africa as the source, its point of origin. As such, our sequence is lodged firmly within the African-Centered Movement; a liberatory and intellectual movement born out of the struggle, conflict, and victory of the decolonization process.

The Puerto Rican/Latino Sequence is geared towards a multidisciplinary pedagogical and philosophical approach which encompasses the study of Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and Cuba specifically, and the rest of the Caribbean in a comparative perspective. We also engage in the study and analysis of the Puerto Rican Diaspora and other Latino groups in the U.S. The study of the Puerto Rican experience is framed within the racial, historical, linguistic, religious, social and cultural syncretism that evolved from the interaction of the native Taíno population, Africans, the Spanish colonizers and the U.S. presence.

What can I do with my degree in Africana & Puerto Rican/Latino Studies?

The Department of Africana & Puerto Rican/Latino Studies prepares students for a broad range of careers in the public and private sector; for entrance to professional schools such as law, social work, urban planning and medicine, and for graduate study and research in the social sciences and humanities. The department has a long history of nurturing students’ intellectual discipline, creativity, and social and political awareness. Graduates of the department have pursued careers in journalism, counseling, teaching, public policy, community development, media, politics, psychology and international affairs. The department’s interdisciplinary structure offers students an opportunity to satisfy the increasing expectations of admissions committees and prospective employers for a broad liberal arts perspective that complements the specialized knowledge of a field.

Honors

The honors research course, AFPRL 499, is open to AFPRL upper seniors who have a 3.5 GPA in the major with a 3.0 GPA overall and have completed at least 24 credits including three AFPRL 300/400 level courses. In order to receive an honors endorsement, a student must receive a final grade of at least B+. Students who do not meet the requirement for an honors endorsement but have passed the course, will receive three credits without honors. The research theme changes every academic year. The project is supervised by one full-time AFPRL faculty member but is read and graded by the supervisor and two additional AFPRL full-time faculty members.

Africana and Puerto Rican/Latino Studies-BA

Given the interdisciplinary organization of the department, students may elect to concentrate their program of study in the Africana sequence, Puerto Rican/Latino sequence or a combination of both with courses from social sciences and humanities offered by the department.

Hunter Core Requirement

Several courses within this major may fulfill parts of the Hunter Core Requirement (CUNY Common Core Requirement [CCCR], Concurrent Requirements). When selecting courses, it may be to a student's advantage to choose courses that count toward the Hunter Core Requirement and also advance the student on the path to the major. Details on the Hunter Core Requirement can be found here: General Education - Effective Fall 2019

In the case of the Africana and Puerto Rican/Latino Studies major, the courses that meet CCCR are:

Anthropology

Overview

Anthropology is the study of humanity in all its cultural and biological diversity. In the United States, the discipline traditionally includes four fields: archaeological, biological, sociocultural, and linguistic anthropology, although research increasingly examines questions at the borders of the fields or which span more than one field. The Department of Anthropology offers B.A., B.A./M.A., and M.A. degree programs, all of which provide both a solid grounding in the four fields and a variety of opportunities for specialized study, practicums and internships, and participation in faculty research. Our undergraduate courses stress theoretical fundamentals, the nature and scope of cultural variation throughout the world and across historical and evolutionary time. The Anthropology curriculum emphasizes original research, scholarly writing, informed critical thinking, and the understanding of, and tolerance for diverse cultures and ways of life. The faculty is actively involved in interdisciplinary teaching, interdepartmental collaborative efforts, and individual and team research projects, including many that involve new information technologies, cultural resource management, environmental impact assessment, ethnicity and gender, regional and area studies, and economic development. Biological anthropology and archeology host state-of-the art research labs that support student training and research. International field sites are also available for student research. The Department is also committed to involving undergraduate students in ongoing faculty-supported research, and in encouraging independent student-initiated research projects.

What can I do with my degree in Anthropology?

Known for its holistic approach, anthropology provides essential foundations and perspectives for the study of the social and natural sciences and the humanities, as well as for applied professions such as education, public health, journalism and social work.

Anthropology - BA

The anthropology major is designed to give students an overview of the discipline, as well as training in all four fields of the subject (archaeology, cultural anthropology, biological anthropology and anthropological linguistics.) The anthropology major consists of 28 credits [see table below]. In order to graduate with a major in anthropology, students must earn a C grade or better in all required courses and electives counted toward the major.

Hunter Core Requirement

Note: Several courses within this major may fulfill parts of the Hunter Core Requirement (CUNY Common Core [CCCR], Concurrent Requirements). When selecting courses, it may be to a student's advantage to choose courses that count toward the Hunter Core Requirement and also advance the student on the path to the major. Details on the Hunter Core Requirement can be found here: General Education - Effective Fall 2019.

Honors Work
Honors work is possible in each of the major branches of anthropology. The emphasis is on independent student research under the supervision of a faculty member. In order to graduate with departmental honors in anthropology, a student must: (1) have taken at least 2 credits of ANTHC 40000; (2) have a GPA in the major of not less than 3.5 and a cumulative GPA of not less than 2.8 at the time of graduation; and (3) complete a departmental honors form available from the departmental undergraduate adviser.

ANTHC 40000 Honors Project

(available to students in each of the four fields of anthropology) Open to qualified juniors and seniors every semester. Research under supervision of a faculty member. From 2 to 3 credits per semester, depending on the nature of the student's work. May be taken for 1, 2, or 3 semesters for a maximum of 6 credits. To apply, students must (1) present a research plan prepared in conjunction with a faculty member; (2) have this plan approved by the undergraduate adviser and the department chair; and (3) obtain approval prior to preregistration.

Interdepartmental Fields

Students who want to do work in anthropology as part of an interdepartmental field, such as Africana and Puerto Rican/Latino studies, Latin American and Caribbean studies, religion, urban affairs and planning, or women and gender studies, should refer to descriptions under the department or field of their interest.
