Psychology Department Description

The Psychology Department offers two MA degrees in Psychology: one in General Psychology and one in Animal Behavior and Conservation (ABC) as well as a Post-Baccalaureate Certificate program in ABC. These programs reflect the diversity of psychology as a science and profession. Course offerings range from clinical, social, and developmental psychology to animal behavior, biopsychology, and behavioral neuroscience. The General Psychology Program focuses on exposing students to the broad spectrum of approaches and areas in psychology: from behavioral, developmental, cognitive, and social approaches to applied, evaluative, and biological approaches. The Animal Behavior and Conservation Program is designed to provide students with the skills needed for successful careers in animal behavior, conservation and welfare.
The department's faculty members are actively involved in research both with human participants and a variety of animal species. A broad range of applied and research opportunities are available to our students within and beyond the department in the areas of developmental psychology, social psychology, animal behavior, physiological psychology, biopsychology and cognitive psychology. The program's departmental affiliations with community organizations and wildlife facilities make it possible for students to integrate their academic studies with supervised research experience by means of observational field placements and opportunities for research. The MA programs prepare our graduates for careers in psychology, education, social and welfare services, health services, conservation and animal welfare including work with animals in natural and custodial environments. For many of our students, the MA programs are a first step towards further study at the PhD level.

Requirements for Admission

An applicant for admission to Hunter College as a matriculated student in any of the master’s programs must meet the following minimum requirements in order to be considered: (For admission to the School of Social Work, see Silberman School of Social Work section of this catalog.)

1. The student must hold a bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited institution, comparable in standard and content to a bachelor's degree from Hunter College. Degrees granted on the basis of work completed at institutions which are not fully accredited, or on the basis of nonacademic prior learning, test scores, and other than organized supervised course work in academic subjects may not be considered comparable.

2. The student must demonstrate ability to pursue graduate work successfully. In general, the minimum requirements for consideration are an undergraduate average of B in the area in which the student wishes to specialize and an average of B minus in the undergraduate record as a whole. Applicants are required to submit official transcripts from all undergraduate and graduate institutions attended other than Hunter College.

3. For admission in the School of Arts and Sciences, the student is usually required to present at least 18 credits of previous work in the area of specialization acceptable to the school or department concerned and two letters of reference. See specific program descriptions for additional requirements. For admission to the School of Education, the student is usually required to present at least 36 credits of previous liberal arts and science courses and a liberal arts or science major of at least 30 credits. See specific program descriptions for detailed requirements.

4. Competency Examinations

Research and Training Centers: Introduction

A variety of programs in research and training in teacher education have attracted substantial support from federal, state and private sources. Projects currently in process include training in bilingual education, improvement of the teaching of secondary mathematics and science, educational technology, and preparation of rehabilitation counselors and teachers for children with disabilities. These projects afford graduate students an opportunity for advanced training or development of research skills.

Scholarships and Grants

A number of student scholarships and fellowships are available from Hunter College and the Hunter College Foundation; these are in addition to the various federal and state grants and loans outlined in the Financial Aid section of this catalog.

Among the awards available to students are the Presidential Grants and Scholarships supported by the office of the Hunter College president. Guidelines for these awards are contained in "Hunter College Grant Competitions," a publication of the college Research Administration, 1424 East Building, 772-4020.

Information about grants, fellowships, and scholarships can be obtained from the Office of Student Services (11th floor, East Building, 772-4878).

Departmental Awards

Scholarships and other awards are available through individual academic departments. Interested students can obtain information directly from their department.
The George N. Shuster Master's Thesis Award

Contact school deans' offices for further information.

Graduate Assistantships

Graduate assistantships may be available in some departments and are awarded to master’s and doctoral students on the basis of academic qualifications. The duties of graduate assistants may include teaching, research, laboratory work, graduate program administration and similar assignments as specified by the academic department. Students should contact their graduate advisers about such opportunities.

School of Social Work

Partial tuition waivers from the Dorothy and Alfred Silberman Fund are the principal source of tuition assistance available to students at the School of Social Work. These grants are based solely on financial need. In addition, various public and voluntary agencies and foundations provide some assistance in the form of scholarships and stipends. Inquiries concerning School of Social Work sponsored financial assistance should be addressed to The Scholarship Office, Hunter College School of Social Work, 129 East 79th Street, New York, NY 10021.

Schools of the Health Professions

Various forms of assistance, including traineeships, fellowships, and grants, are available to students in the Hunter-Bellevue School of Nursing and the School of Health Sciences, both located at 425 East 25th Street, New York, NY 10010. For information, contact the schools directly.

Veterans

A veteran who wishes benefits under the Veterans' Readjustment Act of 1966 (Public Law 89) should consult the Veterans' Administration. For further information, contact the office of the registrar at 217 Hunter North or (212) 650-3995.

External Scholarships

Other fellowship awards may be available through government and private organizations. For study in the fields of the art, humanities and social sciences, students may apply for the Jacob K. Javits Fellowship, www.ed.gov/programs/jacobjavits.html. For study in the fields of the social sciences and physical and natural sciences, students may apply for the National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship, www.nsfgradfellows.org. Information on other scholarships from outside organizations are listed in the Grants Guide, available in the Office of Student Services, Room 1119 East or online at: http://studentservices.hunter.cuny.edu/grant.htm

Adolescent Biology - MA / Advanced Certificate

The master's and advanced certificate programs prepare candidates to teach Biology in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. These programs are not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Biology 7-12. The master's program (Academic Plan: BIOAE-MA) is for applicants with no prior NYS
The advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: BIOAE-AC) is a post-master's program for applicants with no prior NYS certificate.

Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. A minimum of 21 credits in biology to include a year of introductory biology with laboratory and a semester of organic chemistry (lecture only).
3. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
4. Two professional references.
5. A personal statement.
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Advanced Certificate

1. An undergraduate major of at least 30 credits in biology and a master's degree in the content area with a GPA of at least 3.3 from an accredited institution. Coursework at either the undergraduate or graduate level must include a course in introductory biology with laboratory and a semester of organic chemistry.
2. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
3. Two professional references.
4. A personal statement.
5. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Course of Study
Academic Plans

- Master's Degree: BIOAE-MA (41-44 cr.)
- Advanced Certificate: BIOAE-AC (26-27 cr.)

Education Courses - 26-27 cr.

For Advanced Certificate and Master's Degree Programs

SEDF 70300 - Social Foundations of Adolescent Education

Students explore in depth different sociological, historical, philosophical, anthropological, and political concepts and theories related to urban schooling. Particular emphasis will be placed on issues such as tracking, parent-school-community relations, inclusion of students with disabilities, the teaching of English language learners, and other diverse populations. Students will learn to analyze these concepts and theories and apply them to current classroom practices.

Hours 45 hrs, Credits 3 cr

SEDF 70400 - Adolescent Development, Grades 7–12

The process of cognitive, social/emotional, personality, and language development among youth who vary by gender, race and ethnicity, English proficiency and varying levels of abilities.

Hours 30 hrs, plus 36 hrs fieldwork, Credits 2 cr

SEDF 70500 - Educational Psychology: Applications to Adolescent Education (KC)

Prepares teacher candidates to think about how adolescents develop and learn. Emphasis will be placed on identifying effective teaching strategies, adapting instruction for diverse student populations (including gifted students and students with special needs), designing and managing classroom instruction, creating culturally compatible classrooms, motivating students, and assessing their learning.

Hours 30 hrs, plus 36 hrs fieldwork, Credits 2 cr*

*This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.*

SEDF 70600 - Assessment of Teaching and Learning in Adolescent Education

Basic principles and practices for the assessment of learning and teaching in the secondary classroom. Includes instructional objectives, test construction, descriptive statistics, interpretations of standardized test scores, performance outcome measures and alternative forms of assessment.

*prereq: SEDF 70500
coreq: One of the following must be a Co-req:
SEDC 71000 - Building the Foundations of Literacy in Adolescent Education

Supporting the development of literacy across the curriculum, with a focus on under-prepared students, students with special education needs, and students who are English language learners; implications for working toward standards.

Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SEDC 71300 - Methods I: Advanced Study of Secondary Learning Environments for Teaching Mathematics and Science

Examines the interrelationship between the educational environment and the adolescent's learning of mathematics and science. Teacher candidates study the basic classroom management in the teaching of science and mathematics as they explore the content and implementation of national, New York State and New York City standards for mathematics and science. Fosters the use of technology as an educational tool to improve the mathematics and science literacy of the adolescent.

prereq or coreq: SEDF 70400

Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SEDC 72000 - Adolescent Health and Safety

Health issues that are relevant to the health promotion and wellness of adolescents and their families from diverse backgrounds, abilities, and sexual orientations. Specific content areas will include nutrition, fitness, drug education, child abuse and neglect, fire prevention and safety, and violence prevention and intervention.

Hours 15 hrs,
Credits 1 cr

SEDC 72400 - Methods II: Intensive Study of Teaching Diverse Learners in Science, Grades 7–12 (KC)

Familiarizes prospective middle and high school teachers, grades 7–12, with pedagogical approaches and innovative teaching techniques needed to convey to a diverse population current state and professional standards-based curriculum in science. Innovative uses of technology, development of instructional units, individualizing for students with special needs, and strategies for managing problem behavior will be emphasized throughout the course.

prereq or coreq: SEDF 70500

Hours 30 hrs fieldwork
This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

SEDC 74100 - Adolescent Fieldwork (KC)

Seminar and field experience in adolescent education. Students will complete a 48-hour field experience in a grade 7-12 classroom in their subject and will participate in an accompanying seminar. They will be observed and evaluated in the field by a School of Education faculty member. An accompanying seminar will treat issues arising from the field experience. Students must achieve a grade of B or better in this course to continue in the program. Any student who obtains a grade of F in the course will not be allowed to continue in the program. Any student who obtains a grade below B must apply to the department chairperson for permission to repeat the course, which may be repeated only once.

Cross-listed SEDC 34100
Coreq: SEDC 71200 or SEDC 72100 or SEDC 72200 or SEDC 72300 or SEDC 72400 or SEDC 72500
Hours 15 hours of seminar; 48 hours of fieldwork
Credits 1

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 70800 - Teaching Students with Special Needs in Inclusive Settings

Participants will explore the benefits and challenges of creating and maintaining classrooms designed to incorporate students with disabilities in the general education environment for part, or all, of their program.

Cross-listed SPED 308
Prereq: 12 credits of coursework
Hours 45

A new State regulation requires that all teacher education programs leading to initial certification include a 3-credit course in teaching students with disabilities. This course will be added to all initial certification programs that do not currently have such a course. It is intended for teachers of general (not special) education at all grade levels.

SEDC 75401 - Student Teaching in Biology, Grades 7–12 (KC)

Teacher candidates complete 30 days of student teaching at grades 7–9 and 30 days at grades 10–12 under the supervision of a Hunter College faculty member and a certified biology teacher in a New York City school selected by the college. They further develop their skills in the delivery of instruction. Student teachers will assume significant responsibility for classroom instruction and management.

Prereq: SEDC 72400
Prereq or Coreq: SEDF 70600
Hours 45; 60 days student teaching plus workshops and conferences
Credits 5

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.

SEDC 77421 - Practicum in Biology, Grades 10-12 (KC)

Hunter College-supervised practicum for teachers of biology in grades 10–12 in a New York City school. Students will continue to develop and refine classroom expertise in curriculum development, delivery of instruction, and assessment of student learning.

prereq: SEDC 72400

Hours 30 hrs plus conferences,

Credits 2 cr

Students who take SEDC 77421 must also take SEDC 77411.

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

Biology Courses - 15-17 cr.

For Master's Degree Program Only

BIOL 61055 - Laboratory Workshop in Biology Education

A series of laboratory-intensive experimental projects, each lasting one week or more, which introduce current research techniques and include individual participation in planning, preparation, and analysis of experiments. The focus is on broad biotechnology topics such as the isolation, cloning, and expression of a gene, utilizing the techniques of molecular genetics, and how these topics may be applied to the high school science classroom.

prereq: a graduate course in biology or permission of instructor

Hours 120 hrs,

Credits 3 cr

BIOL 63000 - Science and Society

A study of the interactions between technological and societal changes, with an emphasis on eliciting within the classroom productive oral and written critiques and debates concerning potentially controversial technological change. Focusing on present-day issues, students will learn various models for analyzing the impact scientific change has on society and how social change directs science.

prereq: BIOL 61055 or permission of instructor

- American Museum of Natural History CUNY credit course: Genetics, Genomics or Evolution

Category A:

For students who have completed molecular biology and molecular genetics at the undergraduate level. Choose one:

BIOL 70005 - Genetics
Prokaryotic and eukaryotic genetics; organization of DNA, replication repair, mutagenesis, recombination, control of gene expression, genetic engineering and molecular techniques.

prereq: undergraduate genetics and molecular biology (or biochemistry)
Hours 60 lec,
Credits 4 cr
fall only

BIOL 71013 - Molecular Biology Lecture

Structure and function of biomolecules; enzyme mechanisms; replication, transcription, translation; regulation of macromolecular biosynthesis; energy transformations.

prereq: 1 yr of organic chemistry
Hours 75 hrs,
Credits 5 cr
fall only

BIOL 71401 - Cell Biology

In-depth examination of cellular and subcellular organization and activity. Topics include membrane structure, biogenesis, transport; cell surface interactions, cells in culture, the cell cycle; organelle structure, function and assembly; modern experimental tools and techniques.

prereq: undergraduate organic chemistry or biochemistry
Hours 60 hrs,
Credits 4 cr
spring only

BIOL 75003 - Developmental Biology

Analysis of morphological and molecular aspects of development and differentiation. Topics include gametogenesis, fertilization, early development, differentiative processes, organogenesis, neoplasia and aging with emphasis on genetic regulation in development.

prereq or coreq: BIOL 71013 and BIOL 71401
Hours 60 lec,
Credits 4 cr
Spring only

Category B:

For students who have not taken either molecular biology or molecular genetics at the undergraduate level. Students must take both courses below:

BIOL 60000 - Molecular Biology for Science Teachers

Molecular aspects of cellular function; properties of biomolecules, their biosynthesis and breakdown; structure and function of proteins and enzymes, metabolites, membranes, and nucleic acids; cellular mechanisms of energy transduction; integration and control of cell metabolism.
prereq: An undergraduate degree in Biology and a course in Organic Chemistry and permission of instructor.

BIOL 60210 - Molecular Genetics for Science Teachers

A comparison of viral, procaryotic, and eucaryotic systems; review of classical Mendelian principles and mechanisms; bacterial DNA replication, transcription, and their control; mechanisms of gene mutation, repair, recombination, and transposition; applications of recombinant DNA technology; organization of nucleic acid into chromosomes; control of gene expression in procaryotes, in the eucaryotic cell cycle, and in cell development.

prereq: BIOL 60000 or equivalent and permission of instructor
Spring only

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Master's degree students will develop a professional teaching portfolio, which is a cumulative effort, integrating course and fieldwork throughout the program.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Adolescent Chemistry - MA / Advanced Certificate

The master's and advanced certificate programs prepare candidates to teach Chemistry in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. These programs are not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Chemistry 7-12. The master's program (Academic Plan: CHEAE-MA) is for applicants with no prior NYS certificate. The advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: CHEAE-AC) is a post-master's program for applicants with no prior NYS certificate.

Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. A minimum of 29 credits in science and mathematics to include two years of chemistry (one year general chemistry with laboratory and one year organic chemistry with laboratory), one year of introductory physics with laboratory, and one semester of calculus.
3. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
4. Two professional references.
5. A personal statement.
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Advanced Certificate
1. An undergraduate major of at least 30 credits in chemistry and a master's degree in the content area with a GPA of at least 3.3 from an accredited institution. This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 70800 - Teaching Students with Special Needs in Inclusive Settings

Participants will explore the benefits and challenges of creating and maintaining classrooms designed to incorporate students with disabilities in the general education environment for part, or all, of their program.

Cross-listed SPED 308

Prerequisite: 12 credits of coursework
Hours: 45
Credits: 3

A new State regulation requires that all teacher education programs leading to initial certification include a 3-credit course in teaching students with disabilities. This course will be added to all initial certification programs that do not currently have such a course. It is intended for teachers of general (not special) education at all grade levels.

SEDC 75402 - Student Teaching in Chemistry, Grades 7–12 (KC)

Teacher candidates complete 30 days of student teaching at grades 7–9 and 30 days at grades 10–12 under the supervision of a Hunter College faculty member and a certified chemistry teacher in a New York City school selected by the college. They further develop their skills in the delivery of instruction. Student teachers will assume significant responsibility for classroom instruction and management.

Prerequisite: SEDC 72400
Prerequisite or Corequisite: SEDF 70600
Hours: 45; 60 days student teaching plus workshops and conferences
Credits: 5

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.

This course may be repeated only once.

Chemistry Courses - minimum 15 cr.

For Master's Degree Program Only
CHEM 65500 - Demonstrations, Models, and Technology

Demonstrations, models, and technology.

CHEM 66000 - Challenging Concepts in Chemistry

Overview of research and theory related to misconceptions in chemistry. Students will be expected to develop a research proposal or to conduct the research in their own classrooms, and write a paper in the form of a journal article. The article will serve as the culminating project for the science portion of the MA.

Hours 4 hrs,
Credits 4 cr

- Two electives chosen from 600- or 700-level courses in chemistry or biochemistry at least 5 cr.

CHEM 65000 - Biophysical Chemistry

Essential physical chemical principles as applied to biological problems. Emphasis on kinetics, thermodynamics, equilibria.

prereq: 1 year organic chemistry, 1 year biology, MATH 15000 or equivalent
Hours 4 hrs.
Credits 4 cr
Fall

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Master's degree students will develop a professional teaching portfolio, which is a cumulative effort, integrating course and fieldwork throughout the program.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Adolescent Chinese - MA

The master's degree program (Academic Plan: CHINAE-MA) prepares candidates to teach Chinese in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. This program is not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Chinese 7-12.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0 and a major in Chinese with a GPA of at least 3.0, including a minimum of 18 credits in Chinese literature above the intermediate level and oral proficiency at the advanced low level of the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Language (ACTFL) Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI);

OR
Applicants who do not have a Chinese major but have a liberal arts and science major (or interdisciplinary liberal arts or science concentration) of at least 30 credits can take two exams to meet the Chinese coursework requirement: the Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) and the Written Proficiency Test (WPT) administered by American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Language (ACTFL). Candidates must achieve a minimum score of advanced-low on each to meet the admission requirement and must achieve a passing score on the on-site written test in Chinese/English about Chinese literature.

PLUS (for ALL applicants)

2. A general education core in the liberal arts and science to include the following: 6 credits in English, 6 credits in social studies (to include at least one course in U.S. history or U.S. geography), 3 credits in the arts, and 12 credits in math/science/technology (a college course in calculus meets 6 credits of this requirement).
3. Two professional references.
4. A personal statement.
5. An interview conducted in Chinese/English with program adviser.
6. An on-site English writing sample.
7. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Education Courses

SEDF 70300 - Social Foundations of Adolescent Education

Students explore in depth different sociological, historical, philosophical, anthropological, and political concepts and theories related to urban schooling. Particular emphasis will be placed on issues such as tracking, parent-school-community relations, inclusion of students with disabilities, the teaching of English language learners, and other diverse populations. Students will learn to analyze these concepts and theories and apply them to current classroom practices.

Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SEDF 70400 - Adolescent Development, Grades 7–12

The process of cognitive, social/emotional, personality, and language development among youth who vary by gender, race and ethnicity, English proficiency and varying levels of abilities.

Hours 30 hrs, plus 36 hrs fieldwork,
Credits 2 cr

SEDF 70500 - Educational Psychology: Applications to Adolescent Education (KC)

Prepares teacher candidates to think about how adolescents develop and learn. Emphasis will be placed on identifying effective teaching strategies, adapting instruction for diverse student populations (including gifted students and students with special needs), designing and managing classroom instruction, creating culturally compatible classrooms, motivating students, and assessing their learning.

prereq: SEDF 70400

CHND 71200 - Methods 1: Intensive Study of Classroom Organization, Management, and Assessment of Instruction in Chinese, Grades 7-12

The course covers options for classroom management, learning environment appropriate to 7-12 classrooms, and assessment. Attention is given to classroom management task, setting up and exploiting various learning environments, and methods for assessment. New York state and city teaching standards will be applied throughout the course. Writing Requirement includes homework assignment and projects.

*prereq or coreq: SEDF 70400 or permission of the adviser

CHND 71300 - Methods 2: Intensive Study of Teaching Diverse Learners in Chinese, Grades 7-12

This course aims to familiarize prospective school teachers, grades 7-12 with pedagogical approaches and innovative teaching techniques needed to convey to a diverse population current state and professional standards-based curricula in Chinese. Innovative uses of technology, development of instructional units, individualization for students with special needs, and strategies for managing problem behavior will be emphasized throughout the course. Thirty-six hours of field experience/observation is a part of this course. New York state and city teaching standards will be applied throughout the course. Writing Requirement includes development of lesson plans, homework assignment, and projects for classroom use.

prereq or coreq: CHND 71200 and SEDF 70500 or permission of the adviser
CHND 73100 - Student Teaching in Chinese, Grades 7-12

Teacher candidates will engage in ways of teaching adolescents the skills of reading, responding to literature, writing (creative and expository), listening, speaking, and applying grammar conventions. They will write lesson and unit plans and experiment with classroom management and assessment techniques as they present lessons to the class for peer and instructor criticism. These presentations will be videotaped for further self-analysis at home.

prereq or coreq: CHND 71300 or permission of the adviser.

Hours 60 days, 30 hrs seminar plus workshops and conferences,

Credits 5

Chinese Courses

CHIN 70100 - Chinese Phonology and Romanization

This course will introduce Chinese phonetics, phonology, and the major sound transcription systems commonly used in teaching Chinese as a foreign language and found in Chinese dictionaries. Emphasis will be on acquiring accurate tones and standard pronunciation for English-speaking learners as well as learners who speak a Chinese dialect at home.

CHIN 70300 - Chinese Orthography and Lexicology

This course will give an overview of the development of Chinese orthography and Chinese lexicology. Differences between the spoken and written styles will be discussed. The relationship of formation methods of the Chinese lexicon to syntactic functions and the process of character-based meaning derivation will be emphasized.

CHIN 70200 - Modern Chinese Pedagogical Grammar

This course will introduce the grammatical system of modern Mandarin Chinese, including the characteristics of grammatical morphemes, word order, and sentence and discourse structures. The content will highlight difficulties for native speakers of English and helping them to overcome these difficulties effectively. The course will discuss pedagogical issues concerning grammar instruction such as how it differs from syntax; what grammar points need to be taught at each level; and the methods of teaching grammar.

Credits 3

- Advanced Language and Culture Training (may choose 1 or more) -

CHIN 70500 - Topics in Advanced Conversation

This course will give students advanced language training in speaking in a wide range of topics as well as specialized vocabulary needed to discuss Chinese instruction in Chinese. Students will further practice speaking skills to achieve advanced-mid or advanced-high oral proficiency according to the ACTFL (American Council for Teachers of Foreign Languages) scale. Authentic materials will be used throughout the course.

CHIN 70600 - Topics in Advanced Writing

This course will give students advanced language training in writing Chinese in everyday life situations as well as a Chinese language teaching professional with writing samples. Students will further practice writing skills to achieve advanced-low proficiency according to the ACTFL scale. Authentic writing tasks and materials will be used throughout the course.

Students will carry out an independent project approved by their faculty advisor and chairperson and supervised by a staff member.

Credits 1-3

Notes:
1. Students who enter with initial or professional certification in adolescent education in another area will not be required to take any SEDC or SEDF courses. They will be required to take all CHIN and CHND courses in the program.
2. The minimum number of credits for the degree for students who enter with certification in adolescent education is 24 credits. Please see your administrative advisor to clarify the degree requirements for the adolescent Chinese education program.
3. Students without certification may be exempted from up to 6 credits based on prior equivalent course work.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Master's degree students will develop a professional teaching portfolio, which is a cumulative effort, integrating course and fieldwork throughout the program.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Adolescent Earth Science - MA / Advanced Certificate

The master's and advanced certificate programs prepare candidates to teach Earth Science in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. These programs are not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Earth Science 7-12. The master's program (Academic Plan: ESCAE-MA) is for applicants with no prior NYS certificate. The advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: ESCAE-AC) is a post-master's program for applicants with no prior NYS certificate.

Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. A major of at least 30 credits in the liberal arts or sciences.
3. At least 21 credits in geology, physical geography, earth science, or environmental science, including geographic techniques.
4. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
5. Two professional references.
6. A personal statement.
7. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Advanced Certificate

1. An undergraduate major of at least 30 credits in earth science and a master's degree in the content area with a GPA of at least 3.3 from an accredited institution. Coursework at either the undergraduate or graduate level must include a course in introductory earth science with laboratory, one of introductory physics with laboratory, and one semester of calculus.

Adolescent Latin - MA / Advanced Certificate

This program is offered with the Classical and Oriental Studies Department and is designed to serve individuals who do not have certification in the teaching of Latin. The applicant must be admitted by both the School of Education and the Classical and Oriental Studies Department.
The master's and advanced certificate programs prepare candidates to teach Latin in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. These programs are not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Latin 7-12.

The master's program (Academic Plan: LATINAE-MA) is for applicants with no prior NYS certificate. The advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: LATAE-AC) is a post-master's program for applicants with no prior NYS certificate.

Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. An index of at least 3.0 in an undergraduate major or the equivalent in Latin or classics. Students must have 30 credits of coursework in Latin.
3. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
4. Two professional references.
5. A personal statement.
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Advanced Certificate

1. Minimum of 30 credits in Latin at the undergraduate and/or graduate level, and a master's degree in Classics, Latin, or Ancient Greek with a GPA of at least 3.3 from an accredited institution.
2. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
3. Two professional references.
4. A personal statement.
5. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Note(s)

Students who enter with initial or provisional certification in adolescent education in a language other than English will be required to take LATED 712, LATED 713, and either LATED 731 or two of the other student teaching/practicum courses that cover grades 7–9 and 10–12 (9–11 credits). Based on a transcript review by the School of Education, such students may be required to complete additional courses in the pedagogical sequence as well. The minimum number of credits for the degree for students who enter with certification in adolescent education is 39 credits. Students may be exempted from up to 6 credits based on prior equivalent course work.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Master's degree students will develop a professional teaching portfolio, which is a cumulative effort, integrating course and fieldwork throughout the program.
3. Master's degree students must pass a comprehensive examination in their subject area administered by the department within the Arts and Sciences.
4. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Adolescent Mathematics - MA

This master's degree program provides advanced coursework in methods of teaching mathematics to those who already have NYS initial certification in Mathematics 7-12, or teachers who hold professional or permanent certification seeking to further their knowledge/skills, and gain additional graduate credits.

Admission Requirements
1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0
2. New York State Certification in Mathematics Grades 7-12.
3. Students must have at least 24 undergraduate credits in mathematics with a B average, including courses in Calculus and Linear Algebra.
4. Students with a master's degree in mathematics or mathematics education must have a GPA of at least 3.0 in their graduate courses, with a B average in mathematics courses.
5. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.

CEDC 74000 - Contemporary Mathematics in the Elementary School

A study of selected advanced mathematical topics that underlie modern elementary school curricula. The structure and use of mathematical systems and their historical development; geometrical constructions.

Hours 45 hrs.

SEDC 73000 - Development of Mathematical Thinking: Implications For Teaching and Learning Mathematics in Grades 7 to 12

A course exploring the role of the teacher in developing mathematical reasoning ability in students. What are the possibilities and limitations? A research-based approach to the problem of providing a solid mathematics education for all students.

SEDC 73100 - Seminar in Mathematics Curriculum, Grades 7-12

A study of the current Standards-Based Mathematics Curriculum from an historical perspective.
SED 73200 - Research Seminar in Mathematics Education, Grades 7-12

A course in which students will study the research relative to themathematics curriculum and complete a research project in a field of mathematics education of their choice.

MATH 62000 - Secondary School Mathematics from an Advanced Perspective I

Study, from an advanced standpoint, of the mathematics involved in the new sequential mathematics high school curriculum, with special focus on algebra, geometry, and statistics.

prereq: Calculus II and a course in linear or matrix algebra
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr
Open only to Teacher Education Program students.

MATH 62300 - Theory of Numbers

Congruences, quadratic residues, elementary diophantine analysis, continued fractions, sums of squares.

prereq: a course in linear algebra
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

MATH 63000 - Secondary School Mathematics from an Advanced Perspective II

Study, from an advanced standpoint, of the mathematics involved in the new sequential mathematics high school curriculum, with specific focus on geometry, and both algebraic and transcendental functions.

Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.
Open only to Teacher Education Program students.

STAT 61400 - Data Analysis Using Statistical Software

A second course in statistics using statistical software to analyze real data and teach new methodology. Methods covered include exploratory data analysis, analysis of variance, simple and multiple regression, nonparametric statistics, and model building.

prereq: STAT 21300 or both MATH 12500 and STAT 11300 with C or better in each course.
Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.

• Electives (Choose 2): Any MATH or STAT 600 or 700 Level Course (6 cr)

Exit Requirements

Adolescent Mathematics - MA / Advanced Certificate

The master's and advanced certificate programs prepare candidates to teach Mathematics in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. These programs are not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Mathematics 7-12.

The master's program (Academic Plan: MATAE-MA) is for applicants with no prior NYS certificate. The advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: MATAE-AC) is a post-master's program for applicants with no prior NYS certificate.

Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. 24 or more credits in mathematics approved by the graduate mathematics adviser, including a course in elementary statistics, a year of calculus and a course in matrix algebra or linear algebra. Applicants may be admitted on the condition that they complete up to 12 credits of additional course work in mathematics. A transcript review will determine which additional credits, if any, are needed.
3. A grade point average of at least 2.7 in mathematics courses.
4. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
5. A personal statement.
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Advanced Certificate

1. An undergraduate major of at least 30 credits in mathematics and a master's degree in the content area with a GPA of at least 3.3 from an accredited institution. Coursework at either the undergraduate or graduate level must include a course in elementary statistics, a year of calculus and a course in matrix algebra or linear algebra.
2. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.

SEDF 70500 - Educational Psychology: Applications to Adolescent Education (KC)
Prepares teacher candidates to think about how adolescents develop and learn. Emphasis will be placed on identifying effective teaching strategies, adapting instruction for diverse student populations (including gifted students and students with special needs), designing and managing classroom instruction, creating culturally compatible classrooms, motivating students, and assessing their learning.

prereq: SEDF 70400
Hours 30 hrs, plus 36 hrs fieldwork,
Credits 2 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SEDF 70600 - Assessment of Teaching and Learning in Adolescent Education

Basic principles and practices for the assessment of learning and teaching in the secondary classroom. Includes instructional objectives, test construction, descriptive statistics, interpretations of standardized test scores, performance outcome measures and alternative forms of assessment.

prereq: SEDF 70500
coreq: One of the following must be a Co-req:

SPED 70800 - Teaching Students with Special Needs in Inclusive Settings

Participants will explore the benefits and challenges of creating and maintaining classrooms designed to incorporate students with disabilities in the general education environment for part, or all, of their program.

Cross-listed SPED 308
prereq: 12 credits of coursework
Hours 45
Credits 3

A new State regulation requires that all teacher education programs leading to initial certification include a 3-credit course in teaching students with disabilities. This course will be added to all initial certification programs that do not currently have such a course. It is intended for teachers of general (not special) education at all grade levels.

SEDC 71000 - Building the Foundations of Literacy in Adolescent Education

Supporting the development of literacy across the curriculum, with a focus on under-prepared students, students with special education needs, and students who are English language learners; implications for working toward standards.

Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr
SEDC 71300 - Methods I: Advanced Study of Secondary Learning Environments for Teaching Mathematics and Science

Examines the interrelationship between the educational environment and the adolescent’s learning of mathematics and science. Teacher candidates study the basic classroom management in the teaching of science and mathematics as they explore the content and implementation of national, New York State and New York City standards for mathematics and science. Fosters the use of technology as an educational tool to improve the mathematics and science literacy of the adolescent.

prereq or coreq: SEDF 70400
Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SEDC 72000 - Adolescent Health and Safety

Health issues that are relevant to the health promotion and wellness of adolescents and their families from diverse backgrounds, abilities, and sexual orientations. Specific content areas will include nutrition, fitness, drug education, child abuse and neglect, fire prevention and safety, and violence prevention and intervention.

Hours 15 hrs,
Credits 1 cr

SEDC 72300 - Methods II: Intensive Study of Teaching Diverse Learners in Mathematics, Grades 7–12 (KC)

Familiarizes prospective middle and high school teachers, grades 7–12, with pedagogical approaches and innovative teaching techniques needed to convey to a diverse population current state and professional standards-based curriculum in mathematics. Innovative uses of technology, development of instructional units, individualizing for students with special needs, and strategies for managing problem behavior will be emphasized throughout the course.

prereq: SEDC 71300
prereq or coreq: SEDF 70500
Hours 30 hrs fieldwork,
Credits 2

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SEDC 74100 - Adolescent Fieldwork (KC)

Seminar and field experience in adolescent education. Students will complete a 48-hour field experience in a grade 7-12 classroom in their subject and will participate in an accompanying seminar. They will be observed and evaluated in the field by a School of Education faculty member. An accompanying seminar will treat issues arising from the field experience. Students must achieve a grade of B or better in this course to continue in the program. Any student who obtains a grade of F in the course will not be allowed to continue in the program. Any student who obtains a grade below B must apply to the department chairperson for permission to repeat the course, which may be repeated only once.

Mathematics and Statistics Courses

Master's Degree Program Only

15-17 credits

MATH 62000 - Secondary School Mathematics from an Advanced Perspective I

Study, from an advanced standpoint, of the mathematics involved in the new sequential mathematics high school curriculum, with special focus on algebra, geometry, and statistics.

prereq: Calculus II and a course in linear or matrix algebra
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr
Open only to Teacher Education Program students.

MATH 63000 - Secondary School Mathematics from an Advanced Perspective II

Study, from an advanced standpoint, of the mathematics involved in the new sequential mathematics high school curriculum, with specific focus on geometry, and both algebraic and transcendental functions.

Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.
Open only to Teacher Education Program students.

MATH 63300 - Axiomatic Geometry

The development of geometry from the point of view of axiom systems. The course includes axiomatic systems for Euclidean geometry from the classical period to the Hilbert axioms of the early 20th century, and the development of non-Euclidean hyperbolic geometry. This is a theoretical mathematics course. The material is presented in its historical context.

prereq: departmental permission
Credits 3

MATH 63500 - Problem Solving Explorations in Mathematics

A study of the heuristics of problem solving through intensive work with non-routine problems chosen from many areas of mathematics. This course is for current and prospective teachers.

prereq: none
Hours 3
Credits 3

- Plus -

STAT 61200 - Discrete Probability

Combinatorics, discrete probability, random variables, probability models and an introduction to game theory. A study of discrete probability with particular attention paid to the integration of these topics into the school curriculum. This course is for current and prospective teachers.

prereq: a statistics course on or above the level of STAT 11300

Hours 3
Credits 3

- Or -

STAT 61400 - Data Analysis Using Statistical Software

A second course in statistics using statistical software to analyze real data and teach new methodology. Methods covered include exploratory data analysis, analysis of variance, simple and multiple regression, nonparametric statistics, and model building.

prereq: STAT 21300 or both MATH 12500 and STAT 11300 with C or better in each course.

Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.

Note:
1. Students who present certain courses and prior experience may be able to substitute another course or seminar(s) with approval of graduate mathematics adviser.
2. Although students are required to take EITHER STAT 612 or STAT 714, students are encouraged to take both courses.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Master's degree students will develop a professional teaching portfolio, which is a cumulative effort, integrating course and fieldwork throughout the program.
3. Master's degree students must pass a comprehensive examination in their subject area administered by the department within the Arts and Sciences.
4. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Adolescent Physics - MA / Advanced Certificate

The master's and advanced certificate programs prepare candidates to teach Physics in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. These programs are not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Physics 7-12.

The master's program (Academic Plan: PHYAE-MA) is for applicants with no prior NYS certificate. The advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: PHYAE-AC) is a post-master's program for applicants with no prior NYS certificate.
Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. A major in physics.
3. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
4. Two professional references.
5. A personal statement.
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Advanced Certificate

1. An undergraduate major of at least 30 credits in physics and a master's degree in the content area with a GPA of at least 3.3 from an accredited institution.
2. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
3. Two professional references.
4. A personal statement.
5. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Physics Courses

For Master's Degree Program Only

16 Credits

PHYS 63000 - Science and Society

Study of the interactions between technological and societal changes, with an emphasis on directing productive critiques and debates over potentially controversial technological change within the classroom. Focusing on present-day issues, students will learn various models of analyzing the impact of scientific change on society and how social change directs science.
prereq: one graduate-level physics course or permission of instructor
Hours 45
Credits 3

PHYS 66000 - Challenging Concepts in Physics: Using Research to Identify Student Misconceptions and Assess Student Learning

Overview of research and theory related to misconceptions in physics. Students will be expected to develop a research proposal or to conduct the research in their own classrooms, and write a paper in the form of a journal article. The article will serve as the comprehensive examination for the science portion of the MA degree.

prereq: PHYS 63000 and two elective courses in physics or permission of instructor
Hours 60
Credits 4

- Plus three electives 9 credits from below -

PHYS 60500 - Mathematical Physics

Introduction to basic mathematical techniques used in physics.

Hours 45
Credits 3

PHYS 61500 - Electromagnetic Theory

Electrostatics; electromagnetics; Maxwell's equations with application to waves; waves in guides; radiation.

Hours 45

15 credits in history including 3 credits in each of the following areas: U.S. history, European history, world or non-Western history. Students who have completed 6 credits in any one of these areas at the undergraduate level will have fulfilled this requirement for that particular area, but will still have to complete at least 15 credits in graduate history courses. Within the 15 credits required in history, at least 3 credits should focus on gender in history and 3 credits should focus on an analysis of diversity in the U.S.

Plus one course (3 credits) as approved by advisor from the Department of Geography.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Master's degree students will develop a professional teaching portfolio, which is a cumulative effort, integrating course and fieldwork throughout the program.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Adolescent Spanish - MA / Advanced Certificate

The master's and advanced certificate programs prepare candidates to teach Spanish in grades 7-12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. These programs are not designed for individuals who already have NYS certification in Spanish 7-12.

The master's program (Academic Plan: SPANAE-MA) is for applicants with no prior NYS certificate. The advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: SPAAE-AC) is a post-master's program for applicants with no prior NYS certificate.
Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution acceptable to Hunter College with an overall cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 3.0 or better, and a major in Spanish with a grade point average of 3.0, with a minimum of 18 credits in Spanish literature above the intermediate level; and oral proficiency at the advanced low level of the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Language (ACTFL) Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI).

Or

Applicants who do not have a Spanish major but have a liberal arts and science major (or interdisciplinary liberal arts or science concentration) of at least 30 credits can take two exams to meet the Spanish coursework requirement and writing component: the Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) administered by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Language (ACTFL), and a rigorous Spanish literature written exam administered by the Department of Romance Languages. Candidates must achieve a minimum score of advanced low on the ACTFL OPI exam to meet the admission requirement, and must achieve a passing score in the Department's written test of Spanish literature.

Plus (for all applicants)

2. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression. Two professional references.

3. A personal statement.

4. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Advanced Certificate

1. An undergraduate major of at least 30 credits in Spanish, and a master's degree in the content area with a GPA of at least 3.3 from an accredited institution.

2. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.

3. Two professional references.

4. A personal statement.

6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.

2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.

4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

The study of processes and procedures used in the psycho-educational assessment of children with disabilities. Uses and limitations of assessment measures and procedures. Practice in use of selected tests for students, both those suspected of having disabilities and those with identified disabilities.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 45 hours; includes 10 hrs of field experience
Credits 3

SPED 70200 - Classroom Management in Special Education and Inclusive Settings

Develops skill in using a variety of approaches to ameliorate classroom management problems of students with disabilities affecting learning and behavior. Includes behavior modification methods, communication strategies, and psycho-educational approaches.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 45 hours; includes 15 hrs of field experience
Credits 3

SPED 70300 - Inclusive Instruction in General Education Classrooms for Students with Learning and Behavior Disorders

Explores curriculum adaptations and intensified instruction for learners with diverse special education needs. Emphasizes practical application of instructional strategies, classroom change, and collaborative processes. Open to both special education and general education graduate students.

prereq: SPED 70000
coreq: current employment as a teacher or enrollment in student teaching
Hours Includes 10 hrs of field experience, 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SPED 70450 - Teaching Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Students

This course is a review of the historical, social, and legal foundations of education as it pertains to special education, education of students including those with limited proficiency in English, and multicultural backgrounds. It is an overview of issues and best practices for teaching students from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds who have historically been underserved in educational systems due to language, race, class, or social status within the context of special education.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

SPED 77100 - Methods of Teaching Reading for Adolescents with Learning Disabilities (KC)

This course addresses principles, methods, and specially designed instruction for adolescents with learning disabilities, mild/moderate cognitive impairment, and/or behavior disorders. The focus is on developing literacy through all aspects of reading, including: developing comprehension, expanding vocabulary, increasing fluency, utilizing phonics, and refining phonemic awareness. Students will learn strategies that support reading at all levels, including: sound, word, sentence, cross-sentence, text body, and text structure, genre, and across content areas.

coreq: SPED 77200
prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 45 plus 10 field hours
Credits 3 cr.

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 77200 - Supervised Clinical Teaching of Adolescents with Disabilities: Part I (KC)

On-site supervised practicum, providing intensive specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities, mild cognitive impairment, and/or behavior disorders from grades 7–12. Focus on specialized reading instruction, math instruction, active engagement, structuring, sequencing, on-going assessment, family, culture, and school relations. Videotape and computer use.

coreq: SPED 77100
prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 30 hours of seminar plus 25 field hours
Credits 2 cr.

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 77300 - Math Methods for Adolescents with Disabilities (KC)

Principles, methods, and specially designed mathematics instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate intellectual disabilities. Focus on concept development, concrete materials, procedural learning, memory strategies and compensations; time/space/task organization and body movement, social-interaction, and the arts across the curriculum.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
 Credits 2 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 77400 - Supervised Clinical Teaching of Adolescents with Disabilities: Part II (KC)

Principles, methods, and specially designed mathematics instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate intellectual disabilities. Focus on concept development, concrete materials, procedural learning, memory strategies and compensations; time/space/task organization and body movement, social-interaction, and the arts across the curriculum.
prereq: SPED 70000
coreq: SPED 77300
Hours 2 hrs: 15 hours of seminar plus 22 lab/clinical hours
Credits 2 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 77600 - Writing & Executive Function for Adolescents with Learning Disabilities

In this course students study the practice of teaching all aspects of writing to adolescents with learning disabilities by using various research-based approaches to address: handwriting, spelling, sentence structures, paragraph building, essay writing, and the writing process.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr

SPED 78000 - The Study of Learning Disabilities in Children and Adolescents

History of theory, practices and conceptualizations of learning disabilities and mild/moderate mental retardation. Current issues, controversies and research, offering frameworks for appropriate instruction. Includes student characteristics, LD as an approach to teaching, family and cultural needs, as well as services and settings from special schools to supported inclusion.

General Education Courses

EDLIT 75500 - Literacy Instruction for Struggling Readers and Writers: Grades 5-12

Exploration of historical, theoretical and research-based teaching practice issues related to overcoming reading/writing difficulties. Assessment and intervention strategies, adaptation and modification of instructional strategies, technology and curriculum to improve foundational skills and learning outcome of middle and high school struggling readers and writers.

Hours includes 15 hours fieldwork
SEDF 71400 - Adolescent Development and Learning: Grades 7-12

This course prepares teacher candidates to think about how adolescents develop and learn by examining the process of cognitive, social/emotional, personality and language development among youth who vary by gender, race and ethnicity, English proficiency and levels of ability. Emphasis will be placed on creating culturally compatible classrooms, motivating students, and assessing their learning.

Hours 45

SEDC 71600 - Math: Curriculum and Methods - Grades 7-12

For students pursuing certification in adolescent special education (generalist). Teacher candidates will develop an understanding of the contents of mathematics programs and curricula in grades 7–12 and will formulate teaching methodology for the meaningful learning of mathematics. Strong emphasis will be placed on teaching students with special needs and English language learners.

SEDC 71700 - Social Studies: Curriculum and Methods - Grades 7-12

For students pursuing certification in adolescent special education (generalist). Teacher candidates will develop an understanding of the content of social studies programs and curricula in grades 7–12 and will formulate teaching methodology for the meaningful learning of social studies. Strong emphasis will be placed on teaching students with special needs and English language learners.

Hours 45

SEDC 71800 - Science: Curriculum and Methods - Grades 7-12

For students pursuing certification in adolescent special education (generalist). Teacher candidates will develop an understanding of the content of science programs and curricula in grades 7–12 and formulate teaching methodology for the meaningful learning of science. Strong emphasis will be placed on teaching students with special needs and English language learners.

SEDC 72000 - Adolescent Health and Safety

Health issues that are relevant to the health promotion and wellness of adolescents and their families from diverse backgrounds, abilities, and sexual orientations. Specific content areas will include nutrition, fitness, drug education, child abuse and neglect, fire prevention and safety, and violence prevention and intervention.

Hours 15 hrs,

Applied Behavior Analysis - MS / Advanced Certificate

The Hunter College School of Education Master of Science in Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) program (Academic Plan: APBEH-MS) will provide intensive training in behavior analytic intervention to professionals seeking to work or currently working with children, youth, and adults with autism spectrum disorder as well as to the supervisors and administrators of the programs in which they work. These professionals will then be well prepared to implement applied behavior analytic interventions with this population. Applied behavior analysts work with individuals ranging in age from infancy through adulthood and old age in settings that include schools, homes, day programs, communities, residential care settings, businesses and research laboratories. The program will prepare students to develop, deliver, and evaluate the effectiveness of applied behavior analytic intervention for learners with autism and increase the availability of professionals who have the appropriate training and experience to provide behavior analytic services to children, adolescents and adults with autism spectrum disorders. Students who complete the Master of Science will have the graduate training necessary to sit for the national Board Certified Behavior Analyst® (BCBA) exam. Upon passing the BCBA exam, graduates will be eligible for New York State's new license in behavior analysis.

The post-master's, advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: APBEH-AC) provides intensive training to professionals in applied behavior analysis and its applications to working with children, youth and adults with autism spectrum disorder as well as to supervisors and administrators of Applied Behavior Analysis programs. This program is designed to prepare professionals to implement ABA intervention and to sit for the international Board Certified Behavior Analyst® exam. This program does not lead to NYS certification.

Admission Requirements

Master's Degree

1. A bachelor's or master's degree from a regionally-accredited university and a minimum 3.0 GPA.
2. Resume and two professional references to be included with the application for matriculation.
3. GRE scores.
4. If admissions requirements are met, an interview with program faculty.

Advanced Certificate

1. A master's degree from an accredited institution in education, psychology, or behavior analysis, and a minimum 3.0 GPA.
2. Applicants who meet the eligibility criteria will be interviewed.

International applicants who need an F-1 or J-1 Visa are not currently eligible for these programs.

Progress Standards for Master of Science

1. Students must maintain an overall GPA of 3.0 in order to continue in the program.
2. Students who receive a grade of F in any course in the first 12 credits will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Students with one grade of INC (incomplete) within the first 12 credits are restricted from registering for more than one additional course. Those with two or more Ins will not be allowed to register for any courses.

4. All field experiences will take place at a site affiliated with the ABA program at Hunter College.

5. Any student who receives a grade below a B in a field experience course must apply to the chairperson of the department to repeat that course, which may only be repeated once.

6. Any student who receives a grade of F, INC, or WU may not reregister and will not be allowed to continue in the program.

Progress Standards for Advanced Certificate

2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F(WU) in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.

3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INs will not be allowed to register for any courses.

4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in certain key program courses. (to be determined by programs, labeled in CUNY First, and noted in the catalog)
   - Students who receive a grade of F/WU in certain key program courses may not continue in the program (to be determined by programs, labeled in CUNY First, and noted in the catalog).

EDABA 72000 - Managing Behavior Analytic Records

This course provides a comprehensive review of the legal and ethical management of behavior analytic records in the context of professional behavior analytic practice. Topics to be covered include the legal and regulatory requirements for behavior analytic record keeping along with use of behavior analytic data in professional practice.
EDABA 74000 - Philosophy of Behaviorism

This course examines radical behaviorism in a broad historical, theoretical, and philosophical context. Works by B. F. Skinner and analyses and extensions of these works will be discussed. Radical, contextual, methodological, and feminist behaviorism will be analyzed and their historical roots investigated. Readings will explore major conceptual issues such as determinism, mentalism, selection by consequences, freedom, control, and responsibility. Finally, the course will cover social issues and cultural design as applications of behavioral thinking.

prereq: EDABA 79100, EDABA 79500, EDABA 79800

EDABA 75000 - Experimental Analysis of Behavior

The primary focus of this course is on behavior analytic theory in the context of basic research. Topics to be covered include operant and respondent conditioning, reinforcement, discriminated operants, reinforcement schedules, and social learning.

EDABA 75500 - Functional Behavior Assessment

This course examines various behavior analytic assessment methods that are designed to identify the function of challenging behavior. Both experimental and non-experimental assessment methodologies will be examined along with methods of data collection and analysis.

prereq: EDABA 795 or EDABA 798

EDABA 77000 - Practicum in Applied Behavior Analysis I (KC)

This course is the first of a two-course sequence in conducting fieldwork in applied behavior analytic settings. A total of 180 hours of fieldwork which includes designing, conducting, and analyzing data from applied behavior analytic interventions is required.

prereq: EDABA 795 and approval of graduate advisor

Includes 180 hours of field experience.

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

EDABA 77100 - Practicum in Applied Behavior Analysis II (KC)
This course is the second of a two-course sequence in conducting fieldwork in applied behavior analytic settings. A total of 180 hours of fieldwork which includes designing, conducting, and analyzing data from applied behavior analytic interventions is required.

Bilingual Childhood Education, Grades 1-6 - MSEd
This graduate program in Bilingual Childhood Education (Academic Plan: CEBIL-MSED) is designed to prepare individuals to become effective teachers with high levels of teaching competencies using two languages of instruction at the childhood grade range. The programs are offered in three languages: Spanish/English, French/English and Chinese/English. The Bilingual Childhood Education program leads to NYS certification in Childhood Education with Bilingual Education Extension.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. A liberal arts or sciences major or interdisciplinary concentration of at least 30 credits.
3. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
4. Completion of a satisfactory writing sample in English and in Spanish as part of the application process.
5. An on-site writing sample in English and in Spanish, French or Chinese and an interview conducted in English and in Spanish, French or Chinese.
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.

Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

BILED 71700 - Language Assessment for English Language Learners

An in-depth treatment of key concepts, issues, and classroom procedures for assessing English language learners, integrating key notions of assessment and measurement with second language acquisition theory and current practices in the assessment of linguistically, culturally, and ethnically diverse students.

prereq: BILED 77100, CEDCF 70050

*Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr*

BILED 77100 - Psychology of Language Learning and Teaching

Survey of the research in first and second language acquisition as it pertains to bilingual children. Emphasis is on the psychological underpinnings of the language acquisition process and their implications for language learning in the classroom. Lab time is an integral part of this course.

prereq or coreq: BILED 70100

*Hours 30 hrs plus 5 hrs of fieldwork and lab,
Credits 2 cr*

BILED 77900 - Multicultural Education

Conceptual framework derived from anthropological, cross-cultural research on learning and interaction, emphasizing theories and practical perspectives of multicultural education. Theories and strategies that make use of diversity throughout the curriculum and schools will be the focus of the course.
prereq or coreq: BILED 70100
Hours includes 5 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3 cr

BILED 78000 - Bilingual Research Seminar

The bilingual research seminar, which serves as the culminating experience, focuses on the relationship between educational research and the classroom teacher. Students will review significant bilingual research to consider the implications of findings for bilingual instruction, and they will initiate their own classroom/community studies to reflect upon their own practice and to become critical consumers of research.

Students must take between 7-19 credits of childhood education credits in addition to the special education courses required for their degrees. Students can be exempted from up to 12 credits of the general education requirements listed below on the basis of equivalent courses taken at either the graduate or undergraduate level. However, students may not be exempted from CEDC 72900 (Fieldwork in Childhood Education for Special Educators).

CEDF 70900 - Child Development Grades 1-6

Theories and research applied to children's development. Understanding and working with children from diverse backgrounds to foster optimal growth.

*Hours includes 5 hrs of field work
Credits 3*

CEDC 70350 - Teaching Science in the Elementary School

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. A study of the philosophies and instructional strategies which will enable future educators to teach science to diverse populations in elementary schools.

*prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Credits 3*

CEDC 70450 - Teaching Developmental Reading

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. The theoretical and practical aspects of literacy will be presented with particular emphasis on teaching literacy to diverse populations. In addition, the role of family involvement and community involvement and the use of technology for literacy development will be stressed. Instructional approaches and materials for teaching literacy will be explored.

*prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3*

CEDC 70550 - Mathematics Curriculum and Methods

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. An exploration of current thinking about mathematics teaching and learning in the elementary school. Teachers will develop an understanding of the content of school mathematics programs and exemplary curricula and formulate a teaching methodology for the meaningful learning of mathematics.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3

CEDC 72250 - Social Studies Curriculum and Instruction: Integrating Literature, the Arts, and Technology

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education and those in the bilingual extension program. Within the framework of New York State Standards, this course reflects concern for quality social studies teaching for all learners. Major attention is given to our common heritage of democracy and human rights; an appreciation of the diverse tapestry that characterizes us as a nation; the study of history within the social studies; the use of literature and the arts to illuminate and enrich understandings; the application of critical and analytical skills to interpret primary documents and data; the integration of technology to acquire, process, and organize knowledge.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900 and CEDC 70450
Hours 30 hrs,

CEDC 72900 - Fieldwork in Childhood Education for Special Educators (KC)

Observing and assisting teaching in an elementary school setting. Students will develop guided observation skills, acquire practical knowledge of the design and management of instruction and the classroom environment, and work effectively with individual students and small work groups.

prereq: CEDF 70900, CEDC 70450 and 70550
Hours 15 hrs of seminar plus 50 hrs fieldwork

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

HED 71500 - Health Education for Special Educators

This course presents an overview of health promotion and wellness for childhood special educators. It includes child abuse and neglect, drug education, fire safety, nutrition and fitness, and violence prevention.

Hours 15 hrs,
Credits 1 cr

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Program 2 students must maintain a valid and appropriate NYS certification.
3. Perform satisfactorily on a two-part culminating activity (partial requirements of SPED 70700, Research Seminar: Issues in Special Education): a comprehensive research-based oral presentation on a current special education issue
   - and either -
   an original written research proposal
   - or -
   a written proposal for competitive grant funding.
4. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Blind and Visually Impaired: NYS Teacher Certification - Advanced Certificate

Program

This post-master's, advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: TBVI-AC) is designed to prepare NYS certified teachers to serve as teachers of the blind and visually impaired, including those with multiple disabilities, in educational programs from birth to grade 12. Graduates of this program will be eligible for NYS professional certification in Blind and Visually Impaired.

Admission Requirements

1. New York State teaching certification in any area.
2. Master's degree in education or a related services field (speech and language pathology, physical therapy, nursing) with a GPA of at least 3.5.
3. Completion of SPED 70000 (Issues and Practices in Educating Students with Disabilities) or the equivalent with a grade of B or better for all applicants without a master's degree in special education.
4. Evidence of acceptable writing skills.
5. Three letters of recommendation.
6. Evidence of work, volunteer, or personal experience with individuals with visual impairments.
7. An interview with a special education faculty member.

International applicants who need an F-1 or J-1 Visa are not currently eligible for this program.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.
Course of Study - 22 cr.

Academic Plan: TBVI-AC

SPED 74000 - Medical Aspects and Educational Implications of Visual Impairments (KC)

Characteristics, etiologies, and effects of blindness and visual impairments on educational functioning; interpretations of clinical examination reports; pre-clinical functional vision assessment; identification, classification, and utilization of optical devices in school and community environments.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours includes 10 hrs of field experience
Credits 3 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 74100 - Education and Rehabilitation of Individuals with Visual Impairments (KC)

Focus on service delivery systems, psycho-social aspects of blindness and visual impairment, attitudes, legislation, advocacy, resources and unique curriculum areas that relate to learners with visual impairments. Effects of blindness and low vision on motor, cognitive, social and language development.

prereq or coreq: SPED 74000
Hours Includes 10 hrs of field experience
Credits 3

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 74200 - Curriculum and Instructional Strategies for Learners with Visual Impairments

Principles, teaching strategies, and curriculum adaptations relevant to academic, social, vocational and life-skill needs of learners with blindness and low vision, including those with additional impairments.

prereq or coreq: SPED 74000, SPED 74100
Hours Includes 15 hrs of field experience
SPED 74300 - Braille Literacy and Communication Skills for Learners with Visual Impairments (KC)

History of tactile reading systems used by individuals who are blind. Students must demonstrate proficiency in reading and writing Grade 2 literary Braille and using the Braillewriter and slate and stylus. Other skills include modifying print materials for use by Braille readers. Current research and issues related to Braille literacy are reviewed.

prereq or coreq: SPED 74000, SPED 74100
Hours Includes 10 hrs of field experience

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 74400 - Assistive Technology for Learners with Visual Impairments

Course provides students with hands-on experiences with access technology options for individuals who are blind or visually impaired. These include screen review software, speech synthesizers, scanning devices, Braille translators, refreshable Braille displays, and portable speech and Braille note takers. Emphasis will be on learning to assess the strengths of current and future access technology in relation to individual learners in school and community settings.

prereq: SPED 74300
Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SPED 74500 - Mathematical Literacy and Nemeth Code for Learners with Visual Impairments

Knowledge and skills to transcribe mathematical and scientific print material into Braille by use of the Nemeth Code at both the elementary and secondary school levels; content related to methods for teaching math literacy to students who are blind; and current literature and research.

prereq or coreq: SPED 74000, 74100, 74200, 74300
Hours 15 hrs,
Credits 1 cr

SPED 74700 - Principles and Practices in Orientation and Mobility for Teachers of Learners with Visual Impairments

The history of orientation and mobility (O&M), systems of O&M, techniques of utilizing sensory information for children who are visually impaired, and concepts (e.g., spatial, positional, environmental, and time) taught by teachers of students with visual impairments. Lab experiences to teach pre-cane skills with the use of blindfolds and low-vision simulators in both indoor and outdoor environments.

prereq or coreq: SPED 74000, 74100

COUNR 73000 - Counseling with the Aging

Implications for personal adjustment of the aging. Complex issues inherent in the aging process. Areas of counseling skills and techniques suitable to the older person.

*Hours 45 hrs
Credits 3*
SPED 74900 - Orientation and Mobility for Students with Visual Impairments and Additional Disabilities

An advanced orientation and mobility course on specialized instructional strategies that address the special travel difficulties of learners (infants to older adults) who are blind or visually impaired with additional disabilities. Topics include deafness, deafblindness, multiple impairments, motoric, cognitive and affective impairments. This course also addresses instructional strategies for persons in unique living situations or environments.

Hours includes 10 hrs field experience, 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SPED 76500 - Intermediate Orientation and Mobility (KC)

Theories related to perception, learning and development of individuals who are blind or visually impaired, and/or with multiple impairments across the age-spectrum as it is related to O&M. Through lecture, observation and practice, the student develops competencies in teaching indoor travel techniques used by persons with visual impairments. Requirements include 50 hours of blindfold simulation.

prereq or coreq: SPED 76800
Hours includes 50 hrs of lab plus 15 hrs field experience
Credits 3 cr.

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 76600 - Advanced Orientation and Mobility

Assessment, lesson sequencing, methods for Orientation and Mobility (O&M) of those who are visually impaired across the age-spectrum. Through lecture, observation and practice, the student develops competencies in teaching outdoor travel techniques used by persons with visual impairments.

prereq or coreq: SPED 76500, 76800
Hours includes 50 hrs of lab plus 15 hrs field experience
Credits 3 cr

SPED 76700 - Orientation and Mobility: Internship/Seminar (KC)

The course addresses the knowledge, skills, and attitudes for teaching the Social Studies curriculum to elementary grade students. This course is designed to introduce the content of the New York State Social Studies curriculum and the national standards for teaching Social Studies (http://www.socialstudies.org/standards/strands/) and focus on multiple instructional strategies to deliver this curriculum. There is an emphasis on integrating children's literature, the arts, and technology into the Social Studies curriculum and on experiencing the kinds of instructional methods and strategies recommended as current best practices for teaching the Social Studies curriculum.

prereq or coreq: To be taken with CEDF 71000, CEDC 70300, CEDC 72200, CEDC 70200, CEDC 77300.

CEDC 70700 - The Arts: An Interdisciplinary Learning Experience

Offered in collaboration with Lincoln Center Institute, this course is designed to introduce teacher candidates to the role of the arts in learning across the curriculum. Teacher candidates will experience the creative process through hands-on study of works of art (visual arts, music, theatre, and dance) to enhance the aesthetic sensibilities of students in grades 1–6.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900

CEDC 71300 - Health Education for the Classroom Teacher

The preparation of the elementary educator to assist children in grades 1 through 6 in making decisions for optimum health and wellness. Content areas: nutrition education and fitness; mental/emotional health, conflict resolution and stress management; drug education and stress management; safety education including fire safety; family living/sex education including HIV/AIDS education. Includes required workshops on child abuse and neglect and on school violence prevention.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900

CEDC 73900 - Advanced Methods in Elementary School: Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies

This graduate advanced methods builds on and extends the initial methods courses in the areas of mathematics, science, and social studies and also explicitly connects theory from mathematics, social studies, and science methods courses to practice by supporting teacher candidates to design and enact lessons in the context of the elementary school classroom.
Students will grapple with the complexities of how students learn content and design/conduct assessments, develop lesson plans and unit plans, and critically reflect on their teaching practice. Students will face the realities of teaching content in schools given the school resources in terms of curriculum and technology and within the curriculum guidelines of the state and district.

prereq or coreq: CEDC 70300, CEDC 70600, CEDC 70500
In order to take this course students have to be accepted into the 'clinically rich' track of the Masters in Childhood Education program that leads to certification.

CEDC 77200 - Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 1 (KC)
Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 1 is the initial experience in an elementary partner school for the 'clinically rich' track of the graduate childhood program.

coreq: This course should be taken with CEDF 70900, CEDC 70500, CEDC 70100, EDESL 77100.
Hours 30
30 days (field) & 15 hrs (course)

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

CEDC 77300 - Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 2 (KC)
Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 2 is the second experience in an elementary partner school for the clinically rich track of the graduate childhood program.

prereq or coreq: This course should be taken with CEDF 71000, CEDC 70300, CEDC 70600, CEDC 70200.
Hours 30
30 days (field) & 15 hrs (course)

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

CEDC 77400 - Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 3 (KC)
Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 3 is the third experience in an elementary partner school for the 'clinically rich' track of the graduate childhood program.

prereq or coreq: This course should be taken with CEDF 71600, CEDC 73900, CEDC 70700, CEDC 71300.
Hours 30
45 days (field) & 15 hrs (course)
This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

CEDC 77500 - Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 4 (KC)

Fieldwork & Teaching Seminar 4 is the fourth and final experience in an elementary partner school for the 'clinically rich' track of the graduate childhood program.

prereq or coreq: This course should be taken with CEDC 71000.

Hours 45
75 days (field) & 15 hrs (course)

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

CEDF 70600 - Social, Historical, Philosophical Foundations of Education: The American School

An in-depth study of the social, historical, and philosophical foundations of education and their impact on the American school.

Hours 45 hrs

CEDF 70900 - Child Development Grades 1-6

Theories and research applied to children's development. Understanding and working with children from diverse backgrounds to foster optimal growth.

Hours includes 5 hrs of field work

CEDF 71000 - Educational Psychology

Advanced educational psychology. Theories and research applied to learning, motivation, cognition, pupil and teacher relationships, and classroom management with a focus on students from diverse backgrounds.

prereq: CEDF 70900
Hours includes 5 hrs of field work
Credits 3

CEDF 71500 - Diversity in the American School

Advanced, graduate-level survey of current issues and theories of diversity and their impact upon the contemporary American school. Topics will be from an interdisciplinary perspective with attention to social policy implications.
CEDF 71600 - Assessment of Teaching and Learning

Basic principles and practices for the assessment of learning in the elementary school classroom. Includes instructional objectives, test construction, descriptive statistics, interpretation of standardized test scores, and alternative forms of assessment.

EDESL 77100 - K-12 ESL Curriculum and Materials through the Content Areas

This course provides an overview of current theory and practice in the design of content, curriculum, and materials for the teaching of K-12 ESL, focusing primarily on designing ESL instruction through the various content areas, and integrating the 4 language skills.

prereq: EDESL 79600/79610
Hours includes 20 hrs fieldwork in K-12 classrooms
Credits 4

SPED 70800 - Teaching Students with Special Needs in Inclusive Settings

Participants will explore the benefits and challenges of creating and maintaining classrooms designed to incorporate students with disabilities in the general education environment for part, or all, of their program.

Cross-listed SPED 308
prereq: 12 credits of coursework
Hours 45
Credits 3

A new State regulation requires that all teacher education programs leading to initial certification include a 3-credit course in teaching students with disabilities. This course will be added to all initial certification programs that do not currently have such a course. It is intended for teachers of general (not special) education at all grade levels.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of at least 3.0.
2. Track 1 students only: a grade of B or better in CEDF 792.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Childhood Education with a Specialization in Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) Professional Certificate- MSEd

Program Coordinator

Dennis Robbins
(212) 772-4287
This program (Academic Plan: CEMSC-MSED) prepares Childhood Education teachers to become better qualified in teaching STEM subjects in the elementary grades. It requires initial NYS certification in Childhood Education and leads to professional certification in that area.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. NYS initial, professional or permanent certification in Childhood Education.
3. A personal statement.
4. Two letters of recommendation including one from a supervisor.
5. Successful completion with a grade of C or better of college level mathematics course and a lab science course. Those who do not meet the mathematics requirement must successfully complete MATH 104 and MATH 105 in the School of Arts and Sciences. Those who do not meet the science requirement must take a one semester course in a lab science (biology, chemistry, physics or geology).
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

CEDC 71600 - Educational Technology in Mathematics and Science Teaching/Learning
An advanced educational technology course for students concentrating in mathematics and science at the elementary school level. Students will link prior knowledge of instructional technology to curriculum development creating the strategies to design integrated learning materials in mathematics and science.

Hours 45 hrs.
Credits 3

CEDC 74000 - Contemporary Mathematics in the Elementary School

A study of selected advanced mathematical topics that underlie modern elementary school curricula. The structure and use of mathematical systems and their historical development; geometrical constructions.

Hours 45 hrs.
Credits 3

CEDC 74200 - Workshop Seminar in Elementary School Mathematics/Science

The major course goals are to continue to develop a foundation for the growth of the professional mathematics/science educator and to increase the effectiveness as a curriculum decision-maker. Through selective experiences, the course will focus on instructional styles and strategies.

prereq: all program courses except CEDC 74300
Hours 45 hrs

CEDC 74300 - Research Seminar in Mathematics/Science Education

An examination of the current research in mathematics and science education. Includes the evaluation of selected mathematics and science education research studies. Students will prepare a comparative, evaluative paper of research related to a specific curriculum topic or problem in the learning/teaching of mathematics and/or science.

Hours 45 hrs

CEDC 74400 - Development of Mathematical/Scientific Concepts in Children

Exposure to the development theories and school-based practices which allow children to develop the concepts in mathematical and science which underpin the learning in these areas. Appropriate learning activities for particular developmental levels will be addressed. Individual projects with children will be carried out.

prereq: all program courses except CEDC 74200 and CEDC 74300
Hours 45 hrs
Credits 3

CEDC 74700 - Number Theory and Algebra in Elementary Curriculum

A study of the underpinnings of Number Theory and Algebra and the role they play in curriculum, teaching and student learning. This course gives participants a deeper understanding of algebra and how students learn transition from arithmetic to algebraic reasoning.

prereq: The course is intended for students in the Elementary Mathematics Specialist program or licensed elementary
CEDC 74800 - Geometry and Measurement in the Elementary

A study of the underpinnings of Geometry and Measurement and the role they play in curriculum, teaching, and supporting student learning. Topics in Geometry and Measurement are important concepts at the elementary school level and this course gives participants a deeper background in these two areas. Additionally, pedagogical practices important in these areas will be examined as well as a deep study of how students develop these concepts through curriculum, representations, manipulatives, and pedagogical practices will be discussed.

prereq: This course is intended for students in the Elementary Mathematics Specialist program or licensed elementary school teachers.

CEDC 77600 - Planet Earth: Earth and Space Sciences for Elementary School Teachers

Methods and content of teaching Earth and Space sciences topics to children. The course integrates issues of pedagogy and science content through interactive class meetings. Students will experience hands-on and mind-on science activities appropriate for the grade school level. Courses materials are aligned with K-12 Next Generation Science Standards (2013). All students are expected to learn science content, student's alternative ideas, lesson design and methods of teaching life science.

CEDC 77700 - Physical Science Background for Elementary Teachers

Concepts in the physical sciences, chemistry and physics, necessary for teaching science in the elementary school will be explored. Appropriate laboratory experiences will be provided.

CEDC 77800 - Life Sciences

The methods and content of teaching life science topics to children. The course integrates issues of pedagogy and science content through interactive class meetings. Students will experience hands-on and mind-on science activities appropriate for the grade school level. Courses materials are aligned with K-12 Next Generation Science Standards (2013). All students are expected to learn science content, student's alternative ideas, lesson design and methods of teaching life science.

CEDC 77900 - Robotics and Engineering
New methods of teaching innovative school curricula in robotics and engineering. Students will design and program their own robotic vehicles and learn elementary school materials by a hands-on process and project work. The curriculum is modeled on the First LEGO League competitions popular at the grade school-level. Engineering is Elementary, a school curriculum to improve children's understanding of engineering principles, is also explored from a student-centered perspective. These new STEM curriculum for elementary schools are supported by K-12 Next Generation Science Standards (2013). All students who enroll in the course will emerge with training to teach these curricula in elementary schools, in informal settings and after school programs.

Credits 3

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Maintain a valid and appropriate NYS certification.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Childhood Special Education: Additional NYS Certification - Advanced Certificate

Program

This post-master's, advanced certificate program in Childhood Special Education (Academic Plan: CSPE-AC) is designed for students with existing New York State certification in either Childhood Education Grades 1-6 or a different certification area of Special Education.

Admission Requirements

1. A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5
2. NYS certification in one of the following:
   o Students with Disabilities, Birth – Grade 2
   o Students with Disabilities, Grades 7-12 Generalist
   o Childhood Education, Grades 1-6
3. A personal statement.
4. A recommendation from a supervisor or academic professor.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.

3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   o Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.

Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Course of Study - 17 cr.

Academic Plan: CSPE-AC

SPED 70050 - Social, Historical, and Philosophical Foundations of General and Special Education

Current and historical views of individuals with disabilities; legal, social, and educational perspectives; definition of populations; effects of disabilities on social, emotional and psychological development. Review of issues and themes in the social foundations of general and special education viewed from an interdisciplinary perspective that accounts for race, culture, class, language, gender, and disability.

Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

SPED 70300 - Inclusive Instruction in General Education Classrooms for Students with Learning and Behavior Disorders

Explores curriculum adaptations and intensified instruction for learners with diverse special education needs. Emphasizes practical application of instructional strategies, classroom change, and collaborative processes. Open to both special education and general education graduate students.

prereq: SPED 70000
coreq: current employment as a teacher or enrollment in student teaching
Hours Includes 10 hrs of field experience, 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SPED 70100 - Assessment of Students with Disabilities

The study of processes and procedures used in the psycho-educational assessment of children with disabilities. Uses and limitations of assessment measures and procedures. Practice in use of selected tests for students, both those suspected of having disabilities and those with identified disabilities.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 45 hours; includes 10 hrs of field experience
Credits 3 cr

- or -
SPED 70200 - Classroom Management in Special Education and Inclusive Settings

Develops skill in using a variety of approaches to ameliorate classroom management problems of students with disabilities affecting learning and behavior. Includes behavior modification methods, communication strategies, and psycho-educational approaches.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 45 hours; includes 15 hrs of field experience
Credits 3

*Note: The choices above are based upon previous courses taken. Note that all applicants will already have taken one required special education course as part of general education certification programs. Therefore, a choice allows each candidate to customize a plan of study with new material and avoid taking a course that would be redundant.

SPED 70400 - Issues in Teaching English Second Language Learners with Special Education Needs

Overview of issues and best practices for teaching English as a second language to learners with disabilities and special education needs. Techniques for distinguishing language-related issues from disability-related learning and behavioral characteristics. Methods for developing and adapting teaching and materials specifically for second language learners who have disabilities.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 15 hrs,
Credits 1 cr

SPED 78100 - Reading for Students with Learning Disabilities Grades 1-6, Methods 1 (KC)

Principles, methods, and specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate intellectual disabilities. Focus on developing literacy, including early reading (conventions of print, phonemic awareness, word recognition) fluency, vocabulary development, graphic organizing, and comprehension at the sentence, cross-sentence and text-structure levels.

prereq: SPED 70000 or 70050
Hours 3 hrs: includes 10 hrs of field experience
Credits 3 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 78200 - Supervised Clinical Teaching of Students with Learning Disabilities: Part 1 (KC)
On-site supervised practicum, providing intensive specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild mental retardation from grades 1–6. Focus on specialized reading instruction, active engagement, structuring, sequencing, on-going assessment, family, culture, and school relations. Videotape and computer use.

coreq: SPED 78100
prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 15 hrs seminar, plus 20 hrs lab,
Credits 2 cr
Fall only (note: must take concurrently with SPED 78100 and must take SPED 78300/78400 in semester immediately following)

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 78300 - Math, Organizational and Social Strategies for Students with Learning Disabilities: Methods 2 (KC)

Principles, methods, and specially designed mathematics instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate mental retardation. Focus on concept development, concrete materials, procedural learning, memory strategies and compensations; time/space/task organization and body movement, social-interaction, and the arts across the curriculum.

prereq: SPED 78100/78200
coreq: SPED 78400
Hours 45
Credits 3
Spring only (note: must take concurrently with SPED 78400 and have taken SPED 78100/78200 in preceding semester)

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 78400 - Supervised Clinical Teaching of Students with Learning Disabilities: Part 2 (KC)

Continuation of on-site supervised practicum, providing intensive, specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate mental retardation from grades 1–6. Focus on written expression: writing process, handwriting, spelling, sentence and text structure. Ongoing focus on family, community and school. Videotape and computer use

prereq: SPED 781/782
coreq: SPED 783
Hours 15 hrs seminar, plus 20 hrs lab,
Credits 2 cr
Spring only
This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

Childhood Special Education: Behavior Disorders - MSEd

Program Coordinator

Elizabeth Klein
914 West Building
(212) 396-6925
ekl0007@hunter.cuny.edu

This graduate program (Academic Plan: CSPE-MSED and CSPED-MSED) prepares teacher candidates for effective teaching of students with behavior/mental challenges autism, and learning disabilities. Graduates from the behavior disorders track of the Childhood Special Education program are well prepared to teach in all educational settings, serving in hospitals, clinics, and public, charter, private, and parochial schools. They do so in roles such as collaborative teach teachers (CTT), inclusion support providers ("push in" teachers), head teachers in self-contained classrooms, behavior support personnel, and general education teachers.

The master's degree in Childhood Special Education: Behavior Disorders offers two programs. Program 1 (Academic Plan: CSPE-MSED) is for those who do not hold NYS certification and leads to dual certification in childhood education and students with disabilities grades 1-6. Program 2 (Academic Plan: CSPED-MSED) is for those who hold NYS certification and leads to single certification in students with disabilities grades 1-6.

Admission Requirements

Program 1

For applicants who do not hold NYS Childhood or PreK-6 Certification

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0;
   or
   A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5.
2. A liberal arts or science major or interdisciplinary concentration of at least 30 credits.
3. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
4. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Program 2

For applicants who hold NYS Childhood or PreK-6 Certification
1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5;
2. NYS initial or professional certification in Childhood Education Grades 1-6 or PreK-grade 6. Those holding permanent certification must either show proof that they have satisfied the New York State requirements regarding wellness, child abuse, drug abuse, fire safety, and violence prevention or take HED 71500, a one credit course covering these topics.
3. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.

SPED 70550 - Use of Instructional Technology in the Special Education Classroom

This course explores how technology can support students with learning disabilities and behavior disorders. More than simply a "how to" course, this class aims to give teachers the tools needed to best assist their students and evaluate the use of technology in their classrooms. This is a lab course where some of the learning occurs over blocks of time spent in direct experience. Class sessions are: demonstrations; hands-on exploration; feedback; coaching; and direct exploration of both hardware and software, applying them both as teacher tools and as instructional means for students with disabilities.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr

SPED 70600 - Strategies and Curriculum Adaptations for Learners with Severe/Multiple Disabilities

Emphasis is on collaborative teaming and alternative instructional arrangements in diverse general education classrooms, preschools, and early intervention programs; disability-specific skills that foster independence and social inclusion including self-care, community and domestic skills; facilitating friendships; development of curriculum adaptations, innovative scheduling, and access to technological support.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000 or SPED 76800
Hours Includes 10 hours of field experience, 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SPED 75000 - The Study of Behavior Disorders

Etiology and characteristics of children with behavioral disorders. Theories underlying the development of behavior disorders, including an understanding of constitutional, environmental and family influences. Use of contemporary diagnostic criteria and their implications for placement. Sensitivity to cultural factors and individual's behavior and customs.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours Includes 20 hrs of field experience

SPED 75100 - Methods and Materials for Teaching Students with Behavior Disorders (KC)

Educational assessment for effective instruction of students with behavior disorders in both academic and behavioral areas. Individualized remedial procedures, with attention to cultural considerations in understanding and responding to students.

prereq or coreq: SPED 75000
Hours Includes 20 hrs of field experience
Credits 3

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 78150 - Reading and Writing for Students with Learning Disabilities: Methods I (for those not in LD Specialization)
Principles, methods, and specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate mental retardation. Focus on developing literacy, including early reading (conventions of print, phonemic awareness, word recognition) fluency, vocabulary development, graphic organizing, and comprehension at the sentence, cross-sentence and text-structure levels. Includes 10 hrs of field experience.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Credits 3

SPED 72350 - Math for Students with Disabilities (Non-LD Specialization)

Principles, methods, and specially designed mathematics instruction for students with disabilities or mild/moderate intellectual disabilities. Focus on concept development, concrete materials, procedural learning, memory strategies and compensations

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr

SPED 72450 - Writing for Students with Disabilities (for those not in LD Specialization), Methods 3

In this course, teacher candidates learn methods for teaching all aspects of writing to children with learning disabilities using various research-based approaches that include: letter formation, handwriting, spelling, sentence structures, paragraph building, essay writing, and the writing process.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr

Additional Courses for Program 1

Students may be exempted from up to 12 credits of the general and special education requirements on the basis of equivalent courses taken at either the graduate or undergraduate level. Students, however, may not be exempted from CEDC 729.

CEDF 70900 - Child Development Grades 1-6

Theories and research applied to children's development. Understanding and working with children from diverse backgrounds to foster optimal growth.
CEDC 70350 - Teaching Science in the Elementary School

*prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Credits 3*

CEDC 70450 - Teaching Developmental Reading

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. The theoretical and practical aspects of literacy will be presented with particular emphasis on teaching literacy to diverse populations. In addition, the role of family involvement and community involvement and the use of technology for literacy development will be stressed. Instructional approaches and materials for teaching literacy will be explored.

*prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3*

CEDC 70550 - Mathematics Curriculum and Methods

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. An exploration of current thinking about mathematics teaching and learning in the elementary school. Teachers will develop an understanding of the content of school mathematics programs and exemplary curricula and formulate a teaching methodology for the meaningful learning of mathematics.

*prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3*

CEDC 72250 - Social Studies Curriculum and Instruction: Integrating Literature, the Arts, and Technology

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education and those in the bilingual extension program. Within the framework of New York State Standards, this course reflects concern for quality social studies teaching for all learners. Major attention is given to our common heritage of democracy and human rights; an appreciation of the diverse tapestry that characterizes us as a nation; the study of history within the social studies; the use of literature and the arts to illuminate and enrich understandings; the application of critical and analytical skills to interpret primary documents and data; the integration of technology to acquire, process, and organize knowledge.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900 and CEDC 70450
CEDC 72900 - Fieldwork in Childhood Education for Special Educators (KC)

Observing and assisting teaching in an elementary school setting. Students will develop guided observation skills, acquire practical knowledge of the design and management of instruction and the classroom environment, and work effectively with individual students and small work groups.

prereq: CEDF 70900, CEDC 70450 and 70550

HED 71500 - Health Education for Special Educators

This course presents an overview of health promotion and wellness for childhood special educators. It includes child abuse and neglect, drug education, fire safety, nutrition and fitness, and violence prevention.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Program 2 must maintain a valid and appropriate NYS certification in general education.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.
4. EdTPA or "Action Research Project" in second semester of the HC Learning Lab.

Childhood Special Education: Learning Disabilities - MSED

This graduate program prepares students to teach in Childhood Special Education environments, including self-contained and inclusion settings. Graduates from the learning disabilities program will be able to serve in such roles as inclusion support providers; and as collaborative team teachers with general education teachers in public and private schools, private agencies, hospitals and clinics.

The master's degree in Childhood Special Education: Learning Disabilities offers two programs. Program 1 (Academic Plan: CSPE-MSED) is for those who do not hold NYS certification and leads to dual certification in childhood education and students with disabilities grades 1-6. Program 2 (Academic Plan: CSPED-MSED) is for those who hold NYS certification and leads to single certification in students with disabilities grades 1-6.

Admission Requirements

Program 1

For applicants who do not hold NYS Childhood or PreK-6 Certification
1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
2. A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5.
3. A liberal arts or science major or interdisciplinary concentration of at least 30 credits.
4. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
5. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Program 2

For applicants who hold NYS Childhood or PreK-6 Certification

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
   A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5;
2. NYS initial or professional certification in Childhood Education Grades 1-6 or PreK-grade 6. Those holding permanent certification must either show proof that they have satisfied the New York State requirements regarding wellness, child abuse, drug abuse, fire safety, and violence prevention or take HED 71500, a one credit course covering these topics.
3. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   o Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   o Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   o Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

SPED 70550 - Use of Instructional Technology in the Special Education Classroom

This course explores how technology can support students with learning disabilities and behavior disorders. More than simply a "how to" course, this class aims to give teachers the tools needed to best assist their students and evaluate the use of technology in their classrooms. This is a lab course where some of the learning occurs over blocks of time spent in direct experience. Class sessions are: demonstrations; hands-on exploration; feedback; coaching; and direct exploration of both hardware and software, applying them both as teacher tools and as instructional means for students with disabilities.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr

SPED 70600 - Strategies and Curriculum Adaptations for Learners with Severe/Multiple Disabilities

Emphasis is on collaborative teaming and alternative instructional arrangements in diverse general education classrooms, preschools, and early intervention programs; disability-specific skills that foster independence and social inclusion including self-care, community and domestic skills; facilitating friendships; development of curriculum adaptations, innovative scheduling, and access to technological support.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000 or SPEDE 76800
Hours Includes 10 hours of field experience, 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

SPED 78000 - The Study of Learning Disabilities in Children and Adolescents

History of theory, practices and conceptualizations of learning disabilities and mild/moderate mental retardation. Current issues, controversies and research, offering frameworks for appropriate instruction. Includes student characteristics, LD as an approach to teaching, family and cultural needs, as well as services and settings from special schools to supported inclusion.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 45

SPED 78100 - Reading for Students with Learning Disabilities Grades 1-6, Methods 1 (KC)

Principles, methods, and specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate intellectual disabilities. Focus on developing literacy, including early reading (conventions of print, phonemic awareness, word recognition) fluency, vocabulary development, graphic organizing, and comprehension at the sentence, cross-sentence and text-structure levels.
prereq: SPED 70000 or 70050
Hours 3 hrs: includes 10 hrs of field experience
Credits 3 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 72300 - Math for Students with Learning Disabilities (KC)

Principles, methods, and specially designed mathematics instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate intellectual disabilities. Focus on concept development, concrete materials, procedural learning, memory strategies and compensations.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 72400 - Writing for Students With Learning Disabilities, Methods 3 (KC)

In this course, teacher candidates learn methods for teaching all aspects of writing to children with learning disabilities using various research-based approaches that include: letter formation, handwriting, spelling, sentence structures, paragraph building, essay writing, and the writing process.

prereq: SPED 70000 or SPED 70050
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 78200 - Supervised Clinical Teaching of Students with Learning Disabilities: Part 1 (KC)

On-site supervised practicum, providing intensive specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild mental retardation from grades 1–6. Focus on specialized reading instruction, active engagement, structuring, sequencing, on-going assessment, family, culture, and school relations. Videotape and computer use.

coreq: SPED 78100
prereq or coreq: SPED 70000
Hours 15 hrs seminar, plus 20 hrs lab,
Credits 2 cr
Fall only (note: must take concurrently with SPED 78100 and must take SPED 78300/78400 in semester immediately following)
This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 78400 - Supervised Clinical Teaching of Students with Learning Disabilities: Part 2 (KC)

Continuation of on-site supervised practicum, providing intensive, specially designed instruction for students with learning disabilities or mild/moderate mental retardation from grades 1–6. Focus on written expression: writing process, handwriting, spelling, sentence and text structure. Ongoing focus on family, community and school. Videotape and computer use

Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.*

SPED 79100 - Alternative Assessment for Learners with Low Incidence Disabilities: Visual Impairment, Deafblindness, and Severe Disabilities (KC)

The study of alternative procedures used in assessing learners with low-incidence disabilities. Emphasis is on behavior observation techniques, ecological inventories, performance and curriculum-based assessment and routine task analysis assessment. Practice in use of selected instruments and participation in parent/teacher conferences.

prereq or coreq: SPED 70000, SPED 79000
Hours Includes 15 hrs of field experience
Credits 3
This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 79200 - Language Development and Alternative Communication Systems for Learners with Low Incidence Disabilities: Severe Disabilities including Deafblindness

Focus of course is on nonlinguistic and linguistic forms of communication used by learners with severe disabilities including deafblindness. Emphasis is on instruction in aided and unaided augmentative, alternative, and assistive technological devices that enhance communication.

*prereq or coreq: SPED 70000 or SPEDE 76800
Hours Includes 15 hrs of field experience
Credits 3 cr*

SPED 79300 - Total Communication for Learners with Severe/Multiple Disabilities

Knowledge of the manual alphabet and basic sign vocabulary appropriate for instruction with learners with severe disabilities. Also focuses on differences among sign language systems and introduction to deaf culture.

*prereq: SPED 70000
Hours includes 10 hrs of field experience, 30 hrs
Credits 2 cr*

Take two of the following (must include two different grade levels)

SPED 79550 - Student Teaching: Severe/Multiple Disabilities Including Deafblindness, Grades 1–3 (KC)

Supervised student teaching in a disability-specific school setting with learners with severe disabilities including deafblindness, grades 1–3. Focus on writing lesson plans, developing IEPs, behavioral observation, creating portfolios, forming partnerships with families.

*prereq or coreq: SPED 79000, 79100
Hours 30 hrs seminar, plus conferences, plus 20 days of student teaching.
Credits 2 cr*

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass. Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program. This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 79551 - Student Teaching: Severe/Multiple Disabilities Including Deafblindness, Grades 4–6 (KC)
Supervised student teaching in a disability-specific school setting with learners with severe disabilities including deafblindness, grades 4–6. Focus on writing lesson plans, developing IEPs, behavioral observation, creating portfolios, forming partnerships with families.

prereq or coreq: SPED 79000, 79100
Hours 30 hrs seminar, plus 20 days of student teaching,

This course may be repeated only once.

SPED 79553 - Supervised Practicum: Severe/Multiple Disabilities, Including Deafblindness, Grades 4–6 (KC)

Supervised practicum placement in an inclusive school setting with learners who have mild/moderate and severe disabilities, grades 4–6. Conferences and weekly seminar. Focus on writing lesson plans for cooperative groups, curriculum strategies and adaptations, peer-tutoring programs, barrier-free classroom design, and behavioral support plans, forming partnerships with families.

prereq or coreq: SPED 79000, 79100
Hours 30 hours seminar, plus conferences,
Credits 2 cr

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.
Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.
This course may be repeated only once.

Additional Courses for Program 1

Students must take between 7-19 credits of childhood education credits in addition to the special education courses required for their degrees. Students can be exempted from up to 12 credits of the general education requirements listed below on the basis of equivalent courses taken at either the graduate or undergraduate level. However, students may not be exempted from CEDC 72900 (Fieldwork in Childhood Education for Special Educators).

CEDF 70900 - Child Development Grades 1-6

Theories and research applied to children's development. Understanding and working with children from diverse backgrounds to foster optimal growth.

Hours includes 5 hrs of field work
Credits 3

CEDC 70350 - Teaching Science in the Elementary School

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. A study of the philosophies and instructional strategies which will enable future educators to teach science to diverse populations in elementary schools.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Credits 3

CEDC 70450 - Teaching Developmental Reading

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. The theoretical and practical aspects of literacy will be presented with particular emphasis on teaching literacy to diverse populations. In addition, the role of family involvement and community involvement and the use of technology for literacy development will be stressed. Instructional approaches and materials for teaching literacy will be explored.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3

CEDC 70550 - Mathematics Curriculum and Methods

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. An exploration of current thinking about mathematics teaching and learning in the elementary school. Teachers will develop an understanding of the content of school mathematics programs and exemplary curricula and formulate a teaching methodology for the meaningful learning of mathematics.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900
Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3

CEDC 72250 - Social Studies Curriculum and Instruction: Integrating Literature, the Arts, and Technology

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education and those in the bilingual extension program. Within the framework of New York State Standards, this course reflects concern for quality social studies teaching for all learners. Major attention is given to our common heritage of democracy and human rights; an appreciation of the diverse tapestry that characterizes us as a nation; the study of history within the social studies; the use of literature and the arts to illuminate and enrich understandings; the application of critical and analytical skills to interpret primary documents and data; the integration of technology to acquire, process, and organize knowledge.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900 and CEDC 70450

Hours 30 hrs,

Credits 2

CEDC 72900 - Fieldwork in Childhood Education for Special Educators (KC)

Observing and assisting teaching in an elementary school setting. Students will develop guided observation skills, acquire practical knowledge of the design and management of instruction and the classroom environment, and work effectively with individual students and small work groups.

prereq: CEDF 70900, CEDC 70450 and 70550

Hours 15 hrs of seminar plus 50 hrs fieldwork

Credits 1

_This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass._

_This course may be repeated only once._

HED 71500 - Health Education for Special Educators

This course presents an overview of health promotion and wellness for childhood special educators. It includes child abuse and neglect, drug education, fire safety, nutrition and fitness, and violence prevention.

Hours 15 hrs,

Credits 1 cr

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Program 2 students must maintain a valid and appropriate NYS certification.
3. Perform satisfactorily on a two-part culminating activity (partial requirements of SPED 70700, Research Seminar: Issues in Special Education): a comprehensive research-based oral presentation on a current special education issue
   - and either -
   - an original written research proposal
   - or -
   - a written proposal for competitive grant funding.
4. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Computer Science Education - MSED/Advanced Certificate

The Master of Education in Computer Science Education will provide aspiring computer science teachers with the knowledge, pedagogical techniques, and experiences necessary to teach computer science at the middle and high school levels. The Master's program will include 40 graduate credits including 16 core graduate education credits, 9 graduate credits specific to computer science education, a 3 credit student teaching, and 12 additional computer science credits.

The Advanced Certificate in Computer Science Education will provide in-service teachers, certified in another subject area, with the knowledge, pedagogical techniques, and experiences necessary to teach computer science at the middle and high school levels. The certificate program will include 21 graduate credits including 9 credits in Computer Science Education, 12 additional credits in Computer Science.

Upon completing these programs, students will be recommended to NYSED for licensure in Computer Science Education.

Admission Requirements

Master's Program:

1. A bachelor's or master's degree from a regionally-accredited university with a minimum 3.0 GPA.
2. Resume and two professional references to be included with the application for matriculation. Interview with program faculty.
3. Test score on the GRE or similar equivalent exam.
4. Applicants must be admitted to both the Hunter School of Education and the Hunter School of Arts and Sciences

Advanced Certificate Program:

1. A bachelor's or master's degree from a regionally-accredited university with a minimum 3.0 GPA.
2. Proof of state certification as a middle or high school teacher.
3. Resume and two professional references to be included with the application for matriculation.
4. Interview with program faculty.
5. Test score on the GRE or similar equivalent exam.
6. Applicants must be admitted to both the Hunter School of Education and the Hunter School of Arts and Sciences

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Fieldwork Requirements
All field experiences will take place in New York City.

Academic Plans

Master's: CSEDU-MSED
Credits: 40

Advanced Certificate: CSCIEDU-AC
Credits: 21

Courses for the Master's

CSCI 70300 - Data Structures in a high level language

This course will provide aspiring and practicing teachers with a deeper knowledge of computer science. Students will study data representation in computer systems and data abstraction techniques. Topics covered include static and dynamic storage methods, lists, stacks, queues, trees, recursion and analysis of algorithms and their applications relevant in a classroom setting.

prereq: CSCI 70900
Hours 3
Credits 3

CSCI 70500 - Algorithms

Complexity and applicability of file and data manipulation techniques including searching, sorting, supporting internal and external data structures, sequential and random access methods, basic big data techniques and other topics.

prereq: departmental permission
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr.

CSCI 70700 - Modern Topics and Concepts in Computer Science

This course will provide aspiring and practicing teachers with base knowledge in a number of the most important disciplines in computer science. Students will study and create working systems using a variety of tools, techniques, and technologies. Sample topics include functional programming, data mining, computer graphics, and artificial intelligence.

prereq: CSCI 70300
Hours 3

CSCI 70900 - Programming in high level language

Programming in a high level language introduces students to computer programming and goes well beyond an introductory class. The course will provide an overview of a language such as Java language and dive into important programming concepts including object-oriented programming, inheritance, exception handling, debugging techniques and more.

Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.

SEDC 71000 - Building the Foundations of Literacy in Adolescent Education

Supporting the development of literacy across the curriculum, with a focus on under-prepared students, students with special education needs, and students who are English language learners; implications for working toward standards.

Hours 45 hrs.

SEDC 71900 - Methods 1: Advanced Study of Secondary Learning Environments for Teaching Computer Science

Examines the interrelationship between the educational environment and the adolescent's learning of computer science. Teacher candidates study the basics of classroom management in the teaching of computer science as they explore the content and implementation of proposed national, New York State, and New York City standards for computer science. Fosters the use of technology as an educational tool to improve the technical literacy of the adolescent.

SEDC 72000 - Adolescent Health and Safety

Health issues that are relevant to the health promotion and wellness of adolescents and their families from diverse backgrounds, abilities, and sexual orientations. Specific content areas will include nutrition, fitness, drug education, child abuse and neglect, fire prevention and safety, and violence prevention and intervention.

Hours 15 hrs.

SEDC 72900 - Methods II: Intensive study of Teaching Diverse Learners in Computer Science Grades 7-12 (KC)

Familiarizes prospective middle and high school teachers, grades 7–12, with pedagogical approaches and innovative teaching techniques needed to convey to a diverse population emerging state and professional standards-based curriculum in computer science. Innovative uses of technology, development of instructional units, individualizing for a diverse population of students, and strategies for managing problem behavior will be emphasized throughout the course.

prereq: SEDC 71900
coreq: SEDC 74100
Hours 3.0

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.

Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.

This course may be repeated only once.
SEDC 73600 - Curriculum Design for Computer Science (KC)

This course will prepare candidate teachers to design complete units of study ranging from standalone class units to complete courses to a sequence of courses. Candidates will learn to build developmentally appropriate materials by looking at curriculum from top down and bottom up perspectives as well as how computer science fits within an adolescent's full education.

Candidates will also be required to complete fifty hours of fieldwork. Most of these hours would be at the candidates grade level (high school, primary school, etc.) but will include an experience in levels K-6 and 7-12 to align with state regulations. Fieldwork will be under the supervision of a Hunter College faculty member and a certified teacher in New York City schools selected by the college.

Hours 3
Credits 3

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.

Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.

This course may be repeated only once.

SEDC 75900 - Student Teaching for Computer Science (KC)

Teacher candidates complete 60 days of student teaching at grades 7–12 under the supervision of a Hunter College faculty member and a certified teacher in a New York City school selected by the college. They further develop their skills in the delivery of instruction. Student teachers will assume significant responsibility for classroom instruction and management.

prereq: SEDC 71900 and SEDC 72900

Credits 3.0

This Key Course requires a grade of B or better to pass.

Any student who receives a grade of F or WU in this class will not be permitted to continue in the program.

This course may be repeated only once.

SEDF 70300 - Social Foundations of Adolescent Education

Students explore in depth different sociological, historical, philosophical, anthropological, and political concepts and theories related to urban schooling. Particular emphasis will be placed on issues such as tracking, parent-school-community relations, inclusion of students with disabilities, the teaching of English language learners, and other diverse populations. Students will learn to analyze these concepts and theories and apply them to current classroom practices.

Hours 45 hrs, Credits 3 cr

SEDF 70400 - Adolescent Development, Grades 7–12

The process of cognitive, social/emotional, personality, and language development among youth who vary by gender, race and ethnicity, English proficiency and varying levels of abilities.

Hours 30 hrs, plus 36 hrs fieldwork, Credits 2 cr
SEDF 70500 - Educational Psychology: Applications to Adolescent Education (KC)

Prepares teacher candidates to think about how adolescents develop and learn. Emphasis will be placed on identifying effective teaching strategies, adapting instruction for diverse student populations (including gifted students and students with special needs), designing and managing classroom instruction, creating culturally compatible classrooms, motivating students, and assessing their learning.

prereq: SEDF 70400

SPED 70800 - Teaching Students with Special Needs in Inclusive Settings

Participants will explore the benefits and challenges of creating and maintaining classrooms designed to incorporate students with disabilities in the general education environment for part, or all, of their program.

Cross-listed SPED 308
prereq: 12 credits of coursework
Hours 45
Credits 3
A new State regulation requires that all teacher education programs leading to initial certification include a 3-credit course in teaching students with disabilities. This course will be added to all initial certification programs that do not currently have such a course. It is intended for teachers of general (not special) education at all grade levels.

Courses for the Advanced Certificate

Dance Education - MA

This graduate program (Academic Plan: DANCED-MA) prepares candidates to teach Dance PreK - Grade 12 to students of diverse backgrounds, abilities and interests. The curriculum is enriched by repertory classes with New York City-based choreographers, international performance opportunities and internships at various venues.

This program offers three tracks (or subplans):
• TRACK 1 (Subplan: DANEDLNYSC) is for those with at least 34 credits in Dance but who do not have NYS certification in Dance.
• TRACK 2 (Subplan: DANEDANYSC) is for those with initial NYS certification in Dance Education.
• TRACK 3 (Subplan: DANEDANYSM) is for those with at least 34 credits in Dance and have initial NYS certification in a subject area other than Dance.

Admission Requirements

Applicants must be admitted by both the School of Education and the Dance Department.

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0.
2. A minimum of 34 credits in dance with a GPA of at least 3.0 in dance.
3. Track 1 Only: General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
   Track 2 Only: NYS certification in Dance Education.
   Track 3 Only: NYS certification in a subject area other than Dance Education.
4. Applicants also need to submit a DVD or link to up to three clips of their creative work - between 5 and 15 minutes in total and a curriculum vitae.
5. A 3 credit course in special education that focuses on supporting students with disabilities in the general education classroom. Students without this course may be admitted conditionally and must take SPED 70800 in addition to other degree requirements.
6. Two professional references.
7. A personal statement.
8. An audition and interview.
9. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.

Academic Plan

DANCED-MA

Subplans
Courses for All Tracks

DAN 70100 - Graduate Dance Technique

The ongoing, rigorous training in a dance/movement style pertinent to the individual student's artistic and pedagogical goals. Exploration of unfamiliar movement disciplines will be required. This course is designed to allow each student to articulate and execute a regular training regimen that will build and refine her/his skills as practitioner of an artistic movement discipline. A variety of individual training plans are overseen by faculty. Regular group meetings examine how underlying aesthetic and kinesiological assumptions embodied by the training inform students' approaches to teaching artistry, improvisation, and choreography. May be taken more than once for credit; required 3 times for MA, 2 times for BA/MA, 4 times for the MFA.

prereq: Admission to graduate dance program

Hours 3 hrs.

DAN 70500 - Maintenance of the Dancer's Instrument

An in-depth survey of a wide variety of somatic approaches to and interventions in dance training including ideokinetic and bodywork techniques, postural and motional training methods, and alternative movement disciplines. The course includes analytical, observational and participatory experiences, and will build on individual needs and interests of the students. Application of somatic knowledge to teaching movement and dance is stressed.

prereq or coreq: DAN 35000 or equivalent course and/or related professional background

Hours 3

Credits 3

DAN 73000 - Studies of Forms

This course develops choreographic proficiency through practical experience with, and observation of, artistic form and content across a range of disciplines. Short- and long-term experiments are presented in class and in occasional showings open to the public. The role of self-review, as well as external feedback during creative processes, is considered by utilizing a variety of protocols for response.

prereq: Undergraduate choreography training and/or equivalent professional experience, permission of department

Hours 3

Credits 3

This course is repeatable once for credit.

DAN 73500 - Performance and Presentation
The development and public presentation of original choreography in performance at Hunter College or another suitable public venue. Regularly scheduled showings will offer opportunities to reflect on the work, receive feedback, and dialogue with faculty during the process of conception and execution.

prereq: Acceptance into one of the graduate dance programs: BA/MA, MA
Hours 3
Credits 1
This course is repeatable once for credit.

DAN 74000 - Aesthetics

A seminar examining a variety of global artistic practices and value systems from both aesthetic and cultural perspectives. The course focuses on a broad range of dance and examines how choreographers, dancers, designers, critics, audience members, teachers, producers and scholars function and interrelate. Students examine a variety of analytical paradigms-- including structuralism, semiotics and literary theory -- through the study of the major writers and thinkers in the field. A culminating study is typically a close analysis of the student's personal creative work.

prereq: Admission to one of the graduate dance programs
Hours 3
Credits 3

DAN 74200 - Graduate Dance History

This course deepens the student's understanding of key points in concert and global vernacular dance in the 20th century. How those points have reflected social, cultural, and political forces, and impacted 21st century dance, is examined throughout the course. A major research paper is the culminating project. Both practice and theory are engaged through readings of historic texts and public reviews, film/video viewings, attendance at live performances, and group discussions.

prereq: Admission to one of the graduate dance programs AND DAN 23200 or comparable undergraduate dance history course or equivalent experience.

Hours 3
Credits 3

DAN 74600 - Special Topics in Dance

A seminar/laboratory course focusing on a varying series of topics, selected according to student interests, current faculty research, and available guest artists and master teachers. Topics can include a wide variety of historical, aesthetic, cultural, technological and political issues. The course encourages advanced study in specialized areas of particular student interest. Possible topics include: dance in the digital age, specific cultural forms, dance in community settings, motor learning from multiple perspectives, etc.

prereq: Admission to one of the graduate dance programs
Hours 3
Credits 3
Can be repeated for credit with different content areas

DANED 76000 - Dance Methods I: Curriculum Design and Pedagogy for Productive Teaching and Learning
An introduction to pedagogical practices that support productive teaching and learning in dance. Students will examine pedagogical theories and practices and will conduct "action research" in order to identify conditions that support or hinder productive teaching and learning. This first phase of the "methods" course will lay the groundwork for deeper investigation, integration, and application of materials in the Methods II course. 36 hours of fieldwork is required. (track 2 MA students are exempt from the fieldwork requirement).

DANED 76200 - Dance Methods II: Advanced Curriculum Design and Pedagogy for Productive Teaching and Learning

Advanced investigation of contexts for productive teaching and learning. Students will engage in intensive examinations of pedagogical theories and practices, conduct "action research" in order to identify conditions that support or hinder productive teaching and learning, develop unit plans, and participate in peer-to-peer inquiry groups to develop their own artistry in teaching.

Additional Courses for Track 1

DANED 76605 - Student Teaching

Teacher candidates complete a total of 60 days of student teaching (30 days of student teaching at grades pre-K-5 and 30 days at grades 6-12) under the supervision of a Hunter College faculty member and a certified Dance teacher in a New York City school selected by the college. Student teachers will assume significant responsibility for classroom instruction and management and will be observed by Hunter dance faculty 4 times during their student teaching experience. All student teachers are required to participate in a seminar class meeting 1 hour per week for 15 weeks. A culminating professional project is required before graduation.

SEDC 71000 - Building the Foundations of Literacy in Adolescent Education

Supporting the development of literacy across the curriculum, with a focus on under-prepared students, students with special education needs, and students who are English language learners; implications for working toward standards.

SEDC 72000 - Adolescent Health and Safety

Health issues that are relevant to the health promotion and wellness of adolescents and their families from diverse backgrounds, abilities, and sexual orientations. Specific content areas will include nutrition, fitness, drug education, child abuse and neglect, fire prevention and safety, and violence prevention and intervention.
SED 70300 - Social Foundations of Adolescent Education

Students explore in depth different sociological, historical, philosophical, anthropological, and political concepts and theories related to urban schooling. Particular emphasis will be placed on issues such as tracking, parent-school-community relations, inclusion of students with disabilities, the teaching of English language learners, and other diverse populations. Students will learn to analyze these concepts and theories and apply them to current classroom practices.

SED 70400 - Adolescent Development, Grades 7–12

The process of cognitive, social/emotional, personality, and language development among youth who vary by gender, race and ethnicity, English proficiency and varying levels of abilities.

SED 70500 - Educational Psychology: Applications to Adolescent Education (KC)

Prepares teacher candidates to think about how adolescents develop and learn. Emphasis will be placed on identifying effective teaching strategies, adapting instruction for diverse student populations (including gifted students and students with special needs), designing and managing classroom instruction, creating culturally compatible classrooms, motivating students, and assessing their learning.

prereq: SEDF 70400

SED 70600 - Assessment of Teaching and Learning in Adolescent Education

Basic principles and practices for the assessment of learning and teaching in the secondary classroom. Includes instructional objectives, test construction, descriptive statistics, interpretations of standardized test scores, performance outcome measures and alternative forms of assessment.

SPED 70800 - Teaching Students with Special Needs in Inclusive Settings

Participants will explore the benefits and challenges of creating and maintaining classrooms designed to incorporate students with disabilities in the general education environment for part, or all, of their program.

Cross-listed SPED 308
prereq: 12 credits of coursework
Hours 45
Credits 3

A new State regulation requires that all teacher education programs leading to initial certification include a 3-credit course in teaching students with disabilities. This course will be added to all initial certification programs that do not currently have such a course. It is intended for teachers of general (not special) education at all grade levels.

Additional Course for Track 2

DANED 76400 - Practicum

Students with initial state certification in dance complete a semester of Practicum in their current full-time dance teaching situation or in assigned schools under the supervision of a Hunter College faculty member. Practicum teachers will assume all responsibility for classroom instruction and management and will be observed by Hunter faculty 4 times during the course of the semester. All Practicum students are required to participate in a seminar class meeting for a total of 15 hours. A culminating professional project is required before graduation.

prereq: DANED 76000, DANED 76200
Hours 2 hrs plus 15 hrs seminar required
Credits 2

Additional Course for Track 3

DANED 76602 - Student Teaching

Teacher candidates complete a total of 20 days of student teaching under the supervision of a Hunter College faculty member and a certified Dance teacher in a New York City school selected by the college. Student teachers will assume significant responsibility for classroom instruction and management and will be observed by Hunter dance faculty twice during the course of their student teaching experience. All student teachers are required to participate in a seminar class meeting for a total of 15 hours. A culminating professional project is required before graduation.

prereq: SEDF 70300, 70400, 70500, 70600; SEDC 71000; DANED 76000, DANED 76200
Hours 20 days plus 15 hrs seminar
Credits 2

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Successful completion of an online Dance Education Professional Teaching Portfolio (PTP).
3. Participation in a final performance event as a performer, choreographer, or technical production crew member.
4. Completion of the DASA workshop.
5. Tracks 2 and 3 must have valid and appropriate NYS certification.

Deaf and Hard-of-Hearing - MSEd

Program Coordinator

The School of Education offers graduate programs that prepare students to become teachers of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing. Graduates of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing program typically become itinerant or classroom teachers for students who are deaf and hard of hearing with a wide range of hearing levels and communication modality, both signed and oral.

The master's degree in Deaf and Hard of Hearing offers two programs. Program 1 (Academic Plan: DEAFN-MSED) is for those who do not hold NYS certification and leads to dual certification in childhood education and deaf and hard of hearing. Program 2 (Academic Plan: DEAFW-MSED) is for those who hold NYS certification and leads to single certification in deaf and hard of hearing.

Admission Requirements

Program 1

For applicants who do not hold NYS certification in Childhood Education

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
   A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5; plus
   A liberal arts or science major or interdisciplinary concentration of at least 30 credits.
2. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
3. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Program 2

For applicants who hold Early Childhood, Childhood, PreK-Grade 6, Middle Childhood or Adolescent Education NYS certification

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
   A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5; plus
2. NYS initial, professional, or permanent certification in Early Childhood, Childhood, PreK-grade 6, Middle Childhood or Adolescent Education. Those holding permanent certification must either show proof that they have satisfied the New York State requirements regarding wellness, child abuse, drug abuse, fire safety, and violence prevention or take HED 715, a 1-credit course covering these topics.
3. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Additional Courses for Program 1

Students must take between 7-19 credits of childhood education credits in addition to the special education courses required for their degrees. Students can be exempted from up to 12 credits of the general education requirements listed below on the basis of equivalent courses taken at either the graduate or undergraduate level. However, students may not be exempted from CEDC 72900 (Fieldwork in Childhood Education for Special Educators).

CEDF 70900 - Child Development Grades 1-6
Theories and research applied to children's development. Understanding and working with children from diverse backgrounds to foster optimal growth.

Hours includes 5 hrs of field work

Credits 3

CEDC 70350 - Teaching Science in the Elementary School

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. A study of the philosophies and instructional strategies which will enable future educators to teach science to diverse populations in elementary schools.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900

Credits 3

CEDC 70450 - Teaching Developmental Reading

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. The theoretical and practical aspects of literacy will be presented with particular emphasis on teaching literacy to diverse populations. In addition, the role of family involvement and community involvement and the use of technology for literacy development will be stressed. Instructional approaches and materials for teaching literacy will be explored.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900

Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork

Credits 3

CEDC 70550 - Mathematics Curriculum and Methods

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education. An exploration of current thinking about mathematics teaching and learning in the elementary school. Teachers will develop an understanding of the content of school mathematics programs and exemplary curricula and formulate a teaching methodology for the meaningful learning of mathematics.

prereq or coreq: CEDF 70900

Hours includes 10 hrs of fieldwork

Credits 3

CEDC 72250 - Social Studies Curriculum and Instruction: Integrating Literature, the Arts, and Technology

For students pursuing dual certification in childhood special education and childhood education and those in the bilingual extension program. Within the framework of New York State Standards, this course reflects concern for quality social studies teaching for all learners. Major attention is given to our common heritage of democracy and human rights; an appreciation of the diverse tapestry that characterizes us as a nation; the study of history within the social studies; the use of literature and the arts to illuminate and enrich understandings; the application of critical and analytical skills to interpret primary documents and data; the integration of technology to acquire, process, and organize knowledge.
CEDC 72900 - Fieldwork in Childhood Education for Special Educators (KC)

Observing and assisting teaching in an elementary school setting. Students will develop guided observation skills, acquire practical knowledge of the design and management of instruction and the classroom environment, and work effectively with individual students and small work groups.

HED 71500 - Health Education for Special Educators

This course presents an overview of health promotion and wellness for childhood special educators. It includes child abuse and neglect, drug education, fire safety, nutrition and fitness, and violence prevention.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Program 2 students must maintain a valid and appropriate NYS certification.
3. Perform satisfactorily on a two-part culminating activity (partial requirements of SPED 70700, Research Seminar: Issues in Special Education): a comprehensive research-based oral presentation on a current special education issue
   - and either -
   - an original written research proposal
   - or -
   - a written proposal for competitive grant funding.
4. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Early Childhood Development and Learning: Diverse Children and Families with Annotation in Severe/Multiple Disabilities

Program Coordinator

L. Beth Brady
929 West Building
(212) 772-4229
lbrady@hunter.cuny.edu

Graduates from the severe/multiple disabilities program (ECSB2-MSED) will be able to serve in such roles as specialized teachers of learners with severe disabilities, including deafblindness; inclusion support providers; and as collaborative team teachers with general education teachers in public and private schools, private agencies, hospitals and clinics. This program also leads to an extension annotation certificate in Severe/Multiple Disabilities.

This program offers three tracks (or subplans):

- Track 1 (Subplan: ECSMDLNYSC) is a dual certification track for those with no NYS certification.
- Track 2 (Subplan: ECSMDANYSM) is for those with any other NYS certification.
- Track 3 (Subplan: ECSMDANYSC) is for those with Early Childhood Education certification.

Admission Requirements

Track 1

For applicants who do not hold NYS certification

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
2. A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5.
3. A liberal arts or science major or interdisciplinary concentration of at least 30 credits.
4. General education core in the liberal arts and sciences to include: artistic expression; communication; information retrieval; concepts in history and social sciences; humanities; a language other than English; scientific and mathematical processes; and written analysis and expression.
5. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Track 2

For applicants who hold NYS certification in an area other than Early Childhood

1. Any New York State teacher certificate other than Early Childhood Education.
2. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
   A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5.
3. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Track 3

For applicants who hold NYS certification in Early Childhood Education

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; or
   A master's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.5.
2. New York State initial/permanent teacher certification in Early Childhood or PreK-Grade 6. Those holding permanent certification must either show proof that they have satisfied the New York State requirements regarding wellness, child abuse, drug abuse, fire safety, and violence prevention or take HED 71500, a one credit course covering these topics.
3. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   o Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   o Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   o Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

It is designed for students with no prior experience in education as well as those who have a background in education and want to expand their skills and knowledge. Students in this program may use the degree as a bridge to a doctoral program in Educational Psychology or a related discipline; or to prepare professional careers in program evaluation; institutional research; assessment-measurement and testing; and instruction an curriculum development in public and private institutions.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 2.8. Students who do not meet the minimum GPA requirement may submit scores on the general aptitude test of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) to serve as evidence of their ability to complete graduate-level work.
2. On-site interview.

Progress Standards
1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.

2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.

3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.

4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Course of Study

Academic Plan

EDPSYCH-MA

Total Credits

31 - 32

Core Courses

All students are required to take 4 core courses and a proseminar.

EDPS 70000 - Educational Psychology Proseminar

This proseminar consists of workshops, discussions and presentations on topics orienting students to the field of educational psychology and introducing them to the research interests of faculty members.

Credits: none

EDPS 70100 - Statistics and Statistical Computing in Education I

This course provides students with an introduction to statistical analyses used in educational research, including descriptive statistics, hypothesis testing, t-tests, analysis of variance, correlation, regression, and the use of computer packages for these analyses.

Hours 60

Credits 4

EDPS 70200 - Educational Research Methods

This course is to increase students’ understanding of the nature, purposes, needs, and types of research conducted by educational researchers and psychologists. Students will learn a range of research designs and methods, and their applications to education-related settings and issues.
EDPS 70300 - Learning and Behavior Theories

This course provides students with an overview of the study of human learning and behavior. A major goal of this course is to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to enable them to appropriately apply theories of learning in instructional settings.

EDPS 71100 - EDPS Metacognitive and Cognitive Processes in Education

This course provides students with an overview of major research on metacognitive and cognitive processes in learning and instruction. Focuses will be on major theories and research as well as metacognitive and cognitive processes and strategy applications in the areas of mathematical learning, text comprehension, science, and writing.

prereq: EDPS 70200
coreq: EDPS 70300

EDPS 72100 - Statistics and Statistical Computing in Education II

This course builds on knowledge of basic statistics, focusing on multiple regression and factorial ANOVA for statistical analysis of continuous and categorical independent variables. Diagnosis and treatment of data analytic problems such as missing data are discussed.

prereq: EDPS 70100, EDPS 70200

Concentration Area Courses

Students should select at least 2 courses in their concentration area; a third course can be counted toward the elective course requirement.

Concentration I: General Educational Psychology
EDPS 71200 - Multicultural Issues in Learning and Instruction

This course will examine the current research in K-12 education to explore the role of multicultural issues in teaching and learning.

prereq or coreq: EDPS 70200
Hours 3
Credits 3

EDPS 71300 - Cognition and Educational Technology

This course covers research about the influence of educational technology on the development of thinking and learning.

EDPS 71400 - Course Title Applied Motivation Theory in Education

The goal of this graduate course is to review the major questions, methods, and theories of motivation in educational psychology—both past and present. A historical perspective is provided as a foundation for understanding the evolution and development of various theories of motivation in educational and psychology, which shape current thinking and research in the field. Furthermore, contemporary methods, research, and theory will be provided. Implications for practice will be discussed.

Credits 3

- Or -

Concentration II: Assessment, Research, and Evaluation

EDPS 72200 - Tests and Measurement

This course covers the following topics: classical test theory, tests construction, reliability estimation and generalizability theory, validation, item analysis, test bias, and introduction to item response theory, and the use of high-stakes testing in educational policy.

prereq: EDPS 70100
coreq: EDPS 70200
Hours 3

EDPS 72300 - Educational Program Evaluation

This course is designed to provide students with an overview of key concepts, theories, and methodologies utilized in the field educational evaluation.
EDPS 72500 - Assessment in Schools

The goal of this graduate course is to introduce students to the field of educational assessment taken broadly, with a focus on how academic assessments are used in prek-16 education within the US and internationally in the 21st century. Students will become familiar with theory, research, and practice in the areas of classroom assessment, assessment of teacher quality, and assessment of large educational systems. Students will acquire the knowledge and skills to critique assessment policies in terms of implementation, ethics, and impacts.

Elective Courses in Educational Psychology

Elective Courses (thesis students are required to select 1 elective course, while non-thesis students are required to select 2 elective courses).

CEDF 71300 - Child and Adolescent Development

This course will provide a theoretical foundation from which students can understand child and adolescent development. Students will learn a variety of theories and their potential impact on student behavior and learning in the classroom.

CEDF 71700 - Independent Study in Educational Foundations

Independent study in the areas of psychological or social foundations of education. A maximum of 6 credits of independent study may be counted toward the degree.

CEDF 71800 - Independent Study in Educational Foundations

Independent study in the areas of psychological or social foundations of education. A maximum of 6 credits of independent study may be counted toward the degree.

CEDF 71900 - Independent Study in Educational Foundations

Independent study in the areas of psychological or social foundations of education. A maximum of 6 credits of independent study may be counted toward the degree.
EDPS 74100 - Mediating Factors in Student Achievement

This course will examine the current research in K-12 education in an effort to explore several of the more widely identified mediating factors that directly impact upon student achievement.

prereq: EDPS 70300
Hours 60
Credits 4

EDPS 74200 - Qualitative Research Methods in Education

This course will examine in-depth a selected method of research and statistical procedure in an educational psychology-related field. Topics and corresponding readings will vary each semester.

EDPS 74300 - Special Topics in Educational Psychology

This course will examine current research regarding a selected topic within the field of educational psychology; topics and readings will vary by semester.

prereq: EDPS 70100, EDPS 70200, EDPS 70300
Hours 60
Credits 4

EDPS 711, EDPS 712, EDPS 713, EDPS 721, EDPS 722 and EDPS 723 may count towards electives if not used to fulfill the concentration area requirement.

Culminating Courses
Select either a thesis or a non-thesis option.

EDPS 79000 - Educational Psychology Seminar

This is semester 1 of the seminar course which provides an opportunity for students to prepare an original scholarly review of research literature or theoretical paper of publishable quality on an educational psychological topic of interest. The general goal of the course is to enable students to apply their knowledge of educational psychological issues and research through the development of a scholarly research paper.
prereq: EDPS 70000, EDPS 70100, EDPS 70200, EDPS 70300, and either EDPS 72100 or EDPS 71100
Credits 2

- And -

EDPS 79100 - Educational Psychology Seminar 2

This is semester 2 of the seminar course which provides an opportunity for students to prepare an original scholarly review of research literature or theoretical paper of publishable quality on an educational psychological topic of interest. The general goal of the course is to enable students to apply their knowledge of educational psychological issues and research through the development of a scholarly research paper.

prereq: EDPS 70000, EDPS 70100, EDPS 70200, EDPS 70300, EDPS 79000, and either EDPS 72100 or EDPS 71100
Credits 2

- Or -

EDPS 79500 - Educational Psychology Thesis Research 1

This course provides an opportunity for students to conduct original research in the field of educational psychology under the supervision of a faculty member.

prereq: EDPS 70000, EDPS 70100, EDPS 70200, EDPS 70300, and either EDPS 72100 or EDPS 71100
Hours 3
Credits 3

- And -

EDPS 79600 - Educational Psychology Thesis Research 2

This course provides an opportunity for students to conduct original research in the field of educational psychology under the supervision of a faculty member.

prereq: EDPS 70000, EDPS 70100, EDPS 70200, EDPS 70300, EDPS 79500, and either EDPS 72100 or EDPS 71100
Credits 3

Students electing Thesis Research will prepare a report of a research investigation in which they design and execute an empirical study under the supervision of a faculty advisor. Students electing the non-thesis option will enroll in a seminar course (EDPS 79000) in which they prepare a scholarly publishable-quality review of the research literature on a topic approved by the faculty.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Complete Culminating Experience.
Elementary Mathematics Specialist Professional Certificate - MSEd

This MSEd program (Academic Plan: EMTSP-MSED) will provide certified elementary school teachers a substantial background in mathematics, pedagogy and leadership giving them the knowledge and skills necessary to be an effective professional development facilitator, coach, cluster teacher, and mentor. For those with Initial NYS Certification, this program will fulfill the master's degree requirement for Professional Certification. The New York State Education Department (NYSED) requires all certified teachers to obtain a master's degree within their first five years of teaching.

Admissions Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with an overall GPA of at least 3.0. Students with a master's degree must have an overall GPA of at least 3.3 in their graduate coursework.
2. NYS certification in Childhood Education Grades 1-6.
3. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teachers or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.
4. Preference will be given to candidates with teaching experience in grades 1-6.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   o Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   o Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   o Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Entering students are expected to have college credit for at least two mathematics courses equivalent to Hunter's MATH 10400 and MATH 10500. If they do not have those courses, they will be conditioned in them and expected to complete the courses before taking other coursework in the program.
CEDC 74000 - Contemporary Mathematics in the Elementary School

A study of selected advanced mathematical topics that underlie modern elementary school curricula. The structure and use of mathematical systems and their historical development; geometrical constructions.

Hours 45 hrs
Credits 3

CEDC 74300 - Research Seminar in Mathematics/Science Education

An examination of the current research in mathematics and science education. Includes the evaluation of selected mathematics and science education research studies. Students will prepare a comparative, evaluative paper of research related to a specific curriculum topic or problem in the learning/teaching of mathematics and/or science.

Hours 45 hrs
Credits 3

CEDC 74400 - Development of Mathematical/Scientific Concepts in Children

Exposure to the development theories and school-based practices which allow children to develop the concepts in mathematical and science which underpin the learning in these areas. Appropriate learning activities for particular developmental levels will be addressed. Individual projects with children will be carried out.

prereq: all program courses except CEDC 74200 and CEDC 74300
Hours 45 hrs
Credits 3

CEDC 74700 - Number Theory and Algebra in Elementary Curriculum

A study of the underpinnings of Number Theory and Algebra and the role they play in curriculum, teaching and student learning. This course gives participants a deeper understanding of algebra and how students learn transition from arithmetic to algebraic reasoning.

prereq: The course is intended for students in the Elementary Mathematics Specialist program or licensed elementary school teachers.
Hours 45 hrs
Credits 3

CEDC 74800 - Geometry and Measurement in the Elementary

A study of the underpinnings of Geometry and Measurement and the role they play in curriculum, teaching, and supporting student learning. Topics in Geometry and Measurement are important concepts at the elementary school level and this course gives participants a deeper background in these two areas. Additionally, pedagogical practices important in these areas will be examined as well as a deep study of how students develop these concepts through curriculum, representations, manipulatives, and pedagogical practices will be discussed.

prereq: This course is intended for students in the Elementary Mathematics Specialist program or licensed elementary school teachers.
Hours 45
Credits 3
CEDC 74900 - Leadership in Elementary School Mathematics

A study of mathematics leadership and the development of mentors, coaches, and leaders of professional development.

prereq: This course is intended for students in the Elementary Mathematics Specialist program. Completion of at least 24 credits in the program.

Hours 45

MATH 61000 - Mathematics for the Elementary School from an Advanced Standpoint

Study, from an advanced standpoint, of the mathematics involved in the elementary school common core, with special focus on Numbers and Quantities; Algebra and Change. Open only to Teacher Education Program students.

prereq: MATH 10400 and MATH 10500 or their equivalent. Entry is by departmental permission.

Hours 3 hrs

Credits 3 cr.

The course is intended for students in the Elementary Mathematics Specialist Program.

STAT 61200 - Discrete Probability

Combinatorics, discrete probability, random variables, probability models and an introduction to game theory. A study of discrete probability with particular attention paid to the integration of these topics into the school curriculum. This course is for current and prospective teachers.

prereq: a statistics course on or above the level of STAT 11300

Hours 3

Credits 3

- Plus choose two (2) -

Substitutions in this category can be made with consent of the adviser

MATH 63300 - Axiomatic Geometry

The development of geometry from the point of view of axiom systems. The course includes axiomatic systems for Euclidean geometry from the classical period to the Hilbert axioms of the early 20th century, and the development of non-Euclidean hyperbolic geometry. This is a theoretical mathematics course. The material is presented in its historical context.

prereq: departmental permission

Credits 3

MATH 63500 - Problem Solving Explorations in Mathematics

A study of the heuristics of problem solving through intensive work with non-routine problems chosen from many areas of mathematics. This course is for current and prospective teachers.
MATH 65400 - Dynamical Systems and Chaos

Topics include: flows in one and two dimensions; phase portraits; limit cycles; bifurcations; iterated maps on the interval; introduction to chaos and fractals; the Mandelbrot set and its significance.

prereq: a course in multivariate calculus and a course in linear algebra
Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.
Familiarity with MAPLE or MATHEMATICA encouraged

- And choose one (1) -

STAT 61300 - An Introduction to Statistics

An Introduction to statistics and statistical computing. Hands-on data analysis. Graphical inference. The five number summary, box plots, scatterplots, normal probability plots. Elementary probability. Statistical estimation and hypothesis testing. Linear regression. Students are expected to analyze real data sets and write reports. Data analysis uses appropriate statistical software. This course is intended for teachers.

Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.

STAT 61400 - Data Analysis Using Statistical Software

A second course in statistics using statistical software to analyze real data and teach new methodology. Methods covered include exploratory data analysis, analysis of variance, simple and multiple regression, nonparametric statistics, and model building.

prereq: STAT 21300 or both MATH 12500 and STAT 11300 with C or better in each course.
Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.

Note:

If a student has already taken a course with content comparable to a course in the program, documented by college catalog description, and the student attained a grade of B or better in the course as documented by an official college transcript, then the student will be allowed to choose a course approved by the program adviser as a substitute for the existing program course.

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. Maintain a valid and appropriate NYS certification.
3. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.
Gifted Education Extension - Advanced Certificate

Program

This advanced certificate program (Academic Plan: GIFTD-AC) is designed to provide educators with a solid background of expertise in gifted education, enabling them to work effectively with exceptionally capable learners, and to take leadership roles in the field. In addition to satisfying NYS certification requirements for 12 credits of coursework and field hours for the Gifted Extension certificate*, successful completion of this program will result in an advanced certificate degree in Gifted Education and an institutional recommendation for the Gifted Extension certificate.

*NYS certification in Gifted Extension requires a valid base NYS teacher certification and a passing score on the Gifted Content Specialty Test (CST).

Admission Requirements

1. NYS teacher certification and a minimum of 15 credits of graduate study (master's degree preferred) in education for a specific school population, with at least one course in human development (including child or adolescent development).
2. A GPA of at least 3.5 in graduate courses.
3. Two letters of recommendation from appropriate professional or academic sources.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Course of Study - 12 cr.

SPED 75300 - Understanding and Identifying Gifted Learners: Individual and Developmental Diversity

An overview of major questions and issues in the field, including What is intelligence? What is creativity? What is giftedness? How do we measure these qualities? Focus on the urban context, incorporating rich cultural, social, political, educational, and scientific resources possibilities, and developing expertise in educating gifted and talented students from a broad range of backgrounds.

Cross-listed (Cross-listed with CEDF 75300.)

Hours 45 hrs includes 10 hrs field experience
Credits 3 cr

SPED 75400 - Differentiating Curriculum for Gifted and Talented Learners

Consideration of a wide range of curriculum options appropriate for meeting diverse kinds of gifted learning needs from early childhood through Grade 12, as well as a variety of placement options, from the regular classroom to the full time gifted school.

Cross-listed (Cross-listed with CEDF 75400.)

Hours Includes 10 hrs field experience
Credits 3

SPED 75500 - Assessment and Instruction for Diversely Gifted Learners

Supervised learning lab experience involving scaffolded assessment, diagnosis, and associated curriculum differentiation for diversely gifted learners, including those with learning and emotional problems, physical disabilities, and special abilities. Includes writing and implementing individual education plans.

Cross-listed (Cross-listed with CEDC 755.)

prereq or coreq: SPED 75300 and SPED 75400

Hours Includes 20 hrs field experience

SPED 75600 - Professional Discourse and Leadership in Gifted Education

Collaborative models of professional development and program evaluation in gifted education. Major issues and leadership concerns in the field, e.g., including underrepresented populations and integrating gifted practices schoolwide and systemwide. Investigation of networking and dissemination.

Cross-listed ADSUP 75600, CEDC 75600, CEDF 75600

prereq or coreq: SPED 75300 and SPED 75400

Hours Includes 10 hrs field experience

Exit Requirements

1. An overall GPA of 3.0.
2. No course grade below B.
3. Maintain a valid and appropriate NYS certification.
4. Complete the Dignity for All Students Act (DASA) workshop.

Program Adviser
Instructional Leadership - Ed.D.

The Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) degree in Instructional Leadership prepares experienced educators to become effective practitioner leaders able to translate current research into policy and practice. The program prepares teacher leaders, department chairs, administrators and other education professionals to transform K-12 education, driving better educational experiences and outcomes across larger systems. The program provides clinically-focused doctoral training and a deep grounding in the research on educational practice, particularly as it applies to urban settings and suburban settings with increasingly diverse student populations. Students develop the ability to synthesize and apply new research to improve educational experiences and outcomes for students, and the skills to communicate their insights effectively as leaders in schools and communities.

Program Highlights

- Designed to meet the needs of working educators with a part-time cohort model and practice-focused curriculum over five years
- Focused on interpreting and translating current research into clinical practice.
- Leverages the strength and expertise of faculty with a wide range of research and practitioner areas who are engaged with current scholarship and practice.
- Provides opportunities to expand both the breadth of knowledge across the field and depth of knowledge in a particular area of interest.
- Institutionally committed to serving the needs of public education with an urban focus.

Admission Requirements

1. A master's degree from an accredited institution in the field of education or related to your work in education with a GPA of at least 3.5. Undergraduate GPA will be considered as well.

2. A minimum of two letters of recommendation is required. At least one should address past academic performance and/or readiness for doctoral studies and one should speak to professional leadership potential.

3. A personal statement.

4. Graduate Record Examination (GRE).

5. Prospective students whose native language is not English and who have completed all or part of their post-secondary education in a country where English is not the native language need to take the TOEFL or IELTS or the Pearson Test of English.

6. A resume.

7. A minimum of five years professional work experience in the field of education.

8. An on-site interview and writing activity may be required as part of the interview process.

Progress Standards
1. Students must maintain a minimum 3.5 GPA throughout the program. At the end of each semester, when grades have posted, the program director will meet with the Assistant Director of Graduate Student Affairs in the Office of Academic and Student Affairs to review the GPA of all students in the program and to identify any who have fallen below a 3.5. These students will be placed on academic probation. Once they are notified of probation, they will be required to meet with their advisor to develop an academic plan for improving their GPA. At the end of the semester that they are on probation and grades have posted, the program director will review the student's GPA. If the GPA is above a 3.5, the student will be taken off of academic probation. If it is still below a 3.5, the program coordinator and advisor will determine if the student has made adequate progress towards improving their GPA. If it is determined that the GPA is improving, the student will be placed on academic probation again and allowed to continue in the program. If adequate progress has not been made, the student will be dismissed from the program. Students cannot remain on academic probation for more than three consecutive semesters without being dismissed from the program.

2. Prior to the start of the third year in the program, students must pass a Comprehensive Assessment. The Comprehensive Assessment serves two overarching purposes: (a) to assess doctoral students' content knowledge in the various areas of program coursework and (b) their readiness to move into the dissertation phase of the doctoral program.

EDDIL 80000 - Foundations of Research, Leadership, and Equity in Education

In this course, students explore the foundations of the three pillars of the EdD program: Research, Leadership, and Equity in Education. Students will be immersed in a variety of research studies drawing on the professional literature in education and associated fields to develop an understanding of diverse research traditions. The course explores research designs and processes in published studies for question posing and data collection, analysis, and interpretation from quantitative and qualitative perspectives. Research related to instructional leadership will be examined in an effort to develop an understanding of this field of study. The course introduces students to the key concepts necessary for engaging in research and leadership around diversity, equity, and social justice.

Hours 3
Credits 3.0

EDF 80400 - Analysis of Major Issues in Contemporary Education Reform

After a brief review of the history of education reform efforts, we will study the major debates and policy initiatives that have shaped the contemporary structures of American public education. We will seek to understand what is at stake in these initiatives, the evidence behind their adoption and resistance to them.

Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

EDF 80000 - Statistics for Applied Educational Research I
This course provides students with an introduction to statistical analyses used in educational research, including descriptive statistics, hypothesis testing, statistical assumptions, t-tests, analysis of variance, correlation, and chi-squared.

prereq: SPED 80000
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

EDF 80100 - Qualitative Methods in Educational Research

This graduate course introduces students to qualitative research within the field of education. The course provides an overview of the different approaches to qualitative research and specific strategies of data collection and analysis, their underlying assumptions and appropriateness for particular research questions, and authentic experience with qualitative research.

prereq: SPED 80000
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

EDF 80200 - Quantitative Methods and Measurement

The purpose of this course is to increase students' understanding of quantitative research methods and design issues relevant to the pursuit of research in education, with a focus on correlational, experimental and quasi-experimental design.

prereq: EDF 80000
Credits 3 cr

EDDIL 80100 - Leadership for Change

In this course, students are introduced to the idea of non-positional leadership - that everyone has the responsibility and ability to lead change, regardless of one's formal position within the education landscape. They are then introduced to various theories/theoretical frameworks on the problems of change at the individual, group and system level, as well as to the notion of a theory-of-change, including how it differs from theory and its import in shaping and helping to ensure effectiveness of an educational change effort. Special attention is paid to the import of precise problem identification; the need for feedback loops to allow for ongoing adjustment of change designs in response to the unexpected; and to implementation challenges. Students apply their learning by analyzing existing educational change efforts and by designing and defending a theory-of-change that they could potentially implement to improve an identified problem of practice.

Hours 3
Credits 3.0

EDDIL 80200 - Leading for Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion

An important aspect of leadership in schools is being mindful of the identities, backgrounds, communities, and histories of the populations they serve. Even more important is an understanding of how the sociocultural contexts in which we all live result in systemic unequal distribution of power, privilege, and resources. This course will review key theoretical frameworks that attempt to describe the nature of schools, teaching and learning, and unequal student outcomes. The course will give participants the opportunity to consider the history and structure of schools from multiple perspectives by taking an intersectional approach. Participants will be expected to apply the NYSED Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Frameworks in their individual settings and propose research, policy or practice they are focused on Justice, Equity, Diversity and/or Inclusion.

SPED 80200 - Enhancing Achievement through Family & Community Relationships

This course examines the role of school, family and community in educational policy and practice. Students will read and critique a variety of theoretical frameworks about the intersection of home, school, and community; analyze current research on the impact of family and community engagement on student learning and school improvement; explore policies at local, state, and federal level.

EDUC 80700 - Professional Communications for Educational Settings

This course explores a range of educational and school-based writing genres and writing for a variety of audiences. Resources and practices related to developing and writing within a variety of genres from traditional print publications to new media outlets will be introduced, explored and, most importantly, enacted.

SPED 80100 - Research on Effective Practice and Curriculum for Students with Disabilities

This course provides the opportunity to consider disability in the context of schools and society—with view to engaging with, and critiquing, existing research in the fields of special education and disability studies in education (DSE). We will be mindful of how the disposition and paradigm of researchers influences all aspects of their work including: problems identified; questions asked; methods used; analysis employed; findings or results; interpretations, and: implications. This course focuses on the nature of evidence-based practice involving students with disabilities within specific contexts. The course is designed to provide a foundation for the course work, independent scholarship, and educational research that students will undertake in the process of completing the doctoral degree.

EDUC 80100 - Research on Effective Practice and Curriculum for Multilingual Learners

The focus of this course is on effective instruction and curriculum supporting the academic, social, and emotional development of multilingual learners (MLLs). Topics and assignments provide a direct connection of research on the development of languages and literacies, as well as a programming, and policy for MLLs in P-12 school contexts. Analysis of research on English as a New Language (ENL) education and bilingual education, including review of quantitative and qualitative studies of instruction and curriculum for MLLs will provide the foundation for foundation for the course content. This course will prepare doctoral students to critically evaluate educational research on ELLs, deeply understand the core components of quality instruction for ELLs in P-12 classrooms, and be able to clearly identify appropriate methods for addressing and improving instruction and curriculum for ELLs. Topics and assignments are designed to provide theory that directly connects to the design of instructional models of and curricula for ELL instruction. The course will also analyze the role of language and race-related ideologies on how bi-/multilingualism is framed and the consequences for how programs and policies are conceptualized and implemented. This course will prepare doctoral students to critically evaluate educational research on MLLs, deeply understand the core components of quality programming and instruction for MLLs in P-12 classrooms, and to clearly identify appropriate methods for addressing and improving instruction and curriculum for MLLs.

Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

EDDIL 81000 - Leader Scholar Community Research Seminar

This is a seminar in which students, under the supervision of a faculty member, develop research expertise that is expected to lead to a specific project such as a dissertation, report, or publication. Assignments might include development of problem statement, literature review, or statement of implications for practice based on review of comparable work. This course may be taken up to six times for credit and may be taken more than one time in any given term.

Hours 1
Credits 1.0
This course is graded Pass/Fail.

EDF 83000 - Dissertation Proposal Seminar

This course is a seminar designed to provide students with a general overview of the structure and components of a dissertation proposal. It serves as common ground for all cohort members to prepare for highly individualized work with a dissertation advisor in subsequent semesters. Throughout this course, students will focus upon the following components: (1) the background of the problem to be investigated; (2) formulating a research question(s); (3) developing a theoretical framework; (4) conducting a literature review; (5) choosing research methods to collect data; (6) analyzing findings; and (7) generating implications. These elements will be taught in relation to a "traditional" five-chapter dissertation, along with variations and expansions of this structure. In addition, students will review and become certified in appropriate IRB requirements. A major goal of this seminar is to individualize support with view to preparing each student to develop a topic for approval that will continue to be worked upon with a dissertation advisor during the following semester.

Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr

EDF 83100 - Dissertation Advisement

Dissertation Advisement is a customized course of study taken immediately after Dissertation Proposal Seminar. The purpose of this course is to provide individualized support to doctoral students as they design and carry out a dissertation that addresses an identified problem of practice. This course must be taken for at least two semesters and must be taken every semester until the dissertation has been successfully defended for a minimum of six credits. Any student who receives a grade of F must obtain permission from the program leader to repeat the course. This course may only be repeated once and only one failing grade is allowed in the course.

prereq: EDF 83000
Electives

Students must take at least 12 credits of electives from this list. Other elective options may be taken in lieu of these courses with permission from the program director.

EDUC 80500 - Research on Effective Practice and Curriculum (REPAC) in Literacy

This course examines current research in literacy curriculum and its implementation. A host of theoretical approaches to the teaching of literacy and language development will be addressed and critiqued. Particular attention will be paid to research on literacy instruction and interventions that serve the needs of diverse students in urban schools.

prereq: SPED 80000 Intro to Doc Seminar

EDUC 80300 - Research on Effective Practice and Curriculum in Math

The course will examine the current research on effective mathematical teaching, assessment practices, student learning, and curriculum design. Students will synthesize research and engage in research explorations focused on problems of practice.

ECC 80100 - Research and Practice in Early Childhood Education

Overview of the historical and social influences on early childhood research and practice. Candidates will gain a comprehensive understanding of the significant policy, programmatic and pedagogical factors affecting the formal, symbolic and societal curricula, within and across early childhood education and care settings.

EDUC 80400 - Research on Effective Practice and Curriculum in Arts and Humanities

This course examines current research in Arts and Humanities curriculum and its implementation. It addresses a host of theoretical and policy-oriented approaches to the teaching and learning of the arts and humanities. Particular attention will be paid to research on arts and humanities instruction and interventions that serve the needs of diverse students in urban schools.

EDUC 80600 - Effective Professional Development of Teachers
In-depth study of research and practice in professional development for educators. Students will explore the literature about effective methods, contexts, and delivery of coaching, mentoring, and professional learning for teachers and other educators. Focus on understanding the strengths and weaknesses of different approaches to professional development, and on learning how to assess the appropriateness of a professional development strategy with respect to content and the teacher population to be served.

*Hours 3 hrs
*Credits 3 cr

EDF 80300 - Statistics for Applied Educational Research II

This course builds on knowledge of basic statistics, focusing on multiple regression and analysis of covariance for statistical analysis of continuous and categorical independent variables. Data exploration and assumptions are discussed in detail. Computer software for analysis of quantitative data is introduced.

*Hours 3.0
*Credits 3.0

EDUC 80800 - Action Research

The purpose of this course is to explore various aspects of a movement in education and educational research in which educators (e.g., P-12 teachers, school administrators, etc.) actively participate in making change in their practice through conducting systematic inquiry and research. The course will provide a broad overview of the epistemological, political, and methodological issues associated with the idea of practitioner research.

*prereq or coreq: EDS 80300 Qualitative Research Methods
*Hours 3 hrs
*Credits 3 cr

EDUC 80900 - Case Studies in Education: Institutions, Schools, Programs, Classrooms, and Individuals.

This course examines case study as a research design in educational contexts. The unit of study can include institutions, schools, programs, and individuals. A variety of topics will be explored, including becoming familiar with types of case studies, conceptualizing case study research, creating research questions, generating data, use of analytic methods, and application of case study findings to leadership and practice. In addition, the course will feature related, sometimes overlapping, methodological approaches such as portraiture and narratives. The course engages students in substantial study and critique of current and "classic" cases in educational research based on candidates' fields of interest. Particular attention will be paid to ethical considerations in conducting case study research in urban schools and communities.

*Hours 3 hrs
*Credits 3 cr

EDF 81000 - Mind, Brain, and Education

This course provides students with knowledge from the neuro and cognitive sciences that can be applied in practice. This course begins with an introduction to mapping the physical features of the brain before leading into contemporary research on "brain-based" research and educational curricula and programs. Students will engage in examining research and separate "nureomyth" from "neuroscience" in order to be informed by new knowledge from the science of learning.
EDDIL 82000 - Doctoral Directed Readings

Directed Readings involve an in-depth study of some area of research, theory, or research methodology that is of special interest to a student (or small group of students) in the EdD program but for which there is no formal course within the program. The directed reading is done under the supervision of a full-time faculty member. When requesting a directed reading, students should collaborate with the intended instructor to create and agree upon a written proposal for the course (including a list of readings and at least one written assignment) Once the proposal is agreed upon by student and instructor, the Program Director of the EdD program must provide approval as well.

prereq: Permission EdD program director required.

Exit Standards

1. An overall GPA of at least 3.5.
2. Completion of Dissertation approved by the Dissertation Committee and an oral defense is the final requirement before the degree is conferred.

Literacy Education: Birth - Grade 6 - MSEd

This master's degree program (Academic Plan: LTYB6-MSED) is designed for teachers with NYS certification in Early Childhood or Childhood Education to become teachers of literacy and reading at the Early Childhood and elementary grade levels. This program leads to certification in Literacy Birth to Grade 6.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0 or a master's degree with a GPA of at least 3.5.
2. NYS initial, professional, or permanent certification in Early Childhood Education, Childhood Education, Pre K-Grade 6, TESOL or Special Education.
3. A letter of recommendation from a supervisor as one of the two letters of recommendation.
4. On-site writing sample after the application is reviewed.
5. On-site interview after the application is reviewed.
6. Submission of official score report on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), except applicants who are certified teacher or school administrators and hold a graduate degree.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   - Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   - Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   - Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Rehabilitation Counseling - MSEd

The Clinical Rehabilitation Counseling program (Academic Plan: REHCN-MSED) prepares students to assist people with disabilities to realize personal goals and maximize their physical, emotional, social, intellectual and vocational potential. Rehabilitation counselors work with youth and adults in a variety of community-based settings such as hospitals, rehabilitation centers, colleges, chemical dependency agencies and career/vocational counseling programs. Students in this program may take the national certification examination for the Certified Rehabilitation Counselor (CRC) status after completing 75% of their course work.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited institution with a GPA of at least 3.0; the Graduate Record Examination is not required.
2. 15-25 credits of approved courses from the following fields: anthropology, economics, education, guidance, health sciences, political science, psychology, sociology, and related areas.
3. Evidence of oral and written expression consonant with graduate-level study.
4. Recommendations from appropriate professional or academic references to aid in determining potential for work as a professional counselor.
5. Meeting these minimum requirements does not guarantee acceptance to the program. Admission to the program is highly competitive, and each applicant's grade point average, counselor potential, and applicability of work and life experience are carefully considered.
6. Relevant work and/or volunteer experience is highly recommended.

Progress Standards

1. Minimum GPA for Retention - Graduate students must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 to remain at Hunter College. Students whose grades fall below this standard are required to raise their GPAs to at least 3.0 within one semester.
2. No F in the first two semesters—students who receive a grade of F or WU in any course in the first two semesters will not be allowed to continue in the program.
3. Progress holds due to Incomplete Grades - Students with two or more INCs will not be allowed to register for any courses.
4. Key Course Performance Standards
   o Students must receive a grade of at least a B in key program courses.
   o Students who receive a grade of F or WU in key program courses may not continue in the program.
   o Key Program Courses are identified by the label (KC) in the course title.

Hunter's graduate programs in special education prepare teachers to provide specially designed instruction for students with disabilities and to work across a variety of educational settings, including: special school, special classes, resource rooms, pre-schools, early intervention programs, supported general education classrooms in public and private schools, hospitals, clinics, health agencies, home programs, and residential facilities. Special education programs at Hunter have been nationally recognized by the Council for Exceptional Children.

Completion of any one of Hunter's for the master's degree in special education leads to New York State teacher certification. Hunter's specializations are:

- childhood special education: learning disabilities
- childhood special education: behavior disorders
- childhood special education with an annotation in severe/multiple disabilities (including deafblindness)
• early childhood special education
• early childhood with an annotation in severe/multiple disabilities (including deafblindness)
• deaf and hard-of-hearing
• blind and visually impaired

Students who enter the programs with no previous certification and subsequently complete the master's degree will meet the education requirements for New York State initial and professional certification in either childhood special education or early childhood special education and either childhood general education or early childhood general education. Students without prior teacher certification enter the Program 1 track.

Students who enter the childhood special education program with initial certification in grades 1-6 and subsequently complete the master's degree, will meet the education requirements for New York State professional certification in childhood/elementary education as well as for professional certification in childhood special education grades 1-6. Students with prior childhood certification enter the program 2 track.

Similarly, students who enter the early childhood special education program with initial certification in early childhood Birth to Grade 2 and subsequently complete the master's degree, will meet the education requirements for New York State professional certification in early childhood education as well as for professional certification in early childhood special education Birth to Grade 2. Students who hold early childhood certification enter the Program 2 track in early childhood special education.

The early childhood master's programs are designed for students whose primary interest is in teaching children from infancy through kindergarten. While students in the early childhood special education programs will also be prepared to teach grades 1 and 2, applicants whose primary interest is in these grades should apply to the childhood special education program, which encompasses grades 1-6.

The programs (with the exception of early childhood special education) are organized into a set of cross-categorical core courses and disability-specific specializations. Core courses develop knowledge and skills across a range of education settings; specializations provide in-depth preparation for working with students within a particularly disability area. Both core and specialization courses provide historical, theoretical, and clinical perspectives, as well as current research and direct experiences with students of different ages and profiles. A hallmark of Hunter's programs is their linking of theory to effective instruction.

Special Education: Severe and Multiple Disabilities Annotation Extension - Advanced Certificate

Department of Curriculum and Teaching

About the Department

Welcome to the Department of Curriculum and Teaching at Hunter College, the home of a wide variety of graduate and undergraduate programs that will prepare you for one of the highest callings in society: education. Along with the other departments in the School of Education, we carry on the original mission of Hunter College: the preparation of educators.

As part of the largest department in the Hunter College School of Education, Curriculum & Teaching programs prepare teachers and other school personnel in the areas of Childhood Education (elementary), Adolescent Education (secondary), Early Childhood Education, Literacy, Bilingual Education, Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL–K-12 and Adult), and Administration & Supervision. Our primary mission is to prepare teachers for any classroom environment, although we are particularly committed to preparing teachers for the challenges of public education in an urban setting.
The Department of Curriculum and Teaching houses the majority of the programs and courses in the Hunter College School of Education, working closely with departments in the School of Arts & Sciences to train teachers in content area knowledge, and in the methods of teaching such subject areas as English/Language Arts, Social Studies, Foreign Languages, Music, ESL, Bilingual Education, Math, and Science. Its programs ask future teachers and administrators to be thoughtful and knowledgeable educators, advocates for children and other learners, active promoters of social justice, knowledgeable resources, and effective future leaders in education.

Department of Educational Foundations

About the Department

The Department of Educational Foundations & Counseling Programs prepares students to enter the teaching and counseling professions, eventually to obtain the appropriate certification(s), which will help them establish, improve and maintain themselves within these professions.

Departmental courses are the basis of training in education and human services. The Department of Educational Foundations includes the disciplines of psychology, sociology, anthropology, history and philosophy. Research in these areas, when applied to education and counseling, provides the foundation for understanding individuals in the learning and counseling process and the social psychological context in which personal development and learning occur. In addition, the study of the history and the philosophic foundations of American education and counseling is essential for enabling future teachers and counselors to meet the ever-changing intellectual and social needs of a diverse body of individuals in a pluralistic, democratic society.

Departmental course offerings are offered in three distinct areas: psychological foundations; social foundations and counseling. All courses are anchored in theory and research-based knowledge from which we emphasize applications to the urban environment, the applied use of theory to influence policy and practice, and solutions to concrete and practical problems that school and counseling professionals experience in daily practice.

The department's preparation of teachers and counselors goes beyond the acquisition of specific skills and methods. The focus of the department is on the professional identity and development of students so that they understand and seek to influence the social, political and economic context in which they function.

Department of Special Education

About the Department

Hunter's graduate programs in special education prepare teachers to provide specially designed instruction for students with disabilities and to work across a variety of educational settings, including: special schools, special classes/inclusive classrooms, resource rooms, pre-self-contained classrooms, special schools, early intervention programs, supported general education classrooms in public and private schools, hospitals, clinics, health agencies, home programs, and residential facilities. Special education programs at Hunter College have been nationally recognized by the Council for Exceptional Children.

The School of Education offers master's degree and advanced certificate programs in special education that lead to New York State teacher certification. Specializations in special education include: early childhood special education; early childhood special education with an annotation in severe/multiple disabilities (including deafblindness); childhood special education, learning disabilities; childhood special education, behavior disorders; childhood special education with an annotation in severe/multiple disabilities (including deafblindness); deaf and hard-of-hearing; blind and visually impaired; and adolescent special education generalist.

The programs (with the exception of early childhood special education) are organized into a set of cross-categorical core courses and disability-specific specializations. Core courses develop knowledge and skills across a variety of disabilities to be applied across a range of education settings. Specializations provide in-depth preparation for working with students within a particular disability area. Both core and specialization courses provide historical, theoretical, and clinical perspectives, as well as current research and direct experiences with students of different ages and profiles. A hallmark of Hunter's programs is their linking of theory to effective instruction.

School of Education Fall 2020 Credit/No-Credit Grading Policy

Special COVID-19 Flexible Grading Policy for the Fall 2020 Semester

As part of The City University of New York's response to the COVID-19 pandemic, during the Fall 2020 semester, all students shall have the option to convert any or all of the (A-F) letter grades they earn in their classes, to Credit/No Credit (CR/NC) grading.

This policy applies to all Hunter College students who are enrolled in credit-bearing courses for the Fall 2020 semester, including undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral courses, with the exception of those courses listed that have been designated to be excluded from opt-in as indicated on the Exclusion List. The courses on the exclusion list must be taken for a letter grade.

Please note that the Credit/No-Credit flexible grading policy excludes School of Education "key courses" such as student teaching practicum, and other important courses where a grade of B or better is required as a progress standard. Additionally, all courses in the Applied Behavior Analysis and Ed.D. programs will be exempt. You can view complete details on this flexible grading policy on the Special COVID-19 Flexible Grading Policy for the Fall 2020 Semester catalog page.

School of Education: Accreditation

Accreditation is the recognition that an institution maintains standards requisite for its graduates to gain admission to other reputable institutions of higher learning or to achieve credentials for professional practice. The goal of accreditation is to ensure that education provided by institutions of higher education meets acceptable levels of quality.

The Hunter College School of Education is accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP) and each teacher preparation program is nationally recognized by its respective Specialized Professional Association (SPA). The School Counseling and Rehabilitation Counseling programs are accredited by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP).

School of Education: Administration

Administration

Dean, Michael J. Middleton
School of Education: Admission General Information

Admission to our professional programs at the School of Education is based on evaluation of an applicant's promise for success as a graduate student and demonstrated commitment to the field of education. Applications are also evaluated on the basis of undergraduate (and any prior graduate) preparation and expressed focus in a particular area of education.

In general, those admitted have completed a bachelor's degree at a regionally accredited institution and are expected to present a grade point average (GPA) of 3.0 or better in undergraduate studies and 3.5 or better in graduate studies.

School of Education: Application Checklist

The following materials are required to complete an application:

- Statement of Purpose (approximately 500 words)
- Transcripts from each school attended (scanned and uploaded to the online application)
- Two letters of recommendation (if a student has been out of school for some time, professional references are acceptable)
- Official GRE test score
$125 application fee

School of Education: Application Deadlines

Career Services Support

The School of Education provides a comprehensive student career preparation program. We prepare teachers, leaders, counselors and other professional candidates for the job market through workshops, and orientations on professional topics such as resume writing, interviewing strategies, and demonstration lessons.

Each semester, the School of Education hosts a career fair, providing opportunities for partner organizations [schools, districts, non-profit organizations] to meet and network with our candidates from all programs. Employers can connect with students and alumni through an online job board that we maintain.

We also provide additional support to teacher candidates for all aspects of NYS certification, including NYS mandated workshops, specialized training, and some required NYS certification testing.

More information about these services can be found on the School of Education's Career, Professional & Partnership Development (CPPD) website.

School of Education: Course Equivalency, Transfer Credit, Permit Credit

Return to the School of Education

Course Equivalency

Students who have taken graduate-level courses at another college may, with written approval, apply those courses to their program in two ways: "Transfer of Credit" or "Permit Credit."

Transfer Credit

Graduate courses taken prior to matriculation are considered "Transfer of Credit."

The following limitations apply:
1. No more than a total of 12 credits will be allowed for courses completed at other colleges, for courses taken on permit, or for Hunter College courses taken prior to matriculation.

2. Courses for which transfer and approval of credit are sought must have been completed within five years preceding the anticipated date of graduation.

3. Application for transfer and approval of course credits taken prior to matriculation may be made after registering for the first semester of matriculation.

4. Transfer of credit can only be granted for courses with grades of B or better.

Permit Credit

Graduate courses taken at other colleges or universities after matriculation are considered "Permit" credit. Students planning to take courses "on permit" at other colleges or universities during the period of matriculation must request and receive permission prior to taking the course. The student should obtain the appropriate form in Room 1000 West Building; attach course descriptions and obtain appropriate signatures from the department office; and return the completed form to Room 1000 West Building.

School of Education: Degree Requirements

Return to School of Education

Master's program requirements vary according to students' qualifications and the requirements of the specific program. Students must achieve a GPA of at least 3.0 in both graduate courses and undergraduate courses needed to satisfy admission conditions. Students should not expect to complete the master's degree requirements by attending full-time, although this may be possible in some cases.

Candidates should consult their program coordinator or advisor about exit requirements of their program at least one year in advance of the expected date of graduation.

School of Education: Graduation and New York State Certification

Return to the School of Education

Graduation

All potential graduates must apply for graduation within the first three weeks of the semester in which they plan to graduate. Degree audit is now processed on-line through myHunter accounts. Students may start their early audit review in their penultimate semester. Log in to your myHunter page to view your personalized graduation checklist.

New York State Certification

The graduate education programs described below (unless otherwise indicated) have been approved by the New York State Education Department to lead to initial and professional certification for teaching in New York State. To be recommended for certification the student must complete the approved program of study, and file an on-line application for certification. Instructions for applying for certification are available in the Office of Educational Services and on the School of Education website.

Students must pass the required New York State Teacher Certification Examinations (NYSTCE) in order to be granted certification by the State. For an initial certificate, the State of New York requires the applicant to pass three examinations: the Academic Literacy Skills Test (ALST), the Educating All Students Test (EAS), the appropriate Content Specialty Test (CST) and the teacher performance assessment (edTPA) for their certificate.

Students must officially graduate from one of our approved preparation programs in order to receive a recommendation for NYS Teacher Certification.

New York State certification is reciprocally accepted by many other states upon application, although other states do not accept the NYSTCE. Students with questions about certification should contact the Office of Educational Services at tcert@hunter.cuny.edu.

School of Education: How to Apply

The Hunter College School of Education offers admission twice a year for most programs, in Fall and Spring. However, the following programs offer admission only in the Fall: Instructional Leadership, Educational Psychology, Dance Education, and Childhood Education with STEM Specialization.

Online Application: Hunter's graduate application is available online at: hunter.cuny.edu/graduateadmissions/applying

Math Center

Hunter College established the Mathematics Center for Learning and Teaching to help promote the mathematics competency of PreKindergarten through grade twelve children. Working with teachers and principals, parent coordinators and math coaches, the Center provides professional development on math learning to schools throughout New York City and State, bringing the expertise of the School of Education into numerous math classrooms around the state.

School of Education: Open Houses

The School of Education holds Open Houses for Prospective Graduate Students in February and October. These events are held in the West Building at 68th Street and Lexington Avenue and are open to the public. Those attending have the opportunity to meet with faculty and alumni, see the campus, and get additional information about admission to specific programs.

School of Education: Partnership Programs

Return to the School of Education

The Office of Partnership Programs manages all of the alternative certification and partnership programs within the School of Education and supports students in these non-traditional programs. Working in partnership with a variety of local and national organizations, we offer special programs in a wide range of teacher certification areas and school leadership certification. Our special programs offer participants the opportunity to gain hands-on experience in schools while enrolled in graduate coursework at Hunter College and many provide subsidized tuition.
Collaborative Leadership Advancing School Success. The Collaborative Leadership Advancing School Success (CLASS) program, offered in partnership with New Visions for Public Schools, is a unique school leadership certification program grounded in clinical experiences designed to illuminate the relationship between student learning and systems within a school. East Harlem Teaching Residency The East Harlem Teaching Residency, a partnership between the East Harlem Tutorial Program (EHTP) and Hunter College School of Education, is a highly selective teacher-training program that develops, supports and certifies aspiring educators to become elementary teachers in New York.

Lincoln Center Scholars/Hunter College Alternative Certification Preparation Program for Creative Arts Education. The Lincoln Center Scholars/Hunter College Alternative Certification Preparation Program for Creative Arts Education, a partnership between Lincoln Center Education and the Hunter College School of Education, provides carefully selected artists with graduate coursework, certification support, and assistance with finding jobs as certified arts teachers in New York City Schools.

Math and Science Teacher Education Residency The Math and Science Teacher Education Residency (MASTER) program is a two-year teacher-preparation program for prospective math and science teachers that integrates graduate coursework with intensive, hands-on experiences in New York City schools. MASTER is a partnership between Hunter College, New Visions for Public Schools, the New York Hall of Science and the New York City Department of Education.

New York City Teaching Fellows. The New York City Teaching Fellows (NYCTF) is a collaborative program among the NYC Department of Education, CUNY, SUNY, and certain private universities in New York City. Currently as a partner university, Hunter College hosts candidates in Special Education, TESOL, and Bilingual Education. Subsidized Bilingual Extension Program The Subsidized Bilingual Extension Program (SBE) is a partnership with the NYDOE which offers currently certified content and classroom teachers the opportunity to gain a bilingual extension for their current New York State certification.

Teach for America. Teach for America (TFA) is a national alternative certification teacher preparation program with corps members teaching full time in public and charter schools while studying at partner universities and participating in continuous supervision and professional development. As a partner university, Hunter College hosts candidates in Special Education and Bilingual Education.

TESOL Intensive Teacher Institute. The Hunter College TESOL Intensive Teacher Institute (ITI) offers currently certified content and classroom teachers the opportunity to gain additional NYS certification in PreK-12 English as a Second Language (ESL). In addition to coursework, candidates receive specialized mentoring and coaching feedback to support ELL academic language development across the content areas.

Urban Teacher Residency. The Urban Teacher Residency (UTR) program is a two-year teacher-preparation program that integrates the graduate coursework of the aspiring teacher with intensive, hands-on experiences in New York City schools. UTR is a partnership between Hunter College, New Visions for Public Schools and the New York City Department of Education.

School of Education: Readmission

Students who have taken a leave of absence must submit an application for readmission to the Graduate Admissions Office. Students should apply for readmission in April for the fall semester and October for the spring semester (check the Admissions Office for deadlines). A student with a GPA below 3.0 must apply for special permission for readmission while on probation.

School of Education: Research and Training Centers in Teacher Education
A variety of programs in research and training in teacher education have attracted substantial support from federal, state and private sources. Projects currently in process include training in bilingual education, improvement of the teaching of secondary mathematics and science, educational technology, and preparation of rehabilitation counselors and teachers for children with disabilities. These projects afford graduate students an opportunity for advanced training or development of research skills.

Autism Research Policy and Practice (HARPP) Center. The HARPP Center works to support the needs of children in public and private New York City schools, as well as adults who have autism spectrum disorder, by training intervention professionals, conducting and disseminating research, and creating outreach programs that serve a cross section of individuals affected by autism spectrum disorder. The HARPP Center aims to formulate a comprehensive and dedicated effort to support this special and deserving population of NYC children, adults, and their families.

Center for Gifted Studies and Education. The mission of the Hunter College Center for Gifted Studies and Education is to foster the talent development of gifted & talented students, their families, and educators. Through graduate courses, outreach, research, professional development, and creating systems of intra- and inter-agency collaboration, HCCGE encourages and supports gifted learners.

The Learning Lab. This award-winning program has been the heart of the Learning Disabilities teacher education programs for over thirty years. As part of their clinical work, graduate students are assigned a child or youth who struggles in one or more aspects of learning, and tutors twice a week for an academic year, overseen by a supervisor. Over 200 children and youth from NYCs diverse communities are served annually in this program.

Literacy Space. This reading lab of the Graduate Program in Literacy Education was created as a site for our practicum courses in literacy assessment and intervention. Literacy Space serves, free of charge, elementary and middle school struggling readers and writers, who are recommended to us by the local public and private schools. These children are paired with our graduate students, who are certified teachers, to begin a year-long or semester-long one-to-one intervention program. Professor Nadine Bryce serves as the coordinator of Literacy Space.

Math Center. Hunter College established the Mathematics Center for Learning and Teaching to help promote the mathematics competency of PreKindergarten through grade twelve children. Working with teachers and principals, parent coordinators and math coaches, the Center provides professional development on math learning to schools throughout New York City and State, bringing the expertise of the School of Education into numerous math classrooms around the state.

Frankfurt Video Analysis of Teaching and Counseling (VAT/VAC). The Frankfurt Video Analysis project of pre-certification teachers and counselors was initiated in 2007 and has since become a requirement for every degree and certificate candidate at the Hunter College School of Education. This innovative database has been improving professional development and teacher preparation via embedded rubrics and observation tools. The corresponding library of best practices and teachable moments is one of the nation's first archive of indexed student-teaching videos. The VAT/VAC was lauded by the NCTQ in their 2014 rankings of educational programs as a resource that comprises, "promising or exemplary materials from teacher preparation programs."

School of Education: Standardized Tests

In accordance with New York State law, most School of Education programs excluding Counseling and Educational Psychology require the GRE for admission. Applicants to Foreign Language programs (Chinese, French, Italian, Spanish) are required to take the Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) from Language Testing International and achieve a minimum proficiency standard of Advanced Low.

International applicants whose education was completed in a country where English was not the native language must take the TOEFL and achieve the following minimum scores:

- Overall: Paper Based Test: 575 or Computer Administered Test: 233 or IBT: 68 (less speaking component)
- Writing: Paper Based Test: 4.5 or IBT Writing Section: 22 (TWE)
• Speaking: Paper Based Test: 45 or IBT Speaking Section: 23 (TSE)

School of Education: Walk-In Hours

Admissions Advisors are available during Walk-in Hours Monday through Thursdays from 12:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. in room 1000 of the West Building at 68th St. and Lexington Avenue. No appointment is necessary. Students can also contact Admissions Advisors via email at edadmissions@hunter.cuny.edu or phone at 212.772.4668. Hunter Health Professions Library (HPL)

The Hunter Health Professions Library (HPL) is located on the Brookdale Campus and is open 74 hours a week. HPL supports the curricular and research needs of the CUNY School of Public Health at Hunter College, Hunter-Bellevue School of Nursing and the Hunter School of Health Sciences. It also serves several research institutes at Brookdale, namely the Brookdale Center on Aging, the Center for Community and Urban Health, and the Center for Environmental & Occupational Health. The library has 26,500 volumes and 224 professional journals housed in its 10,000 sq./ft. In addition, full-text articles from over 50,000 journals are accessible via the library's electronic resources. The library provides seating for 212 (156 in the library and 56 computers).

Program and Courses in Speech-Language Pathology

Programs and Courses in Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

The primary objective of the Communication Sciences Program is to provide a broad theoretical background in human communication and its disorders that fulfill the academic and clinical requirements for the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) professional certification (Certificate of Clinical Competence) and New York State licensure. The COMSC Master of Science (MS) degree program in Speech-Language Pathology (SLP) is accredited by the Council on Academic Accreditation (CAA) of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association. The course of study generally requires two years of full-time participation including summers.

Definition of a Speech-Language Pathologist

Speech-language pathologists (SLPs) are autonomous professionals who identify, assess, prevent, and manage communicative disorders as well as swallowing or other upper aerodigestive disorders. Speech-language pathologists seek to optimize the communicative abilities of individuals, across the lifespan. Speech-language pathologists provide services to individuals in nine clinical areas: articulation and phonology, fluency and stuttering, voice and resonance, receptive and expressive language, swallowing, cognitive aspects of communication (e.g., executive functioning), hearing, social aspects of communication (e.g., communication opportunities, social skills), and communication modalities (i.e., oral, manual, augmentative and alternative communication; assistive technologies).

Center for Communication Disorders

The Hunter College Center for Communication Disorders (Speech-Language-Hearing Clinic) is located at the Brookdale Health Sciences campus, 425 East 25 St., Room 133 North. The Center is an integral part of the Communication Sciences Program. The Center provides diagnostic and therapeutic services for a wide variety of language, speech, voice, fluency, swallowing, hearing, communication modality, and social communication disorders. Audiological services include complete audiological evaluations, auditory processing disorder testing, and auditory brainstem response assessment with state of the art instrumentation. Services are available to the Hunter College community as well as the general public. Appointments can be made by calling (212) 481-4464.

Clinical Doctoral Program in Audiology - AuD

The City University, through a joint program offered by Hunter College, Brooklyn College and the Graduate Center, offers a clinical doctoral program in audiology. For a description of the program, see the Bulletin of the Graduate Center or go to Audiology-(Au-D)

Speech-Language Pathology - MS
The 68-credit Speech-Language Pathology (SLP) curriculum leading to an MS degree prepares individuals to become speech-language pathologists working in hospitals, rehabilitive centers, college or university clinics, health-care agencies, specialized clinical settings, or private practice and prepares students for professional practices in preschools, elementary and secondary schools, and early-intervention developmental centers. Successful completion of the SLP curriculum prepares students to meet the academic and clinical requirements for ASHA certification, New York State licensure, and recommendation for NY State certification as a teacher of students with speech and language disabilities (TSSLD). Additional requirements for certification following graduation include the completion of a clinical fellowship year and passage of PRAXIS examination in Speech Language Pathology. Students seeking TSSLD additionally must take the New York State Teacher Certification Examinations: Academic Literacy Skills Test (ALST) and Educating All Students Test (EAS) in addition to completion of the Dignity For All Students Act (DASA) workshop. The program is accredited by the Council on Academic Accreditation of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

Admission Requirements

Hunter College maintains only electronic processes for Graduate Admissions. Applicants are responsible for creating an admissions account and correctly submitting the following:

- Official transcripts from undergraduate and graduate schools verifying completion of degrees, GPAs and coursework
- GRE scores
- Two letters of recommendation
- Narrative statement

Visit Hunter College's Graduate Admissions page for more information regarding the application process.

Individuals wishing to matriculate into the SLP program must demonstrate completion of 45 credits of prerequisite coursework in Communications Sciences and Disorders as well as Liberal Arts and Sciences. The breakdown of the prerequisite coursework is outlined below.

Fifteen credits of foundations courses in Communication Sciences and Disorders are required. Each of the following must be at least 3 credits.

- Introduction to Language
- Anatomy and Physiology of Speech Mechanisms
- Phonetics of American English
- Introduction to Speech Pathology
- Introduction to Audiology
- Language Acquisition

Thirty credits in Liberal Arts and Sciences courses are required of each applicant. Applicants should review catalog descriptions of courses they have taken to ensure correct matching of the following requirements:

- Biological science (3 credits)—examples are botany, biology, ecology, genetics, marine biology, nutrition, physiology, zoology
- Physical science (3 credits)—must be either chemistry, or physics
- Statistics (3 credits)
- English (6 credits)—at least 3 credits of intensive writing
- U.S. history or political science (3 credits)
- Art (3 credits)—examples include pottery, painting, drawing, theater performance, dance, musical instrument performance, art or music appreciation
- Language other than English (3 credits)—American Sign Language, Spanish, French, German, Hebrew, Arabic, Greek, etc.

When applying to become a matriculated student applicants should understand:
Courses must be taken at an accredited college or university
At least a B grade is necessary for all prerequisite coursework
Advanced Placement (AP) credit will be accepted; however, AP must be recorded on the student's official undergraduate transcript(s)
Pass/fail grades will not be considered as having fulfilled the Communication Sciences or Liberal Arts and Sciences prerequisite requirements
Being a native speaker of a language will not fulfill the language requirement; the language requirement must be documented on an official transcript
College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) scores will not be considered as having fulfilled admissions requirements

If unsure that a class meets a prerequisite course requirement, students applying to the SLPA Program may wish to include with their application a catalog description and/or syllabus for that course.

Suggested Curriculum

Pre-Fall

CEDF 70600 - Social, Historical, Philosophical Foundations of Education: The American School

An in-depth study of the social, historical, and philosophical foundations of education and their impact on the American school.

*Hours 45 hrs

COMSC 70000 - Introduction to Research Methods

Introduction to basic research design and techniques used to study basic and applied communication science. Included is an overview of basic concepts and terminology, with emphasis on developing the ability to form a reasonable critical assessment of published literature. The course will focus on the development of technical writing skills, conducting thorough and efficient library and Internet research, the interpretation of graphical information, and a working understanding of common statistical models.

*prereq: none
*Hours 45
*Credits 3

COMSC 70500 - Acoustics, Physiologic and Auditory Phonetics

A comprehensive overview of basic phonetic science, as well as a foundation for its application to clinically relevant issues; basic concepts and terminology associated with the scientific study of the production, structure, transmission, and perception of the speech signal; acquisition, measurement and interpretation of physical data; speech and voice acoustics, aerodynamics, glottography, and kinematics.

*prereq: COMSC 70800
COMSC 71100 - Models of Language

Designed to further the understanding of the nature of language acquisition process as it pertains to the field of speech/language pathology. By surveying the various scientific proposals with respect to language learning, the student will gain a richer understanding of how language learning might be interrupted. The student will gain exposure to an interdisciplinary approach to the notion of language learning.

prereq: none

COMSC 71200 - Neural Processes of Communication

Neuroanatomy of normal processes and disorders of speech, swallowing, language, vision, hearing, emotion, cognition and communication; development of the human nervous system; neurological disorders and their effects on communication processes.

prereq: none

COMSC 72000 - Clinical Methods in Speech-Language Pathology

This course is an introduction to the scope and essentials of clinical practicum across the life span as reflected in the management of speech and language disorders in pediatric and adult populations. Basic clinical methods and procedures will be emphasized, including the development of the skills to select therapy targets, develop session plans, generate behavioral objectives and write SOAP notes. 25 hours of clinical observation (external to the course hours) are included. Completion of workshops in reporting child abuse and violence protection in the classroom will be required.

COMSC 71600 - Phonological Development and Disorders

Anatomical/physiological, cultural and psychological aspects of articulatory and phonological development and disorders; methods of prevention, assessment and intervention across the range of severity and etiology; impact of phonological disorders on acquisition of literacy; collaboration with teachers in management.

COMSC 71700 - Language Disorders in Children
Language and communication disorders and differences in children from infancy through adolescence, including specific language impairment, pervasive developmental delay, autism and mental retardation, cognitive and social aspects of communication, variation in severity and type of disorders; management of children requiring special education as mandated by Federal Law; implications of early language disorders on literacy acquisition, assessment and intervention; cultural diversity issues; interdisciplinary strategies for intervention for children with communication challenges within the home, preschool, school, and community settings.

prereq: COMSC 71100
Hours 45

COMSC 71900 - Assessment and Management of Dysphagia across the Lifespan

Normal and abnormal swallowing function across the lifespan, clinically known as dysphagia; evaluation, management, and treatment of dysphagia across various neurological, mechanical, and esophageal conditions in infants, children and adults will be emphasized. Interpretation of modified barium swallow (MBS) and fiberoptic endoscopic evaluation of swallow (FEES) studies as well as non-oral options for nutrition/hydration will be addressed.

Hours 60
Credits 4

COMSC 72600 - Adult Neurogenic Communication Disorders

Neurological, linguistic, cognitive and psychological aspects of acquired communication disorders across the life span, including aphasia, traumatic brain injury, and dementia; prevention, assessment and intervention across a range of severity and etiology; interdisciplinary collaboration in acute care, home, educational and vocational settings.

prereq: COMSC 71200
Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

COMSC 72800 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology

First-year spring semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised on-campus clinical practica include experiences with individuals who have speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood, adolescence or adulthood. COMSC 728.04, for students in the bilingual extension, designates a special section of COMSC 728 for practicum with Spanish-speaking children eligible for bilingual services.

prereq: COMSC 72000, 73300
Credits 1 cr

COMSC 73300 - Clinical Methods in Speech-Language Pathology: Diagnosis and Assessment

This course is a continuation of the discussion of the scope and essentials of clinical practicum, as reflected in the identification and assessment of speech and language disorders across the life span. Basic clinical methods and procedures will be emphasized, including the development of the skills related to generating and interpreting diagnostic reports. Students will learn about processes related to the selection, interpretation, and administration of appropriate, client-specific formal and informal assessment tools.
Summer 1

COMSC 70300 - Professional Practice in Educational Settings

The multifaceted role of the speech language pathologist in school settings; models of service delivery; collaborative assessment and teaching; computerized teaching programs; national and state legislation and regulations; rights and responsibilities of teachers and other staff; individualized educational planning; language-based learning disabilities; cultural diversity issues including bilingual and multicultural issues; roles of language in academic development and instruction; drug abuse education and fire safety. For successful completion of the course, students must also attend (a) a 2-hour workshop on identifying and reporting suspected child abuse or maltreatment; (b) a 2-hour workshop on school violence prevention and intervention.

prereq: COMSC 72000
Hours 30

COMSC 77100 - Summer Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 1

First-year summer semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervisor of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised on-campus clinical practicum and off-campus clinical practica include experiences with students with speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood and adolescence, as well as with adults.

prereq: COMSC 73300

Fall 2

COMSC 70600 - Summative Project I

The intention of this project is for students to demonstrate skills acquired in graduate school, including field research, writing, oral presentation and critical thinking. It is meant to advance and facilitate student-initiated research in the field of speech/language pathology. Current and relevant topics in the fields of speech/language pathology, applied linguistics, psycholinguistics, and education with emphasis on students' coursework at Hunter College will be considered.

prereq or coreq: none
Hours 30

COMSC 71500 - Communication Processes Related to Aging

Current understanding of adult development and aging as related to communication processes and disorders. Speech, language and hearing changes, as well as social, behavioral, physical and cognitive changes associated with normal and pathological aging processes. Intervention strategies, diagnostic and treatment materials, and audiological equipment for the communicatively impaired elderly population.
prereq: COMSC 70800, 75300
Hours: 45
Credits: 3

COMSC 72400 - Developmental and Acquired Motor Speech and Swallowing Disorders

Disorders of speech resulting from neurologic impairment affecting the motor programming (apraxia) or neuromuscular execution (dysarthria) of speech in infants, children, and adults; assessment and therapeutic management strategies in social, educational and vocational settings.

prereq: none
Hours: 60
Credits: 4

COMSC 72300 - Studies in Bilingualism

A survey of classical and contemporary psycholinguistics literature as it pertains to bilingual speakers (both children and adults). The ways in which languages can be acquired and be represented will be reviewed in preparation for understanding how language and communication disorders might manifest in bilingual speakers. Several critical articles on the study of bilingualism will be discussed, under the following headings: (1) psycholinguistics from a cross language perspective, (2) early bilingual development, (3) the bilingual brain, (4) learning to read in more than one script, and (5) the cognitive impact of bilingualism. In addition, students will be engaged in discussions regarding the nature of bilingual language skills, the role of language in second language learning and how these factors impact assessment and treatment of language and communication disorders.

Hours: 45
Credits: 3

COMSC 72700 - Voice Disorders

The identification, assessment, diagnosis, and management of dysphonia and related laryngeal disorders; an overview of the functional, congenital, psychogenic, trauma-related, organic and neurogenic disorders that can affect vocal function, respiration, and resonance. The role of stroboscopy, glottography, aerodynamic and acoustic measures in the assessment of phonatory disorder is discussed and a survey of treatment techniques and strategies for voice patients is discussed. An off-campus trip to an ENT/voice lab in the metropolitan area will be scheduled for later in the semester.

prereq: COMSC 70800, 71200
Hours: 30
Credits: 2

COMSC 72900 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 1

Second-year fall semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised on-campus clinical practica or off-campus clinical practica include experiences with individuals who have speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood, adolescence or adulthood. COMSC 72904 for students in the bilingual extension, designates a special section of COMSC 72900 for practicum with Spanish speaking children eligible for bilingual services.

Credits 4 cr.

COMSC 73900 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 2

Second-year spring semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised off-campus clinical practica include experiences with individuals who have speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood, adolescence, or adulthood.

prereq: COMSC 72900
coreq: COMSC 73700
Credits 1 cr

Total Credits: 68

TSSLD with Bilingual Extension (Spanish-English)

The Teachers of Students with Speech and Language Disabilities with Bilingual Extension (Spanish-English) option is available to students in the SLP curriculum who meet the admission requirements regarding demonstration of bilingual proficiency. A written and oral Spanish/English proficiency exam is administered to candidates by the Communication Sciences program. The bilingual requirements include an additional 12 credits of coursework:

BILED 70100 - Foundations of Bilingual Education
Historical overview of bilingual education and its relationship to ESL instruction. Emphasis is placed on social and linguistic theories underlying bilingual instructional models and the political context in which they function.

Hours includes 5 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3 cr

BILED 77800 - Instruction Through the Native Language-Spanish

To enhance Spanish language skills of teacher candidates for the purpose of teaching content areas in and through Spanish. The academic language needed to teach content areas will be emphasized. Teacher candidates will develop, adapt and revise curriculum materials in Spanish for the bilingual classroom.

prereq or coreq: BILED 70100
Hours 45 hrs plus 10 hrs of fieldwork, Credits 3

BILED 77900 - Multicultural Education

Conceptual framework derived from anthropological, cross-cultural research on learning and interaction, emphasizing theories and practical perspectives of multicultural education. Theories and strategies that make use of diversity throughout the curriculum and schools will be the focus of the course.

prereq or coreq: BILED 70100
Hours includes 5 hrs of fieldwork
Credits 3 cr

and a bilingual school-based practicum

COMSC 72904 - Clinical Practicum in Speech- Language Pathology 1

for students in the bilingual extension, designates a special section of COMSC 72900 for practicum with Spanish-speaking children eligible for bilingual services.

prereq: COMSC 73300
coreq: COMSC 73600
Credits 1

EDESL 79610 - Methodology of Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

An overview of K-12 program types and classroom options for teaching English to speakers of other languages. The course covers language teaching methods for teaching the four language skills, options for classroom management, and setting up learning environments. Required of students in Program 1.

includes 30 hours fieldwork

Additional Bilingual Examinations
Students seeking TSSLD with Bilingual Extension are required to take the Bilingual Content Specialty Test (CST). In addition to the requirements for TSSLD, candidates for a bilingual extension must also take two language examinations — one in the target language (Spanish) and the other in English.

Teachers of Students with Speech-Language Disabilities – Bilingual (English-Spanish Extension) MS

Requirements for Admission

In addition to all of the requirements for admission to the TSSLD curriculum, students applying for the bilingual (Spanish and English) extension must pass a Communication Sciences Program-administered evaluation of written and oral proficiency in Spanish and English.

Requirements for the Degree

In addition to all of the TSSLD requirements identified above, students must complete the following Extension requirements:

A. 12 additional credits of coursework:

EDESL 79620 - Methodology of Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

An overview of program types and classroom options for teaching English to speakers of other languages. The course covers basic language teaching methods, options for classroom management, and setting up optimal learning environments. Required of students in Programs 2 and 3.

Hours includes 20 hours fieldwork

Credits 4

20 hours fieldwork

BILED 70100 - Foundations of Bilingual Education

Historical overview of bilingual education and its relationship to ESL instruction. Emphasis is placed on social and linguistic theories underlying bilingual instructional models and the political context in which they function.

Hours includes 5 hrs of fieldwork

Credits 3 cr

BILED 77100 - Psychology of Language Learning and Teaching

Survey of the research in first and second language acquisition as it pertains to bilingual children. Emphasis is on the psychological underpinnings of the language acquisition process and their implications for language learning in the classroom. Lab time is an integral part of this course.

prereq or coreq: BILED 70100
BILED 77800 - Instruction Through the Native Language-Spanish

To enhance Spanish language skills of teacher candidates for the purpose of teaching content areas in and through Spanish. The academic language needed to teach content areas will be emphasized. Teacher candidates will develop, adapt and revise curriculum materials in Spanish for the bilingual classroom.

prereq or coreq: BILED 70100

AUD 70000 - Anatomy and Physiology of the Audio-Vestibular System

Investigation of the embryology, structure, and function of the auditory and vestibular systems.

AUD 70300 - Acoustics and Psychoacoustics

Exploration of the decibel, sound transmission, complex stimuli, psychoacoustic methods, signal detection theory, auditory sensitivity, masking, loudness, pitch, binaural hearing.

AUD 70500 - Speech-Language Sciences

Exploration of phonological, lexical syntactic morphological, and pragmatic aspects of human communication associated with speech, language, hearing and related disorders, normal processes of speech and language comprehension and production over the life span.

AUD 70900 - Instrumentation in Audiology
Measurement and calibration of the physical characteristics of acoustic, electric, and other non-acoustic stimuli; instrumentation, digital technology; bio-electrical hazards.

prereq: Psychoacoustics
coreq: Physiological Acoustics
Hours 15 hours lecture; 30 hours laboratory,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 71000 - Diagnostic Audiology

Study of audiological test procedures and interpretation in the assessment of peripheral and functional hearing impairment.

prereq: Anatomy & Physiology of the Audio-Vestibular System; Instrumentation in Audiology; Psychoacoustics Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference; 15 hours laboratory,
Credits 4 cr

AUD 71200 - Speech-Language Pathology for Audiologists

Exploration of the effects of communication disorders and differences on audiological testing, treatment and counseling; screening and prevention of communication disorders across the life span. In accordance with the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association's certification standards, students will complete the hours of speech and language screenings in a variety of settings.

prereq: Speech-Languages Sciences
coreq: Diagnostic Audiology
Hours 15 hours lecture plus conference, 15 hours laboratory,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 71600 - Physiological Acoustics

Detailed study of the pneumatic/mechanical/hydraulic/electrical interfaces involved in the transduction of acoustic energy through the auditory system. In-depth investigation of the external ear biophysics, the middle ear transfer function, cochlear hydrodynamics and hydromechanics, auditory biopotentials, cochlear non linearity, neural transduction and neural coding in the peripheral and central auditory systems.

prereq: courses in Anatomy & Physiology of the Audio-Vestibular System and Psychoacoustics
Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 71800 - Introduction to Research Methods

Exploration of issues and concepts in study design and analysis including types of research, controlling for confounding variables, measurement errors and their effects, statistical methods, and their applications to clinical populations.

prereq: 30 hours lecture plus conference
Credits 3 cr

AUD 72000 - Multicultural Issues for Audiologists
Examination of multicultural influences on the prevalence of auditory, vestibular, and otologic disorders; dialectical considerations for suprathreshold speech-recognition assessment; multicultural influences on attitudes toward health care providers, health care, disability, and deaf; ramifications of cultural diversity for professional practice; using culturally sensitive measures and protocols for assessment and management.

prereq: Diagnostic Audiology
Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 73000 - Amplification I

Examination of hearing-aid components, hearing aid candidacy, output limiting/compression, electroacoustic and real-ear measures, prescriptive procedures, amplification, earmolds and earmold acoustics, cerumen management, binaural issues including deprivation and acclimatization, approaches to hearing aid evaluation.

prereq: Diagnostic Audiology, Physiological Acoustics, and 1 cr of Audiology Practicum Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference; 15 hours laboratory,
Credits 4 cr

AUD 73300 - Communication Skills of Adults with Hearing Loss

A comprehensive approach to rehabilitation of adults with hearing impairment. Assessment of adult communicative function including auditory/visual speech perception, and use of selfassessment using cochlear implants and other sensory aids.

prereq: Diagnostic Audiology and 1 cr of Audiology Practicum
coreq: Amplification 1
Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 73500 - Auditory Electrophysiology

Advanced differential diagnosis of auditory disorders. Exploration of theoretical bases and clinical aspects of otoacoustic emissions and middle ear measurement.

prereq: Diagnostic Audiology and 1 cr of Audiology Practicum
coreq: 2nd cr of Audiology Practicum
Hours 15 hours lecture and conference; 15 hours laboratory,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 73700 - Prevention and Identification of Hearing Loss

Exploration of procedures to prevent the onset and minimize the development of hearing disorders; identifying individuals at risk for hearing impairment throughout the lifespan; screening individuals for hearing impairment and disability/handicap; administering hearing conservation programs.

prereq: courses in Diagnostic Audiology and Auditory Evoked Responses coreq: course in Audiology Electrophysiology
Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr
AUD 74000 - Aural Habilitation

Roles and responsibilities of the audiologist in clinical and educational settings. Assessment and management of communicative function in children with hearing impairment, including those with minimal hearing loss. Development of strategies for improving speech perception skills, including usage of assistive technology.

*prereq: Auditory Evoked Responses; Speech-Language Pathology for Audiologists; and, 2 cr of Audiology Practicum
coreq: Audiology Electrophysiology
*Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
*Credits 3 cr

AUD 74200 - Auditory Evoked Responses

Exploration of the theoretical bases and clinical applications of the auditory evoked potentials.

*prereq: Audiology Electrophysiology and 2 cr of Audiology Practicum
*Hours 15 hours lecture and conference; 15 hours laboratory,
*Credits 3 cr

AUD 74600 - Pediatric Audiology

Exploration of the effects of hearing loss on child development, prevalence of hearing loss in childhood, embryology, genetic issues, development of auditory function, hearing and balance disorders in children, pediatric audiology assessment battery, pediatric considerations in amplification, assessment of special populations.

*prereq: Amplification I, Auditory Evoked Responses and 2 cr of Audiology Practicum coreq: Audiology Electrophysiology, Prevention and Identification of Hearing Loss
*Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
*Credits 3 cr

AUD 74800 - Amplification II

Advanced signal processing, verification, validation/outcome measures, pediatric amplification fitting, noise-reduction strategies, multi-microphone/directional technology, troubleshooting/repair, hearing-aid orientation.

*prereq: Amplification I and 2 cr of Audiology Practicum
*Hours 15 hours lecture and conference; 15 hours laboratory,
*Credits 3 cr

AUD 75000 - Counseling

Contemporary theories of counseling. Application of principles and methods to problems faced by individuals with communication, hearing, vestibular and tinnitus disorders and their families. Counseling strategies to maximize individual's ability to understand, adapt and cope with his/her disorder.

*prereq: Diagnostic Audiology
*Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
*Credits 3 cr

AUD 76000 - Medical Audiology
Medical and audiological aspects of hearing and balance disorders, including issues in genetics, otologic assessment and treatment, and use of imaging studies.

*prereq: Auditory Evoked Responses and 2 cr of Audiology Practicum
coreq: Audiology Electrophysiology
*Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 76300 - Vestibular and Tinnitus Evaluation and Management

Investigation of balance tests including electronystagmography, posturography, and rotary chair; vestibular rehabilitation; electrophysiologic and behavioral techniques for the assessment of tinnitus; tinnitus management.

*prereq: Anatomy & Physiology of the Audio-Vestibular System; Instrumentation in Audiology, Diagnostic Audiology, Auditory Evoked Responses, Audiology Electrophysiology
*Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 76500 - Audiologic Research Proposal

Critiquing of research and the development of individual research proposals. Development of Institutional Review Board (IRB) application.

*prereq: Introduction to Research Methods and completion of 45 Au.D. credits
*Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 76700 - Amplification III

Advanced programming. FM fitting and evaluation; special fittings; developing technologies; current research in amplification.

*prereq: Amplification I and 2 cr of Audiology Practicum
*Hours 15 hours lecture and conference; 15 hours laboratory,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 77000 - Cochlear Implants and other Sensory Aids

Effects of electrical stimulation on the auditory system; exploration of candidacy, principles of signal processing, and audiologic management for children and adults who use cochlear implants and other sensory aids.

*prereq: courses in Anatomy & Physiology of the Audio-Vestibular System; Acoustics and Psychoacoustics; Speech-Language Sciences; Physiological Acoustics; Instrumentation in Audiology, Amplification I
*Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 77200 - Auditory Processing Disorders: Assessment and Treatment

Relevant neuroanatomy and physiology of auditory pathways: behavioral and physiological assessment techniques and management procedures for children and adults with auditory processing disorders.
prereq: Auditory Evoked Responses; Auditory Electrophysiology, Speech-Language Pathology for Audiologists, Pediatric Audiology, Audiologic Habilitation and 2 cr of Audiology Practicum
Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 77400 - Hearing and Aging

Examination of the biological, physiological and sociological changes accompanying the aging process; protocols for evaluating and treating older adults with hearing impairment.

prereq: courses in Diagnostic Audiology and Anatomy & Physiology of the Audio-Vestibular System; Auditory Electrophysiology; Communication Skills of Adults with Hearing Loss
Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 77600 - Seminar in Professional Practice - Business Practices

Issues of a professional nature that impact on the practice of audiology. Topics include licensure, accreditation/certification, quality assurance, reimbursement, establishing a private practice, professional liability, privacy/confidentiality and ethics.

prereq: courses in Diagnostic Audiology; Audiology Practicum; Audiology Seminar; Amplification II
Hours 30 hours lecture plus conference,
Credits 3 cr

AUD 78000 - Audiologic Research

Students, under the direction of their clinical research project committee, will carry out the proposal developed in Audiologic Research Proposal.

prereq: Audiologic Research Proposal
Hours 15 hours,
Credits 1 cr

AUD 79000 - Audiology Practicum

Clinical Practicum in assessment and management of a wide variety of hearing disorders under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York licensed audiologist.

Hours 15 hours laboratory,
Credits 1 cr

AUD 79600 - Seminar in Audiology

Examination of ethical issues, certification standards, Center policies and procedures, infectious disease and infection control, history taking, report-writing, counseling, case studies, procedures and protocol in various settings.

Hours 15 hours,
Credits 1 cr

AUD 79800 - Independent Study
Limited research review or research study to permit in-depth exploration of single area; with faculty supervision.

Hours Conference,
Credits 1-3 cr

AUD 79900 - Audiology Residency

Students will be placed and supervised in setting(s), which will meet CAA standards for the certificate of Clinical Competence for the clinical residency year. Student must successfully complete this course two times.

coreq: Audiology Residency Seminar.
Credits 1-3 cr
prereq for the 1st semester of Audiology Residency: Completion of 6 credits of Audiology Practicum and 6 credits of Audiology Seminar

COMSC 60400 - Introduction to Language Science

An introduction to the nature of language and communication. Topics include components of the linguistic system, relationship between verbal and non-verbal communication, and language acquisition across the life span.

Hours 45
Credits 3

COMSC 60700 - Phonetics of American English

Hours 45
Credits 3

COMSC 61500 - Speech and Its Production

An overview of the structure of speech and the basic mechanisms involved the production of speech sounds; a foundation for a more in-depth study of speech science and its application to clinical practice in speech-language pathology and audiology; structure and organization of the ventilatory, laryngeal, supralaryngeal and orofacial mechanisms; issues in basic speech acoustics and perception.

Hours 45

COMSC 62000 - Introduction to Speech-Language Pathology

Introduction to organic and behavioral correlates of human communication; its development and disorders. The influence of culture, heritage, and socioeconomic status on the disorders of voice, articulation, fluency, and language.

Hours 45
Credits 3

COMSC 64000 - Introduction to Audiology
Etiology and pathology of hearing disorders, basic properties of the auditory stimulus: measurement of pure tone thresholds by air and bone conduction. Overview of the audiologist in diagnosis and management of hearing disorders.

Hours 45

COMSC 70000 - Introduction to Research Methods

Introduction to basic research design and techniques used to study basic and applied communication science. Included is an overview of basic concepts and terminology, with emphasis on developing the ability to form a reasonable critical assessment of published literature. The course will focus on the development of technical writing skills, conducting thorough and efficient library and Internet research, the interpretation of graphical information, and a working understanding of common statistical models.

prereq: none
Hours 45

COMSC 70200 - Multicultural Issues in Counseling and Communication

This course presents a multicultural perspective of counseling theories, techniques and strategies for persons with disorders and their families. It addresses the impact of cultural, ethnic, gender, socioeconomic and individual variations in culturally appropriate delivery of services to individuals with speech-language disorders as well as those acquiring English as a second language.

prereq: COMSC 72000
Hours 45

COMSC 70300 - Professional Practice in Educational Settings

The multifaceted role of the speech language pathologist in school settings; models of service delivery; collaborative assessment and teaching; computerized teaching programs; national and state legislation and regulations; rights and responsibilities of teachers and other staff; individualized educational planning; language-based learning disabilities; cultural diversity issues including bilingual and multicultural issues; roles of language in academic development and instruction; drug abuse education and fire safety. For successful completion of the course, students must also attend (a) a 2-hour workshop on identifying and reporting suspected child abuse or maltreatment; (b) a 2-hour workshop on school violence prevention and intervention.

prereq: COMSC 72000
Hours 45

COMSC 70500 - Acoustics, Physiologic and Auditory Phonetics

A comprehensive overview of basic phonetic science, as well as a foundation for its application to clinically relevant issues; basic concepts and terminology associated with the scientific study of the production, structure, transmission, and perception of the speech signal; acquisition, measurement and interpretation of physical data; speech and voice acoustics, aerodynamics, glottography, and kinematics.

prereq: COMSC 70800
COMSC 70600 - Summative Project I

The intention of this project is for students to demonstrate skills acquired in graduate school, including field research, writing, oral presentation and critical thinking. It is meant to advance and facilitate student-initiated research in the field of speech/language pathology. Current and relevant topics in the fields of speech/language pathology, applied linguistics, psycholinguistics, and education with emphasis on students' coursework at Hunter College will be considered.

prereq or coreq: none

COMSC 70700 - Summative Project II

COMSC 70600 and 70700 are designed to facilitate the completion of a summative project. Students are intended to demonstrate skills acquired in graduate school, including field research, writing, oral presentation and critical thinking. It is meant to advance and facilitate student-initiated research in the field of speech/language pathology. Current and relevant topics in the fields of speech/language pathology, applied linguistics, psycholinguistics, and education with emphasis on students’ coursework at Hunter college will be considered.

prereq or coreq: none

COMSC 71100 - Models of Language

Designed to further the understanding of the nature of language acquisition process as it pertains to the field of speech/language pathology. By surveying the various scientific proposals with respect to language learning, the student will gain a richer understanding of how language learning might be interrupted. The student will gain exposure to an interdisciplinary approach to the notion of language learning.

prereq: none

COMSC 71200 - Neural Processes of Communication

Neuroanatomy of normal processes and disorders of speech, swallowing, language, vision, hearing, emotion, cognition and communication; development of the human nervous system; neurological disorders and their effects on communication processes.

prereq: none

COMSC 71500 - Communication Processes Related to Aging
Current understanding of adult development and aging as related to communication processes and disorders. Speech, language and hearing changes, as well as social, behavioral, physical and cognitive changes associated with normal and pathological aging processes. Intervention strategies, diagnostic and treatment materials, and audiological equipment for the communicatively impaired elderly population.

prereq: COMSC 70800, 75300
Hours 45

COMSC 71600 - Phonological Development and Disorders

Anatomical/physiological, cultural and psychological aspects of articulatory and phonological development and disorders; methods of prevention, assessment and intervention across the range of severity and etiology; impact of phonological disorders on acquisition of literacy; collaboration with teachers in management.

prereq: COMSC 72000
Hours 45

COMSC 71700 - Language Disorders in Children

Language and communication disorders and differences in children from infancy through adolescence, including specific language impairment, pervasive developmental delay, autism and mental retardation, cognitive and social aspects of communication, variation in severity and type of disorders; management of children requiring special education as mandated by Federal Law; implications of early language disorders on literacy acquisition, assessment and intervention; cultural diversity issues; interdisciplinary strategies for intervention for children with communication challenges within the home, preschool, school, and community settings.

prereq: COMSC 71100
Hours 45

COMSC 71800 - Language and Literacy Disorders in School-Age Children

The impact of language disorders in school-age children and adolescents on their acquisition of academic skills required for the development of literacy skills and written language (reading, spelling and writing); cognitive and social aspects of communication; formal and informal assessment; collaborative management strategies; cultural diversity issues.

prereq: COMSC 71100
Hours 45

COMSC 71900 - Assessment and Management of Dysphagia across the Lifespan

Normal and abnormal swallowing function across the lifespan, clinically known as dysphagia; evaluation, management, and treatment of dysphagia across various neurological, mechanical, and esophageal conditions in infants, children and adults will be emphasized. Interpretation of modified barium swallow (MBS) and fiberoptic endoscopic evaluation of swallow (FEES) studies as well as non-oral options for nutrition/hydration will be addressed.

Hours 60
Credits 4
COMSC 72000 - Clinical Methods in Speech-Language Pathology

This course is an introduction to the scope and essentials of clinical practicum across the life span as reflected in the management of speech and language disorders in pediatric and adult populations. Basic clinical methods and procedures will be emphasized, including the development of the skills to select therapy targets, develop session plans, generate behavioral objectives and write SOAP notes. 25 hours of clinical observation (external to the course hours) are included. Completion of workshops in reporting child abuse and violence protection in the classroom will be required.

coreq: COMSC 70000, 70800, 71100, 71200
Hours 45
Credits 3

COMSC 72200 - Fluency Disorders

Anatomical/physiological, neurological, psychological, developmental, linguistic and cultural bases of fluency disorders; methods of prevention, assessment and intervention across the life span and range of severity and etiology; management in social, educational and vocational settings.

prereq: COMSC 70800, 71200
Hours 30

COMSC 72300 - Studies in Bilingualism

A survey of classical and contemporary psycholinguistics literature as it pertains to bilingual speakers (both children and adults). The ways in which languages can be acquired and be represented will be reviewed in preparation for understanding how language and communication disorders might manifest in bilingual speakers. Several critical articles on the study of bilingualism will be discussed, under the following headings: (1) psycholinguistics from a cross language perspective, (2) early bilingual development, (3) the bilingual brain, (4) learning to read in more than one script, and (5) the cognitive impact of bilingualism. In addition, students will be engaged in discussions regarding the nature of bilingual language skills, the role of language in second language learning and how these factors impact assessment and treatment of language and communication disorders.

Hours 45

COMSC 72400 - Developmental and Acquired Motor Speech and Swallowing Disorders

Disorders of speech resulting from neurologic impairment affecting the motor programming (apraxia) or neuromuscular execution (dysarthria) of speech in infants, children, and adults; assessment and therapeutic management strategies in social, educational and vocational settings.

prereq: none
Hours 60
Credits 4

COMSC 72500 - Developmental Motor Speech and Swallowing Disorders

Diagnosis and management of childhood dysarthrias, developmental apraxia of speech and related disorders of swallowing.
prereq: COMSC 70800, 71200
Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

COMSC 72600 - Adult Neurogenic Communication Disorders

Neurological, linguistic, cognitive and psychological aspects of acquired communication disorders across the life span, including aphasia, traumatic brain injury, and dementia; prevention, assessment and intervention across a range of severity and etiology; interdisciplinary collaboration in acute care, home, educational and vocational settings.

prereq: COMSC 71200
Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

COMSC 72700 - Voice Disorders

The identification, assessment, diagnosis, and management of dysphonia and related laryngeal disorders; an overview of the functional, congenital, psychogenic, trauma-related, organic and neurogenic disorders that can affect vocal function, respiration, and resonance. The role of stroboscopy, glottography, aerodynamic and acoustic measures in the assessment of phonatory disorder is discussed and a survey of treatment techniques and strategies for voice patients is discussed. An off-campus trip to an ENT/voice lab in the metropolitan area will be scheduled for later in the semester.

prereq: COMSC 70800, 71200
Hours 30

COMSC 72800 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology

First-year spring semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised on-campus clinical practica include experiences with individuals who have speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood, adolescence or adulthood. COMSC 728.04, for students in the bilingual extension, designates a special section of COMSC 728 for practicum with Spanish-speaking children eligible for bilingual services.

prereq: COMSC 72000, 73300
Credits 1 cr

COMSC 72900 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 1

Second-year fall semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised on-campus clinical practica or off-campus clinical practica include experiences with individuals who have speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood, adolescence or adulthood. COMSC 72904 for students in the bilingual extension, designates a special section of COMSC 72900 for practicum with Spanish speaking children eligible for bilingual services.

prereq: COMSC 73300
coreq: COMSC 73600
Credits 1 cr
COMSC 72904 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 1

for students in the bilingual extension, designates a special section of COMSC 72900 for practicum with Spanish-speaking children eligible for bilingual services.

prereq: COMSC 73300
coreq: COMSC 73600

COMSC 73000 - Cleft Palate and Craniofacial Disorders of Speech

Broad spectrum of velopharyngeal incompetence, including embryogenesis, classification of clefts, aspects of cleft palate speech, associated disorders, modes of formal and informal assessment and intervention strategies within the home, school, hospital and work environments; current surgical and prosthetic management of cleft lip, palate and related craniofacial disorders; impact on learning and literacy acquisition.

prereq: COMSC 70800, 71200
Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

COMSC 73100 - Assessment and Management of Speech, Voice, and Swallowing Following Surgical Intervention for Head and Neck Cancer

Assessment and management of surgically based swallowing disorders in children, adolescents and adults; rehabilitation of speech, voice following oral and laryngeal surgery including the use of speech aids.

prereq: COMSC 70800, 71200
Hours 45 hrs,
Credits 3 cr

COMSC 73300 - Clinical Methods in Speech-Language Pathology: Diagnosis and Assessment

This course is a continuation of the discussion of the scope and essentials of clinical practicum, as reflected in the identification and assessment of speech and language disorders across the life span. Basic clinical methods and procedures will be emphasized, including the development of the skills related to generating and interpreting diagnostic reports. Students will learn about processes related to the selection, interpretation, and administration of appropriate, client-specific formal and informal assessment tools.

prereq: COMSC 72000
Hours 30

COMSC 73500 - Clinical Methods in Speech-Language Pathology: Reading and Dyslexia

This clinical seminar addresses typical processes of reading across the life span including pre-literacy skills. Reading disorders in children and adults are discussed; differential diagnosis; therapeutic intervention; the role of the speech-language pathologist in the educational setting; collaboration among reading professionals, school-based curriculum and neuro-rehabilitation.
COMSC 73600 - Clinical Seminar in Speech-Language Pathology 1

Assessment measures and intervention strategies for individuals with disorders of speech and language across the lifespan; development of professional oral and written communication skills.

prereq: COMSC 73300

COMSC 73700 - Clinical Methods in Speech Language Pathology: Developmental Disabilities and AAC

This seminar focuses on knowledge and skills in speech-language pathology related to clinical competence and professionalism, clinical interventions, and clinical research with a focus on Developmental Disabilities (DD) (intellectual disability, autism spectrum disorders, cerebral palsy, and others) & Alternative and Augmentative Communication (AAC). Topics discussed include fundamental principles of assessment, diagnostic intervention planning & implementation, data- collection & interpretation, and follow-up assessment for monitoring progress across the lifespan in individuals with developmental disabilities. Presentation of no-tech (unaided communication), low-tech, mid-tech and high-tech AAC supports will be made available.

COMSC 73800 - Communication and Developmental Disabilities

This course surveys the communication status of individuals with developmental disabilities (i.e., intellectual disability, autism spectrum disorder, and cerebral palsy) with a focus on evidence-based assessment and intervention practices across the life span.

prereq: none

COMSC 73900 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 2

Second-year spring semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised off-campus clinical practica include experiences with individuals who have speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood, adolescence, or adulthood.

prereq: COMSC 72900

COMSC 73904 - Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 2
For students in the bilingual extension, designates a special section of COMSC 73900 for practicum with Spanish-speaking children eligible for bilingual services.

prereq: COMSC 72900
coreq: COMSC 73700

COMSC 75200 - Audiology for Speech-Language Pathologists

This course provides an overview of topics in audiology that are highly relevant to the professional in speech-language pathology. Specifically, identification, assessment and management of individuals across the life span (newborns through older adults) who have hearing loss and auditory processing disorders and disabilities are topics covered. Particular emphasis will be on the role of speech-language pathologists in aural rehabilitive processes including cochlear implant use and other assistive technologies. Roles and responsibilities of the speech-language pathologist working with professionals in other disciplines as delineated in the Scope of Practice for the profession and the Code of Ethics of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association are similarly reviewed.

prereq: none
Hours 45

COMSC 77100 - Summer Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 1

First-year summer semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervisor of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised on-campus clinical practicum and off-campus clinical practica include experiences with students with speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood and adolescence, as well as with adults.

prereq: COMSC 73300
Credits 1 cr

COMSC 77200 - Summer Clinical Practicum in Speech-Language Pathology 2

Second year summer semester clinical practicum in assessment and management of communication disorders of varying types and severity under the supervision of an ASHA certified and New York State licensed speech-language pathologist. College-supervised on-campus clinical practica and off-campus clinical practica include experiences with students with speech and language disabilities in early childhood, childhood, middle childhood, adolescence, as well as with adults.

prereq: COMSC 77100
Credits 1 cr

COMSC 78100 - Independent Study

Limited research review or research study to permit in-depth exploration of single area; with faculty supervision.

prereq: completion of 24 cr. minimum
Hours Hours to be arranged
Credits 2 cr
COMSC 78200 - Independent Study

Limited research review or research study to permit in-depth exploration of single area; with faculty supervision.

prereq: completion of 24 cr. minimum

Hours: Hours to be arranged
Credits: 2 cr

COMSC 79000 - Special Topics in Speech-Language Pathology or Audiology

Hours: 45 hrs,
Credits: 3 cr

COMSC 79600 - Special Problems

Directed study under supervision of faculty members. For doctoral credit, must be supervised by member of doctoral faculty.

Hours: 45 hrs,
Credits: 3 cr

COMSC 79900 - Thesis Seminar

Individual research under supervision.

School of Social Work: Tuition Assistance

Loans and Scholarships from the Dorothy and Alfred Silberman Fund are the principal source of tuition assistance available to students at the School of Social Work. These grants are based primarily on financial need. In addition, various public and voluntary agencies and foundations provide some assistance in the form of scholarships and stipends. Inquiries concerning School of Social Work sponsored financial assistance should be addressed to The Enrollment Management Office, Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College, 2180 Third Avenue, 7th Floor, New York, NY 10035.

School of Urban Public Health Courses

School of Urban Public Health

About the School

Hunter College's School of Urban Public Health educates students to contribute to improving urban health by addressing problems such as HIV, substance abuse, asthma, obesity, under-nutrition, violence, heart disease and cancer. The School offers undergraduate programs in Community Health and in Nutrition. Hunter's School of Urban Public Health shares an eight-story, 147,000-square-foot green building on Third Avenue between East 118th and 119th Streets with the Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College. Faculty, staff and students from both schools work closely with community organizations and health and social service agencies in East Harlem to strengthen existing and create new approaches to improving the well-being of East Harlem and other low-income communities.

The MS degree in Nutrition is designed for individuals seeking to attain the RD credential. The MS in Nutrition is an accredited didactic program in dietetics (DPD), completion of which certifies eligibility to apply for a dietetic internship.

The Accelerated BS/MS is for third year NFS majors who are interested in completing their degree and then continuing at Hunter to obtain a master's degree and verification statement (students will be provisionally accepted into the program in their junior year but must maintain grade requirements to matriculate into the MS-DPD program). This accelerated pathway provides the opportunity for undergraduate students to remain at Hunter for their graduate coursework providing students the opportunity for academic acceleration to a graduate degree.

What can I do with my degree in Nutrition and Food Science?
Graduates of the NUTR-MS program may work as nutritionists in a wide variety of health care facilities including hospitals and public health agencies. Since the MS-Nutrition curriculum meets the didactic program in dietetics (DPD) requirements established by the Commission on Accreditation for Dietetics Education (CADE), the credentialing arm of the American Dietetic Association (ADA), the program will qualify students from the BS/MS accelerated track to apply for Dietetic Internships and continue their professional preparation for the Registered Dietitian (RD) credential.

Accreditation

The NUTR-MS is a didactic program in dietetics (DPD), accredited by the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND), formerly known as the Commission on Accreditation of Dietetics Education (CADE), the accrediting agency of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics. The Dietetic Internship is also accredited by ACEND. Both the DPD and DI programs are designed for individuals seeking to become eligible to sit for the national registration examination in dietetics to become credentialed as a Registered Dietitian (RD).

BIOS 75000 - Applied Biostatistics I

A follow up course to PH 7500/75100 and PH 75200/75300, covering intermediate-level statistical methods commonly used in public health research. Topics include: simple and multiple linear regression; logistic regression; residual analysis; variable selection. Focus on practical applications, utilizing statistical software.

Cross-listed STAT 75000
BIOS 75100 - Applied Biostatistics II

A follow up course to BIOS 75000, covering intermediate and advanced statistical methods commonly used in public health research. Topics include: log linear and generalized linear models; random and mixed effects models; survival analysis. Focus on practical applications utilizing statistical software.

Cross-listed STAT 75100

BIOS 75200 - Analysis of Categorical Data

An introduction to statistical models for analyzing categorical data, with emphasis on examples from the health sciences. Topics include: contingency tables and corresponding tests such as chi-square, CMH and trend test, count data, logistic regression and log-linear models.

Cross-listed STAT 75200

BIOS 75300 - Analysis of Longitudinal Data

An introduction to statistical models and methods for analyzing longitudinal data in public health. Topics include: longitudinal designs and cohort sampling, general linear models for longitudinal data, marginal & random effects models, time-dependent covariates, missing values.

Cross-listed STAT 75300

BIOS 75400 - Design and Analysis of Complex Surveys

This course provides an introduction to statistical issues in the design and analysis of complex surveys, with a particular emphasis on public health research. Topics include: basic sampling techniques, stratified and cluster sampling, non-sampling errors, and case studies.

Cross-listed STAT 75400

BIOS 75500 - Survival Analysis

An introduction to regression modeling used in the analysis of time-to-event data in epidemiological, biostatistical, and other health-related research. Topics include: survival functions, proportional-hazards, parametric and competing-risks models, missing data, using case studies.

Cross-listed STAT 75500

BIOS 75600 - Data Analysis
Probability-free alternatives to classical statistics, concentrating on graphical and robust methods. Topics include: data summaries; transformations; the jackknife and resampling schemes; robust estimation; and robust regression methods.

Cross-listed STAT 71600
prereq: BIOS 75000

BIOS 75800 - Analysis of Variance

Intermediate topics in analysis of variance (ANOVA), with an emphasis on exploratory aspects. Topics including: one, two and many way layouts; decomposition and partitioning of variance; fixed, random, and mixed effects models; repeated measures; contrasts; multiple comparisons; and robust analogs.

Cross-listed STAT 71800
prereq: BIOS 75000

BIOS 77000 - Topics in Biostatistics

Courses on current topics in biostatistics.

Offered periodically

BIOS 77001 - Applied Biostatistics III

An advanced biostatistics course that focuses on mixed models, GEE for analysis of correlated data, management of missing data and imputation, propensity scoring, and causal inference.

prereq: BIOS 75100 and EPI 75100

COMHE 75000 - Community Health Assessment

This course prepares students to collect and analyze data on community health from a variety of sources, to identify problems and assets, and to develop objectives for community health interventions.

prereq: PH 75500
Hours 45
Credits 3

COMHE 75100 - Community Health Interventions

An introduction to community-level interventions as explained by theories of individual, organizational and community change from the disciplines of psychology, sociology and health education.

prereq: PH 75500, COMHE 75000

COMHE 75200 - Community Organizing and Development for Health

Prepares students to work in communities by presenting the theory and practice of organizing for social justice, skills for promoting leadership development within communities, and the tools to create and sustain healthy organizations.
prereq: PH 75500, COMHE 75000, COMHE 75100

COMHE 75300 - Health Program Planning and Funding

This course will engage students in identifying or designing a health program, finding funding sources, and developing a proposal covering program need, program objectives, a management and quality assurance plan, preliminary work, evaluation, budget, and a plan for funding support.

prereq: completion of 15 cr incl PH 75000 or 75100, PH 75500 and either COMHE 75000, COMHE 75100, COMHE 75200 or COMHE 75000 and NUTR 71000 or NURS 77100, COMHE 75100 and COMHE 75200.
Credits 3 cr

COMHE 75400 - Research and Evaluation for Community Health

Basic concepts, methods and approaches for evaluation research applied to community health education and health-related programs through a critical review of literature and a program evaluation design.

prereq: 15 cr in program incl PH 75000 or PH 75100, PH 75500, COMHE 75000, COMHE 75100, COMHE 75200
Credits 3 cr

COMHE 77000 - Topics in Community Health Education

Courses on current topics in community health education.

offered periodically

COMHE 77025 - Maternal and Child Health

This course explores maternal and child health issues both domestically and internationally.

Credits 3

EOHS 70200 - Introduction to Occupational Safety and Health

Introduction to basic concepts and issues of occupational safety and health, including recognition and control of chemical and physical hazards, and the regulations governing these hazards.

Credits 3

EOHS 70500 - Environmental Chemistry

Survey of chemical and physical concepts essential for understanding environmental and occupational health sciences, including study of the atmosphere, air and water pollution, and energy resources. Physical principles of heat and energy, and radioactivity will be discussed.

Credits 3

EOHS 71000 - Industrial Safety and Safety Management
Fundamental concepts and principles of industrial accident prevention and loss control; safety program organization; hazard recognition and evaluation; accident investigation; machine guarding; tire protection; personal protective equipment.

Credits 3

EOHS 74100 - Environmental and Industrial Hygiene Laboratory

Physical, chemical, and instrumental methods for measuring environmental and occupational contaminants.

prereq or coreq: EOHS 70500
Hours 90 hrs lec and lab,
Credits 4 cr

EOHS 74300 - Air Resource Management

Air pollution sources, types of pollutants, transport phenomena, effects on health and on vegetation and materials; air quality monitoring, criteria, standards, and control methods.

Credits 3

EOHS 74500 - Hazardous Waste Management

A review of the sources, transportation and control of hazardous chemical wastes. Regulatory requirements, disposal methods and health effects will also be presented.

Credits 3

EOHS 74600 - Water Resources

Water and waste water technology related to public health. Sources of water supply, distribution, treatment, chemical, biological and physical water pollutants and their health consequences. Review of federal legislation. Field trip to waste water treatment plant.

EOHS 74700 - Hazard Evaluation and Instrumentation

An introduction to instrumental methods used to assess environmental and occupational health hazards. Principles and operation of commonly used direct reading instruments and demonstration of their application.

prereq: PH 75000 or 75100, EOHS 70200, EOHS 70500

EOHS 75400 - Environment and Occupational Toxicology

Introduction to principles of toxicology with emphasis on environment and occupational aspects. Systematic review of the toxicology of major organ systems; health effects of categories of toxins, such as solvents and metals; and review of toxicological testing and evaluation.

prereq: PH 75400 and EOHS 70500
EOHS 75500 - Industrial Ventilation and Indoor Air Quality

Advanced course. This course covers the fundamentals of design, operation and evaluation of air moving systems for local and dilution exhaust ventilation systems. Engineering controls are the preferred method for the control of airborne hazards in the workplace.

prereq: EOHS 70200 and PH 75400 or permission of the instructor coreq: EOHS 70200 and PH 75400 with permission of the instructor
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr.

EOHS 75700 - Principles of Industrial Hygiene

Recognition, evaluation, and control of industrial hazards due to chemical and physical agents. Topics include occupational health standards, regulatory agency activities, effects of contaminants on human health, sampling and control of hazards, current issues.

prereq: EOHS 70200 and 70500

EOHS 75900 - Industrial Processes and Plant Visits

A review of major industrial processes and health hazards associated with each. Includes site visits to metropolitan NY industrial facilities during working hours.

prereq: EOHS 75700

EOHS 76200 - Noise and Radiation Hazards and Controls

Introduction to basic concepts of sound, noise measurement, and noise control in community and occupational environments. Health and safety problems involved with the use of ionizing and non-ionizing radiation, with an emphasis on identification and control.

prereq or coreq: EOHS 70500

EOHS 76500 - Environmental Audits and Remediation

Introduction to environmental investigation and remediation technologies commonly used in professional practice. Presents proper practices for assessing and remediating asbestos, lead-based paint, indoor air quality, and underground storage tanks situations and Phase I site audits.

prereq: PH 75000 or 75100
Credits 3

EOHS 77000 - Topics in Environmental and Occupational Health Sciences

Courses on current topics in environmental and occupational health sciences.

Offered periodically.
EOHS 77025 - Topics: Biohazards and Emergency Response

This cross-listed undergraduate/masters class covers the biology of microorganisms and toxins most frequently considered in perpetrated attacks. It also considers technology for detection and control for first responders, lab practitioners and other healthcare professionals, emergency communication, and prevention. In addition to classroom activities, students participate in group projects to simulate bioterrorism events and responses; government regulation, chain of evidence, and related topics are covered.

Cross-listed MLS 40066
Credits 3

EOHS 77500 - Indoor Air Quality

A review of sources indoor air pollution and its evaluation and control. Topics include assessment techniques, air sampling, HVAC assessment and remediation approaches.

Credits 3

EPI 75000 - Epidemiologic Methods I: Study Research Design

This course will provide an in depth understanding of the design and conduct of epidemiological studies, including causal inferences, measurement, major study designs, threats to validity, and urban public health applications. Examples will be based on the health of New York City residents. Prereq: .

Cross-listed GC PH 82000
prereq: PH 75100, PH 75300
Credits 3

EPI 75100 - Epidemiologic Methods II: Survey and Research Methods

This course will provide students with an understanding of the methods used to test research hypotheses; tools for selecting statistical tests appropriate for the particular study design and research hypotheses; and an ability to recognize the importance and impact of threat to validity such as confounding and bias. This course will also cover survey methods used in epidemiologic research.

Cross-listed GC PH 82100
prereq: EPI 75000
Credits 3

EPI 75200 - Applied Research: Data management and analysis

This course provides students with the opportunity to apply epidemiological and statistical concepts using several datasets to answer a given research question and test the hypotheses associated with it

prereq: BIOS 75100, EPI 75100 or instructor's permission

EPI 75300 - Clinical Trials and Experimental Design
This course provides students with the basic foundation of experimental design, with a focus on clinical trials (single and multi-center), intervention trials, and quasi experimental design, particularly in the field of public health. The strengths and limitations of these approaches in comparison with related observational epidemiologic studies will also be covered. Specific topics to be discussed include design options (sampling, treatment allocation, cluster randomization), sample size and power considerations, adverse event monitoring, and statistical analysis of trial data.

*prereq: PH 75000/75100 and PH 75200/75300
Credits 3*

EPI 75400 - Social Epidemiology

This course will introduce public health and other interested graduate students to the sub-discipline of social epidemiology, including theory and methods. Specifically, students will gain an understanding of how an individual's interactions with factors associated with the social fabric of the society affect and shape health outcomes. This class will also examine the etiology and prevention of disease within both ecological (multi-level) and multidisciplinary frameworks.

prereq: PH 75000 or 75100, PH 75200 or 75300

EPI 75500 - Epidemiology of Chronic Diseases

This course provides students with epidemiological background information for the most common chronic disease conditions. In addition, the course provides students with hands on experience to characterize the frequency and impact of chronic diseases and their risk factors in New York City (NYC) using public data available through the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

prereq: PH 75000 or 75100, PH 75200 or 75300

EPI 75600 - Epidemiology of Infectious Diseases

This course will examine the role of epidemiology in understanding transmission, surveillance and control of infectious diseases. Special focus will be on emerging infectious diseases in urban settings.

*prereq: PH 75000 or 75100, PH 75200 or 75300
Offered periodically.*

EPI 75700 - Reproductive and Perinatal Epidemiology

This course covers current research, controversial issues, and methodological problems in the epidemiology of male and female reproduction and perinatal health. Topics include: epidemiology of fertility and infertility, contraception and hormone usage, reproductive cancers and other diseases, pregnancy complications, maternal mortality, adverse pregnancy outcomes and birth defects.

prereq: PH 75000 or 75100, PH 75200 or 75300

EPI 75800 - Nutritional Epidemiology

This course teaches concepts and principles used in nutritional epidemiology. It provides skills required to critically evaluate dietary assessment methodology and reviews current topics in nutritional epidemiology. In addition, the role of nutrition in health and how this applies to public health is discussed.
Cross-listed GC PH 81200
prereq: PH 75000 or 75100, PH 75200 or 75300

EPI 75900 - Environmental and Occupational Epidemiology

Using a case study approach, this course will explore epidemiologic methods for studying environmentally and occupationally related diseases. Key methodologic issues, such as exposure and outcome assessment, cumulative and multiple exposures, exposure pathways, research ethics, and policy implications of epidemiological findings will also be discussed. The focus will be on the environmental and occupational health of urban populations.

prereq: PH 75000 or PH 75100, PH 75200 or 75300, PH 75400

EPI 76000 - Modeling and Making the Most of your Data with R

This course will provide students with a toolkit for making the most of their data using R when appropriate. This course will consolidate many of the skills previously taught in data analysis and modeling. It will focus on the practical application of these skills throughout the lifecycle of a research project, and provide illustrations and applications of relevant techniques in R. It will provide grounding in the use of R.

prereq: EPI75100 (Epidemiological Methods II) and BIOS75100 (Applied Biostatistics II)
Open to MPH and EOHS-MS or departmental permission.
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr.

EPI 76100 - Psychiatric and Mental Health Epidemiology

An introduction to the epidemiology of mental health and mental illness. This course takes an explicit epidemiologic perspective, focusing on the study of the burden and determinants of mental illness. It reviews the extant literature on the epidemiology of specific disorders and evaluates studies that investigate risk factors for mental illness. We will consider methodologic challenges involved in the study of mental health and illness such as limitations to diagnostic techniques and screening instruments and issues surrounding co-morbidity. The course will also address the social consequences of mental illness, and consider how we may apply epidemiologic methods to promoting psychological wellbeing in the general population.

prereq: EPI 75000 (Epidemiological Methods I) or equivalent
Open to MPH and EOHS-MS or departmental permission.
recommended prereq or coreq: experience with statistical software (e.g., SPSS, SAS or STATA) preferred but not required
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr.

EPI 76200 - Life Course Epidemiology

Provides a theoretical framework as to how life-course exposures affect vulnerability to disease, knowledge about life course influences on selected diseases and the implications for prevention and control. This course will also consider how intra- and inter-generational influences may be relevant to disparities in health. Readings will address empirical patterns, prevailing theories and controversies regarding life course influences, as well as addressing interventions or policies that may be applied to improve population health.

prereq: EPI 75000 (Epidemiological Methods I)
Open to MPH and EOHS-MS or departmental permission.
EPI 76300 - Public Health Surveillance

Public health surveillance is the fundamental mechanism that public health agencies use to monitor the health of the communities they serve. It is a core function of public health practice, and its purpose is to provide a factual basis from which agencies can appropriately set priorities, plan programs, and take actions to identify and reduce disparities, promote, and protect the public's health. This course will cover the principles of public health surveillance, including historical context, vital registration, disease reporting regulations and notifiable diseases, surveillance registries, surveillance for behaviors and risk factors, administrative data sources in surveillance, epidemiologic uses of surveillance data, legal and ethical issues, and dissemination of surveillance information.

prereq: PH 75300 (Principles of Epidemiology), PH 75200 (Introduction to Epidemiology), PH 75100 (Principles of Biostatistics), PH 75000 (Introduction to Biostatistics)
Open to MPH and EOHS-MS or departmental permission.

EPI 76400 - Epidemiology Methods III

This course exposes students to intermediate methods in epidemiologic research and provides students with an opportunity to consider how these strategies complement and advance the more commonly used strategies. Doctoral and master's students will apply these concepts and theoretical knowledge to quantitative analyses using different types of epidemiologic data. Emphasis will be placed on developing practical skills relevant to contemporary epidemiologic research. Students will explore individual-level exposure-disease associations using classic study designs and techniques, as well as more recent methods that shift away from identifying individual risk factors for disease causation to the description and analysis of environmental systems that give rise to both exposures and health states. Students will also examine potential mediators of these relations.

prereq: EPI 75100 (Epidemiological Methods II) and BIOS 75100 (Applied Biostatistics II)
Open to MPH and EOHS-MS or departmental permission.

EPI 77000 - Topics in Epidemiology

Courses on current topics in epidemiology.

Offered periodically.

EPI 77005 - Epidemiological Methods IV

This seminar is intended to help students integrate the concepts and methods of epidemiologic research with specific inquiry directed at understanding and improving the health of urban populations. This seminar requires students to develop proposals for epidemiologic research, identify strategies for data analysis that incorporate the lessons learned in Epidemiology Methods courses I, II, and III, and to examine the application of those strategies to existing research. This course helps to "bring together" the epidemiology theory and methods that have been discussed throughout the rest of curriculum with the particular exigencies of urban public health.
prereq: EPI 75000/77000 or PUBH 82200 (CUNY Graduate Center)
Credits variable credits

EPI 77200 - Topics Emerging in Epidemiology

This short course brings leading experts into classrooms to teach emerging methods in epidemiology, study controversial topics, or provide a rapid immersion into a specialized topic. Each course combines didactic teaching with applied hands-on training.

prereq: PH75000 (Introduction to Biostatistics)/PH75100 (Principles of Biostatistics) and PH75200 (Introduction to Epidemiology)/PH75300 (Principles of Epidemiology)
Open to MPH and EOHS-MS or departmental permission.
Hours 22.5 total; hours vary
Credits 1.5

Social Work Course Descriptions
Silberman School of Social Work

About the School

The Lois V. and Samuel J. Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College (SSSW) is the largest and oldest public school of social work in metropolitan New York. Founded in 1956 and accredited since 1958, the School educates and trains outstanding social work professionals, who are lifelong learners engaged in knowledgeable, ethical practice with communities locally, nationally, and globally. Guided by this mission, the School is uniquely committed to social work excellence in the public interest. Its classroom curriculum, practicum experiences, and community-engaged partnerships are focused on supporting persons, families, organizations, and communities, while respecting the humanity of all individuals. The School enrolls around 1,300 students in its flagship Master of Social Work (MSW) and growing Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) programs, along with nationally recognized continuing education, executive leadership, dual master's degree, and doctoral programs.

The Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) and Master of Social Work (MSW) programs offered by the Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College are accredited by the Council on Social Work Education, 1701 Duke Street, Suite 200, Alexandria, VA 22314.

The Building and Its Uses

With the support of the Silberman family and the Hunter College senior administration, the School moved to a state-of-the-art campus in East Harlem in 2011, designed specifically to meet its needs in the community. The School was also renamed in honor of its benefactors Lois and Samuel Silberman, whose generosity not only made this relocation possible but has also steadily supported and enhanced the School for more than half a century. The Silberman Building includes a well-resourced and beautiful library; community meeting spaces; state-of-the-art classrooms and conference rooms; four computer labs with extensive software; an interior courtyard garden; and a large terrace. Co-located with the School of Social Work in the Silberman Building are the library and archives of Centro, the Center for Puerto Rican Studies at Hunter College; the Hunter East Harlem Gallery; and the Brookdale Center for Healthy Aging. These resources each enhance the School's cross-disciplinary learning environment. Together with all of Hunter College, the Silberman School of Social Work is dedicated to engaging and supporting its dynamic neighbor communities in East Harlem, and communities across the New York region and beyond.

What Can I Do with my Degree in Social Work?

A degree in social work opens up a range of exciting and meaningful professional opportunities. Most broadly, social workers support the complex needs of individuals, groups, communities, organizations, and populations across the lifespan. The National Association of Social Workers (NASW) underlines the depth and breadth of this work, describing social work practice as:

the application of social work values, principles, and techniques to one or more of the following ends: helping people obtain tangible services; counseling and psychotherapy with individuals, families, and groups; helping communities or groups provide or improve social and health services; and participating in legislative processes. The practice of social work requires knowledge of human development and behavior; of social and economic, and cultural institutions; and of the interaction of all these factors.

There is significant need across the United States for professionals who possess that knowledge along with the unique values, principles, and techniques that a social work education confers. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, "Overall employment of social workers is projected to grow 16 percent from 2016 to 2026, much faster than the average for all occupations [7%]" (BLS 2018). This growth is driven by increasing demand in the healthcare and social service sectors. Earning a social work degree is not only intellectually stimulating and socially transformational – it also offers many opportunities for career advancement.

The Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College is committed to preparing its students for practice and research across this dynamic, growing array of professional environments, approaches, and specializations. Silberman students gain comprehensive knowledge and practice capability in one of three dedicated methods; develop specialized understanding and experience in a field of practice specialization; benefit from rich professional development resources within the School and College community, alongside the support of highly accomplished faculty; and learn amid an abiding, School-wide culture committed to social justice inside and outside the classroom.

The Silberman School of Social Work is also committed to ensuring that students are prepared to take and pass the Licensed Master Social Worker (LMSW) licensure exam, administered by the Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB). Licensure is the national standard for practicing social workers. The School's Licensure Central initiative is a digital gateway that provides students with resources, materials, information, and practical steps to help them become licensed LMSWs. It is available through the Hunter Blackboard portal. The School's Department of Continuing Education, additionally, offers courses for alumni and others dedicated to licensure preparation.

These characteristics, among many, define the professional preparation and competitive edge that Silberman School of Social Work students bring into their entire careers.

Silberman School of Social Work
About the School

The Lois V. and Samuel J. Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College (SSSW) is the largest and oldest public school of social work in metropolitan New York. Founded in 1956 and accredited since 1958, the School educates and trains outstanding social work professionals, who are lifelong learners engaged in knowledgeable, ethical practice with communities locally, nationally, and globally. Guided by this mission, the School is uniquely committed to social work excellence in the public interest. Its classroom curriculum, practicum experiences, and community-engaged partnerships are focused on supporting persons, families, organizations, and communities, while respecting the humanity of all individuals. The School enrolls around 1,300 students in its flagship Master of Social Work (MSW) and growing Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) programs, along with nationally recognized continuing education, executive leadership, dual master's degree, and doctoral programs.

The Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) and Master of Social Work (MSW) programs offered by the Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College are accredited by the Council on Social Work Education, 1701 Duke Street, Suite 200, Alexandria, VA 22314.

The Building and Its Uses

With the support of the Silberman family and the Hunter College senior administration, the School moved to a state-of-the-art campus in East Harlem in 2011, designed specifically to meet its needs in the community. The School was also renamed in honor of its benefactors Lois and Samuel Silberman, whose generosity not only made this relocation possible but has also steadily supported and enhanced the School for more than half a century. The Silberman Building includes a well-resourced and beautiful library; community meeting spaces; state-of-the-art classrooms and conference rooms; four computer labs with extensive software; an interior courtyard garden; and a large terrace. Co-located with the School of Social Work in the Silberman Building are the library and archives of Centro, the Center for Puerto Rican Studies at Hunter College; the Hunter East Harlem Gallery; and the Brookdale Center for Healthy Aging. These resources each enhance the School's cross-disciplinary learning environment. Together with all of Hunter College, the Silberman School of Social Work is dedicated to engaging and supporting its dynamic neighbor communities in East Harlem, and communities across the New York region and beyond.

What Can I Do with my Degree in Social Work?

A degree in social work opens up a range of exciting and meaningful professional opportunities. Most broadly, social workers support the complex needs of individuals, groups, communities, organizations, and populations across the lifespan. The National Association of Social Workers (NASW) underlines the depth and breadth of this work, describing social work practice as:

the application of social work values, principles, and techniques to one or more of the following ends: helping people obtain tangible services; counseling and psychotherapy with individuals, families, and groups; helping communities or groups provide or improve social and health services; and participating in legislative processes. The practice of social work requires knowledge of human development and behavior; of social and economic, and cultural institutions; and of the interaction of all these factors.

There is significant need across the United States for professionals who possess that knowledge along with the unique values, principles, and techniques that a social work education confers. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, "Overall employment of social workers is projected to grow 16 percent from 2016 to 2026, much faster than the average for all occupations [7%]" (BLS 2018). This growth is driven by increasing demand in the healthcare and social service sectors. Earning a social work degree is not only intellectually stimulating and socially transformational – it also offers many opportunities for career advancement.
The Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College is committed to preparing its students for practice and research across this dynamic, growing array of professional environments, approaches, and specializations. Silberman students gain comprehensive knowledge and practice capability in one of three dedicated methods; develop specialized understanding and experience in a field of practice specialization; benefit from rich professional development resources within the School and College community, alongside the support of highly accomplished faculty; and learn amid an abiding, School-wide culture committed to social justice inside and outside the classroom.

The Silberman School of Social Work is also committed to ensuring that students are prepared to take and pass the Licensed Master Social Worker (LMSW) licensure exam, administered by the Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB). Licensure is the national standard for practicing social workers. The School's Licensure Central initiative is a digital gateway that provides students with resources, materials, information, and practical steps to help them become licensed LMSWs. It is available through the Hunter Blackboard portal. The School's Department of Continuing Education, additionally, offers courses for alumni and others dedicated to licensure preparation.

These characteristics, among many, define the professional preparation and competitive edge that Silberman School of Social Work students bring into their entire careers.

Master's Programs

Dual Degree in Social Work and Divinity - MSW/MDiv

Introduction

Introduction

The Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College (SSSW) and the Union Theological Seminary (UTS) are internationally recognized leaders in social work and theological education, respectively. Complementing Silberman's mission and historical commitment to social justice, UTS – the oldest independent seminary in the nation – is distinguished by an interdenominational, interreligious focus and strong ethics curriculum. Its students develop integrated understandings of spiritual and social contexts. Located in East Harlem (SSSW) and Morningside Heights (UTS), neighborhoods which face disproportionate social challenges, these two schools are poised to capitalize on their proximity and mutual responsiveness to the needs of New York City communities. Together, SSSW and UTS offer the MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program in Social Work and Divinity to streamline the pathway to earning both degrees, maximizing educational experiences and professional opportunities for students interested in careers that bridge religious studies with clinical social work.

The MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program builds upon core values shared by these two vocations across their closely entwined histories of social justice, community empowerment, and service. These values include: an appreciation of the diversity of religious and spiritual beliefs, and how these influence individuals and communities; the connection of the bio-psycho-social to the spiritual; and self-awareness as students and practitioners explore their personal and professional identities. To this end, the Program’s goals are to:

- Train master's-level professionals who can provide multi-level, comprehensive, and effective services to assure the health and well-being of individuals, communities, and populations while understanding, mobilizing, and supporting spiritual beliefs, networks, and organizations as significant resources.

- Facilitate students' attainment of social work, spiritual care, and interdisciplinary competencies.

- Facilitate interdisciplinary collaboration between SSSW and UTS faculty and staff in curriculum development, teaching, research, and practice.

- Partner with organizations in East Harlem, Morningside Heights, and other urban communities of need to develop multi-disciplinary service learning experiences and applied research opportunities that utilize spiritual beliefs and practices, networks, and organizations to ameliorate health disparities and improve well-being.

Students in the MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program are able to earn both degrees concurrently in four years through a streamlined, 105-credit curriculum based upon the goals above – compared to 138 credits over five years, which would be required in order to complete them separately. This streamlined curriculum removes overlapping course requirements; cross-honors electives; and ensures that students achieve competencies required among both MSW and MDiv graduates. For more details about the curriculum, please see Program Description below.

What Can I Do with my MSW-MDiv Dual Degree?

Students who graduate from the MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program will be highly prepared for professional practice that integrates spirituality with clinical social work and social welfare. Recent literature points to the growing value of this dual-expertise. Religion and spirituality are increasingly seen as integral to the lives of many of the populations social workers have historically served. Since 2011, the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) has dedicated resources to building social workers' capacities with diverse religious and spiritual expression among their clients. The field of theology at the same time has moved to prepare ministers to serve people and communities facing adverse challenges, through a deep understanding of social systems, structures, oppression, and injustice. Graduates of the MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program will enter a professional landscape with a strong demand for their unique combination of competencies, skills, and expertise.

Specific professional roles that MSW-MDiv graduates will be well-prepared for include:

Professional Roles for MSW/MDiv Dual Degree Graduates

Chaplaincy

Hospital

Prison
Clinical Social Worker

Individual
Family
Small Groups

Ordained Religious Leader/Clergy/Pastor

Executive Director
Discharge Planner
Grants Administrator
Grant Writer
Community Organizer
Program Director
Project Manager
Program Coordinator
Substance Abuse Counselor
Pastoral Psychotherapist

Admissions Requirements & Registration

Prospective MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program students typically must apply to each school separately and simultaneously, and must gain admission to each school according to its standard criteria.

Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College – MSW Program, Full-Time Pathway in the Clinical Practice method – SSSW Admissions

Union Theological Seminary – Union Theological Admissions
Applicants may indicate that they are applying for the Program by selecting a designated option on CUNY's "Apply Yourself" application portal.

Union Theological students who decide to pursue the Dual Degree Program after they have begun MDiv studies must apply and gain admission to SSSW prior to the end of their first semester at UTS. Likewise, Silberman students who decide to pursue the Program after they have begun MSW studies must apply and gain admission to UTS prior to the end of their first semester at SSSW. In both of these cases, individual modifications to the program pathway may be necessary and the student's time to completion may be more than four years.

Once matriculated in the MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program, students must register at both the Silberman School of Social Work and Union Theological Seminary. For the first two years of the program, Union Theological Seminary serves as the student's primary institution of record and handles the bulk of student registration; the Silberman School of Social Work then takes on this role during the student's final two years in the program.

Advisement

Each school maintains a dedicated advisor for students in the MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program, who is able to answer questions and assist matriculated students with course registration, degree planning, and accessing resources for success:

MSW/MDiv Program Description

The 105-credit MSW-MDiv curriculum includes 48 credits from UTS, 51 credits from Silberman, and 6 integrated credits (three credits of which are allocated to each program for a total of 51 and 54 credits, respectively). It is designed to provide students with competencies in social work and theological principles, methods, and evidenced-based practice, as well as interdisciplinary competencies in understanding and addressing urban social problems and advocating for social justice issues. The curriculum is comprised of most existing courses within each discipline. The major components are summarized below.

For the greatest level of detail on curricular requirements specific to Union Theological Seminary, please see UTS Academics.

See here for UTS Course Descriptions.

A. Required core and foundation courses

YEAR ONE

YEAR ONE Social Work foundation courses: (6 credits)
Students will gain a foundation in social work frameworks and approaches, including anti-oppressive work, through a year-long required course named Practice Lab.

SSW 71700 - Social Work Practice Learning Lab 1
SSW 71800 - Social Work Practice Learning Lab 2

YEAR ONE UTS core courses: (23-27 credits)

Students will gain foundational knowledge and understanding of the historical and contemporary sources, methods, issues, and perspectives addressed within and by theological disciplines. Students will complete courses in four of the five core areas of the M.Div. curriculum: Bible, Church History, Theology, and Interreligious Engagement. See UTS Course Descriptions

Summer CPE - recommend elective (6 credits)

*The required number of UTS general elective credits ranges from 10-14 credits depending on a student's Option A or Option B choices in the Biblical, Historical, or Practical fields. Most electives carry three credits but some may carry one or two credits (e.g., SU courses and guided readings).

YEAR THREE

Students will learn concepts relevant to each phase of the life cycle within the conceptual framework of human behavior and its interaction with the social environment.

Human Behavior in the Social Environment (6 credits)
SSW 71100 - Human Behavior and the Social Environment I

Identification and integration of pertinent concepts relevant to each phase of the life cycle; biological, psychological, and social systems theories within the conceptual framework of human behavior and its interaction with the social environment.

Credits 3
SSW 71100, 71200 and 71300 are required. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

SSW 71200 - Human Behavior and the Social Environment II

Required sequel to SSW 711. Exploration of normative life span progress from adolescence through older adulthood using theories of multicausality, gender, social class, and cultural pluralism and diversity.

prereq: SSW 711
Credits 3
SSW 71100, 71200 and 71300 are required. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

Foundation Practice Method: Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families, and Small Groups (6 credits)

The method-based concentration at the Silberman School of Social Work, known as the Practice Method, is integral to students' academic and professional experiences throughout the MSW Program. Students in the MSW-MDiv Dual Degree Program must enroll in the Clinical Practice with individuals, Families, and Small Groups (CPIFG) Practice Method. In Year Three, they will develop foundational competencies in assessment, diagnosis, and treatment including psychotherapy and counseling; client-centered advocacy; consultation and evaluations.

SSW 72100 - Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families, and Small Groups I

Development and use of clinical theory, practice and process. Integration and application of the values that underpin social work practice to engagement, biopsychosocial assessment and intervention.

prereq: SSW 71700
Credits 3
NOTE: SSW 72100, 72200 and 72300 are required for all Clinical Practice with Individuals and Families majors. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

SSW 72200 - Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families, and Small Groups II

Application of clinical principles, including those of psychodynamic and family systems theories. Knowledge from human behavior and the social environment and social welfare policy and services areas and research findings is applied to the assessment of clients and their situations.

Credits 3
NOTE: SSW 72100, 72200 and 72300 are required for all Clinical Practice with Individuals and Families majors. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

Foundation Field Practicum (6 credits)
The foundation-level field practicum is a crucial component of Field Education at the Silberman School of Social Work. Please see immediately below for more detail about Field Education.

SSW 76100 - Field Instruction I

Opportunities for students to perform social work tasks under the supervision of a field instructor. The integration and application of concepts and principles in a field setting.

Credits 3

Opportunities for students to perform social work tasks under the supervision of a field instructor. The integration and application of concepts and principles in a field setting.

*prereq: SSW 76100

Credits 3

Integrative Professional Seminar (3 credits)

All MSW-MDiv students take two semester-long courses that are meant to synthesize and integrate learning, first at the end of year three and again at the end of the program in year four. Known as the Integrative Professional Seminar, these courses focus on integrating students' identities as both social workers and faith-based practitioners to help launch them as professionals.

SSW 79000 - Professional Seminar

Utilization and integration of practice, research and policy to determine how an issue may be ameliorated or resolved. Taken in the final semester.

Credits 3

This is a required course for all students.

YEAR FOUR

Human Behavior in the Social Environment (3 credits)

SSW 71300 - Human Behavior and the Social Environment III

Understanding dysfunction. Concepts of mental health and illness, deviance and conformity; classification systems; influences on the diagnosis and treatment processes. Theories of etiology and treatment in relation to the needs of families, groups and communities. Attendance at an additional 2-hour lecture on psychopharmacology is required.

*prereq: SSW 711 and 712
Credits 3
SSW 71100, 71200 and 71300 are required. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.*

Advanced Practice Method: Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families, and Small Groups (3 credits)

In Year Four, students will develop advanced competencies in assessment, diagnosis and treatment including psychotherapy and counseling; client-centered advocacy; consultation and evaluations.

SSW 72300 - Clinical Practice with Individuals Families, and Small Groups III

Expands and deepens knowledge and skills from multiple theoretical perspectives for professional practice. Exploration of contemporary time-limited clinical practice models with a focus on the interface of these approaches with contextual factors such as agency setting; socio-cultural specificity and the client-worker relationship in assessment and intervention will be emphasized.

Advanced Field Practicum (6 credits)

The advanced-level field practicum is a crucial component of Field Education at the Silberman School of Social Work. Please see immediately below for more detail about Field Education.

Social Work Research (6 credits)
Students will learn basic research methods and data analysis within the context of social work.

SSW 75100 - Social Work Research I

Principles of social research methods in the context of social work practice. Problem formulation, research design and role of research in social work, ethical issues, sampling, measurement and data collection.

Credits 3

SSW 75200 and 75200 (or SSW 75400) are required for all students. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

SSW 75200 - Social Work Research II

Measurement strategies, qualitative data analysis, descriptive and inferential statistics, and methods of quantitative data analysis; data management. Data collected by students from their research projects is analyzed.

prereq: SSW 75100 or equivalent

Credits 3

SSW 75200 and 75200 (or SSW 75400) are required for all students. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

Field Education

As professional practice degrees, both the MSW and MDiv require students to engage in supervised field placements, in which they have the opportunity to apply classroom knowledge and theories to real-world situations. All MSW-MDiv students complete field placements that incorporate into practice the knowledge, values, and skills of both disciplines. Because SSW field requirements are greater than those of UTS, SSSW will take the lead in assigning and supervising field instruction. SSSW and UTS will also identify a field advisor who holds the MSW or MDiv and knowledge of both disciplines to supervise field placements, and field instructors with experience providing instruction in dual degree programs. Students will complete between 900 and 1,200 hours of supervised field practicum as required for licensure as a Licensed Master Social Worker (LMSW) in New York State. These practica are taken in Years Three and Four, with SSW 76100 and SSW 76200 in Year Three (Foundation Field Practicum) and SSW 76300 and SSW 76400 in Year Four (Advanced Field Practicum).

B. Elective courses

Students complete seven elective courses spread between Years Two, Three, and Four, to be selected based on their academic and professional interests and goals in consultation with their academic advisor. At least one elective course should be taken from each school. UTS strongly recommends that dual degree students, particularly those on the clinical MSW path, take one unit of Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) for 6 credits that will count toward their MDiv elective requirements.

Dual Degree in Social Work and Education: MSW-MSEd

The Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College (SSSW) and the Bank Street College of Education (Bank Street) are internationally recognized leaders in social work and progressive education studies, respectively. Complementing Silberman's mission and historical commitment to social justice, Bank Street is distinguished by its 102-year legacy as "an innovator in improving the quality of classroom practice and a national advocate for children, families, and the system and policy changes that bring effective and equitable teaching to all." Both located in Upper Manhattan neighborhoods with diverse populations and a wide range of social and educational needs, these two schools are poised to mutually engage and serve the lives of New York City communities. Together, SSSW and Bank Street offer the MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program in Social Work and Education – Infant and Family Development and Early Intervention. This dual master's degree program streamlines the pathway to earning both the MSW and MEd, maximizing educational experiences and professional opportunities for students interested in careers that bridge early childhood education with clinical social work.

The MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program builds upon core values shared by these two vocations across their entwined histories of social justice, family and community development, and public service. Students in the MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program are able to earn both degrees concurrently in three years through a streamlined, 85-credit curriculum – compared to 94 credits over five years, which would be required in order to complete them separately. This curriculum removes overlapping course requirements; cross-honors electives; and ensures that students achieve competencies required among both MSW and MSEd graduates. For more details about the curriculum, please see Program Description below.

What Can I Do with my MSW-MSEd Dual Degree?

Students who graduate from the MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program will be highly prepared for professional practice that integrates clinical social work and social welfare with education, child and family development, and early intervention. Recent literature points to the growing value of this dual-expertise. Graduates of the MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program will enter a professional landscape with a strong demand for their unique combination of competencies, skills, and practice knowledge.

MSW-MSEd graduates will be well-prepared for professional roles including:

1. Clinical social worker:
   - Individual
   - Family
   - Small Groups
   - School-based social worker
2. Child/parent psychotherapists
3. Family specialists in Early Intervention
4. Parent/child group facilitators
5. Early Head Start family workers
6. Play therapists
7. Foster care case workers
8. Home visitors and home visiting supervisors

Admissions Requirements & Registration

Prospective MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program students typically must apply to each school separately and simultaneously, and must gain admission to each school according to its standard criteria.

- Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College – MSW Program, Full-Time Pathway in the Clinical Practice method – https://sssw.hunter.cuny.edu/admissions/
- Bank Street College of Education, Graduate School of Education – MSEd in Infant and Family Development and Early Intervention – https://graduate.bankstreet.edu/admissions-financial-aid/how-to-apply/

Applicants may indicate that they are applying for the Dual Degree Program by selecting a designated option on CUNY's "Apply Yourself" application portal. Bank Street students who decide to pursue the Dual Degree Program after they have begun MSEd studies must apply and gain admission to SSSW prior to the end of their first semester at Bank Street. Likewise, Silberman students who decide to pursue the Program after they have begun MSW studies must apply and gain admission to Bank Street prior to the end of their first semester at SSSW. In both of these cases, individual modifications to the program pathway may be necessary and the student's time to completion may be more than three years. Once matriculated in the MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program, students must register at both the Silberman School of Social Work and Bank Street College of Education, Graduate School of Education. For the first year and a half of the program, Bank Street serves as the student's primary institution of record and handles the bulk of student registration; the Silberman School of Social Work then takes on this role during the student's final year and a half in the program.

Advisement
Each school maintains a dedicated advisor for students in the MSW-MSEd Dual Degree Program, who is able to answer questions and assist matriculated students with course registration, degree planning, and accessing resources for success:

Program Description

The 85-credit MSW-MSEd curriculum includes 34 credits earned from the Bank Street College of Education and 51 credits earned from the Silberman School of Social Work. It is designed to provide students with competencies in clinical social work, educational practice, child and family development, and early intervention. The curriculum connects social work and early childhood/family education with a concerted emphasis on evidence-based research and practice; developing sophisticated, advanced methods of practice; and developing interdisciplinary competencies in understanding urban social challenges and advocating for social justice.

During the summer, fall, and spring of Year 1, students complete coursework and field placements primarily through Bank Street, focusing on the foundations of early childhood education, child and family development, and educational practice experience. To facilitate the transition to social work learning, students typically take the Social Work Practice Lab course at Silberman during the spring of Year 1. The bulk of Year 2, from the summer immediately following Year 1 until the next summer, comprises coursework and field practica based at the Silberman School of Social Work. Building upon their first-year foundations, students in Year 2 develop advanced competencies, knowledge, skills, and ethics for clinical practice with a diverse range of populations, emphasizing work in educational settings with children and families. During Year 3, students' learning explicitly enhances their dual-training in social work and education. Courses in social work research, policy, and professionalization complement education courses that focus on key transdisciplinary issues like working with parents and assessment. For greater detail, please see the curriculum plan printed below.

Master of Social Work - MSW

About the MSW Program

The nationally-ranked Master of Social Work (MSW) Program at the Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College is a 60-credit, competency-based graduate program leading to the MSW degree. The MSW curriculum reflects and facilitates a commitment to social justice; diversity; and ethical, knowledgeable practice in metropolitan, cross-cultural, and global environments. It has been shaped around a set of core competencies that are essential for all social workers, as identified by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE), which accredits American schools of social work. Each course and field education experience within Silberman's MSW Program is intentionally designed to help students progress toward advanced-level competency attainment by the time they graduate.

Admission to the MSW Program

General Criteria
Successful performance in graduate social work education requires emotional maturity and stability, interest in working with people and readiness to assume professional responsibilities. The applicant's knowledge of professional social work and/or experience in social work settings is an important consideration for admission. The general criteria for MSW admission are as follows:

- Applicants must hold a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university. Undergraduate preparation should demonstrate a liberal arts background and intellectual capacity for graduate study.
- Records of international students require special evaluation and should be submitted as early as possible. All applicants whose prior language of instruction was not English are required to take the TOEFL and achieve a minimum score of 213; 80 IBT (internet-based test).
- Good undergraduate preparation along with tested understanding of the profession gained through voluntary, internship and/or paid experience are the keys to a successful application for admission.
- All applicants must submit an application, transcripts from all previous academic study, three professional letters of reference, and application fees. Completed applications for admission should be submitted by the deadline date established by the School each year. All admissions are subject to limitations of available seats in the school and placement in a field practicum. Applications for admission into the MSW program must be submitted online.
- Applicants may be required to participate in a group discussion as part of the admissions process.

MSW Program Curriculum

All MSW students at the Silberman School of Social Work, in all Practice Methods and degree pathways, learn through the following curricular areas:

Field Education

Field education, also called the field practicum, is the signature pedagogy of social work education at the Silberman School of Social Work. All MSW students complete field education. Field education is intended to connect the theoretical and conceptual contributions of the classroom with the practical world of the practice setting. The MSW Program at Silberman rests upon the precept that these two interrelated components of the curriculum – classroom and field – are of equal importance, and each contributes to the development of the requisite core competencies for professional practice. MSW students' field education experiences are systematically designed, supervised, coordinated, and evaluated in close dialogue between the School and its agency/placement site partners. The agency-based field instructor provides educational and professional supervision; the School-based field advisor helps monitor and guide students through the practicum while liaising between the School and the agency; and the Field Education Department within the School oversees and ensures the success of the field education experience for students and agency partners alike. The Silberman School of Social Work maintains relationships with more than 1,000 individual agencies, organizations, and other sites for student field placement. Most MSW students complete between 900 and 1,200 hours of field practicum to earn their degrees. For all students except those in the One-Year Residency (OYR) degree pathway, the School's core Field Education courses are:

- SSW 76100 Field Instruction I
- SSW 76200 Field Instruction II
- SSW 76300 Field Instruction III
For One-Year Residency (OYR) students only, the School's core Field Education courses are:

- SSW 76400 Field Instruction IV

Specific field education requirements differ, sometimes considerably, based on the student's selected degree pathway and Practice Method.

Practice Methods

All MSW students at the Silberman School of Social Work concentrate (major) in one of three Practice Methods. For a description of each Practice Method, please see MSW Program Admissions > Selecting a Practice Method above.

MSW students take a series of core courses specific to their chosen Practice Method:

Method: Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families and Small Groups (CPIFG)

SSW 72100 - Clinical Practice with Individuals Families, and Small Groups I

Development and use of clinical theory, practice and process. Integration and application of the values that underpin social work practice to engagement, biopsychosocial assessment and intervention.

prereq: SSW 71700

Credits 3

NOTE: SSW 72100, 72200 and 72300 are required for all Clinical Practice with Individuals and Families majors. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

SSW 72200 - Clinical Practice with Individuals Families, and Small Groups II

Application of clinical principles, including those of psychodynamic and family systems theories. Knowledge from human behavior and the social environment and social welfare policy and services areas and research findings is applied to the assessment of clients and their situations.

prereq: SSW 72100

Credits 3

NOTE: SSW 72100, 72200 and 72300 are required for all Clinical Practice with Individuals and Families majors. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

SSW 72300 - Clinical Practice with Individuals Families, and Small Groups III

Expands and deepens knowledge and skills from multiple theoretical perspectives for professional practice. Exploration of contemporary time-limited clinical practice models with a focus on the interface of these approaches with contextual factors such as agency setting; socio-cultural specificity and the client-worker relationship in assessment and intervention will be emphasized.

prereq: SSW 72100 and 72200

Credits 3

Field of Practice Specializations

MSW students have the option of choosing a further specialization in a Field of Practice (FOP). (Please note: Field of Practice specialization is required for all students who matriculated in, or prior to, the Spring 2019 semester; Field of Practice specialization is optional for all students matriculating in or after the Fall 2019 semester.) The purpose of the Field of Practice specialization is to accomplish the following:

1. Provide students with opportunities to develop in-depth knowledge and skill in an area of social work beyond the method.
2. Better prepare students for a competitive job market given the current organization of most service delivery systems.
3. Provide a potential cluster of faculty, students, and field agencies with similar interests for developing and sharing knowledge about contemporary issues and trends.
4. Provide an additional vehicle for generating general innovation and new course material in the curriculum.
5. Maintain the focus of the School, the faculty, and the curriculum on the changing needs of a multicultural urban community.

The requirements for completing a Field of Practice specialization are the following: (a) an appropriate field practicum in the second year or OYR residency year; (b) a Professional Seminar project and/or Research topic related to the FOP; and (c) at least one elective option that falls under the FOP. When students complete the requirements of their FOP specialization, they will have this accomplishment recognized in their final evaluation summary; they may add this achievement to their resume and they will receive a certificate upon graduation. Although it is not an FOP requirement to do so, students are encouraged to take policy and elective courses as available that support their Field of Practice specialization. Students pursuing a Field of Practice specialization select their FOP in the spring of their foundation year, in conjunction with planning their second-year field placement. As a reflection of both its commitment to a social justice and human rights framework and the nature of the service systems where its students will work, the Silberman School of Social Work offers the following eight FOP specializations. A sub-specialization in World of Work is available, coupled with any one of these eight specializations:

FOP: Aging

The Aging Field of Practice (Gerontology) addresses the aging process from a life course perspective. This specialization explores the aging process and the variety of issues affecting older adults and their family systems. Course selections provide content with a focus on issues such as health and mental health; social service delivery in clinical and community-based settings; assessment of risk and protective factors associated with healthy aging; assessment, intervention, and evaluation of specialized services for older adults and their family systems; caregiving; long-term care policy; and the implications of the growing demographic of the aging society. Courses that may be taken to support this specialization (pending availability) include, but are not limited to:
SSW 70217 - Social Welfare Policy in the Field of Aging

Aging policy and legislation; health care, retirement, work, and family issues. Organization, utilization and impact of services on the aging; attention given to special populations.

prereq: SSW 70100
This course fulfills the advanced social policy requirement

SSW 71300 - Human Behavior and the Social Environment III

Understanding dysfunction. Concepts of mental health and illness, deviance and conformity; classification systems; influences on the diagnosis and treatment processes. Theories of etiology and treatment in relation to the needs of families, groups and communities. Attendance at an additional 2-hour lecture on psychopharmacology is required.

SSW 71100, 71200 and 71300 are required. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

SSW 72400 - Clinical Practice with Individuals Families, and Small Groups IV

Brief Therapies, Child Therapy, Cognitive/Behavioral, Family Therapy, Trauma Therapy, and Treatment of Pairs, Relational Therapy. Students identify professional issues and dilemmas in both knowledge and practice. Special emphasis is on assuring competence.

prereq: SSW 72100
Hours 45
Credits 3
Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

• SSW 797.72 Field of Practice Platform Course

SSW 79660 - The Aging Process: Clinical Issues in Social Work Practice with the Aged

Theoretical frameworks of human aging, including the myths and realities of major biopsychosocial problems facing older adults and their families. Practice implications.

prereq: SSW 71700 and one method course

FOP: Child Welfare – Children, Youth and Families

Consistent with the human rights framework, FOP specialization in Child Welfare—Children, Youth and Families (CWCYF) takes the view that the child or youth is an individual – and a member of a family and community with rights and responsibilities appropriate to his or her age and stage of development – who must be afforded the necessary protection and assistance to participate fully in family, cultural, and social life. This FOP specialization is designed for students interested in working in public and/or private child welfare agencies; or children, youth, and family organizations in direct service and supervisory and administrative capacities as well as organizing on behalf of all children, youth, and families for access, social justice, and equality. It prepares social workers to provide a broad range of services to individuals, groups, and families in all phases of the family life cycle. Family and individual counseling, parent education and engagement, and the full spectrum of child welfare services are emphasized in this specialization. Students who elect a CWCYF FOP develop a plan of study which includes a field practicum in a placement related to children, youth, and family services. To be competent in this specialization, students are encouraged to take one of following courses:

- SSW 70215 Policy and Practice in Child Welfare or SSW 702.xx Child Welfare and Family Court Advocacy

Additional courses that may be taken to support this specialization (pending availability) include, but are not limited to:

- SSW 71300 Human Behavior and the Social Environment III
- SSW 79176 Social Services to the Gay and Lesbian Community
- SSW 79200 Social Work Practice with Children and Adolescents
- SSW 79400 Social Work Practice: Family Treatment

FOP: Health

In this field of practice, health and illness are considered as points along a continuum. Health is not merely the absence of disease. It is the ability to function in complete harmony with one's environment and the capability of meeting the ordinary physical, social, and emotional stresses of life. The goals of this specialization are to prepare social workers who can responsibly meet the changing needs of people faced with health concerns and who can effectively advocate for quality health/mental health policies and practices in New York City. Field placement settings in this specialization include large hospitals; ambulatory care or primary care facilities; hospital out-patient and in-patient clinics or community-based health centers; day treatment programs; substance abuse treatment facilities; and specialized nursing care facilities for the chronically ill, aged, or those in need of intensive rehabilitation and/or hospice care. Some settings focus on health education or patient advocacy. Depending on setting, students in this specialization generally have the opportunity to:

- Participate in a multidisciplinary health care team;
- Work with a range of client needs (illness to wellness) and the continuum of care (prevention to long-term care) to meet those needs;
- Learn about public and private health/mental health laws, programs, resources, benefits, and services;
- Obtain skills necessary to provide quality health care services in existing mainstream and/or alternative health care systems;
- Participate in consumer and professional advocacy networks and organizations established to protect patients' rights.

Courses that may be taken to support this specialization (pending availability) include, but are not limited to:

- SSW 70214 Health and Mental Health Systems
- SSW 79158 Human Sexuality
- SSW 79662 Social Work Practice with AIDS and Chronic Illness
- SSW 797.73 Field of Practice Platform Course
- SSW 79701 Clinical Social Work Practice in Health Settings

FOP: Mental Health

In this field of practice, mental health and mental illness are considered as points along a continuum. Mental Health is not merely the absence of mental illness. It is the ability to function in complete harmony with one's environment and the capability of meeting the ordinary psychosocial and emotional stresses of life. The goals of this specialization are to prepare social workers who can responsibly meet the changing needs of people faced with mental health concerns and who can effectively advocate for quality mental health policies and practices in New York City. Students in this specialization generally have the opportunity to participate on a multidisciplinary team; work with the range of client needs (illness to wellness) and the continuum of care (prevention to acute or long-term care) to meet those needs; learn about public and private mental health laws, programs, resources, benefits, and services; use skills necessary to provide quality mental health care services in existing or alternative mental health care systems; and participate in consumer and professional advocacy networks and organizations established to protect patients' rights. Field placement settings in this specialization include any setting that addresses part of the spectrum of mental health. This may include large hospitals; ambulatory care or primary care facilities; hospital based in-patient psychiatric units or outpatient clinics; community-based mental health clinics; day treatment or partial hospitalization programs; and substance abuse treatment facilities. Field placements may also take place in settings that are not part of the formal health care system, such as criminal justice settings but may center on working with particular populations. Courses that may be taken to support this specialization (pending availability) include, but are not limited to:

- SSW 70214 Health and Mental Health Systems
- SSW 71500 Seminar in Psychodynamics
- SSW 72400 Clinical Practice with Individuals Families, and Small Groups IV
- SSW 791.93 Community Mental Health
- SSW 797.73 Field of Practice Platform Course

FOP: Global Social Work and Practice with Immigrants and Refugees

The 21st century is characterized by unprecedented levels of global interdependence in which people, communities, and their institutions are engaged with international forces affecting their lives in very intimate ways. From climate change to economic adversity, these realities have called forth responses based on an increasing awareness of human interconnectedness. The Global Social Work and Practice with Immigrants and Refugees (GSWPIR) field specialization is defined by its mission to incorporate indigenous social work perspectives from around the globe to inform learning and practice in international contexts— with immigrants and refugees as well as in the U.S. urban environment. Many families are transnational today, with members in the U.S. and in other countries around the globe, and social workers must be prepared to engage families and communities as they navigate these complexities, redefining concepts along the way. In the context of international standards of social justice and human rights, students will become aware of the differing discourses in this field and the varied understandings of and responses to adversity. The GSWPIR FOP specialization is designed for students experienced in a global context with immigrant, refugee, and other multicultural communities or with international organizations. The FOP will prepare students to work flexibly in multiple roles, informed by multiple ways of knowing and based on their chosen social work method. Students will develop competencies needed to practice in a global, multicultural environment and address clinical issues with individuals, families, and groups; those of policy leadership and planning; or those of community organization policy and development. The concept of community is central to the field, and students will learn in practice how to utilize methods learned from global experience. Students who elect the GSWPIR FOP develop a plan of study which includes a field practicum in a global, immigrant, and/or refugee-related placement in the New York metropolitan area; as well as a final research or professional seminar paper on a related subject, a related Policy course and at least one practice elective.

- SSW 70222 International Social Welfare Policy and Services -or- SSW 70219 Immigrants and Refugees: Policies and Issues -or- SSW 797.73 Introduction to Global Social Work and Practice with Immigrants and Refugees

Practice elective courses that may be taken to support this specialization include, but are not limited to:

- SSW 798.02 Social Work and the Latino Community
- SSW 79171 Social Work Practice with Immigrants and Refugees
- SSW 797.60 Neighborhood Lab: Strengthening Community Capacity
- SSW 79801 Multicultural Social Work Practice
- SSW 79652 Social Work with Workers and Their Families

FOP: School Social Work
School social work is a distinctive field of practice with ties to both social work and education. In keeping with the human rights framework, the School Social Work Field of Practice specialization takes the view that the child or youth is an individual – and a member of a family and community with rights and responsibilities appropriate to his or her age and stage of development – who must be afforded the necessary protection and assistance to participate fully in family, cultural, and social life. School Social Work is a strong fit for students who are:

1. Interested in developing a range of skills including how to negotiate complex organizational settings, while working with individuals, groups, and community organizations;
2. Interested in interdisciplinary collaboration with other professionals and workers in a school system;
3. Committed to improving educational and social services to clients with diverse cultural, ethnic, and racial backgrounds;
4. Flexible, self-directed, able to meet new challenges, and willing to take risks;
5. Interested to be a member of the interdisciplinary Committee on Special Education – responsible for contributing to students' Individualized Educational Plans (IEP); (6) Interested in social work policies and their impact on service delivery to children in school and their impact on school social workers.

School social work FOP prepares social workers who are interested in social work practice with children, adolescents and their families who may be facing critical academic, social, and environmental stresses. After graduation, students may wish to work directly for the Department of Education (DOE) or for a community-based agency housed in a school setting providing mental health counseling; or they may work in a charter school. Courses that may be taken to support this specialization (pending availability) include, but are not limited to:

- SSW 70215 Policy and Practice in Child Welfare
- SSW 71500 Seminar in Psychodynamics
- SSW 73500 Social Work Practice with Groups I for Non-Majors
- SSW 79400 Social Work Practice: Family Treatment
- SSW 79661 Social Work Practice in School Settings

FOP: Criminal Justice

The Criminal Justice Field of Practice specialization is characterized by social work practice in the juvenile justice system and the adult criminal justice system. The FOP strongly supports the criminal justice system's dual focus on public safety and public health. This dual focus on public safety and public health is consistent with The Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR): Article 3. Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of person. The Criminal Justice FOP is designed for students interested in providing social work services to offenders, victims, and survivors. It prepares social workers to provide primarily micro-level interventions to these criminal justice-involved populations. The goals of this specialization are to prepare social workers to balance rehabilitation and retribution, treatment and punishment, and understand the relationships between reentry and homelessness, reentry and public health, and criminal justice and health and mental health, among others. Elective courses allow students a great deal of flexibility to focus on learning needs and areas of specialization within the criminal justice system such as substance abuse, health, mental health, trauma-informed care, cognitive behavior therapy, and special populations such as youth, women and older offenders. Field placements will provide experiential learning specific to the role of social work in the criminal justice system. Field placements include criminal justice settings such as courts and corrections; agencies that provide social services primarily to criminal justice-involved populations; and agencies that serve a wide variety of populations including some that have criminal justice involvement. In this way, students can concentrate on their learning needs and type of setting they prefer for specialization. Courses that may be taken to support this specialization (pending availability) include, but are not limited to:

- SSW 70218 Seminar in Social Welfare
- SSW 70220 Clients' Rights, the Legal System and Social Policy
- SSW 70216 Social Welfare Policy with the Homeless
- SSW 791.40 Social Work in the Criminal Justice System
FOP: Sexuality and Gender

The Sexuality and Gender (S&G) FOP specialization is designed for students interested in working from a strengths-based, sex positive and gender-affirming perspective. Students are also encouraged to embrace rather than avoid issues of sexuality and gender (i.e., restrictive masculinity, gender-based oppression) within their practices, incorporating the sexual dimension into biopsychosocial and community assessments. Students who elect a S&G FOP develop a plan of study which includes a field practicum in a placement related to sexuality and/or gender, an S&G approved elective and a paper on a related topic as the focus of either Professional Seminar or Research. Students complete their field practicum in approved field settings that have an emphasis on issues related to sexuality and gender (broadly defined). Environments may include schools with specific sexuality and/or gender assignments; community-based centers that specialize in working with LGBTQ clients; reproductive justice organizations; interpersonal violence-related agencies; clinics working with people who have committed sexual violence; agencies engaged with people in sex trades; and, health or mental health care settings that specialize in a related area. Courses that may be taken to support this specialization (pending availability) include:

- SSW 79158 Human Sexuality
- SSW 70213 Women and Social Welfare
- SSW 79176 Social Services to the Gay and Lesbian Community
- SSW 79157 Social Work with Victims of Violence against Women
- SSW 79175 Social Work and AIDS
- SSW 79662 Social Work Practice with AIDS and Chronic Illness

Credits 3
SSW 71100, 71200 and 71300 are required. Please consult the School of Social Work website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/socwork/ for additional information.

Social Welfare Policy and Services

- SSW 701.00 - Social Welfare Policy and Services I - All students are required to take Social Welfare Policy and Services I. Covers circumstances that give rise to social problems and their policy solutions; frameworks for analyzing these developments; values and skills needed to understand social policy and engage in advocacy and social change are stressed.

- SSW 702.00 - Social Welfare Policy and Services II: Special Topics - Students are also required to take one course from those listed as Social Welfare Policy and Services II: Special Topics. These advanced social welfare policy courses extend the foundations of social welfare policy (SSW 701 - Social Welfare Policy and Services I) by applying knowledge and skills to a special issue, policy arena, or population group and by refining the analytic skills needed to more critically synthesize and interpret the complexities of the given area. Below is a sampling of Social Welfare Policy and Services II: Special Topics courses. Availability varies by semester.

- SSW 702.XX - Client Rights, The Legal System and Social Policy - This course introduces students to the field of law as it relates to social policy and social work practice. Students will learn both theory and practice by examining the role of law and legal systems in the formulation of social policies, and the role of the social worker, with a particular focus on advocacy and individual rights. Students will learn the basic structure of the American legal system, including the process by which courts, legislatures and administrative agencies address social problems and create and implement law. Various areas of law and social policy will be explored, including child welfare, poverty, criminal justice, mental health and education.

- SSW 702.XX - Criminal Justice Policy & Mass Incarceration - Over the course of the semester, we will survey the American criminal justice system from multiple perspectives: the shape and size of the system itself (prison, parole, and probation); who goes to prison (by race, gender, education, income, age; and the kinds of crimes that they committed/were accused of/plead guilty to); what life inside is like (considering effects: boredom, stress & fear, abuse, rape, and human rights questions; and what’s it like for women); what happens to the children and families left behind; what life is like after prison (examining reintegration; jobs; recidivism); the Drug War; the sharp crime decline since the 1990s; the expansion of policing and the surveillance state; the functions of the prison (removal, punishment, rehabilitation, social control, labor control,&nbsp;profit); and, finally, consider policy at the intersection of crime, welfare, and poverty. Social Welfare Policies and Services I (SSW 701) is a prerequisite.

- SSW 702.XX - Health and Mental Health Systems - This advanced social welfare policy course extends the foundations of social welfare policy (SSW 701 - Social Welfare Policy and Services I) by applying knowledge and skills to a special issue, policy arena, or population group and by refining the analytic skills needed to more critically synthesize and interpret the complexities of health and mental health systems.

- SSW 702.XX - Immigrants and Refugees: Issues and Policies - This advanced social welfare policy course extends the foundations of social welfare policy (SSW 701 - Social Welfare Policy and Services I) by applying knowledge and skills to a special issue, policy arena or population group and by refining the analytic skills needed to more critically synthesize and interpret the complexities of social welfare for immigrants and refugees.

- SSW 702.XX - International Social Welfare - This advanced social welfare policy course extends the foundations of social welfare policy (SSW 701 - Social Welfare Policy and Services I) by applying knowledge and skills to a special issue, policy arena or population group and by refining the analytic skills needed to more critically synthesize and interpret the complexities of social welfare in International Social Welfare.

- SSW 702.XX - The Political Economy of Social Welfare - This advanced social welfare policy course extends the foundations of social welfare policy (SSW 701 - Social Welfare Policy and Services I) by applying knowledge and skills to a special issue, policy arena, or population group and by refining the analytic skills needed to more critically synthesize and interpret the complexities of social welfare. The course will focus primarily on the U.S. capitalist economic system and how it's related to social welfare policy.

- SSW 702.XX - Women & Social Welfare Policy - This advanced social welfare policy course extends the foundations of the SSW 701 - Social Welfare Policy and Services I, by applying knowledge and skills to a special issue, policy arena or population group and by refining the analytic skills needed to more critically synthesize and interpret the complexities of women and social issues.

Social Work Practice Learning Lab

- SSW 71700 Social Work Practice Learning Lab 1
- SSW 71800 Social Work Practice Learning Lab 2

Social Work Research

- SSW 75100 Social Work Research I
- SSW 75200 Social Work Research II

Professional Seminar

SSW 79000 - Professional Seminar

Utilization and integration of practice, research and policy to determine how an issue may be ameliorated or resolved. Taken in the final semester.

Credits 3

This is a required course for all students.

Electives

SSW 79186 - Social Work and the Arts

Art forms are explored to provide services to populations at risk, including the elderly and the physically and mentally impaired.

Credits 3

SSW 79188 - Spirituality and Healing

Spiritual domain of human functioning. Viewing human need, strengths and experience with a spiritual lens. Spirituality and human striving for a sense of meaning and fulfillment; understanding and responsiveness to spiritual perspectives.

prereq: SSW 71100
SSW 70220 - Clients' Rights, the Legal System and Social Policy

The role of legal rights in the welfare state with reference to special populations. Origins, history and the current status of the legal rights of clients; use of laws to promote social justice and social change; advocacy by social workers for clients' rights.

prereq: SSW 70100

SSW 79400 - Social Work Practice: Family Treatment

An assessment of the family from a systems approach. Family developmental life cycle, family structure evaluation; tracking interactional patterns.

Selecting a Practice Method

All MSW students at the Silberman School of Social Work concentrate (major) in one of three Practice Methods. A student's chosen Practice Method serves as the foundation of their academic and professional experience throughout their time in the program. MSW Applicants select one Method when applying to the program. The three Practice Methods offered are:

Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families and Small Groups (CPIFG)

This Method introduces students to agency-based clinical practice in the urban environment. Clinical assessment and therapeutic interventions are taught from a biopsychosocial perspective. Clinical Practice prepares students through evidence-based theory and practice to provide psychosocial care to individuals, couples, families, and small groups. Clinical social workers help these clients to enact psychological and interpersonal change, increase their access to social and economic resources, and maintain and enhance their capacities and strengths. For a list of core CPIFG courses, please see MSW Program Curriculum.

Community Organizing, Planning and Development (COP&D)

This Method develops students' competence for community-based social work practice. It stresses the skills, techniques, and strategies needed to mobilize both people and resources to solve basic social problems at either the neighborhood or citywide level. Focus is placed on social planning and social reform, as aspects of social work practice toward alleviating individual and family problems. Education, training, and field practicums are developed in collective action, advocacy, program evaluation, proposal writing, community outreach, legislative advocacy, and other vital, diverse organizing roles. For a list of core COP&D courses, please see MSW Program Curriculum.

Organizational Management and Leadership (OML)
Students in this Method are prepared to assume varied management positions in social agencies (including the traditional supervisory, middle management, and executive positions) as well as jobs as program planners and analysts, staff trainers, program directors, or budget analysts. They will develop conscious and strategic use of self in managing the complex tasks of program managers. Students seeking to concentrate in OML should have some prior management experience either in social work or at a human services agency. For a list of core OML courses, please see MSW Program Curriculum.

Selecting an MSW Degree Pathway

The Silberman School of Social Work offers several distinct pathways to the Master of Social Work degree. These pathways help to make a rigorous graduate education possible for the greatest range of social work students. MSW applicants select a degree pathway when applying to the program. MSW applicants may apply for study in only one degree pathway. Each pathway requires unique pre-requisites and application materials. The pathways offered as of 2019-2020, with their respective admission requirements, are:

Two-Year Full-Time Program

The Two-Year Full-Time Program is designed for students who can devote themselves to full-time academic and field-based study. Students are expected to attend classes two days a week with their pathway cohort, and to attend their field placement three days a week during standard business hours. Under this pathway, students complete the 60 academic credits required for graduation in two years.

Eligibility Requirements

- An earned bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university
- Undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or above
- Some professional experience in the field of social services (i.e. internships, volunteer work, and/or employment)
- Well-developed writing and critical thinking skills
- Demonstrated capacity for graduate-level study in social work, including: a strong understanding of, and commitment to, social work values, goals, and ethics; the capacity to think critically about social issues confronting the profession; and a commitment to social justice and advocacy.

Application Materials

- Silberman MSW application
- Statement of Purpose – The statement of purpose articulates the applicant's knowledge of professional social work, discusses the applicant's experience and interests in a social work setting, and answers questions posed on the application.
- Two (2) letters of recommendation
- Unofficial transcripts from all previously attended colleges/universities
- $125 application fee, non-refundable – This fee is waived for United States Military Veterans.

Accelerated Full-Time Program

The Accelerated Full-Time Program is designed for students ready to participate in an intensive, year-round learning experience. Students in this pathway complete their degrees over five consecutive semesters – including two summers – spanning 18 months. Accelerated Full-Time students matriculate in January, are assigned field placements, and complete their first-year requirements by the end of the first summer. They then start the third semester in the fall, and ultimately finish the program the following August. Because of its uninterrupted trajectory and intensive academic nature, the Accelerated Full-Time Program is among the most very rigorous programs offered at the Silberman School of Social Work. Please Note: The only Practice Method available to students in the Accelerated Full-Time Program is Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families, and Small Groups (CPIFG).

Eligibility Requirements

- An earned bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university
- Undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or above
- Professional experience in the field of social services (i.e. internships, volunteer work, and/or employment)

One-Year Residency (OYR) Program

The Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College offers the nation's oldest work-study MSW program, called the One-Year Residency (OYR) Program, designed for social service professionals. Launched in the early 1970s to serve New York's dedicated social service workers who could not pursue graduate education while working, the OYR Program ensures that students can obtain the MSW while continuing to work. It does this by integrating the student's professional environment with their MSW degree path. Students typically attend courses part-time at Silberman over one school year and two summers (Time Frame I). Then, they spend one intensive "residency" year within the organizations where they already work, completing school-approved field practicum internships that are distinct from their preexisting roles (Time Frame II). Finally, they complete their coursework at Silberman (Time Frame III). The OYR Program trajectory typically takes about 28 months in total. Applicants are eligible to apply to the OYR Program if they have earned a bachelor's degree; completed at least two years of successful full-time employment as a direct care worker or supervisor of direct care workers in a social service agency at the time of application; and obtain their employer's formal agreement to provide a field placement, approved by the School of Social Work, during their second year in the program.

Eligibility Requirements

- An earned bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, GPA 3.0 or above
- Currently employed full-time as a direct care worker or a supervisor of direct care workers in a social service setting
- Has completed at least two consecutive years of full-time employment by the time of application, as a direct care worker or a supervisor of direct care workers in a social service setting
Current employer agrees to provide the applicant, if they are accepted, with a School of Social Work-approved fieldwork internship within the organization and a SIFI-certified field instructor during their second year (this agreement is verified by the AEA form detailed below)

Well-developed writing and critical thinking skills

Demonstrated capacity for graduate-level study in social work, including: a strong understanding of, and commitment to, social work values, goals, and ethics; the capacity to think critically about social issues confronting the profession; and a commitment to social justice and advocacy.

Note: OYR applicants are required to select the Practice Method that relates to their existing social service role and experience.

Application Materials

- Silberman OYR application
- Agency Executive Agreement (AEA) form – Signed by executive at the social service agency where the applicant works, approving reduced work schedule and in-house field placement should they be accepted to Silberman OYR
- Statement of Purpose
- One (1) letter of recommendation written by the agency executive who signed the AEA (please attach this to the AEA) – In cases where the agency executive cannot evaluate the applicant's skills in the field, we will accept a recommendation from the assistant agency executive or current supervisor
- One (1) additional letter of recommendation from an academic or professional reference
- Unofficial transcripts from all previously attended colleges
- $125 application fee, non-refundable – This fee is waived for United States Military Veterans.

Accelerated One-Year Residency (OYR) Program

This accelerated version of Silberman's One-Year Residency (OYR) Program (see previous) is an intensive program for OYR students prepared to participate in a highly rigorous curriculum. Mirroring the standard OYR Program, applicants are eligible to apply if they have completed at least two years of successful full-time employment as a direct care worker or supervisor of direct care workers in a social service agency at the time of application, and obtained their current social service employer's approval to provide the required field placement internship, approved by Silberman, during the student's third and fourth semesters in the program. Students typically complete the 60-credit Accelerated OYR Program in six semesters or about 24 months. Please Note: The only Practice Method available to students in the Accelerated OYR Program is Clinical Practice with Individuals, Families, and Small Groups (CPIFG).

Eligibility Requirements

- An earned bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, GPA 3.0 or above
- Currently employed full-time as a direct care worker or a supervisor of direct care workers in a social service setting
- Has completed at least two consecutive years of full-time employment by the time of application, as a direct care worker or a supervisor of direct care workers in a social service setting
- Current employer agrees to provide the applicant, if they are accepted, with a School of Social Work-approved fieldwork internship within the organization and a SIFI-certified field instructor during their second year (this agreement is verified by the AEA form detailed below)
- Well-developed writing and critical thinking skills
- Demonstrated capacity for graduate-level study in social work, including: a strong understanding of, and commitment to, social work values, goals, and ethics; the capacity to think critically about social issues confronting the profession; and a commitment to social justice and advocacy.
Note: OYR applicants are required to select the Practice Method that relates to their existing social service role and experience.

Application Materials

- Silberman OYR application
- Agency Executive Agreement (AEA) form – Signed by executive at the social service agency where the applicant works, approving reduced work schedule and in-house field placement should they be accepted to Silberman OYR
- Statement of Purpose
- One (1) letter of recommendation written by the agency executive who signed the AEA (please attach this to the AEA) – In cases where the agency executive cannot evaluate the applicant's skills in the field, we will accept a recommendation from the assistant agency executive or current supervisor

- $125 application fee, non-refundable – This fee is waived for United States Military Veterans.

Advanced Standing Program

Students who have earned a Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) degree from a CSWE-accredited social work program are able to pursue the full-time MSW with Advanced Standing. Advanced Standing applicants must have received the BSW degree within five years prior to application. Advanced Standing applicants must also have earned an overall GPA of 3.0 and a GPA of 3.2 in the Social Work major. Students accepted into the program receive credit for the first MSW year, and can typically complete the remaining 36 credits in three semesters. Advanced Standing students begin their studies in the fall; complete one academic year of full-time study, including a field placement that takes place three days per week during standard business hours; and continue their studies over the summer to finish the program. Alternatively (and depending on the student's chosen Practice Method), Advanced Standing students may choose to extend their program of study so they finish in the following fall. The Organizational Management and Leadership (OML) Practice Method is not available to Advanced Standing students.

Eligibility Requirements

- Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) degree from an accredited college or university school of social work, earned within the past 5 years
- Overall undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or above, and a GPA of 3.2 or above in the Social Work major
- Professional experience in the field of social services (i.e. internships, volunteer work, and/or employment)
- Well-developed writing and critical thinking skills
- Demonstrated capacity for graduate-level study in social work, including: a strong understanding of, and commitment to, social work values, goals, and ethics; the capacity to think critically about social issues confronting the profession; and a commitment to social justice and advocacy.

Application Materials

- Silberman MSW application
- Core Competencies Form completed by a faculty advisor from the applicant's undergraduate program
- Core Competencies Form completed by a field instructor from the applicant's undergraduate program
- Statement of Purpose
- Two (2) letters of recommendation
• Unofficial transcripts from all previously attended colleges/universities

Post-Master's Programs

Continuing Education and Licensure in Social Work

Licensure

Licensure is the national standard for practicing social workers. After earning the MSW, a social worker may become licensed as a Licensed Master Social Worker (LMSW) by passing an exam administered by the Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB). An LMSW may then become licensed as a Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW) after four years of professional practice and additional preparation for the LCSW exam. The Silberman School of Social Work is committed to ensuring that students, while they are enrolled, become prepared to take and pass the LMSW exam. The School's Licensure Central initiative is a digital gateway available through the Hunter Blackboard portal that provides students with resources, materials, information, and practical steps to help them become licensed LMSWs. The School's Department of Continuing Education, additionally, offers courses for alumni and others dedicated to licensure preparation.

Continuing Education

The Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College is recognized by the New York State Education Department's State Board for Social Work as an approved provider of continuing education for licensed social workers (#0148). The Continuing Education and Training program at Silberman is intended for social workers seeking to fulfill their commitment to lifelong learning. It is designed to help them maintain, enhance, and hone their professional practice, knowledge, and skills. Using the method-based approach to curriculum development that informs all of Silberman's programs, Continuing Education classes reflect the School's core values and strengths in clinical practice, community organization and program development, and organizational management and leadership. Taught by a distinguished faculty of social workers, researchers, and trainers, participants gain practical, hands-on and cutting-edge knowledge of a wide range of contemporary social work issues. Classes range in duration from four hours to two-day workshops in the evenings and on weekends. For more information about Continuing Education at Silberman, please click visit the School's website.

Sociology/Social Research Department

Description

Return to Sociology/Social Research Department

The core agenda of the Hunter College Sociology Department is to instruct students in a major that develops critical skills and social awareness and is also part of a broad and rich liberal arts curriculum. The Sociology Department at Hunter College has been built with the comprehensive aim of including most of the various facets of the sociological enterprise, including: theoretical/philosophical sociologists, field and quantitative researchers, criminologists, critical and feminist theorists, specialists in media studies and consumer behavior, micro-sociologists, students of global and international studies, urban studies, and specialists in computer-based research programs.

At Hunter College, our Sociology Department faculty members fulfill a triple mission as teachers, researchers/scholars and as active members of the larger Hunter community. First, as teachers, we take seriously the rich diversity of Hunter's student body by offering courses that emphasize both local and global perspectives. We use New York City as a "laboratory" in many of our courses at both the undergraduate and master's levels including "Intro," urban sociology, quantitative methods and statistics, race/ethnicity, immigration, consumer behavior, criminology and gender studies. We also offer courses on international development and globalization. Our strength in the fields of race/ethnicity and immigration, as well as in a range of other established subfields, allows us to incorporate sociological perspectives with an appreciation of Hunter students' wonderfully diverse backgrounds and experience. Nearly all the courses that are given in these various specializations are offered on a more or less regular basis and are nearly always fully subscribed since students who are not majors also take our courses in large numbers. Both in our undergraduate and graduate programs, we encourage faculty to develop new electives on a regular basis so as to keep our curriculum up to date and interesting for students.

At the graduate level, our Master of Science in Social Research program is successful at preparing students for careers in applied sociology, and at making it possible for students to secure jobs in the non-profit, governmental and corporate world that may have traditionally been closed to them. The Master's program ("GSR") is nationally recognized as a model for integrating the applied with the theoretical in training students for the professional world. Our combined BA/MS Program also gives students who already attend Hunter an opportunity to remain engaged with their studies while becoming integrated into a community of sociologists.

Student Eligibility

To be eligible for federal and state aid, a student must be a United States citizen or an eligible non-citizen, who is making satisfactory academic progress toward a degree. Students who have defaulted on a federal student loan or owe a repayment of a federal grant at any post-secondary school must make satisfactory repayment arrangements with that institution before they will be eligible to receive aid at Hunter College.

Satisfactory Academic Progress

All recipients of financial aid must be making satisfactory progress toward a degree.

Student Regulations and Rights

Statement on the Rights of Students

The Hunter College Senate voted endorsement of the following statement on September 24, 1974:

Preamble

"Academic institutions exist for the transmission of knowledge, the pursuit of truth, the development of students, and the general well being of society. Free inquiry and free expression are indispensable to the attainment of these goals....Freedom to teach and freedom to learn are inseparable facets of academic freedom."

Students "have a distinctive role...which qualifies them to share in the responsible authority on campus; the exercise of the authority is part of their education....Joint efforts among all groups in the institution-students, faculty, administration, and governing board-is a prerequisite of sound academic government....Joint effort, to be effective, must be rooted in the concept of shared authority. The exercise of shared authority in college and university government, like the protection of (student and faculty) academic freedom, requires tolerance, respect, and a sense of community."

"The responsibility to secure and respect general conditions conducive to the freedom to learn is shared by all members of the academic community."

Students' rights are not limited by what is enumerated in this statement. The purpose of the statement is to outline some basic principles and guidelines, many of which are now met. Specific implementation will have to be continuously adjusted as conditions at the college change.

I. Academic and Personal Files

1. Improper disclosure, even within the college, of academic, personal, and disciplinary records is a serious invasion of privacy. To minimize the risk of improper disclosure, academic, personal, and disciplinary records should be kept in separate files.

2. All files may be made available only to specially authorized college staff. Express consent of the student involved is otherwise required.
3. Academic records and transcripts should contain only information about scholastic achievement.

4. No records should be kept which reflect the political and off-campus activities or beliefs of students.

5. Non-current medical and disciplinary records should be periodically destroyed.

6. Students have the right to periodically review their academic, medical and disciplinary records and to appeal for removal of items improperly included. If the appeal fails the student has the right to append a written rebuttal to the record.

II. Classroom, Grades, etc.

1. Students have the right, within the limits of available facilities, to pursue any course of study for which they are eligible according to college standards.

2. In order to permit eligible students unhindered access to courses, the costs of required materials should be kept within reasonable limits.

3. Students have the right to know, at the start of each course of study, the basis to be used by the instructor in determining grades.

4. Students' grades should be based solely on academic criteria, not on opinions or conduct in matters unrelated to academic standards.

5. Students should have the opportunity to take reasoned exception to facts or points of view offered in any course of study, but they are responsible for meeting the academic standards of any course of study for which they are enrolled.

6. Students should have the protection through formally established procedures against prejudiced or capricious academic standards or evaluations.

III. Participation in Academic Affairs

1. Students have the right, individually and collectively, to express their views on matters of general interest to the student body, including institutional policy, curriculum, and personnel decisions.

2. Students have the right to participate in the formulation and application of institutional policy affecting academic and student affairs.

3. Students should share in the formation of policies regarding degree requirements, courses and curriculum, academic grading systems, standards of academic standing, and calendar arrangements.

4. Students should have the opportunity, individually and collectively, to assess the value of a course and to express their views on the form and conduct of a class which they have taken.

5. The results of an institutional mechanism used for students to assess courses and faculty, such as evaluation questionnaires, should be accessible to all members of the college community, and should be weighed in all decisions affecting faculty status and curriculum.

IV. Extracurricular Activities
1. Students should be free to form and join associations to promote their common interests.

2. Students have the right to express their opinions, individually and collectively, and to support causes in a manner that does not disrupt the orderly operation of the college.

V. Standards of Conduct

1. Students should participate in the formulation of standards of behavior which are considered essential to the educational mission and community responsibilities of the college.

2. The code of conduct, as a set of regulations and procedures, should be clearly stated and published in a handbook or other generally available set of institutional regulations.

3. In all cases, disciplinary procedures should protect the student from capricious and prejudicial application of the rules of conduct. Such procedures should also satisfy the requirements of procedural due process, including written notice with details of charges, sufficient time to prepare a defense, right to assistance in the defense, right to cross-examine witnesses and to present evidence, and the right to appeal the decision.

RESOLVED, That these rules and regulations be incorporated in each college bulletin.

Rules and Regulations for Students Pursuant to Article 224A

1. No person shall be expelled from or be refused admission as a student to an institution of higher education for the reason that he is unable, because of his religious beliefs, to attend classes or to participate in any examination, study or work requirements on a particular day or days.

2. Any student in an institution of higher education who is unable, because of his religious beliefs, to attend classes on a particular day or days shall, because of such absence on the particular day or days, be excused from any examination or any study or work requirements.

3. It shall be the responsibility of the faculty and of the administrative officials of each institution of higher education to make available to each student who is absent from school, because of his religious beliefs, an equivalent opportunity to make up any examination, study or work requirements which he or she may have missed because of such absence on any particular day or days. No fees of any kind shall be charged by the institution for making available to the said student such equivalent opportunity.

4. If classes, examinations, study or work requirements are held on Friday after four o'clock post meridiem or on Saturday, similar or makeup classes, examinations, study or work requirements shall be made available on other days, where it is possible and practicable to do so. No special fees shall be charged to the student for these classes, examinations, study or work requirements held on other days.

5. In effectuating the provisions of this section, it shall be the duty of the faculty and of the administrative officials of each institution of higher education to exercise the fullest measure of good faith. No adverse or prejudicial effects shall result to any student because of his availing himself or herself of provisions of this section.

6. Any student who is aggrieved by the alleged failure of any faculty or administrative officials to comply in good faith with the provisions of this section shall be entitled to maintain an action or proceeding in the supreme court of the county in which such institution of higher education is located for the enforcement of his rights under this section.

1. A copy of this section shall be published by each institution of higher education in the catalog of such institution containing the listing of available courses.

7. As used in this section, the term "institution of higher education" shall mean schools under the control of the Board of Trustees of the State University of New York or of the Board of Trustees of the City University of New York or any community college.

Equal Opportunity Programs

Hunter College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national or ethnic origin, age, handicap, marital status, or sexual orientation. Any student who is discriminated against on the basis of any of these attributes will be afforded due process in accordance with Section 15.3 of the Student Disciplinary Procedure.

Student Resources

In reviewing the student budget, a prospective student should consider the resources that will be available from earnings and savings, the amount that parents can contribute, and any benefits the prospective student receives, such as social security, veteran's benefits, unemployment, or TANF.

Summer employment can help to meet the first costs of enrollment, and the prospective student should plan to save money from summer earnings.

Cash will be needed right away for books, supplies, and transportation.

Student Veterans Services

Student Veteran Services (SVS) is the central hub that connects student veterans with academic and personal support resources on and off campus. The SVS team is made up of dedicated student affairs professionals, who support the student veteran population at the college, including: service members, veterans, and eligible family members. Our goal is to support your academic and personal endeavors at Hunter, from acceptance to graduation, including your transition and integration to our college community.

Hunter College is proud to have you enrolled at our institution and greatly appreciates your service to our nation. We look forward to working with you during your time at the college.

Students Matriculated at Hunter Taking Courses at Other Institutions

Hunter matriculated students in good standing (GPA 3.0) have the option of taking courses at other CUNY colleges on a "EPermit" basis and receiving credit toward their Hunter degree with permission of the graduate adviser. Instructions on permit requirements and procedures are available at http://registrar.hunter.cuny.edu/. Students who would like to enroll in courses at a non-CUNY college should inquire in the OASIS, room 217 North. The student registers at a non-CUNY college as a nonmatriculated student and at the end of the semester requests that a transcript be sent to Hunter College, Attention: Records Division/Permits, Room 223 North Building.
A schedule of classes, giving the days and times when each graduate course will meet, is published prior to each registration and posted on the Office of the Registrar website at http://registrar.hunter.cuny.edu.

Students Matriculated at Other Colleges of the City University

Students matriculated in a graduate program at any other branch of the City University who want to register for a course or courses at Hunter College are required to use the EPermit System available at www.cuny.edu/. Students must register for a CUNY Portal account and complete the EPermit process at this site. Information regarding their EPermit request will be e-mailed to their e-mail address. Deadline dates are available at http://registrar.hunter.cuny.edu/ Tuition payment for courses is made at the student's home school. Grades will be collected by the City University and forwarded to Hunter College at the end of the semester, once grades become available.

Students' Rights Concerning Education Records

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) affords students certain rights with respect to their education records. They are:

I. The right to inspect and review the student's education records.

Students should submit to the registrar, the dean of students, or other appropriate college official, written requests that identify the record(s) they wish to inspect. If the records are not maintained by the college official to whom the request was submitted, that official shall advise the student of the correct official to whom the request should be addressed.

All requests shall be granted or denied in writing within 45 days of receipt. If the request is granted, the student will be provided with copies of the requested records or notified of the time and place where the records may be inspected. Students will be charged a fee for copies of requested records. If the request is denied or not responded to within 45 days, the student may appeal to the college's FERPA appeals officer. Additional information regarding the appeal procedures will be provided by the college's FERPA appeals officer: Office of Legal Affairs, Hunter College, Room 1705E, 695 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10021.

II. The right to request the amendment of the student's education records that the student believes are inaccurate or misleading.

Students may ask the college to amend a record that they believe is inaccurate or misleading. They should write to the registrar, the dean of students, or other appropriate college official, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate or misleading. If the college decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the college will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of his or her right to a hearing before the college's FERPA appeals officer regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.
III. The right to consent to disclosure of personally identifiable information contained in the student's education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.

One exception which permits disclosure without consent is disclosure to college officials with legitimate educational interests. A college official is a person employed by the University in an administrative, supervisory, academic or research, or support staff position; a person or company with whom the university has contracted; a person serving on the Board of Trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee, or assisting another college official in performing his or her tasks. A college official has a legitimate educational interest if access is reasonably necessary in order to perform his/her instructional, research, administrative or other duties and responsibilities. Upon request, the college discloses education records without consent to officials of another college or school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

IV. You may appeal the alleged denial of FERPA rights to the:

General Counsel and Vice Chancellor for Legal Affairs, The City University of New York, 205 East 42nd Street, New York, NY 10017.

V. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the college to comply with the requirements of FERPA.

The name and address of the office that administers FERPA are: Family Policy Compliance Office, U.S. Department of Education, 600 Independence Avenue SW, Washington, DC 20202-4605.

VI. The college will make the following "directory information" concerning current and former students available to those parties having a legitimate interest in the information:

A student's name, attendance dates, telephone listing, home address, present address, e-mail address, major and minor fields of study, degrees and awards received, date of birth, place of birth, level of education, and the most recent previous educational institution attended. By filing a form with the Registrar's Office, a student or former student may request that any or all of the above information not be released without his or her prior written consent. This form may be completed, withdrawn, or modified at any time.

This policy shall be effective as of September 2000 and shall supersede prior policy on this issue.
Subsidized Bilingual Extension Program

The Subsidized Bilingual Extension Program (SBEP) is a partnership with the NYDOE which offers currently certified content and classroom teachers the opportunity to gain a bilingual extension for their current New York State certification.

Teach for America

Teach for America (TFA) is a national alternative certification teacher preparation program with corps members teaching full time in public and charter schools while studying at partner universities and participating in continuous supervision and professional development. As a partner university, Hunter College hosts candidates in Special Education and Bilingual Education.

TESOL Intensive Teacher Institute

The Hunter College TESOL Intensive Teacher Institute (ITI) offers currently certified content and classroom teachers the opportunity to gain additional NYS certification in PreK-12 English as a Second Language (ESL). In addition to coursework, candidates receive specialized mentoring and coaching feedback to support ELL academic language development across the content areas.

Test Programs and Courses in Biochemistry

Biochemistry

About the Program

The interdisciplinary program in Biochemistry is jointly administered and staffed by members of the Biological Sciences and Chemistry departments. The master's degree is offered as a terminal degree. Both first-year courses and advanced courses are available at Hunter College and/or at the Graduate Center, 365 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10016.

What can I do with my degree in Biochemistry?

The MA in Biochemistry prepares graduates to compete for laboratory professions in academia or industry, further education in the health professions and continued studies in doctoral programs in biochemistry or other biomedical science.

Master's Programs
Biochemistry - MA

Return to: Biochemistry

Requirements for Admission for Plan 1 and Plan 2

General admission requirements to Hunter's graduate programs are observed including GRE (verbal and quantitative reasoning); TOEFL (for foreign students whose native language is other than English). The GRE will be waived upon applicant's request, if documentation of professional experience in the field, or graduate-level academic work show adequate preparation to successfully pursue the degree.

In addition, the student must have completed the following courses: general chemistry (including qualitative analysis) (one year), quantitative analysis, organic chemistry (one year), physical chemistry (one semester lecture and laboratory), biology (one year), biochemistry lecture and laboratory (one semester). Deficiencies may be made up during the first three semesters of graduate study.

Students who have successfully completed two or more graduate-level courses with a GPA of 3.0 or better may request a waiver of the GRE score requirement. The request for GRE waiver must be submitted in writing at least one month before the deadline of applications (end of October for Fall admission, end of March for the spring admission).

Requirements for Admission for Plan 3

The general guidelines for admission to Hunter College will be followed. Students who have successfully completed two or more graduate-level courses with a GPA of 3.0 or better may request a waiver of the GRE score requirement. The request for GRE waiver must be submitted in writing at least one month before the deadline of applications (end of October for Fall admission, end of March for the spring admission). (Note, this new policy on GRE waiver will be applied to all three study plans). Students interested in Plan 3 should submit a written letter-of-intent to the advisor after being admitted to the M.A. Program in Biochemistry before the ending of the first semester of study. To qualify for this option, students must have completed 9-12 credits of graduate-level courses that can be transferred upon approval. Credits that counted toward graduation requirements for a baccalaureate degree cannot be transferred. In addition, the student should provide an evaluation letter from the thesis mentor indicating the student can complete the thesis within one year. In the event that the student fails to defend the thesis by the end of the first year of study, he/she could may request a one-year extension to graduate under the Accelerated Thesis Option. Alternatively, or in the event the request is denied, he/she has the option to chose to graduate under study Plan 2: The Thesis Option or Plan 1: the Comprehensive Exam Option, provided that he/she meets all requirements of the chosen Plan 2.

Requirements for the Degree

Comprehensive Examination or Thesis:

Students may complete the requirements for the MA through either of the following two plans:

- Plan (1): A minimum of 30 credits of course work plus a passing grade in a comprehensive examination.
• Plan (2): A minimum of 24 credits of course work, plus 6 credits from a thesis on an original research problem. The thesis must be approved by the student’s adviser, and it must be defended before a thesis committee.

Courses:

The student must complete the following courses from the list below. Note that no more than 10 credits of 600-level courses may be taken.

Plan (1):

BIOCHEM U71010 - Advanced Biochemistry 1

prereq: a 1-semester course in biochemistry or equiv and physical chemistry

Hours 3 hrs,

Credits 3 cr

Fall only, offered at the Graduate Center CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.

OR

CHEM 64000 - Biochemistry I

Proteins, enzymes, bioenergetics, recombinant DNA.

prereq: 1 yr of undergraduate organic chemistry

*Hours 3 hrs, *

Credits 3 cr.

Fall CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.

BIOCHEM U71020 - Advanced Biochemistry 2

prereq: BIOCHEM 71010 or equivalent

*Hours 3 hrs, *

Credits 3 cr

Spring only, offered at the Graduate Center CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.

OR

CHEM 64100 - Biochemistry II

Metabolism, gene expression, immunobiochemistry, hormones, muscle biochemistry.

prereq: CHEM 64000

*Hours 3 hrs, *

Credits 3 cr

Spring CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020

BIOCHEM U75000 - Bioorganic Chemistry
CHEM 65000 - Biophysical Chemistry

Essential physical chemical principles as applied to biological problems. Emphasis on kinetics, thermodynamics, equilibria.

prereq: 1 year organic chemistry, 1 year biology, MATH 15000 or equivalent

Fall
Analysis of morphological and molecular aspects of development and differentiation. Topics include gametogenesis, fertilization, early development, differentiative processes, organogenesis, neoplasia and aging with emphasis on genetic regulation in development.

prereq or coreq: BIOL 71013 and BIOL 71401
Hours 60 lec,
Credits 4 cr
Spring only

BIOL 61000 - Workshop in Biotechnology

Laboratory-intensive experimental projects which introduce current research techniques and include individual participation in planning and preparation for experiments. The focus is on a broad biotechnology topic such as the isolation, cloning, and expression of a gene, utilizing the techniques of molecular genetics.

prereq: BIOL 71000 or permission of instructor
Hours 30 hrs/wk for 4 wks,
Credits 4 cr

Additional Requirements:

- BIOCHEM 71551
- BIOCHEM 71552
- BIOCHEM 71553
- BIOCHEM 71554
- BIOCHEM 71100

Any remaining or additional credits may be taken by choosing courses in Biology or Chemistry as electives, or by taking additional research credits (BIOCHEM 71201, BIOCHEM 71202, BIOCHEM 71203, BIOCHEM 71204)

A passing grade of the Comprehensive Exam given at the end of the study.

Plan (2):

CHEM 64000 - Biochemistry I

Proteins, enzymes, bioenergetics, recombinant DNA.

prereq: 1 yr of undergraduate organic chemistry
Hours 3 hrs.
Credits 3 cr.
fall CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.

CHEM 64100 - Biochemistry II

Metabolism, gene expression, immunobiochemistry, hormones, muscle biochemistry.

prereq: CHEM 64000
Hours 3 hrs,
Credits 3 cr
Spring CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020 may be substituted, respectively by
BIOCHEM U71010 - Advanced Biochemistry 1

prereq: a 1-semester course in biochemistry or equiv and physical chemistry
Hours 3 hrs,
Credits 3 cr
Fall only; offered at the Graduate Center CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.

BIOCHEM U71020 - Advanced Biochemistry 2

prereq: BIOCHEM 71010 or equivalent
Hours 3 hrs,
Credits 3 cr
Spring only, offered at the Graduate Center CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.

BIOCHEM U75000 - Bioorganic Chemistry

Hours 3 hrs,
Credits 3 cr
Fall only; offered at the Graduate Center

BIOCHEM U77000 - Physical Biochemistry

prereq: Calculus, Physical Chemistry and 1 semester of Biochemistry
Hours 3
Spring only, offered at the Graduate Center

Minimum of one course from:

BIOL 71013 - Molecular Biology Lecture

Structure and function of biomolecules; enzyme mechanisms; replication, transcription, translation; regulation of macromolecular biosynthesis; energy transformations.

prereq: 1 yr of organic chemistry
Hours 75 hrs,
Credits 5 cr
Fall only

BIOL 71401 - Cell Biology

In-depth examination of cellular and subcellular organization and activity. Topics include membrane structure, biogenesis, transport; cell surface interactions, cells in culture, the cell cycle; organelle structure, function and assembly; modern experimental tools and techniques.

prereq: undergraduate organic chemistry or biochemistry
Hours 60 hrs,
Credits 4 cr
Spring only
BIOL 70005 - Genetics

Prokaryotic and eukaryotic genetics; organization of DNA, replication repair, mutagenesis, recombination, control of gene expression, genetic engineering and molecular techniques.

prereq: undergraduate genetics and molecular biology (or biochemistry)
Hours 60 lec,
Credits 4 cr
fall only

BIOL 75003 - Developmental Biology

Analysis of morphological and molecular aspects of development and differentiation. Topics include gametogenesis, fertilization, early development, differentiative processes, organogenesis, neoplasia and aging with emphasis on genetic regulation in development.

prereq or coreq: BIOL 71013 and BIOL 71401
Hours 60 lec,
Credits 4 cr
Spring only

BIOL 61000 - Workshop in Biotechnology

Laboratory-intensive experimental projects which introduce current research techniques and include individual participation in planning and preparation for experiments. The focus is on a broad biotechnology topic such as the isolation, cloning, and expression of a gene, utilizing the techniques of molecular genetics.

prereq: BIOL 71000 or permission of instructor
Hours 30 hrs/wk for 4 wks,
Credits 4 cr

Additional Requirements:

- BIOCHEM 71551
- BIOCHEM 71552
- BIOCHEM 71553
- BIOCHEM 71554
- BIOCHEM 71100
- BIOCHEM 79901
- BIOCHEM 79902
- BIOCHEM 79903

Any remaining credits may be taken as research credits (BIOCHEM 71201, BIOCHEM 71202, BIOCHEM 71203, BIOCHEM 71204)

Plan (3)

Minimum of 9 cr. Graduate-level courses that may come from any combination of three courses from the following three lists:
Hunter Chemistry:

- CHEM 63300 Computational Drug Discovery 3 cr.
- CHEM 66800 Structural Biology 3 cr.
- CHEM 67000 Introduction to Nanotechnology 3 cr.
- BIOCHEM U71010 Advanced Biochemistry 1 3 cr.
- BIOCHEM U71020 Advanced Biochemistry 2 3 cr.
- BIOCHEM U75000 Bioorganic Chemistry 3 cr.

No more than two from the following Hunter Biology courses:

- BIOL 71013 Molecular Biology Lecture 5 cr.
- BIOL 71401 Cell Biology 4 cr.
- BIOL 70005 Genetics 4 cr.
- BIOL 75003 Developmental Biology 4 cr.

Graduate Center - Chemistry and Biochemistry:

- CHEM 81900 Topics in inorganic chemistry: Radiochemistry 3 cr.
- BICM 77000 Physical Biochemistry 3 cr.

Minimum of 21 cr. of research-related training:

- BIOCHEM 71551 Seminar in Biochemistry 1
- BIOCHEM 71553 Seminar in Biochemistry 1
- BIOCHEM 71554 Seminar in Biochemistry 1
- BIOCHEM 71100 Basic Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry 4
- BIOCHEM 71201 Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry 1 cr.
- BIOCHEM 71202 Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry 2 cr.
- BIOCHEM 71203 Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry 3 cr.
- BIOCHEM 71204 Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry 4 cr.
- CHEM 64900 Instrumental Analysis 5 cr. OR CHEM U79000 Basic Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry 4 cr.
- BIOCHEM 79901 Thesis Research (Master's) 1
- BIOCHEM 79902 Thesis Research (Master's) 2
- BIOCHEM 79903 Thesis Research (Master's) 3

BIOCHEM U71010 - Advanced Biochemistry 1

prereq: a 1-semester course in biochemistry or equiv and physical chemistry
Hours 3 hrs,
Credits 3 cr.
Fall only, offered at the Graduate Center CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.
BIOCHEM U71020 - Advanced Biochemistry 2

prereq: BIOCHEM 71010 or equivalent
Hours 3 hrs,
Credits 3 cr
Spring only, offered at the Graduate Center CHEM 64000 and CHEM 64100 may be substituted by BIOCHEM U71010 and BIOCHEM U71020.

BIOCHEM U75000 - Bioorganic Chemistry

Hours 3 hrs,
Credits 3 cr
Fall only, offered at the Graduate Center

BIOCHEM U77000 - Physical Biochemistry

prereq: Calculus, Physical Chemistry and 1 semester of Biochemistry
Hours 3
Spring only, offered at the Graduate Center

BIOCHEM 71100 - Basic Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry

Individual projects, arranged with at least two faculty members. Lab and conferences.

Hours 8
Credits 4

BIOCHEM 71201 - Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry

Individual research project arranged with a faculty member of Department of Chemistry or Department of Biology. Students may register for 1 to 4 credits.

prereq: Department Permission Required
Hours 1 hr
Credits 1 cr.

BIOCHEM 71202 - Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry

Individual research project arranged with a faculty member of Department of Chemistry or Department of Biology. Students may register for 1 to 4 credits.

prereq: Department Permission Required
Hours 2 hrs
Credits 2 cr.

BIOCHEM 71203 - Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry
Individual research project arranged with a faculty member of Department of Chemistry or Department of Biology. Students may register for 1 to 4 credits.

prereq: Department Permission Required
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr.

BIOCHEM 71204 - Advanced Laboratory Techniques for Research in Biochemistry

Individual research project arranged with a faculty member of Department of Chemistry or Department of Biology. Students may register for 1 to 4 credits.

CHEM 64900 - Instrumental Analysis

A laboratory-based introduction to electronic instrumentation-based analytical techniques for chemistry and biochemistry, which focuses on theoretical foundations and practical applications. The course discusses instrumental analysis applications in pharmaceutical research and production, materials, food science, forensics, energy, and medical laboratories, as well as basic research in chemistry, physics and biology. The course will be taught in a mixed format including lectures and laboratory projects, student-led discussions, and a final writing/oral presentation project, with a primary emphasis on laboratory experience.

prereq: departmental permission
Hours 8 hrs (2 hour lecture, 6 hour lab)
Credits 5 cr.

CHEM 66800 - Structural Biology

This course introduces students the applications of molecular spectroscopy and other emerging techniques used to study the structure, the molecular interactions of, and the self-assembly of biomolecules. The course will be taught in a mixed format including lectures, computer laboratory projects, student-led discussions on journal papers, and a final writing/oral presentation project. Not open to students who have taken CHEM 369800

prereq: instructor permission
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr.

CHEM 67000 - Introduction to Nanotechnology

This course introduces students to the underlying principles and applications of the emerging fields of nanotechnology and nanoscience. Intended for a multidisciplinary audience with a variety of backgrounds, the course introduces tools and principles relevant at the nano scale. The course discusses current and future nanotechnology applications in engineering, materials, physics, chemistry, biology, electronics, and energy. Not open to students who have taken CHEM 36000

prereq: instructor permission
Hours 3 hrs
Credits 3 cr.

The Center for Puerto Rican Studies

The Centro de Estudios Puertorriqueños/Center for Puerto Rican Studies is a university-based research institute whose mission consists of two components. One is to collect, preserve and provide access to archival and library resources documenting the history and culture of Puerto Ricans and Latinos. The other is to produce, facilitate and disseminate interdisciplinary research about the Diaspora experiences of Puerto Ricans and to link this scholarly inquiry to social action and policy debates.

The Centro Library and Archives is the principal Puerto Rican Studies research collection in the United States and the most extensive Latino research and archival facility in the Northeast. It is also the only library and archives in the State of New York exclusively dedicated to Puerto Rican and Latino documentation. The Library and Archives is open to the public and serves diverse users, scholars and the general public from the New York area, from other parts of the U. S. and from abroad.

CENTRO participates in two exchange programs. (1) The CUNY/UPR Academic Exchange Program (Intercambio) is a program of academic interchange between the City University of New York (CUNY) and the University of Puerto Rico (UPR). The program serves all CUNY colleges. CUNY undergraduates may study for a semester, or the full academic year at the Rio Piedras Campus of the UPR and receive full credit from their home college. (2) The CUNY-Caribbean Exchange promotes institutional, faculty, and student intellectual and scientific exchange with academic institutions in the Caribbean.

The Cost of Attendance

Costs must be considered when a student is making decisions about whether, where, or when to attend college. A student budget is used as an estimate of the amount of money it will cost a student to attend college.

The budget includes allowances for tuition, fees, books, transportation, housing, food and personal expenses. Additional allowances may be made for unusual expenses such as dependent-care costs.

Student budgets are set each year by CUNY (City University of New York). They reflect the average expenses of all students who are living with their parents or living away from their parents. Students with disabilities should speak to a financial aid counselor about budget adjustments for their special needs.

The 2018-2019 Hunter College expense budgets for full-time graduate students, who are charged the NY State Resident tuition rate, are as follows for the 9-month period of the fall and spring semesters:

The Dr. Murray and Anna C. Rockowitz Writing Center

7th Floor Library
(212) 772-4212
http://rwc.hunter.cuny.edu

The Dr. Murray and Anna C. Rockowitz Writing Center is a comprehensive service designed to provide tutorial assistance and academic advisement to students as well as technical support and development to faculty, staff, and alumni. Part of the Klara and Larry Silverstein Student Success Center located on the 7th floor of the Cooperman Library, the RWC offers services to all registered students at the college – undergraduate and graduate – and maintains an inclusive website comprising an extensive library of online materials and resource links in the areas of research information and techniques, writing tools and references, evaluating information sources, ESL and literary resources, and instructional resources regarding teaching and learning. Students can utilize the RWC's services by registering for individualized, paired, or online e-tutoring sessions by appointment, receive assistance on a drop-in basis during scheduled hours of operation, or attend the RWC's on-site workshop series. Tutors help to develop a reading-writing process that students can use to improve their skills and to negotiate the requirements of academic reading and writing. For additional information, contact us at (212) 772-4212 or online at http://hunter.cuny.edu/rwc
The Frederick Loewe Theatre

Ground Floor Thomas Hunter
Box office: (212) 772-4448
Administrative office: (212) 772-4227

The Frederick Loewe Theatre is a black-box theatre that seats an audience of 100. It has the ability to accommodate proscenium or thrust stage productions and houses most of the Department of Theatre events.

The Health Professions Education Center (HPEC)

Director: Martin Dornbaum; Mezzanine floor, Brookdale West Building; (212) 481-5129, mdornbau@hunter.cuny.edu
Evening Supervisor: Peter Marquez; edcenter@hunter.cuny.edu
Website: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/shp/centers/hpec/

The center maintains regular office hours throughout the academic year, Monday-Thursday 9AM-9PM and Fridays 9AM-5PM.

The Health Professions Education Center (HPEC) is an academic learning center serving all students and faculty at the Hunter College Nursing and School of Health Professions. A variety of comprehensive support services and programs are offered at the HPEC to enhance student academic success, retention, and completion rates by applying best practices and addressing student learning needs from multiple pedagogical perspectives. Our services are designed to develop critical thinking, reinforce practice of clinical skills, and foster a supportive, professional environment for student collaboration and scholarship.

The HPEC combines traditional approaches to teaching with new instructional technologies that reflect the dynamic nature of all health professions. Services at the center include:

- Access to the largest collection of health-related videos and instructional media within CUNY.
- Computer-aided educational software and virtual training technologies.
- Access to state board testing preparation programs.
- Technology support at the Hunter College Brookdale Campus.
- Beta testing and evaluation of new instructional media.
- Faculty consultation for research and classroom media integration.
- Development and administration of e-learning initiatives, online testing, and digital content.
- Individual and group study support.
- Simulation laboratory support through the New York Simulation (NYSIM) Center.
Faculty and students from all Hunter College schools and departments are always welcome to view the many resources available at the HPEC.

The Hunter College Art Galleries

The Bertha and Karl Leubsdorf Art Gallery, located at the main campus, and the Hunter College/Times Square Gallery at the MFA Building (450 West 41st Street), house professionally organized exhibitions that support the educational programs of the Hunter College Department of Art. Hunter students regularly act as assistant curators and research assistants for these exhibitions, which have received wide critical acclaim. The Bertha and Karl Leubsdorf Art Gallery presents small-scale and historical exhibitions while the expansive Hunter College/Times Square Gallery specializes in large surveys and retrospectives. Both galleries offer students the opportunity to gain curatorial experience, while presenting exhibitions of scholarly and artistic significance.

The Kaye Playhouse at Hunter College, a fully-equipped proscenium theater with 624 seats, boasts an elegant 1940's design. It is home to a wide array of national and international events, including theatrical productions, dance performances, chamber music and opera, film/photo/television shoots, fashion shows, jazz concerts, lectures, corporate meetings, vocal concerts, and children's shows.

The Kaye's flexible and sophisticated sound and lighting systems enhance and improve the event experience for both performers and audiences. Each season, the Kaye Playhouse hosts over 200 events, bringing an eclectic mix of live performances to over 100,000 theatergoers annually.

The Learning Lab

This award-winning program has been the heart of the Learning Disabilities teacher education programs for over thirty years. As part of their clinical work, graduate students are assigned a child or youth who struggles in one or more aspects of learning, and tutors twice a week for an academic year, overseen by a supervisor. Over 200 children and youth from NYC's diverse communities are served annually in this program.

The Leona and Marcy Chanin Language Center

209 HW
(212) 772-5700

The Chanin Language Center is a multi-media foreign language learning and teaching facility. The Center consists of two independent study labs equipped with 72 multi-media workstations, the Cecile Insdorf Foreign Language Screening Room, and a small library where walk-in tutoring sessions take place. Students can supplement their foreign language skills from the elementary to the advanced level by working with computer applications, both on-line and in house, based on textbooks and/or student activity manuals. The Chanin Center also houses an extensive collection of foreign language films and video programs. An audio CD home borrowing program is available to students enrolled in a foreign language course. A 30-minute orientation session is required for all first time users. Hours and additional information can be found on our Web site: http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/chanin

The Office of Academic and Student Affairs (OASA)

The Office of Academic and Student Affairs (OASA) provides administrative services to students in the School of Education. The primary areas of service provided include: advisement; assistance with registration; graduation audit; New York State certification; and various other student services such as major declarations, and course equivalency evaluations.

The OASA staff maintains regular office hours throughout the year and is open from 10:00 AM - 6:00 PM Monday through Thursday and 10:00 AM - 4:00 PM on Fridays, whenever the college is open.

The Office of Clinical Experiences

The School of Education's Office of Clinical Experiences (OCE) is responsible for ensuring the quality of student experience in their clinical placements across programs – as these experiences are critically important to students' development as teachers, counselors, and school leaders. To that end, the faculty and staff work collaboratively to support students in the development as professionals by coordinating partnerships with schools and other clinical placement sites, identifying and training cooperating teachers for the important work of mentoring new teachers, and working with faculty and field supervisors to ensure alignment of placements to the curriculum and academic work of teacher, counselor, and leadership candidates. Specific student teaching schedules, (weekly and daily) will be determined by the partner site where students are ultimately placed. The expectation is for teacher candidates to honor each partner's planned schedule.

Candidates planning to enroll in clinical courses requiring placement in schools and other educational settings must complete and submit a request form or online application to the OCE, which will assign students to one of our collaborating schools. The OCE arranges fieldwork and student teaching placements in New York City schools (within the five boroughs) and other educational settings. Clinical experience courses across programs require an online application with firm deadlines specific to each semester. Candidates are advised to plan ahead the semester prior to registering for a fieldwork, student teaching or practicum course.

For further information please email oce@hunter.cuny.edu

The Office of Partnership Programs
The Office of Partnership Programs manages all of the alternative certification and partnership programs within the School of Education and supports students in these non-traditional programs. Working in partnership with a variety of local and national organizations, we offer special programs in a wide range of teacher certification areas and school leadership certification. Our special programs offer participants the opportunity to gain hands-on experience in schools while enrolled in graduate coursework at Hunter College and many provide subsidized tuition.

Thesis

A master's thesis is usually required. After it is approved, the original and one copy of the thesis is deposited with the appropriate school. It must be accompanied by a receipt from the Bursar's Office for the payment of the fee for binding one copy of the thesis.

A thesis approval form and style sheet, the requirements of which must be met strictly, are available from the graduate advisers' and the school deans' offices.

When the thesis approval form has been signed by the department graduate adviser and school dean, the original must be sent to the Degree Audit Unit of the Registrar's Office.

Where a thesis does not appear to be an appropriate measure of achievement, the Graduate Course of Study Committee of the Hunter College Senate has approved an acceptable substitution or equivalent.

Time Considerations
Candidates for a master's degree in the School of Education must complete the program within a maximum of five years from the date of matriculation. Students may be granted a leave of absence by permission of their advisor and with the approval of the Office of Educational Services for serious illness, maternity, or military leave. In such cases, the time limit is extended by the duration of the leave, not to exceed one year.

Students exceeding the time limit may be required to repeat courses that have expired and take more than the number of credits normally required for the degree. Course credits more than five years old when the degree is to be awarded are not applicable to the degree unless a time extension is granted.

Time Limit

The total time for completing all degree requirements from the beginning of matriculation is four years. (For programs in education, nursing, health sciences, and social work it is five years.) Courses exceeding the limit at graduation will not be included in degree credits unless approved by the department and the appropriate dean.

Transfer of Credit

Students may request transfer credit for relevant graduate courses taken at regionally accredited institutions, including courses taken at Hunter College while matriculated in another degree program, whether or not the master's degree was awarded.

A form for such a transfer may be downloaded at http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/graduateadmissions/applying/degree-application/transfer-credit. Transfer of credits is subject to the approval of the department or graduate adviser and to the regulations of the Hunter program in which the student is matriculated. The following additional limitations apply:

1. In order to be counted toward graduation, the course(s) for which transfer credit is requested must have been completed within five years prior to the awarding of the Hunter graduate degree. (A four-year restriction applies to the School of Arts and Sciences.)

2. Credits for courses in which the student earned a grade below B, or took a non-letter grade such as a pass/fail option, are not transferable.

3. A maximum of 12 credits may be transferred.

4. Courses used to satisfy entrance requirements, as well as courses used as part of a previously completed bachelor's program, may not be transferred.

Note: Grades in courses transferred from other institutions, or from a prior master's degree program taken at Hunter College, will not be calculated into the student’s grade point average (GPA), nor will these grades be posted on the current Hunter College record.

Transfer of Credit

Graduate courses taken prior to matriculation are considered "Transfer of Credit."

Students may request transfer credit for relevant graduate courses taken at regionally accredited institutions, including courses taken at Hunter College while matriculated in another degree program, whether or not the master's degree was awarded.

A form for such a transfer may be downloaded at http://www.hunter.cuny.edu/graduateadmissions/applying/degree-application/transfer-credit
The following limitations apply:

- No more than a total of 12 credits will be allowed for graduate courses completed at other colleges for courses taken on permit or for Hunter College courses taken prior to matriculation.
- Courses for which transfer and approval of credit are sought must have been completed within five years preceding the anticipated date of graduation.
- Application for transfer and approval of course credits taken prior to matriculation may be made after registering for the first semester of matriculation.
- Transfer of credit can only be granted for courses with grades of B or better.

Tuition and Fees

Tuition and Fees

Effective Fall 2019 (subject to change for 2020-2021)

All fees and tuition charges listed in this catalog and in any registration materials issued by the college are subject to change by action of the trustees of the City University of New York without prior notice.

Students who now live in New York State but have had an address out of the state must submit proof of New York State residency. New students submit their documentation to the Admissions Office and continuing students to the Registrar's Office. Applications for proof of New York State residency can be obtained in the Office of the Registrar, Room 217 Hunter North, Hunter College, 695 Park Ave., New York, NY 10065. If, at the time of registration, proof of New York State residence has not been approved, students must pay out-of-state tuition; if acceptable proof is submitted and subsequently approved by the Registrar's Office during the semester, the tuition will be adjusted accordingly to the in-state rate.

Veterans who are not New York State residents will be charged the same tuition rate as New York State residents for a period of 18 months from the first date of attendance at a CUNY college.

Material Fee

Certain courses such as laboratory or studio courses, have a material fee. These fees are listed in the course description for each applicable course. The fees will be included in the student's bill and are payable to the Bursar's Office.
Transcripts

Application for transcripts should be addressed to the Transcripts Division of the Registrar's Office with correct remittance. The Registrar's Office is located in room 217 North. (212) 772-4474

The application must state the name and address of the official to whom the information is to be mailed. Transcripts of records are mailed to the student's home school only if requested by the student. In accordance with the general practice of colleges and universities, complete official transcripts and certificates (those bearing the original signature and seal) are sent directly by the university, not transmitted by the applicant. No transcripts will be issued for students who have unpaid financial obligations to Hunter College. The fee for the issuance of transcripts is waived when the transcript is to be forwarded from one unit of the City University to another.

Requests for certificates and other statements should also be addressed to the Registration Division of the Office of the Registrar.

Cancellation Policy

The college's cancellation policy is both published on our website and detailed on a student's online account. The policy is also outlined in the schedule of classes.

Refund Policy

There are two types of student refunds. One relates to students who drop their classes during the first three weeks of classes and have overpaid, the other involves the calculation of Federal Aid earned for Federal financial aid recipients only.

CUNY Policy - General refunds

This policy relates to all students who withdraw from courses prior to the first official day of the fourth week of classes. The refund policy is as follows:

- 100% tuition and fees prior to 1st official day of term
- 75% tuition only prior to 1st day of 2nd week of term (fees are non-refundable)
- 50% tuition only prior to 1st day of 3rd week of term (fees are non-refundable)
- 25% tuition only prior to 1st day of 4th week of term (fees are non-refundable)

Return of Title IV (Federal Aid) Refunds

Students who completely officially withdraw or unofficially withdraw from ALL their class(es) and received Federal Financial Aid are subject to a Return of Title IV Funds calculation. It must be a COMPLETE withdrawal. A withdrawal from one class is not subject to this calculation; however it can affect a student's eligibility to receive financial aid.

Federal law states that the amount of Federal aid earned is determined by the amount of days the student is enrolled in class(es). The Office of Financial Aid will perform a calculation for each student subject to these rules and send a notification to the student. Students are expected to pay whatever liability is not covered by the amount of financial aid earned. Students who earn more funds than are required to satisfy their bill will be sent a post-withdrawal disbursement notification so they can receive these excess funds. Please note that students who officially or unofficially withdraw are not entitled to a tuition refund because withdrawal grades carry a liability like any other class.

Unapproved Leaves

Students failing to register for a regular semester will be dropped automatically from the active student file. If they wish to return, they must apply for readmission. In all cases of nonattendance, students must still observe the time limitations for the master's degree.

Undergraduates taking Graduate Courses

Upon the recommendation of the student's undergraduate major or program adviser, and with the approval of the adviser of the graduate program offering the course, highly qualified undergraduate degree students may take graduate courses for credit toward the bachelor's degree. If it is determined that the courses were not used for the bachelor's degree and the graduate transfer is acceptable, then the student will be charged the difference between the undergraduate and graduate tuition rates at the time the student took the course. No course may be applied to both the undergraduate degree and the graduate degree.

Urban Policy and Planning Department Description

The Department of Urban Policy and Planning is a department within the School of Arts and Sciences at Hunter College. The department offers two graduate degrees, an accredited Master in Urban Planning degree, and a Master of Science in Urban Affairs degree. Both programs combine theory and practice in order to provide students with an in-depth understanding and appreciation of urban planning and policy. The department also offers an undergraduate urban studies major that prepares students for higher education and careers in public service.

Since its creation by advocacy planner Paul Davidoff, in 1965, the department has consistently upheld a vision of urban affairs and planning as a multi-disciplinary field. In keeping with this vision, the department's faculty members represent a wide range of disciplines including architecture, economics, political science, public policy, social work, urban planning, and public health. They collectively bring a wealth of academic and professional expertise to their teaching. The program also benefits greatly from a distinguished part-time faculty who bring practical experience and knowledge in both public and non-profit sectors into the classroom.

Urban Teacher Residency

The Urban Teacher Residency (UTR) program is a two-year teacher-preparation program that integrates the graduate coursework of the aspiring teacher with intensive, hands-on experiences in New York City schools. UTR is a partnership between Hunter College, New Visions for Public Schools and the New York City Department of Education.

Withdrawal from Courses
Any course from which a student officially withdraws after the third week of courses and before Monday of the 10th week of the term will be recorded as W, indicating that the withdrawal was without prejudice. Official withdrawal is accomplished by filing a withdrawal application in the OASIS, Room 217 HN, on or before the deadline.

A student should notify the graduate adviser of any such course withdrawal.

After the 10th week of the term, all official withdrawals must have the approval of the graduate adviser on an official withdrawal form and be recommended for documented reasons of illness or serious personal emergency. Unofficial withdrawal will result in a grade of WU.

Withdrawal from Courses

Once you register for a course, it becomes part of your permanent record. If for any reason you do not attend, you must officially withdraw from the course using your CUNYfirst Account before the first day of the tenth week of classes in the fall and spring semesters and by the first day of the fifth week of classes in summer semesters. A grade of W is posted to your record for the course(s) you have withdrawn from. There is no refund of tuition. W grades are not calculated in a student's GPA, however they may adversely affect a student's ability to receive financial aid or impede progress toward degree completion (information regarding the possible effect of withdrawals for students with financial aid can be found on the Office of Financial Aid website). Failure to formally withdraw from a course will result in a grade of WU, which factors into both your semester and cumulative GPA in the same manner as an F grade. All official withdrawals after the official withdrawal period must have the approval of your graduate divisional dean. These late withdrawal requests are received by the Office of the Registrar via inter-office delivery from the offices of the divisional dean.
